

NHS Alumni Choir rocks Emmanuel Lutheran Church with holiday hits

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

At least 100 people filled the Emmanuel Lutheran Church pews Friday night to hear the Norwood High School Alumni Choir sing as part of its 15th annual Christmas Caroling Concert.

"I love to listen to them," NHS Fine Arts Director Catherine Connor-Moen said. "Their voices have matured, and they sound so rich."

Connor-Moen said at least 40 alums participated in this year's event.

"It's a big reunion," Connor-Moen said. "We get an opportunity to catch up and see what everyone is doing. It's lovely."

The choir contains graduates of the Norwood High music program from the past 15 years. Connor-Moen said each graduate has made a difference in the community with their musical performance.

The event featured holiday hits including "Silent Night," "Deck the Halls" and "Frosty the Snowman" as the community gathered to celebrate the holiday season.

"It's fabulous," Norwood resident Lauren McHugh said following the performance. "They have enthusiasm for the holiday season. It's a wonderful turnout for the community."

McHugh, mother of NHS Class of 2007 graduate Kimberly McHugh, noted the event provides a great way to kick off Christmas festivities.

Connor-Moen noted alumni will return this summer to perform a concert, and 13 members have continued their musical journey Amici Cantores, "friends who sing."

Amici Cantores started the Christmas Caroling Concert with a rendition of "Silver Bells," showcasing their eclectic musical skills to the audience.

Amici Cantores features alumni singers who perform literature both of sacred and secular genres without accompaniment. The choir boasts a rich and diverse repertoire including madrigals, motets, folk songs and a cappella jazz.

"Their friendships are built through singing," Connor-Moen said of the NHS Alumni Choir and Amici Cantores. "It's really special."

The Norwood Fire Department made progress toward replacing Aerial Ladder #1 on Thursday as the Aerial Ladder #1 Specification and Selection Committee hosted its second meeting.

"Work is continuous with everybody," Norwood Fire Chief Michael Howard said. "We're working on finalizing ideas that we want to see."

Howard said he expects the group to complete the ladder truck specifications within 30 to 45 days. The group will host meetings Jan. 5 and Jan. 19 as it works to finalize its decision.

"This isn't a small process," Howard said. "It's a huge undertaking."

The nine-member committee includes fire department personnel from a variety of areas, including Howard, Deputy Chief Ronald Maggio, Master Mechanic Michael Waters, Captain George Geary, Firefighter/EMT Jeff Shockley, Firefighter/EMT Paul Hogan, Firefighter/Paramedic George Bent, Firefighter/EMT Brian Donoghue and Firefighter/Paramedic Michael Fagan.

Howard said the group met for three-and-a-half hours Thursday.

Workers strike at CertainTeed

Teamsters Local 25 began striking last week outside CertainTeed Saint-Gobain, the former Bird Corporation, at 1077 Pleasant St.

"No one wants to strike in this economy - especially during the holiday season - but CertainTeed gave us no choice," Teamsters Local 25 President and Principal Officer Sean M. O'Brien said, comparing CertainTeed to the "Grinch." "The company has become the epitome of greed, treating its workforce unfairly without regard for health and welfare and job security. We'll strike through the holidays and into the New Year if that is what it takes to get CertainTeed to return to the negotiating table. We know that homeowners have a choice in what roofing materials and shingles they buy and are asking the public not to purchase CertainTeed products at this time."

The strike has affected 90 members of Teamsters Local 25, as the group's contract expired at 12:01 a.m. on Dec. 19. Members have been on the picket line since the contract's expiration, holding signs while patriotic songs such as "God Bless America" and "This Land is Your Land" have played along Pleasant Street.

"Obviously, they have a right to demonstrate," Norwood Police Lieutenant Martin Baker said. "They have a First Amendment right."

Baker noted the police face the challenge of protecting the protestors' rights while maintaining civility on site.

"It's a balancing act," Baker said. "We're trying to keep the peace basically."

Baker noted there have been round-the-clock picketers at the location since the strike began.

"I hope they come to an agreement soon," Baker said. "I hate to see people out of work at this time of year."

CertainTeed, a supplier of interior and exterior building products, issued a statement on the strike, noting it hopes for a speedy resolution.

"We are hopeful for a speedy resolution to outstanding issues so that the plant can resume operations and supply product to our customers as quickly as possible," CertainTeed Spokesperson Michael Loughery said in a statement.

The CertainTeed strike is not the first strike to take place in Norwood this year.

Dozens of Verizon Communications landline workers carried signs as they took part in a strike against the telecommunications company outside its Access Road location in August.

The Communication Workers of America (CWA) and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers members began their strike against the telecommunications company Aug. 7. The unions represented roughly than 45,000 employees along the East Coast during the strike.

The Verizon strike ended two weeks later.

Baker, who worked during the Verizon strike, said he sees similarities between the Verizon and Teamsters Local 25 efforts. He said he hopes the two sides can communicate in order to reach a resolution.

Teamsters Local 25 is the largest Teamsters' union in New England, with 11,000 members residing throughout Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

Three Norwood massage businesses without license

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

A Norwood Police Department investigation has revealed three massage establishments in the town are operating without massage licenses.

"License checks were made on all of the known massage businesses listed in Norwood," Norwood Police Chief Bartley E. King Jr. wrote in a Dec. 15 letter to the Board of Selectmen. "The results of the checks show that fifteen businesses are listed as offering massage services. Of those fifteen businesses, nine have massage licenses, three are currently operating without licenses, one has moved, another is no longer in the massage business, and the last one is no longer in business."

King noted the three businesses, Essentials Day Spa at 532 Washington St., Salon Divoe at 884L Washington St. and Cleopatra Day Spa at 351 Buckminster Dr., have been operating without a license. However, each location owner has been advised he or she must obtain a license.

Detective Sergeant Robert Rinn has provided the business owners the necessary forms to apply for the licenses.

"All three of the owners have indicated that they will submit applications for massage licenses," King wrote. "A follow-up on the status of the businesses will be conducted."

King noted massage licenses are issued by the Commonwealth and are mandatory for businesses that offer the sale of massage services.

The Bay State took over the issuing of massage licenses Jan. 30, 2008. Local Boards of Health registered and issued massage licenses prior.

King could not be reached for further comment regarding the investigation.

Norwood's Spa Bellissimo owner Terry Mussari faced an investigation by members of the State Police assigned to the Attorney General's Office in conjunction with the Boston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation following allegations of prostitution and drug

ON TO THE NEW YEAR

What will you remember most about 2011?

Every year we seem to, force of habit, put down the year that was and utter something along the lines of: "Well, at least next year can't be any worse."

We were going to take that same angle here, then we realized that the year that was actually turned out pretty well.

Sure, there is the usual stew of problems, conflicts and heart-break. The economy is a little better, but still scary. Far too many folks are out of work and, despite blue chip companies of Wall Street having great and profitable years, the average small business owner still struggles with uncertainty and belt-tightening.

This was the year, however, that we can celebrate the official end of the war in Iraq, though we may still argue amongst ourselves as to the value, necessity and cost of the conflict. But let's stand united in praising the troops who have returned home, completing tour after tour of skilled and selfless service.

In some ways the war ended with a whimper, not a bang - its conclusion was more a matter of paperwork and diplomatic deadlines than a tangible event or success. For 2012, let's not let the winding down influence how we applaud our soldiers. In New York, there has been some debate over whether or not a ticker tape parade is warranted. There should be and we implore cities and towns throughout this state to get on the ball and plan some similar opportunities to show our gratitude.

We normally find it hard to celebrate a death, but in the case of Osama bin Laden we'll make an exception now that Special Forces eliminated the terrorist mastermind. This was also a year that saw despotic leaders Muammar Gaddafi and Kim Jong Il shuffle off their mortal coil.

We even have to be pleased with how things turned out this year with the "Occupy" movement. Yes, we were mostly annoyed and dumfounded by their immature, overly idealistic stabs at street theater. We do, however, applaud how they (like the Tea Party before them) gave voice to the anger many Americans feel and tried to channel it into action. We also appreciate the spotlight they have helped place on how some big banks put profits over people when it comes to foreclosures. We were also very pleased to see the measured, intelligent approach Mayor Menino and Boston Police took to the encampment in Dewey Square. Menino and Police Commissioner Ed Davis took a lot of unfair heat from critics who felt they were slow to action and not more hardline. The fact is that both did the city proud by striking the balance between allowing expression, minimizing inconvenience and keeping the whole affair from exploding into something violent.

All these world-shaping events are well and good. But we'd be remiss, as long-suffering hockey fans, not to mention the joy brought to this area when the Bruins won the Stanley Cup. Their victory is yet another reason why 2011 turned out to be not too shabby a year at all.

Norwood resident killed in single-vehicle crash

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

Massachusetts State Police (MSP) said Norwood resident Alison E. Irving, 24, died following a single-car crash on Interstate 95 in Walpole on Tuesday afternoon.

MSP Spokesperson David Procopio said a preliminary investigation by Trooper Michael Close showed a 2009 Ford Focus operated by Irving was heading south in the far left lane when the vehicle partially drove off the edge of the roadway. The driver attempted to steer to the right when the vehicle went into a spin and continued across all lanes of the highway.

Procopio said the car made contact with the guardrail at the right side of the road and rolled onto its roof, coming to rest in the center travel lane.

Norwood resident Andrew A. Costello, a passenger, was ejected into the woods next to the highway. Costello, 25, was taken by medical helicopter to Rhode Island Hospital.

Irving was partially ejected from the vehicle and received fatal injuries. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Procopio noted the investigation remains ongoing as of Wednesday morning.

Board of Health lights up e-cigarette discussion

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

The Norwood Board of Health will consider its options regarding electronic cigarette (e-cigarette) regulations in the future.

Board members discussed the e-cigarette trend at its Dec. 19 meeting, including its impact on the Norwood community.

"A lot of people are using e-cigarettes to beat an addiction," Board member Kathleen Bishop said. "My concern is they're going from one addiction to another. We're just changing the substance. I don't think we're helping anybody."

An e-cigarette is an electronic device that simulates smoking by creating an inhaled mist that creates the physical sensation of nicotine and tobacco.

"They are not FDA (Food and Drug Administration) approved," Massachusetts Municipal Association Tobacco Control Director D.J. Wilson said. "We don't know what's in the nicotine solution."

Wilson said the devices became available at mall kiosks in 2009, retailing for prices ranging from $70 to $100. An e-cigarette can typically take refillable cartridges, but Wilson noted some have become available that offer a one-time use.

"Neither the solution nor the strains are verified by government regulations," Wilson said. "We don't know what [people] are exhaling."

A federal judge banned the FDA from regulating e-cigarettes as a medical device earlier this year, unless they are marketed for therapeutic purposes.

Wilson said cartridges can be purchased online, but trade associations for cigarettes have agreed not to sell e-cigarettes to minors despite the lack of regulations.

Wilson emphasized roughly 20 cities and towns in the Commonwealth have regulations to monitor e-cigarettes. However, Norwood has yet to develop any restrictions.

"[E-cigarettes] fell out of the normal tobacco control because they don't contain tobacco," Wilson said.

Wilson will present a sample e-cigarette regulation to the Board of Health at its February meeting.

"It comes down to our definitions a lot," Health Department Superintendent Sigalle Reiss said at the group's Dec. 19 meeting.

The group intends to review all possibilities with Wilson.

"If it looks like a dog, if it acts like a dog...it's a dog," Board Chairwoman Joan Jacobs said of e-cigarettes.

Board member Carolyn Riccardi noted the group has a responsibility to the public to examine the e-cigarette trend.

"Our duty is to enlighten the public on toxins and carcinogens," Riccardi said. "We need to keep them abreast of it."

Wilson said there are no measures in place to track which businesses are selling e-cigarettes, but his sample regulation would include steps to do just that.

"We have no grasp on who has it here," Reiss said. "It might be nobody, but we still want to be proactive."

Printer eyes Norwood Printing

Daniel Kobialka
 Staff Reporter

Erik Perkins has spent at least 20 years in the printing industry, and said he hopes to keep Norwood Printing intact by leasing the Central Street parcel from the town.

"I was planning on leaving the business there and keeping things status quo," Perkins said. "I'd like to keep Norwood Printing in Norwood."

Perkins submitted two proposals to the Board of Selectmen: to rent 70 percent of the building at 190 Central St. for two years with a third year option at $5.00 per sq. ft., and to rent the entire building with an increasing rental cost after each year.

"I'm not trying to be Warren Buffett," Perkins said. "I'm just trying to make a decent living."

Perkins said Norwood Printing has been at its Central Street location since 1947.

Perkins noted he was hoping to get a rental agreement from the town so he could proceed with getting a small business loan approved by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

"I can't proceed any further until I have some sort of rental agreement from the town," Perkins wrote in a Dec. 18 letter to the Selectmen.

Perkins noted in his letter that the proposal remained in the Town Manager's Office for over a month.

Selectmen discussed the proposed rental agreement at their Dec. 20 meeting.

The Board agreed to purchase the property from the current owners for $475,000 ear-distribution.

Investigators developed evidence indicating that the three spas owned by Mussari, Spa Bellissimo at 1210 Boston Providence Tpke., Canton's Sparkle Day Spa and Brockton's Aria Day Spa, were allegedly offering sexual activity between masseuses employed by Mussari and their clients in exchange for cash that was characterized as "tips."

In addition, authorities allege employees of the spa were selling narcotics to customers as well as each other.

Police executed three search warrants of Mussari's spas Oct. 22.

Norwood Police Spokesperson Kevin Grasso said town police were involved with the investigation along with state and federal authorities.

State Police officers assigned to the AG's Office, the Plymouth County District Attorney's Office, the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, the State Police Counter Assault Team team, the State Police Division of Field Services, the Boston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Canton Police and the Norwood Police executed three search warrants at the spa locations Oct. 22.

Mussari, 45, and Tiffany Burgess, 31, were arrested following the execution of the search warrants by authorities.

Mussari, a Stoughton resident, was charged with deriving support from prostitution and taken to the State Police Barracks in Middleboro. Burgess was arrested on multiple outstanding arrest warrants and was also taken to the Middleboro Barracks.

Mussari was arraigned in Brockton District Court, which was handled by Assistant Attorney General Dean Mazzone. She posted $2,000 bail and is due back in court Jan. 9.

Burgess, a Raynham resident, was not charged in the case, and was arrested on outstanding warrants.

hours each and will number between 8-10 Meetings to complete the Committee's work to go to Bid and Review the Bids Received for the Final Selection of a New Aerial Ladder Truck," Howard wrote in a Nov. 18 memo to fire department personnel.

Howard emphasized the committee has made significant progress in a short timeframe.

"I'm really excited about the process," Howard said. "We've had two meetings and they're going really, really well."

The committee will continue to review information and materials surrounding the purchase of a new ladder truck before its next meeting.

Norwood Special Town Meeting (TM) voters approved a modified motion to replace the Fire Department's Ladder #1 last month.

District 7 TM member Kevin Connolly offered a substitute motion, asking voters to approve up to $1.3 million to replace the ladder truck.

Connolly noted the substitute motion remained consistent with the recommendations of the Finance Commission and Capital Outlay Committee.

TM voters accepted

Connolly's motion.

Norwood Fire Chief Michael Howard provided TM members with a presentation regarding the replacement of Ladder #1.

Howard emphasized the 20-year-old ladder truck was scheduled to be replaced in Fiscal Year 2015 at a cost of $1.6 million, but said the vehicle's condition has made the need more pressing than ever.

Howard noted the ladder truck performs critical life safety functions in emergency situations, including rescue, ventilation and laddering of buildings for safe exit routes for firefighters.

The Fire Chief noted the cost could range between $1.1 and $1.3 million to replace Ladder #1.

Howard said purchasing a replacement vehicle could eliminate maintenance costs the department has paid to service the current ladder truck recently. He said Ladder #1 remained out of service for a total of 23 days in June, August and September.

Howard raised the possibility of getting the funding to replace Ladder #1 at TM to the Board of Selectmen in September. He submitted a report to the Selectmen outlining the ongoing repairs to Ladder #1 prior to the Board's Oct. 4 meeting.

Howard requested $1.3 million be placed on a warrant article as part of TM, noting it could take between eight to 10 months to receive a new ladder truck if approved by the town.

Howard outlined five potential aerial ladders the department could consider if the warrant article is approved.

Howard said he completed the creation of a nine-person committee featuring fire personnel to investigate options to replace Ladder #1 in November.

Selectman Bill Plasko raised a motion for the Selectmen to support the TM article with a limit of $1.1 million to acquire the replacement ladder truck at the group's Nov. 2 meeting.

Plasko noted the $1.1 million suggestion was created based on information provided in a report from the Fire Chief.

"At $1.1 million, we'll get something the department and the community will be adequately served with," Plasko said at the Nov. 1 meeting.

The Board accepted Plasko's motion by a 3-2 vote. Board Chairman Lyons and Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue voted against the measure.

TM voters accepted the ladder truck replacement motion by a 135-16 vote. The motion required two-thirds of TM members to approve.

The Norwood Conservation Commission selected Foxborough's Weston & Sampson as a finalist to complete an Ellis Pond dredging feasibility study.

Pond consultant recommended

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

The Norwood Conservation Commission considered its options for its Ellis Pond dredging feasibility study consultant search.

Foxborough's Weston & Sampson earned the commission's recommendation at the group's Dec. 7 meeting.

"We felt they were the most qualified vendor at this point," commission member Joseph DiMaria said.

Conservation Agent Al Goetz said the town's Purchasing Department would notify Weston & Sampson of the commission's recommendation.

However, DiMaria emphasized Weston & Sampson has been recommended as the group's first choice to complete the study, but a contract has yet to be finalized.

"It's a pretty solid recommendation to the Town Manager," DiMaria said. "The town's [Purchasing] Department and Town Manager have the final say."

DiMaria noted the consultant could begin collecting samples for the study next month once the contract is finalized.

Goetz noted all applicants agreed to complete the study at a cost not to exceed $20,000.

The commission began its interviews last month, hosting applicant interviews Nov. 9 and Nov. 16. Each candidate was asked identical questions in the same order as part of the interview process.

Four applicants were interviewed during the process: Norwood's GZA GeoEnvironmental Inc., Marion, Mass.' CLE Engineering Inc., Foxborough's Pare Corporation and Weston & Sampson.

Goetz said he hopes Weston & Sampson will conduct the feasibility study soon.

"Ellis Pond is not frozen yet," Goetz said, "but that day is coming."

Goetz noted Weston & Sampson's study will play an important role in determining whether the Ellis Pond dredging is necessary.

"If it all works out and there's a positive recommendation [from the study], we'll hire a company to do the project," Goetz said.

Goetz said the final step in completing the Ellis Pond dredging would involve hiring a contractor to complete the work, but any possible work would be discussed after the study's completion.

Sutton, Mass.-based Aquatic

Control Technology Inc. reported it instituted an herbicide treatment program using fluridone (SONAR) at the 16-acre pond to control growth expansion and seed production of non-native, invasive plants in a report delivered to the commission in October.

The program's primary targets included curly-leaf pondweed, variable water-milfoil and water chestnuts.

Pre-treatment inspection began in May, while SONAR herbicide treatments were completed in June and July. The post-treatment survey was completed in September.

Sixteen aquatic species were observed in Ellis Pond in a survey completed last year. Aquatic Control completed its survey on Sept. 21, 2010, and discovered the majority of the pond was covered with invasive aquatic species.

The report indicated Aquatic Control had removed every invasive species from Ellis Pond except water chestnuts.

lier this year. Selectmen noted they intend to demolish the building and to build a structure to house the Electric Light Department's crews along with their trucks and equipment.

Norwood will officially acquire the parcel next month.

Town Manager John Carroll noted renting the property would provide the town a temporary solution while it reviews long-term options for the property.

"It just seemed possibly appropriate to keep the building alive and have someone pay money for it," Carroll said at the Dec. 20 Selectmen meeting. "But it is definitely for light department use."

Selectman Bill Plasko emphasized that an earlier appraisal by the town showed the property was valued at $8 per sq. ft.

"I don't think that's adequate," Plasko said, referring to Perkins' proposed $5 per sq. ft. rental cost.

Selectmen failed to approve Perkins' proposal for written acceptance of a rental agreement for the property. Selectmen Chairman Michael Lyons said the Board has no authority to act on the proposal since it has not officially acquired the land yet.

Perkins said he has not heard from the Selectmen or Town Manager since the meeting, but noted he hopes to continue to work with the town to rent the building.

"Right now, it's kind of up in the air," Perkins said. "I'm more than willing to work with the town to acquire the building. The ball's in their court."

Norwood hosted its first Styrofoam Recycling Day at the Winter Street Composting Facility on Dec. 26.

Norwood hosts Styrofoam Recycling Day Monday

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

Norwood gave its residents the chance to dispose of holiday packaging Monday as the town held its first Styrofoam Recycling Day at the Winter Street Composting Facility.

ReFoamIt, a Framingham-based Styrofoam recycling company, hosted the event with the Norwood Department of Public Works. At least 50 people recycled Styrofoam at the event.

"It's nice," ReFoamIt co-owner David Sherman said. "It helps keep Styrofoam out of the landfill. It takes products that would be burned and recycles them."

ReFoamIt utilizes a system that takes loose Styrofoam pieces and, using intense pressure, condenses Styrofoam into blocks. The company sells the blocks so they can be processed by another machine that turns these blocks into pellets which are used to make new products such as picture frames, car bumpers and plastic brackets.

ReFoamIt co-owner Barbara Sherman noted the company has worked with at least 20 towns in the Commonwealth to recycle Styrofoam.

"There are several that use us on a monthly basis," Sherman said.

David Sherman said the company processes approximately 50,000 pounds each month.

However, many people do not realize Styrofoam remains a recyclable material.

"We're pioneers in the industry," Barbara Sherman said. "We've eliminated a myth that Styrofoam cannot be recycled."

David Sherman said one of the Styrofoam Recycling Day goals involved educating the public and showing people that Styrofoam can be recycled and reused as new product.

Sherman emphasized the company has received nationwide interest, including calls from Maryland, California and Alaska.

Sherman said Norwood has yet to reach out regarding hosting a second Styrofoam Recycling Day, but interest could pick up depending on the success of Monday's activities.

ReFoamIt will host a Styrofoam Recycling Day at the Grace Congregational Church, located at 76 Salem End Rd. in Framingham, on Jan. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event is open to the public.

The Record Book

BULLYING & CYBERBULLYING

Come to a free educational presentation for parents of all students. Learn about recent research on how bullying happens and how parents can partner with schools to prepare and protect their own children. This presentation, by the Dr. Elizabeth Englander, Massachusetts Aggression Reduction Center, will also focus on our research about how kids use the Internet and the types of cyberbullying that occur. We'll discuss how school problems and cyber-issues impact friendships, and what to discuss with your child to reduce the risk that he or she will become involved. Bullying and cyberbullying can impact growing teens emotionally, academically, and can result in longstanding problems. Education and awareness is the answer. The program will be on Thursday, Jan. 12, at 6:30 p.m., Norwood High School Auditorium.
