Members of the Norwood Fire Department faced off against members of the Police Department in a charity rib-eating contest.

Cops and fire fighters face off for charity

Joe DiFazio
Staff Reporter

In the warm sun of a fading summer day, Norwood's police officers and firefighters squared off in a charity rib-eating contest in Walpole.

Before the ribs came out Thursday night, many of the participants were joking about how hungry they were. Afterwards, it was quite a different scene.

"I feel like I am going to be sick," said Firefighter Seamus Murphy.

It was well worth it for Murphy, though, as his team took home the victory.

The winners of the contest, which took place in the parking lot of the Texas Roadhouse in Walpole, had to eat the most ribs in ten minutes. The restaurant made so many ribs for the hungry teams, though, that the eating contest was extended five minutes for a total of 15 barbecue-soaked minutes. A Texas Roadhouse manager counted the bones from each team and the final count was 106-86 in favor of the Norwood Fire Department.

Airport Commission authorizes ramp study

Commissioners at odds over conduct

Joe DiFazio
Staff Reporter

Amid allegations of misconduct, pending legal actions, and stiff business negotiations, the Airport Commission was once again tense during a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting began with discussion of an environmental impact study carried out by the firm Dubois and King. The study is part of a project to straighten out one of the runways at the airport per Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) guidelines. Dubois and King's representative also said the firm was ready to conduct an impact study for a portion of the airport called the West Ramp, per the Commission's wishes.

The West Ramp has been an ongoing contentious issue at the airport because it is currently not leased, but Boston Executive Helicopter (BEH), a current airport business, is interested in doing so. BEH wants to become a fuel provider at the airport, but say they need more space to do so and want to lease the West Ramp. BEH has been building out the infrastructure in order to become a fuel provider, but the Commission has not offered them the amount of additional land they desire.

The Commission had offered BEH a smaller additional lease of just over 6,000 square feet of the West Ramp, but the Commission maintains that BEH declined the offer because they stated that it was an inadequate amount of space to become a fuel provider. According to BEH president Chris Donovan, the West Ramp currently has 100,000 square feet of space available.

In an attempt to alleviate the dispute, the Board of Selectmen added four more members to the Airport Commission earlier this year. The addition of Michael Sheehan, Hylie Hutchens, Paul Shaughnessy Jr. and Oulton Hues Jr. brings the Commission's membership total to nine.

The Board passed a motion 6-2 to appropriate $4,900 to Dubois and King for the West Ramp Study, with Shaughnessy and Hues dissenting.

Hues questioned why the Commission was not studying other ramps and also why the West Ramp was being studied if they knew certain buildings couldn't be built there, per FAA guidelines.

Airport Commission Vice Chair and Director of the Department of Public Works, Mark Ryan, responded that there were many factors that needed to be explored, including possible repayments to the FAA for putting hangars there.

Town and Country

HI GUYS,

AN UNEXPECTED REUNION!

Lt. Brian Murphy, NPD, has been posting historical pictures on the Norwood Police Facebook page since 2012. He began a feature entitled, "Way-Back Wednesday" and "Throw-back Thursday." Lt. Murphy's dad, former NPD Police Chief Jim Murphy, left myriad photos and scrapbooks with much history of events involving the NPD throughout his long career while protecting Our Town.

Lt. Murphy posted a photo on Facebook which was in the 1949 'Norwood Messenger' and received a surprising response. The photo pictured then Patrolman, James Murphy, and then Firefighter, John Howard, with a little girl, Jean Sack, and a large dog named 'Pal' on the sofa between them. Patrolman Murphy and Firefighter Howard had saved the dog from drowning on Jan. 2, 1949 from the cold icy waters of Dunn's Pond. Coincidentally, the present police and fire station is the location of the former Dunn's Pond.

While on Facebook, the grown children of the then 3-year-old child recognized their mom in the photo. As luck would have it, Jean Sack, who now lives in Arizona, was here visiting her children and grandchildren. They contacted Lt. Murphy, and the rest is history.

Lt. Murphy arranged a wonderful gathering with Jean, John, and their family and friends in the meeting room at the station. Memory lane provided many laughs and much fun as all the guests enjoyed a lovely lunch. Many thanks to Lt. Murphy for bringing everyone together again for a totally unexpected reunion filled with laughter and much joy. As has been said, Patrolman Murphy went on to be appointed NPD Chief, and Firefighter Howard was appointed NFD Deputy Chief.

WATER, WATER, WATER

The proposed Upland Woods 262 apartment complex is of concern to residents in the area that might be affected by water run-off into basements; unfortunately, something some residents in that area are familiar with; more apartments, more problems for Our Town. We are busting at the seams with buildings. There isn't much visible green space to enjoy anymore. The face of Norwood has certainly been changed forever.

THE FOOD PANTRY IS ASKING FOR YOUTH VOLUNTEERS

Earn scout badges and school credits for community service by helping out The Norwood Food Pantry this summer. Youth volunteers, ages 12 and up, are needed on Saturdays, 8:15 AM- 11:15 AM to help carry the food for donors and clients. If you would like to help out, call Debbie at 781.769.5650.

Selectmen keep busy with routine appointments

Joe DiFazio
Staff Reporter

The Board of Selectmen only meet every other week in the summer, and Tuesday night at Town Hall they had several appointments with businesses and National Grid to take care of.

First, the Board met with National Grid representative Dennis Reagan regarding two new gas mains. The first project is on Blossom Street, where National Grid requested to add approximately 75 feet of two-inch gas line for a new service to a home. Selectman Bill Plasko questioned the representative about closing the loop for the service line in that street for safety. Regan responded that they cannot do work and dig up the road without requests for service. Town Manager

John Carroll said that the project would be a win-win for the town because it would be replacing segments of older sidewalk. The Board approved the project unanimously.

The next site that National Grid requested they be allowed to add gas lines was on Cemetery Street and Winter Street. National Grid asked to install approximately 170 feet of four-inch gas line to service the new Department of Public Works (DPW) building currently under construction on Winter Street.

A 12,200 square foot seasonal storage garage for the DPW is being built and has an estimated completion date of October or early November. While the Board did approve the project unanimously, a concerned citizen came to the public hearing to lodge a complaint about occasionally being stuck in his driveway by trucks. Director of the DPW Mark Ryan told him that he should call and he will have DPW drivers work to keep him happy and move if necessary.

"[It'll be] one day of hectic work," said Ryan about the project.

Ryan then had his own appointment with the Board regarding takings for a project to expand the intersection of University Avenue and Canton Street. The project will accommodate a new development being built in Westwood in that area. The developer will be paying for the expansion of the road including paying for easements the town of Norwood will take in order to widen the roads. There will

IN MEMORY

Our Town sends its sincere condolences to Nick and Sue Pungitore, and to all their family due to the passing of Nick's mother, Marjorie (Thomas) Pungitore. Memory Eternal.

THE VERY BEST

Seven years have flown by since Dorothy Vitale took over the reins of the Norwood Senior Center as Director. Dot has decided to retire and locate closer to her children and grandchildren. Her last day as Director will be Sept. 5. We all say our goodbyes, thank yous, and extend our very best wishes for a well deserved retirement. Thank you for everything Dot!! God Bless.

CONTRIVED EXODUS?

Should we be responsible for undocumented immigrants who are crooks, murderers, abusers, druggies, gang members, terrorists, etc.? Looking at the scared and crying faces of the 'little children' that have made a difficult journey across thousands of miles is very sad. What kind of mother would allow that to happen to her precious child? Was the word spread that, by sending their 'baby,' they would be given free passage to the USA to reunite with their child; then be given food vouchers, free healthcare, housing, interpreters, legal counsel, etc.

'Everything Free In America' for these people, so it might seem.

The US Border patrol has reported that the following diseases are rampant among the recent immigrants and are infecting officers and their family members:

swine flu, measles, chickenpox, aids, scabies, lice, whooping cough, drug resistant tuberculosis, etc.

THEY SAID WHAT?

'The border is secure,' Harry Reid... 'We are better off since 'I' became president,' Obama... 'Do not send your children to the borders, if you do, they will be sent back,' Obama

GETTING ARTHRITIC JOINTS MOVING AGAIN

Anyone afflicted with osteoarthritis or rheumatoid arthritis that limits his or her range of movement and functioning ability may be helped by a physical therapy program that safely and effectively reduces pain and stiffness. Adherence to prescribed range-of-motion exercises can help maintain and even improve mobility. The beauty of exercises such as "shoulder sweeps," "elbow curls," "shoulder rolls," and "thumb touches" is that they can be performed without any special equipment. Under the direction of the physical therapist, these exercises can be performed, beginning with three repetitions (including doing the exercise on both sides), two to three times per day. As long as the exercises do not worsen pain, patients can build up to ten repetitions.

We know how arthritis pain can tarnish every aspect of your life. Let us help you reduce your pain and improve your mobility. Our hands-on physical therapists can provide the manual therapy that you need, as well as creating and supervising an at-home long-term regimen. And always remember that you have the right to choose the physical therapy facility that you want — choose the one that will treat you the way you deserve. If you would like an appointment, please call one of our three convenient locations. All major insurances accepted. Treatment of all types of patients and cases... Immediate appointments available.

P.S. Some of the exercises that the physical therapist can prescribe for arthritic patients include "hip stretches," "heel-to-toe stretches," "knee benders," "knee straighteners," and "prone leg lifts."

12 Grievances or Less Lane

With all of what is happening in the world - Putin and the Ukraine, a downed Malaysian passenger jet, Israel and Hamas killing each other on a daily basis - who would have thought that a family squabble about a supermarket would be making headlines globally.

The saga of Market Basket, a Game of Thrones worthy battle (albeit one that replaces swords and dragons with price guns and produce scales), is in the news around the world. Not since Fredo went fishing has a family feud captivated so many.

We've resisted weighing in, for a variety of reasons. To start with, we are not sure how many of our readers, by nature of geography, are directly affected. A Roche Bros. battle royale, rumble at Whole Foods, or coup at Hannaford would, of course, would be hard to ignore. But after being bombarded by details of those stories, it occurs to us that the Market Basket story could be more far-reaching.

It may be yet another turning point for a local union renaissance. Market Basket is not a union shop, but that is pretty much semantics at this point. The labor unrest - oddly enough, in support of management, not against it - has quickly and efficiently brought the company to its knees. When viewed along with a new, very pro-union Mayor, don't be shocked to see unions become more emboldened and their protests more frequent. Given a recent federal ruling by the National Labor Relations Board that gives its support to unions at small businesses with fewer than 50 employees, business owners throughout the state should gird themselves for what's ahead. We may be on the cusp of a wave of union-less union activity.

We take some glee in realizing that these protests have been a final nail in the coffin for the Occupy movement. The Market Basket protests are focused and include folks who want to improve both their working conditions and the company they work for. By contrast, Occupy was an aimless and angry yelp from a population that couldn't grasp the fact that hard work is its own reward and you are not entitled to bank loans and six-figure salaries selling hemp ponchos. The lesson: don't speak for workers, let them speak for themselves. The current protests also have a reasonable, targeted, and (mostly) defensible goal. The bad news: good luck grabbing lunch this fall. Throughout the nation, fast food workers are threatening all sorts of chaos if they aren't treated more professionally and paid at least $15 an hour. Frankly, that isn't going to happen. But every day the Battle Hymn of Arthur T. plays on our televisions, they too will be more emboldened.

All this said, however, can we borrow a few hundred of these workers to protest outside Fenway Park over the inevitable trade of Jon Lester?

JUST WHAT TOWN DO YOU LIVE IN?

To the Editor:

A description follows that will help you to identify the name of this town. This is a village in New England, founded 1872. Over the years, families moved to this town to provide children with the best education, worship of choice, and town leaders that were not selfish, but expressed a spirit of community and cooperation. Primary concern was to execute and implement plans and programs that were for the greater good of the townspeople. Transparency and accountability were mandatory. Currently, the growth in this town has a more than subtle profile of a "city". Unfortunately, the decline of the values and leadership has all but been deleted. What we have now is a town that removes Christmas from the calendar, through the audacity of individuals who are self-serving. Currently, we have a school system that is not in the top 100 schools anymore and, in keeping with necessary laws we devised by-laws for marijuana sales and service. To make things even more draconian, a resident wants to open a gun shop, not far from where this town took $5.4 million from the state to build a "Regional" skating rink. This is an invitation for the region to populate an already crowded site area (which was converted to recreation) very near a children's playground and pool.

Letters to the Editor

And don't forget the development of more apartments instead of senior housing/assisted living. No money to buy lands, no money to build another school as a result of apartments to be, but we can now smoke and endorse the selling of guns. I'm sickened with the folks that have sullied Norwood's name with issues that are neither essential nor decent. Water goes up, electricity goes up, and the trend is that certain folks get exactly what they asked for. The town folks were excluded from many important issues, and then with determination and the ability to do the best we could, we were not invited to the table. At the last Town Meeting, a member asked what is the best way to solicit good information about the town in order to make an informed decision. There was no answer. Disgusted, embarrassed and ashamed.

Madeline Eysie, Town Meeting Member

VITALE WILL BE MISSED

To the Editor:

It was with regret that I read that the Council on Aging Senior Center's executive director, Dorothy Vitale, will be retiring on September 1st.

Norwood has been very fortunate to have had such a devoted and caring professional watching over the senior group for over the past six years. She came to us at an exciting turning point in our history. Our meeting quarters had just been enlarged and there was much to be done. The addition meant additional activities and new activities of course brought a larger attendance. All this was handled with efficiency and an experienced eye as to our upcoming needs.

During the following years, our director faced the task of filling staff vacancies, along with providing even more activities such as the weekly summer supper, lunch program and making available trips for seniors and when possible a movie. Our quarters have always shown that more than the necessary attention has been made to the cleanliness and attractiveness is so apparent when visiting the Center.

I, along with many others, wish her happiness in her retirement years and hope that she knows how much she will be missed.

UNHOLY ALLIANCE

To the Editor:

Gov. Patrick's clergy photop forged a sanctimonious union in support of illegals illegally coming to our state and illegally accepting Massachusetts as their illegal host.

Our gubernatorial has-been conveniently dropped the puzzle piece separating church and state. In Massachusetts the mere mention of incense invokes a knee jerk reaction, but after discussion with President Obama it became an altered state.

Evidently, separation of church and state is interchangeable and elastic enough to be snapped back and forth by Deval Patrick. Clerical robes weren't in the picture when Massachusetts deemed the Balch School nativity scene a monumental threat to society. That state ruling in place to protect Norwood citizens from their time honored traditions came down hard when elasticity became a slingshot used to part Norwood residents from their crèche of 80 years.

Our president and governor deliver phony optimism, trounce our nation's principles and wangle unscrupulous, destructive burdens on already overwhelmed cities and towns. White House aspirations atop Beacon Hill announce that the Federal government will pick up the tab.

Regina J. Noonan,
Norwood

Hues has had issues with some Commission members outside of their meeting room as well. He has filed an assault complaint with Dedham District Court against Chairman of the Commission, Thomas Wynne, for an alleged incident at Town Hall. A police report Hues filed states that Wynne threw a stack of papers, which hit him in the face during a meeting between Hues, Shaughnessy, Wynne, and Ryan. Shaughnessy has also gone on record confirming the event. Wynne, however, denies that he hit Hues with the papers.

Hues has also filed a complaint with the Board of Selectmen against Ryan for misconduct because of his presence at the meeting while being an employee of the Town of Norwood.

After the motion for the appropriation was passed, Commissioner Michael Sheehan and Hues engaged in a back and forth about meeting procedure.

Hues asked about also studying another part of the airport, the DC3 Ramp. Sheehan responded that he was speaking out of turn because the Chairman was not recognizing him before he spoke. Sheehan also pointed out to Hues that the Commission must stick to the approved agenda.

BEH president Chris Donovan then stood before the Commission for a scheduled appointment. He explained that his new facilities for providing fuel are almost done and that he just needed a final go-ahead from the Fire Department regarding his fuel tanks. Donovan asked about whether the Commission would discuss BEH becoming the airport's second fuel base operator, since he had submitted a new business plan, but the Committee said that the matter was still tabled from a prior meeting.

"That seems anti-business in my opinion," said Hues.

Sheehan felt that Hues was again out of order.

"We have tabled this ...if he wants to un-table this he needs to make a motion," said Sheehan.

Hues did make a motion, but it failed.

The meeting concluded with a unanimous motion, made by Ryan, to show support for Airport Manager Russ Maguire.

Ryan explained that several town officials, himself included, received an anonymous letter containing an editorial from a pilot's association entitled, "How to fire your airport manager."

Sheehan added to that sentiment saying that he wanted to amend the motion to include Wynne and Ryan because of several news stories about the incident involving the two men and Hues. Sheehan said the news stories unfairly tarnished their good character.

Hues moved to discuss a few more items as the meeting wrapped up, but the Commission opted not to continue and adjourned.

also be several temporary easements taken by the town in order to complete the work. The matter was approved by Special Town Meeting in February and the Selectmen signed off on paying the easements. The largest amount, $33,000, will be paid Grainger Industrial Supply for takings on portions of their property.

The Selectmen also met with several businesses looking for licenses to operate in town, the first of which was a Mexican restaurant, Pancho's Taqueria. The business plans to open at 639 Washington Street. The applicant and part owner Carlos Chavria detailed how he liked the location and that since there are no Mexican restaurants in the center of Norwood, he thinks the business would do well. Plasko asked why he chose that location since it would need a full build-out to be a restaurant. Chavria said that he liked that the restaurant would be on the corner of the street and he wanted a fresh start and to not be associated with any prior establishments. The Board approved the CV license for the business unanimously.

The Board then met with Walid Massad, owner of Victoria's Café. He came before the Board asking for a license to serve beer and wine, which they granted unanimously.

The final appointment for the Board was with "Jake n JOES" restaurant, which was requesting to open earlier on Sundays. The restaurant was asking to be able to open 11:30 a.m., but there was some confusion and the Board thought they were asking for a 10:00 a.m. opening time. Different members of the Board were worried about starting at 10:00 a.m. for people starting to drink for Patriot's games, but the Board approved 11:30 a.m.

Plasko then touched on an appeal letter several residents sent to the Department of Environmental Protection regarding wetlands around the Upland Woods project, in an attempt to block the project.

Plasko addressed some comments in the letter, which claimed that he had a conflict of interest as an abutter. Plasko said that $15,000 was accepted from the developer for an initial study under advisement from former Town Planner Steve Costello, not at his personal request like the letter insinuates. He also said he recused himself from initial voting and has only since concerned himself with the safe harbor aspect, only realized through the developer's study. Plasko said after speaking with town counsel the only way, as an abutter he would be in conflict is if the developer decided not to go ahead with the project, which he said is very unlikely. As a precaution, he said he is no longer involved in the matter.

For the firefighter's feat, the Texas Roadhouse donated 10 percent of the night's sales to the Curing Kirsten - Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma charity.

Firefighter Murphy helped put the event together in conjunction with the Texas Roadhouse.

"I had gone over there about a donation for the Fire Fighter's Challenge [event], and they said, 'we can do that and put something else together.' I said 'perfect,'" said Murphy.

The firefighter's challenge event was held earlier this year to benefit the same charity, raising money for the wife of a firefighter diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

The Police Department was eating for the Norwood Circle of Hope - a local charity that raises money to help Norwood residents who face catastrophic medical occurrences. The foundation was established in the memory of Michelle Kennedy, who was diagnosed with Leukemia. Even though the police officers didn't win on Thursday, Texas Roadhouse said they would host a night in which 10 percent of the sales to go to Circle of Hope in the future.

The firefighters were represented by Murphy, Billy LeBlanc, George Burton, and Ron Lanzoni. Down one person, the Fire Department team also recruited Texas Roadhouse patron Jayme Baker from the restaurant to join them. The Police Department was represented by Bob Doucette, Elaine Kougaïs, Joe Sampson, Tony Copponi, and Bob Stratton.

In addition to the rib-eating contest, there was also a DJ playing country music and a raffle for a meat smoker. The Fire Department proudly displayed a fire truck next to the event while the Police Department showed off one of their cruisers. By the end of the contest a large crowd had gathered to watch the festivities, all held for a good cause.

Coakley under new leadership

Joe DiFazio
Staff Reporter

The Coakley Middle School will have a new Principal this September, as Jacqueline Mann takes the position after many years in the Sharon school system.

"There's a lot of exciting things about taking a new position. I have the opportunity to meet new people, bring some of the ideas that I've been trying out in a different district here [and] to get to know a new community," said Mann. "I love this community, so far everyone's been wonderful here."

Before coming to Norwood, Mann was the Assistant Principal at Sharon Middle School for the past three years. Prior to that, she was an Assistant Principal of a Sharon Elementary School and taught fifth and sixth grade for a number of years. It was an unforeseen set of tough town economic circumstances that brought her to her eventual love, middle school education.

"There was an override in [Sharon] that didn't pass so I got moved around to the middle school. I thought I landed in a foreign country because middle school was so different than elementary," said Mann. "I always liked upper elementary anyway ... so they gave me a sixth grade job and I loved it. I loved the kids. I loved their sarcasm. I loved that they need us even though they don't say that they need us. I couldn't imagine being anywhere else."

Though Mann has found one of her new passions in education, she started her career helping people in a different way. "[Education] was later in life. It was a second career. I was a social worker right out of school. I worked for what is now DCF (Department of Children and Families) back then DSS (Department of Social Services)," said Mann. "I worked with homeless families and then was a child protective worker. I did foster care review hearings and was a court investigator with Boston juvenile court, Quincy court, Barnstable, a whole bunch of courts. Then I worked for Quincy Community Action programs doing non-profits for early childhood education."

Mann attended Boston College for her undergraduate degree and then after her three children were older, got her Masters in elementary education from Lesley University.

"I had an opportunity to go back to school for social work or for education after I had my children. [I] decided I was working with families in crisis quite a bit and wanted to do something more empowering, so I went into education," said Mann.

While working at Sharon Middle School, Mann pioneered an overnight camping and outdoor learning program. She began to become interested most in taking on a leadership role at school. Mann said that engaging students and getting them to want to come to school was what she worked on most. She then got an Administrative Certificate for Middle School from Bridgewater State to be able to take on an administrator's role.

From there, Mann has been responsible for helping to manage two schools in Sharon before Coakley.

Mann said that though she is excited for her new role, there will also be challenges.

"In Sharon, everyone knows me. I'm a mom there, too. I live in the community ... so they know me as a member of the community, they know me as an educator, and they know me as an administrator. So, I have that trust that I think takes a while to build up," said Mann. "People don't know me here and there's been a lot of change so I think there is some trust issues, I imagine. If there's a lot of turnover you just expect the next person is going to do the same. So, I get that. I have to earn the trust of the families of the students of the faculty here. That's really important to me. I can't do anything here if people don't trust me."

One of her strengths, Mann said, is creating and fostering a positive school climate and culture through identifying and promoting core school values. In Sharon, she said the middle school held a "Value Day" in order to decide what the school's morals were. She wants to bring that positivism and commitment to values with her.

"If kids don't want to walk through the door you can't teach them math or writing. So that was my first thing [in Sharon]," said Mann.

Mann

This set of values, Mann said, also acted as a positive enforcement against bullying, helping to stop it before it started. Small group advising is another tool Mann hopes to bring to Norwood.

"One of the things people say about middle school is 'oh, my kids will get through it and go to high school' and I took offense to that. I think middle school is really important. These are the times when they decide who they want to be," said Mann.

As Mann works from her office in a quiet

Coakley school this summer, she said that she is most looking forward to finally meeting her new students when the school year begins.

"I'm really excited to meet the students. I didn't get an opportunity to do that before the end of the year. Summer is tough because the kids aren't around," said Mann. "As the kids come in the building, I go down there and scare them a little bit — 'Hi! I'm your new principal' — and when they walk through the door that's the best part of it for me."
