Norwood Arena, pictured above, was one of Norfolk County's premier entertainment venues. The auto racing track held up to 15,000 spectators at full capacity. Built in 1948, the quarter-mile track held races up until it was torn down in 1972. Jerry Kelleher and Brendan King are bringing the oft-forgotten story of the arena to the big screen this fall with their documentary "Norwood Arena — The Movie." The movie will premier September 20 at Norwood Theater for a one night only event, before being entered into several film festivals. "No one's ever made a movie about Norwood Arena," said Kelleher. "People are contacting me from all over the country that want to see it. It wasn't a glamorous place, but people remember it."

Town Hall contract issue, DPW on schedule

There may be a few snags for interior renovations on Town Hall, but construction of the Department of Public Works (DPW) Project is right on schedule.

In a meeting Thursday night at Town Hall, the Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC) discussed how contractor Infrastructure Limited, who won the bid to repair Town Hall, might now have some issues with the project.

The company appears to feel that some of the repairs involving lead paint are beyond the scope of the original bid. Gienapp Design, the architecture and planning firm that helped determine the work needed on Town Hall, responded in a letter that the lead paintwork was clearly explained.

PBCC Chairman Ed McKenna said that he saw three options at this point: the town could lean on the company to

It was the place to be Documentary to tell the untold story of Norwood Arena

Joe DiFazio

In a new documentary, two local filmmakers have put on screen the tale of the mostly forgotten Norwood Arena Speedway.

The film "Norwood Arena — The Movie" is written and directed by Jerry Kelleher and produced by Kelleher and Brendan King. It tells the story of the quarter-mile auto racing track, which was located in the Vanderbilt Avenue area off of Route 1 from 1948 to 1972.

Kelleher said he planned on telling the story of the arena in a smaller way, but that the track was so full of legends, it warranted its own movie.

"I was thinking about doing a few little vignettes for local cable, sort of historical things. Since I'm not a selectman anymore, I have a little extra time and this is what I do, you know, I'm a movie guy," said Kelleher. "[But] it just exploded. I had no idea how big it was. Once I started talking to people it became like a spider web of people telling me 'Oh you got to call this guy' or 'you got to call this person.' It turns out it was a very prominent track in NASCAR history. A lot of guys that were very prominent back in the day ran there.”

In particular, there were two very successful drivers that were stars of the Norwood Arena that Kelleher portrayed to frame the story.

“I found out about Pete Hamilton who was from the Norwood Arena and he won the Daytona 500, which is like the Super Bowl of racing,” said Kelleher. “Another guy, Don MacTavish, went on to Daytona and got killed right on the track, right on ABC’s “Wild World of Sports.” So, the story evolved into one guy living his dream and the other died trying. It’s a very compelling story.”

Kelleher said that he isn’t by nature a car person, and that King, who is, helped him a lot with the technical aspects. Kelleher added that the movie will have a wide appeal, even for those who don’t know a lot about cars.

“It’s not a movie about racing per se, but about the people and the track. Who knew that halfway between Fenway Park and Gillette Stadium was the biggest venue for entertainment, Norwood Arena?” asked Kelleher. “The other interesting thing about the track is that it didn’t just have racing. It had a lot of other events to keep it going ... concerts, wrestling, circus, fireworks, whatever they could do to fill it up.”

As Norwood changed and became more residential, the popularity of the track waned and it was eventually closed in 1972 and turned into an industrial park.

“They put a drag strip in on Vanderbilt Avenue that sort of aggravated the rest of town. It was very loud, they raced at night, and used these jet cars. People just got sick of hearing it,” said Kelleher. “The track was there first, but as these houses started to be built around Norwood, it started to fill up ... families started to show up and [the arena] was right in their backyard. There were jet-fueled cars, it was crazy. Then the value of the land became more than the value of the track. Times change.”

Kelleher said that he has spent almost two years making the film, mostly on nights and weekends, and has collected dozens of interviews, material from all over the country and over 1,000 photographs.

The movie will premier September 20 at Norwood Theater for a one night only event, before being entered into several film festivals.

“We want to make an event out of it, sort of a red carpet event,” said Kelleher. “The guys that are in the movie should be there in a special section and people can see who they are ... we’ll have the car out front.”

The car Kelleher is referring to is King’s 1967 Dodge Coronet decorated to look like a Norwood Arena pace car from 1967 to help promote the movie.

Regal Press waiting approval

Joe DiFazio
Staff Reporter

Though the Planning Board intimated approval for the Regal Press, the site plan will have to wait until August for official approval.

In a meeting at the Police and Fire Station Building Community Room Monday night, the Planning Board moved to continue the review until their next meeting. Town Planner Paul Halkiotis stated that he was waiting for a final approval from Town Engineer Mark Ryan about the comments he made on the project, and the Board was waiting on some final legal paperwork regarding the 40R aspect of the project.

The main owner of the building, William Duffy, appeared before the Board with legal counsel, architect, engineer and several others who are working on converting the old press building into a 40R residential apartment building. The group gave a presentation on their design and several changes they made at the request of both Halkiotis and Ryan.

Earlier this year Town Meeting approved a 40R smart growth overlay district that allows Regal Press to become apartment units. Because it's a 40R project, the building will consist of 25 percent affordable units allowing the entire acreage of the plot and all the units to count towards Norwood's 40B affordable housing minimums. The Massachusetts law mandates all towns to have at least 1.5 percent of its developable land area or ten percent of its housing stock be dedicated to affordable housing.

Duffy's legal counsel Mark Bobrowski began by stating that the building will now be 40 units instead of the 48 units approved, and that the group is still waiting on approval for their project from the Attorney General's office. Bobrowski added that the second part of the incentive payments that would come to Norwood from the state for passing a smart growth district are contingent upon approval of the site plan.

Bobrowski then turned the meeting over to Patrick McCarty, who is the engineer for the project. McCarty detailed several of the changes made because of requests from the town including expanding handicap curb cuts and preferred materials used in the project. McCarty said that the two changes not made of the 26 requested were expanding a parking lot curb cut to 24 feet on the Guild Street side and increasing the size of parking spaces. McCarty said that though the curb cut will be expanded, the full changes were not made to allow 40 parking spaces.

The architect for the project, Gary Gardner, then explained some of the renovations that would occur to the building. He stated that the plan was to essentially restore the building to its original 1911 design. All the windows that are currently blocked will be made functional again and the metal side of the building facing Guild Street replaced with clapboard to better match the neighborhood. Gardner said that the break down of the units will be 17 one-bedrooms, 17 lofts, and six studios.

Planning Board member Debbie Holmwood questioned the group about air conditioning, saying that she didn't want to see large units on the beautiful old building. McCarty responded that they haven't decided whether to use individual units or a large central unit yet, but that the roof is concave towards the middle and has a parapet that is several feet high, which should hide the units.

Bobrowski concluded the presentation with some of the legal requirements regarding the affordable units, such as they will be interspersed through the building, will have no age restriction and will rotate as tenants move out. He also said that the state will have a monitoring agent assigned to the building to assure that the residents meet the affordable housing requirements. The project has also not yet acquired funding.

The plan did have some detractors; Town Meeting Member Kevin Pentowski attended the meeting to voice his concern about parking at the building. He told the Board that he felt the amount of parking wasn't adequate and that the spots were so tight that snow removal would be tough. The Board responded that they don't mandate guest parking and that the snow removal plan was to haul it off site, but that it was ultimately the responsibility of the owner, not the town.

Historical Commission President Judith Howard commended Duffy for restoring the old building, but requested that the unit count be lowered even more.

The next Planning Board meeting is scheduled for August 25.

PILLOW TALK

When selecting a pillow, choose one that will support the neck and back as one unit. A good pillow will keep your neck aligned with your chest and the lower portions of your spine. Otherwise, if you use one or more pillows to position your neck at an angle that is higher than your back (or, conversely, your head lower than your neck), you are in for a bad night's sleep, or worse. The North American Spine Society also points out that it is not good to sleep on either your back or your stomach if you have back pain. In fact, sleeping on your back increases spinal pressure by about 55 pounds, which worsens back pain. Sleep on your side instead.

Almost one third of our life is spent sleeping. Sleep is an essential biological need. In addition to rest and relaxation, proper sleep is necessary in order to maintain good physical and mental health. Doctors of chiropractic have always recognized, developed, and provided a wide variety of treatment options specifically suited to your health needs. Chiropractic is not a replacement for drugs or surgery. It is an alternative. We urge you to try safe chiropractic care. We will only accept you as a patient if we feel we can help you. Please call us to schedule an appointment. We offer both chiropractic care and physical therapy. All major insurance accepted.

P.S. If you are unable to sleep on your side, try placing a pillow under your knees, which prevents your back from overarching and helps reduce spinal pressure by about 50 percent.

It's time to recognize reality

For the last twenty plus years now this newspaper has been asking what REAL benefit the Norwood Municipal Airport brings to 99% of Norwood residents and, to date, no one has been able to provide a reasonable answer. Aside from it being a personal toy box of Ernie Jr., and a dumping spot for polluted snow the DPW removes from around town (and hopefully not melting off into the Neponset River), and finally, a Kangaroo Court for airport commissioners to pretend how important they are by bossing around the few businesses leasing space down there trying to make a living, it is a complete waste of very valuable property.

Some may argue it's a big money maker, which, of course, is complete nonsense. Cheerleaders make more profit at their annual car wash than this airport generates. And others, living in a time warp, may point out all the industry it draws to town, keeping Norwood's tax base so reasonable. How many developers from Upland Woods, Forbes, Regal Press, Plimpton, etc., etc., are eyeballing Norwood because it has an airport? There hasn't been a significant commercial space filled in Norwood thanks to the airport in decades, at least none we are aware of. The only industry benefiting from this airport right now is the judicial system, since Norwood's highly paid legal team is continually putting out fires ignited by said commissioners who have trouble playing nice and keeping necessary records.

The latest fiasco involves one commissioner filing an assault charge against another, for allegedly throwing a stack of papers at him for daring to question the way things are being run. I remember throwing things at my sisters when we were kids and I ended up in a timeout. Apparently, nowadays it calls for a police report and an appearance in Dedham District Court.

The Norwood Airport Commission recently expanded membership. Selectmen decided they needed to go from 5 members to 9 to mitigate the obvious dysfunction. Yeah, that worked out just great. It appears the long standing members have placed the newcomers on a "need to know" basis, and at least one new guy questioned why the old guard wasn't sharing information, hence the "assault," or as one witness put it, "...picked up off the conference table one 56 page white office paper bundle...and [threw] it with [a] right hand over swing, violently hitting Mr. Hues in the back left side of his head," which sounds vaguely familiar to what Larry did to Curley on an episode of the Stooges before Moe clunked their heads together.

Commissioners also appear to have a problem sharing information with outsiders. When denied a request for a copy of the commission's April meeting, a company looking to expand at the airport asked the state for help. When a copy of the tape was requested by the Commonwealth's Public Record's Department, the response they received from the commission was, "Oops, I guess we already deleted it, sorry." April's meeting already deleted? No, there's nothing unusual about that folks, keep moving along, nothing to see here...

Yes, dear readers, this is the group directing the largest swath of open space Norwood has, currently dedicated to some boys and their toys (airplanes), few of whom probably even live in this town. The days of any prestige associated with a town like Norwood being home to an airport are long gone, not unlike the story on Page 1 this week about the old Norwood Arena.

The possibilities are endless for the space down there, and its use should be dedicated to improving the lives of the other 99% of Norwood residents who forget the land is even there. Closing the Norwood Airport can't happen overnight; in fact it would take years. But, it's not impossible and well worth the effort. It is certainly something worth considering...

MANAGER NOT GETTING THE JOB DONE

To the Editor:

Just who is John J. Carroll, the present Town Manager of Norwood?

I dutifully Paid my Norwood real estate taxes this month, wondering why I can't find a resume or biography on my Town Manager, who has been doing a terrible job running my town for the last 35 or 38 years! I was born here ninety years ago and my parents and grandparents were paying those same taxes through the 1800s, the house on Cedar Street built at the end of the Civil War.

My beautiful little town is disintegrating, block by block. Just walk from Washington and Howard Streets, past the empty store fronts and the hand of a successful chief executive so evidently absent! The $3,000,000.00 dollars we spent on the exterior of our Gothic Town Hall, was that due negligence on his part? And, now, he will attempt to modernize the interior of the town hall and we homeowners know that daily maintenance is the answer.

How dare he be advertising for an architectural engineer for the New Norwood Skating Facility when the Norwood Schools are faced with an exceptional cost of those students coming into our system with exceptional needs? Our schools should be Norwood's pride and joy and command the first part of our town budget, long before the public works administration. Vanderbilt Avenue has a huge empty building, just asking for a hockey rink — in the proper location.

I don't know if our Town Manager ever had the resume to be qualified for this position, but let's give youth and education and talent for leadership a chance and look for a leader for Norwood!

Remembering Irish History

Delia Bartucca, an especially enterprising eighth grader, won a special recognition award for Irish History at the National History Day competition.

National History Day is an academic program and contest in which students choose a themed historical topic and present that topic and its significance to a panel of judges. Norwood has taken part for the last three years. Bartucca advanced past the district and state levels of the competition where she placed first in the individual exhibit category.

This year's theme was rights and responsibilities and Bartucca chose to do her project on the Easter Rising or Easter Rebellion in Ireland.

complete the contract for the work as bid, renegotiate the contract and offer more money for certain elements of the project or release the company from the contract.

PBCC member Ted Callahan said that since the company hasn't yet responded to the last letter from Gienapp, the Committee should wait. Callahan added that from all accounts it appeared Infrastructure Limited was a competent and well-regarded contractor and that they should work through the issues with the company in a friendly manner. Leaving bid contracts, Callahan said, usually gives companies a bad reputation and he doubted that would be the case for the Town Hall renovations and Infrastructure Limited.

McKenna agreed and said that he would hate to have to re-bid the project, adding that there were some funds left in the project budget in case it had to be renegotiated up slightly.

Infrastructure Limited entered a total bid of $72,825 for general renovations to Town Hall and a second project to repair elements of the building's main staircase. The Committee decided to wait for a second response from the contractor to see which way the negotiations might go.

The Committee then moved on to discussion of progress on the new DPW project with Bryan Jarvis. Jarvis is a representative from the firm hired to oversee the project, Compass Project Management. Jarvis reported that the three construction sites are on schedule and that the Winter Street site is actually slightly ahead of schedule.

Winter Street is where a 12,200-square foot seasonal storage garage is being built and has an estimated completion date of October or early November.

Construction at the main yard at Lyman Place will include a 10,800-square foot, two-story administration and employee facility building, 27,500-square foot vehicle maintenance facility and a 3,276-square foot wood-framed salt storage structure. Colantonio, the contractor for the project, states the expected completion date for this site is sometime in the summer of 2015.

"I feel pretty confident they're moving in the right direction," said Jarvis.

For citizens and neighbors interested in the DPW project, town officials hold an open meeting with Colantonio and Compass Management every Friday at 9 a.m. at Town Hall.

The meeting concluded with discussion of an issue at Morrill Memorial Library because of the volume of its air conditioning units. Neighbors have raised complaints to the Library about the noise the unit makes, but the Library needs to keep the unit running at night in order to cool the building. Callahan reported that Town Manager John Carroll was testing a baffling system on the unit in order to minimize the sound, but the Committee member felt that a more involved fix was inevitable.

Norwood Post 70 wraps up regular season

Despite a series of late-season wins, Norwood was unable to qualify for the postseason, finishing 10-13.

Staff Reporter

Norwood Post 70's season came to an end this week, and though the team was mathematically eliminated from the playoffs the week before, Norwood had the opportunity to play spoiler against some of the top teams in their division.

Unfortunately, the season ended on a sour note, with Norwood narrowly avoiding a no-hitter in an 8-0 loss to Walpole at Bird Middle School on Tuesday night.

John Ryan singled in the seventh, recording Norwood's lone hit.

Still, Norwood coach Paul Samargedlis saw positives in a down year for a program that is used to contending for titles.

"The kids that showed up and committed to this team did not quit," said Samargedlis. "You don't deserve to win if you don't know how to lose."

After falling 11-5 against Needham on July 8, Norwood won four of its final seven games.

Norwood beat Franklin 7-3 on July 9 and the next day, the team traveled to Warren Park, where they eked out a 3-2 win over Brookline to avoid the season sweep.

Norwood then played a home-and-away doubleheader on July 12, taking on Norfolk and Westwood.

A nine-man Norwood squad dropped the home game against Norfolk 8-5, despite coming back to tie the game at 5-5 on a solo shot to left by Kenny Michael in the bottom of the fifth.

The next inning, John Ryan replaced starting pitcher Matt Hajjar, who had put together a decent start, but Norfolk had put two men on base and slapped a deep three-run homer to left to take the lead. Norfolk was then able to hold off the limited Norwood lineup to seal the win.

Norwood made up for what may have seemed like a blown opportunity against Norfolk by taking the afternoon game 10-7 against a Westwood team that now sits in first place in the West.

On July 13, lively Norwood bats throughout the lineup propelled the team to a 15-3 win over third place Medfield.

On Monday, a solo home run and some timely heavy rain spoiled Norwood's hopes in their penultimate game of the season against Norfolk.

The game began 45 minutes behind schedule due to on-and-off rain, but Norfolk wasted no time getting things going, tapping Norwood starter Brian Dittmeier for a run in the first to take a 1-0 lead.

Norwood answered in the bottom of the second, when Denis Drummey's sacrifice fly scored Mark Saulnier, who had reached base on a walk earlier in the inning and stole second and third to put himself in scoring position. After Jake O'Rourke smacked a stand-up double to left, Matt Hajjar's RBI single gave Norwood a 2-1 lead.

In the fifth inning, though, Norfolk made Norwood pay for surrendering a lead-off double and a balk, as a dropped fly ball to left-center allowed that runner to tag up and score the tying run.

Stingrays beat Sherborn, lose to Walpole 319-151

Norwood swimmers continue to earn top finishes against tough opponents, as the team goes into the third week of the season with a 1-2 record.

Staff Reporter

The Norwood Stingrays swim team managed a tough 242-213 victory at home against Sherborn on July 8, before falling to perennial league powerhouses Walpole on July 10, 319-151.

During the Sherborn meet, Norwood swimmer, 16 year-old David Cheng, set a new Hawes Pool record in the 40m freestyle event. Cheng's impressive pace was bolstered by the pursuit of his Sherborn counterpart, who battled Cheng to a very close finish.

Norwood sent out 109 swimmers during the meet and earned many top three finishes during the first heats.

Ben Wong, John Gunning, and Manny Escobar joined David Cheng in top spots for the 15-18 boys races. For the 15-18 girls, Charlotte Rivard, Meaghan Shaughnessy, Caitlan Shaughnessy, and Rory Lake all earned top three finishes in their heats.

Norwood's eight-and-under girls had an exceptional day, with Natalie Gale, Katie Mills, Sarah McCarey, Charlotte McDonald, Charlotte Mathews, Megan Crisp, and Kileigh Gorman all earning top three finishes. The eight-and-under boys heats saw Dave DeMattia, Thomas Lynch, Brendan Jordan, and Thomas Dearborn all place for Norwood as well.

Against Walpole, 100 of Norwood's 180 swimmers made the short trip to Center Pool to square off against one of the consistently top three teams in the league.

According to Stingrays coach Kim Miller, Walpole has strong depth at 9-10 and 11-12 girls and boys, and 13-14 boys, which was a good challenge for Norwood's young team.

"There were a number of very close races for the top three places in events, which made the meet very exciting, even though the score might not reflect that," Miller said.

Despite Walpole's stacked lineup at those age groups, Norwood swimmers still earned several good results in each category.

Rob Degre, Cpt. Greg Trudley, Ryan Cullinane, Steve M, Eric Noepel, Ryan Kelley, Dan Bamber, Mark Ranalli. The Norwood Senior Babe Ruth team is currently in the midst of a battle for a playoff spot with South Boston, Braintree, and Dedham. A loss to Braintree on July 10 was a major setback for Norwood, but the team looks to finish out the regular season on a good note this coming week.

In the 9-10 girls age bracket, Hannah Abrahams, Mikhaila Hurley, and Caeleigh Brown each finished among the top three in their heat, and Jake Wilkinson, Ethan Brownbill, and Ryan Kelley did the same in the boys heats.

In 11-12 girls, Shayla Keady, Vanessa McGrath and Mary Lee each finished among the top three in their heat, while Victor Greene was the sole Norwood boy in the age group to take a top three spot. Similarly, Sam Wong was the only Norwood 13-14 boys swimmer to take a top finish, while Annabelle Garrity, Bridget Roach, and Grace Gillis all placed for the girls.

In the 15-18 category, Charlotte Rivard, Natalie Looney, and Rory Lake took top spots for the girls, while Manny Escobar, David Deng, and Ben Wong earned top spots in the boys races. Norwood's eight and unders again performed well, with many top finishes.

Next, the Stingrays head to Natick, another pond venue, and also face Millis on Thursday.

"I think you are getting the gist that Norwood does not travel well to venues that are not pools," Miller said. "We always joke with the kids that, if they would just swim in the ponds, our win-loss record for dual meets might be very different."

In the meantime, according to Miller, as long as swimmers are enjoying the team and improving their skills, the program is a success — especially when it comes to the younger swimmers.

"Our focus for the younger swimmers, 10 and under, needs to be getting more of them swimming legal butterfly and breaststroke," Miller said. "Both are challenging strokes when you are just beginning your swimming career."

Legion continued from page 8

down 1-2-3 in the fifth on only four pitches, allowing Norfolk to get in another at-bat before the rains came down.

With one out in the sixth, Norfolk got to Dittmeier for a solo home run and a walk. John Ryan came on in relief, but the game was called just as Ryan began to warm up.

"You've got to be disappointed, looking at previous years," said Samargedlis of the season. "But it allows us to see...who are our guys committed to next year."

Norwood finishes the season 10-13.
