Town Meeting approves Wash. St. land taking 259 Lenox bows out

The Norwood Special Fall Town Meeting met on Monday, Nov. 14 and finished all business presented.

One of the more debated articles was the proposal to purchase three properties on Washington Street in front of the Coakley Middle School encapsulating the Morse House. The three proposed properties are 1271 Washington St., 1281 Washington St. and 1297 Washington St.

Board of Selectmen Chair Bill Plasko said the owner of 1281 Washington St. intimated to the Board recently that they are not looking to sell the property at this time, and Town Meeting members voted unanimously for indefinite postponement on that specific motion.

Town Meeting members did vote 100 to 21 on the other two parcels. Plasko said during the article explanation that the Town wanted to purchase these properties in the past, and said it was likely that due to the fact that most mortgages were 30 years, if another private citizen bought them the Town would have to wait a long time for another chance to acquire them.

“We don’t have any definitive plans for the properties right now, we’re just asking the general government to take them over, demolish them, and probably have the fire department do some testing,” he said. “During that process, we think these properties could be used, at least initially, for assisting in the Middle School project (the replacement of the Coakley Middle School) for loading areas and so forth by the developer. We think we’ll save some money actually on the project by doing that. We’re estimating that we might save about $100,000.”

Some residents were concerned that during this current real estate market, it might not be prudent to spend the $790,000 and $1.01 million for the purchase, demolition and incidental costs of the two properties.

“Not many things keep me awake at night, but for some reason this particular article did,” said Town Meeting member Jean Taylor. “We’re always complaining that we have so many apartments and we don’t have enough houses... Article 12 is asking us to give an okay to what I strongly believe is unnecessary spending of $2.5 million (the original appropriation for all three properties) to purchase homes and properties in this economy. There are so many families struggling to pay their medical bills, keep a roof over their head and feed their families.”

Taylor said she felt the Town didn’t need the properties, and that not buying the properties wouldn’t hurt the homeowners. She said she felt Town Meeting members needed more time to consider the purchase of the properties.

“In Norwood there is no issue selling homes and no owner will be hurt by a no vote on this,” she said.

Norwood honors vets with flybys

During the annual Norwood Veterans Days services on Friday, November 11, while speakers commented on their memories and anecdotes about what being a veterans means, a helicopter flew in low and fast to buzz the gathered crowd of a few hundred patrons and well-wishers.

Norwood Veterans Service Agent Ted Mulvehill said that while the pilot of said helicopter asked to remain anonymous, he was a decorated Army Aviator who served in several overseas conflicts.

“Trust me when I tell you he’s a highly-decorated U.S. Army Aviator of helicopters in the first Gulf War during the liberation of Kuwait,” Mulevhill said. “He wishes to remain anonymous in order to provide this honor today to all of us.”

Selectman Helen Abdallah-Donohue said she asked Major Greg Quilty during a municipal conference three years ago if they would be able to set up this flyover for the 150th anniversary of the incorporation of the Town of Norwood.

“That was three years ago and he worked with Ted Mulvehill and Ted put the whole thing together,” she said.

While the surprise flyovers from the helicopter was a special treat for the crowd, Abdallah-Donohue reminded everyone why they were on the Common that day.

“But we’re here today to celebrate all those who served and all those who Norwood’s own Jonathan Cardoni and Dan Busler have been filming in Norwood for about 12 years now, on and off, but recently due to high demand and the fact they both have the time to dedicate, Norwood on Film has relaunched with new vigor.

Readers may recall seeing Norwood depicted in major films during the past few years, including Ted, The Judge, the 2016 Ghostbusters remake, About Fate, The Mothership, A Showstopping Christmas and, most recently, Thug, with Liam Neeson over at the Dollhouse Museum (or Governor Allen Mansion, depending on your knowledge of the property).

Cardoni explained that Norwood was featured heavily in the movie Ted, starring Seth MacFarlane and Mark Wahlberg. He said it was kind of cool at the time, since the Universal Studios logo, the spinning globe, zoomed in to focus right on Norwood.

“Right up by St. Tim’s actually,” he said.

Norwood on Film, the pair said, is based on providing filmmakers not only the best possible scenery to film around, but also the best possible people and places to work.

McDonough's need to end their efforts Family has been helping others in need for decades

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

John and Marybeth McDonough moved into Norwood's new neighborhood on Ledgeview Drive about 35 years ago, and felt so blessed to be in such a beautiful area. It motivated them to give back.

"We started it in our home with our four children and a couple of foster children; we did it because this house, for us, was a gift from God," Marybeth McDonough said. "All my husband and I ever talked about was how grateful we were that we had this opportunity to live in such a beautiful home and neighborhood."

The couple started helping others by contacting the Norwood Food Pantry at the Grace Episcopal Church on Chapel Street and bringing boxes of food to the pantry for distribution. After awhile folks started hearing about what they were doing and wanted to help too. The pair said that they now prepare and deliver boxes to parishes all over the region, including Dorchester, St. Catherine's, other food pantries and other families they say they know are in need.

"On Sunday my husband John was up at Shaw's getting some boxes and food and one of the employees asked what he was doing," she said. "John replied, 'My family is making boxes of food for families in need.' The employee stated, 'I could really use one,' and so we're getting him one. It's for whoever needs one. This all started in my most generous neighborhood."

The family boxes include all the elements of a traditional Thanksgiving meal, minus the turkey. For that, they include a $30 gift certificate so the family can go get fowl or other protein of their choice.

"Most of the families we give to have children so we also give them oatmeal, cookies, peanut butter and jelly, pancake mix and maple syrup,

Again, it's obviously Norwood.

"When he (Cardoni) looks at a project, he says, 'What do they need?'" Busler said. "They need caterers, places to park their trailers, places to stay and because of his event planning background, when he talks to location managers, he says, 'I have what you need.' This is all based on promoting Norwood."

Busler said that usually, when a studio is looking to shoot in a small town, they call up the Town Manager or equivalent and that person can direct them to town property the studio could use and usually that's the end of it, he said. However, Cardoni used to work event management for Liberty Mutual. "With Jonathan, he knows exactly how to set up the hotel rooms, the caterers, the spaces, because that was his job. And when we photograph we set it up exactly the same way."

Right now, they've basically got the infrastructure set up to make filming in Norwood as hassle-free as possible. Sure, they still have to go through the permitting process for taking up parking spaces or filming on public property and that has to go through the Town, usually in the form of asking the Board of Selectmen permission, but when it comes to local knowledge, the pair are trying to make Norwood as fluid as possible, as they know the Town as well as anyone. Cardoni said this came in handy recently for the Liam Neeson film. The whole Town was basically involved.

"We first found them a couple of areas for a base camp, which is basically where they have their trailers and their non-critical work trucks. They then try to park their main work trucks closer to the set," he said. "We discussed with them what they need for parking, which meant they needed to block off traffic, which means they needed a police detail, which they pay for, and if they're going to be using fireworks and using a lot of electrical equipment and generators, then they need the fire department. We draw people here with our beautiful photographs and locations, but the real draw can be how easy we can make it for them."

Cardoni said any stress from working with the Town departments, like the Department of Public Works, police, fire, the Norwood Electric Light Department or any other department, lowers the desirability of a film studio to work in Norwood. So he said they work to connect the right people to the film crew, and he added that many Town organizations get benefits from more companies filming here.

"The money comes into the Town directly for permitting parking spaces, and if you need five parking spaces it's no big deal, we'll block them off. But if you need a whole street then there's a fee because the DPW and the police are out there making sure nobody parks there," he said. "Then there's the location fees that they pay to the owners of the properties like the owner of the mansion where they filmed, and the Elks Club got money for the three days they filmed. They also used one side of the Elks for doing makeup and the other side they used for feeding folks and they got money for that as well. And that's just the direct stuff. There's ancillary stuff too."

Cardoni said the film crew he worked with on Thug was still in Town, at least as far as last week, and they intimated that if they have locations viable to shooting in Norwood, they're definitely interested in returning in the future.

Now, to attract new film companies, Busler said they're using technology.

He said what they do is look at it from the point of view of a location scout. If they're looking to shoot in Massachusetts, they're not going to search every town's town hall or high school or park, they're going to search for stock photos on Google. So the two approached it that way and put up enticing locations based on what film companies have needed in the past, and are basically setting up Norwood to be search engine optimized (SEO).

"People type in, 'historic church,' or 'beautiful town center,'" Busler said. "They're not looking for Norwood specifically. Like if they're looking for a photographer, they're not looking up Dan Busler photography."

Though Busler quipped he wished they would.

Claims of improper conduct substantiated

Dennis Cawley

Ramanda Morgan was hired in 2005 by the Town of Norwood initially as a switchboard operator. During her employ with the Town, Ms. Morgan held a number of positions, all appearing to be promotions, one would assume due to her being a good employee. Her final position held was Senior Administrative Assistant of the Zoning Board of Appeals. It should be noted that Ms. Morgan is Black and at the time as far as we know, the only Black employee working at Town Hall.

Mr. Paul Halkiotis was hired by the Town in May, 2014 as the Director of Planning & Economic Development. In his position he was a direct supervisor of Ms. Morgan. At a time in 2020 Ms. Morgan complained to the Chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, then Mr. Tom Brady, that she was having difficulties working with Mr. Halkiotis and had alerted her union representative and requested a meeting with Human Resources to file a complaint of a hostile work environment and to report some disparaging racial remarks made directly to her by Mr. Halkiotis. Subsequent to this, Mr. Brady submitted a written complaint to the Town's Board of Selectmen.

In summary, Mr. Brady's email detailed that, according to Ms. Morgan, Mr. Halkiotis constantly tells her the ZBA is useless, unprofessional, and constantly doesn't know what they're doing while at the same time keeps asking her, "why did you let them do that?", in essence blaming her for the actions of the ZBA. Ms. Morgan made it clear on multiple occasions that she doesn't instruct the Board, that she is an assistant only.

Brady's email goes on to state that, according to Ms. Morgan, that a pattern of harassment with Mr. Halkiotis started about three years ago when, during a Halloween celebration with former Town Manager John Carroll, Ms. Morgan, along with other Town employees, dressed up as Mr. Carroll, Ms. Morgan choosing to wear a gray beard and an old suit. According to Ms. Morgan, Mr. Halkiotis unsolicited, and in front of his assistant Patrick Deschenes, asked her, "are you wearing white face"? Mr. Halkiotis repeated the question when asked, placing Ms. Morgan in an "incredibly uncomfortable" position. Several months later Ms. Morgan said that she "dreaded" the decision to move her office to the open area of Mr. Halkiotis' office, and found working there extremely hostile and uncomfortable.

The Board of Selectmen, upon receiving Mr. Brady's email, hired a legal firm to investigate. The findings of the firm, Clifford & Kenny, LLP were documented and submitted to the Town and marked confidential. This document is the sole source of this column's information. It should be noted that copies of these findings, totaling 10 pages, were left on the windshields of cars during Monday night's Town Meeting at Norwood High School. The Norwood Police have been notified of this and it has yet to be determined who distributed the document on Monday.

Ms. Morgan, while being interviewed by the investigator assigned to the case, further alleged that Mr. Halkiotis has subjected her to disparate treatment based on her race. During the course of the investigation the law firm interviewed many witnesses including Cheryl Doyle, the former Chair of the Conservation Commission who alleged that Mr. Halkiotis made an inappropriate, gender-based comment to her, to the effect of "You should be home knitting." Ms. Doyle went on to state that "Mr. Halkiotis has a problem with women and authority" because of his condescending tone and body language when speaking with women. Ms. Doyle stated that Mr. Halkiotis has "yelled at me so many times" and does not respect her opinion because she is a female.

Clifford & Kenny, LLP, in their findings of fact, substantiated claims by Ms. Morgan including a comment by Mr. Al Goetz, Conservation Agent at the time that "he didn't treat her as equal," and another from Molly Kean, of Human Resources, who stated that during a meeting she attended with both Ms. Morgan and Mr. Halkiotis that Mr. Halkiotis "snapped" and she had to tell him "Paul, that's are serving," she said. "Another important part of this whole concept are the Gold Star Families."

Gold Star Families are families who have had an immediate family member serve and make the ultimate sacrifice in service for the United States of America.

"Over the years, it's been wonderful to see not only Gold Star Mothers, but also how Gold Star Families – sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles – how everyone who has come to understand the loss, the love and the gratitude for those people who give us the American way of life," Abdallah-Donohue said. "From the bottom of my heart, I want to thank those who came, those who participated and most of all, thank you to those who are protecting and have protected our way of life. Thank you."

U.S. Marine Corp. Lt. Col. Billy Rayne, of Roslindale, spoke during the event of the amazing experiences he had growing up in a military family.

"Military families are very special and I feel they are often overlooked," he said. "It's one thing to swear an oath to defend your country against all threats foreign and domestic, but it's another thing to drag your family along, to move from one duty station to the next, have the movers smash your stuff every three years, yank your kids from one school system to the next, and then watch as your spouse runs the household for months at a time while you're deployed, often in harm's way."

Rayne said if you have a loved one in the service, you're a part of the military family.

"Veterans share an unbreakable bond formed in hardship and trial, and the bonds between military families, although different, are just as special, and they unfold in different ways," he said.

Rayne emphasized that the biggest strengths of the U.S. Armed Forces is its people. He said while the armament counts, the training, dedication, commitment and culture of its people are the building blocks of what makes up the United States' biggest strengths.

"And this culture covers generations; past to present," he said. "When I was in, I used to get asked about Millennials. Older generations often worry that the next generation will not be up to the task. I couldn't disagree more. I have walked in the streets of Iraq and flown in the skies of Afghanistan with them, and the young women and men who serve today serve with the same honor, same sense of duty and they meet our enemies with the same grit and determination as any generation before them. That is because in the United States, we don't make Millennial Soldiers or Gen Z Marines. We just make soldiers, marines, sailors, airmen, coast guard and guardians."

Resident and Vietnam Veteran Gil Oullette said he comes to the Veterans Day celebration when he can, and added that though he likes the celebration, it's the day-to-day services that Mulvehill, his office and the Veterans Administration provides for veterans that really make the difference.

"Ted talked me into going to see the VA, because we've all had bad thoughts about the wars we've been in, but Ted does great for all of us, whether it's World War II vets, Korea vets, everyone, he does a great job and he's a good guy," he said. "He will bend over backwards for every vet."

Oullette said he felt that when he and his fellow Vietnam vets got back they had a really tough time and weren't treated well. He said that has now changed.

"I served in '66' and '67, which were tough years," he said. "We're treated a lot better now and I think it's great and I think it's because of Iraq and Afghanistan and people figured out that we were just doing what our country told us to do you know?"

Resident Stefani West and her children Libby and Noah have come out a few times before but this was their first since COVID-19.

"My friend Brenna is a girl scout in the parade," said Libby.

"We wanted to support the scouts that we know in the parade and we wanted to support the veterans in Town," said West. "And today you can't beat the weather and we think it's a great time."

Thirty-seven Norwood veterans representing five military branches were celebrated for their service and heroism during a Thursday afternoon luncheon ceremony on Nov. 10 at St. Catherine of Siena School in the heart of Norwood Center.

Included among them was Ted Mulvehill, the Town's veterans services director. The school honored him as the Man of the Year – although he nearly missed the moment because he was leading the Patriotic Rosary at the church.

This was the ninth annual event to thank local men and women who have served their country through song, poetry and a video tribute, and it has expanded in scope every year, according to Christine Falcone, the eighth-grade history teacher who organized the event.

“My former vice principal began the program with a little luncheon in 2012 with just a few selections of songs to what it is now,” she said of the 90-minute program, which was temporarily paused in 2020 due to the pandemic. “We switched it up to a breakfast for a few years, and for the past two years, it has been the afternoon program. It’s really such a lovely program and such a great way to celebrate our SCS veterans.”

The event included a salute to the flag led by the pre-kindergarten class, musical performances by the middle school choir as well as students in lower grades, prayers and poems. A video tribute shown near the end of the ceremony included messages from students of all ages as well as a teacher who shared memories of her father’s service in England as a gunner. Student council members described the role of each military branch in defending our nation.

Advisory Committee Chair Joseph Greeley also asked for a no vote, saying he felt the Town was moving too quickly and without an immediate plan for the properties. He also said he felt the properties have no real value for recreation and open space.

“There’s nothing, there’s no link with these pieces of property to any other open space with the possible exception of putting in expanded parking space for Hawes Pool,” he said.

Many members also spoke in favor of the proposal, citing Town’s desire to purchase the property in the past because it would allow more control over the area that is about to see a 25 percent increase in student population, as fifth graders will be moving into the new Coakley Middle School once it is complete in the next few years. Town Meeting Member and Airport Commissioner Michael Sheehan also spoke in favor of the proposal, saying having more control of the immediate area would make it safer for students in terms of potential vehicle collisions.

In other business Attorney Phil Macchi, representing Vance Property Group, asked that Articles 15 and 16, regarding a zoning change for the property at 259 Lenox St., be referred back to the petitioner. He said after losing the vote of approval from the Norwood Planning Board 3-2 they felt they could work to make it better. This vote came after a vote that took place when the petition was introduced in the spring at TM and then sent back to the Planning Board for review. Before that Town Meeting vote, the Planning Board approved the petition.

He said his clients would be looking to come back at some point, probably in the spring, with a new proposal and more support from the Town.

“The Town has spoken as to what they would want to do process wise, and we would like to be a part of that process and continue to work with the Planning Board to come up with the right reason, the price and the right time,” he said. “We do want to have the opportunity to come back to you without prejudice in the future, hopefully as part of the Planning Board process, but should something happen, we would like to reserve our rights to go with another process. That’s really it. We think we have a great project and we think Norwood’s an awesome Town and we’re looking forward to being part of the community and developing the site in the future.”

Town Meeting member and Sustainability Commission Chair Peter McFarland lamented the referral, saying he felt it was a shame that the withdrawal took place.

“This will be a prime piece of property in the right place with the right project and something we should move on,” he said. “This is something where we’re re-purposing already developed land, removing toxins on the property, increasing living space where we’re talking about a whole lot of asphalt. It’s disappointing and I hope to see this come back soon.”

The other Town Meeting Articles were voted in favor on all counts. They are as follows:

Article 1 granted an easement to National Grid to allow them to connect a gas line to new boilers at the Balch School. Progress Norwood Member and Town Meeting Member Katie Neal-Rizzo asked that the Town use this opportunity when interacting with National Grid to advocate for them to fix several significant gas leaks around Town for safety and environmental reasons.

Article 2 increases fees for Town Clerk actions. Amending vital records went from $25 to $40, marriage intention fees went from $30 to $40, business certificates went from $20 to $30, street listings went from $5 to $10 for Norwood residents and from $10 to $20 for out-of-Towners, and Town By-Law Books went up from $4 to $10.

Article 3 accepted streets from private entities to be managed by the Town, including Ivy Circle, Katie’s Way, Kings Road, Lancelot Court, Power Lane and Silver Street.

Article 9 approved the Capital Outlay plan for a total of $14.5 million in borrowing, free cash, ambulance receipts, water rates, general fund and unexpected bond proceeds.

Article 10 appropriated $670,000 from the Automatic Meter Reading (AMR) Receipts to reduce water rates for residents.

Article 11 appropriated $705,000 for the replacement and installation of new AMRs for residents, as the older ones have slowed down and are reporting less water usage than is actually used.

Article 13 approved the appropriation of $250,000 for the creation of a Town Master Plan. The impetus behind this is that developers have been, piece by piece and parcel by parcel, directing how the Town has grown with little or no input from residents. This Master Plan is aimed at directing the wants of residents in future development.

enough.” Ms. Kean went on to state that after the meeting she apologized to Ms. Morgan for Mr. Halkiotis’ behavior. In that same meeting, Deborah Frangioso, Administrative Assistant, said that Mr. Halkiotis was angry that his authority was being questioned and that Mr. Halkiotis spoke to her in an arrogant manner and that he would not have spoken to her in that way if she were a male.

There were other claims made against Mr. Halkiotis during the interviews and substantiated by the investigator. However, included in their conclusions were findings that there was insufficient credible evidence that Mr. Halkiotis violated the Town’s Discrimination and Harassment policy relative to the “white Face” comment but did violate the Town’s Professional Conduct Policy. The investigator also found that Mr. Halkiotis did not violate the Town’s Policy against Harassment regarding the “stick to your knitting” claim though again, it was a violation of the Town’s conduct policy. Other instances of Mr. Halkiotis violating the Town’s conduct policy were also noted.

Recommendations by the law firm included that Mr. Halkiotis be issued a formal written warning for multiple violations of the Town’s Professional Conduct policy, that he undergo mandatory racial and gender sensitivity training as well as undergo mandatory management/communication training to assist with weaknesses in managing his staff. It was also recommended that Mr. Halkiotis be given additional supervision by Town Manager Tony Mazzucco.

Ms. Morgan is no longer employed by the Town of Norwood having tendered her resignation.

tended the event, including veterans, family members and friends. As they entered the hallway, they traveled through what Falcone called "the Hallway of Heroes." Posters made by students covered with flags, hearts and messages of thanks blanketed the walls of the hallway and the auditorium.

"The Hallway of Heroes was started by a former teacher, and we have continued it throughout the years," Falcone explained. "The middle school students stayed after school and helped to arrange the pictures on red and blue paper and then hang them and flags on the wall."

Along with the pictures are words from the students about what veterans' service meant to them and the ways that they try to exemplify the soldiers' bravery in their own lives.

In his invocation, Rev. Stephen Donohoe, the pastor of St. Catherine of Siena Parish, stressed the importance of service, noting that Jesus said, "There's no greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friend." He thanked them for serving on land, sea and air, whether at home or abroad in the desert sun or in the most frigid of temperatures.

"The service that you provide is beyond yourselves, to your country at large and to the greater good," he said.

Principal Beth Tanner noted that she had hoped to honor Mulvehill at the ceremony with the St. Catherine of Siena School's Man of the Year.

"In Norwood and here in the Commonwealth, Mr. Mulvehill does so much work as the veterans services director to honor all of the veterans in Norwood and surrounding towns," she said. "Today, I just wanted to honor him, but God had a different plan."

Mulvehill arrived as the ceremony came to a close and was able to receive his award and congratulations.

Tanner noted that upon graduating from Norwood High School, Mulvehill enlisted in the Air Force and served in active duty from 1972 to 1976. He is the valedictorian and an honors graduate of the Defense Language Institute in Monterey, California, where he trained to be an Air Force intelligence operative and a linguist. He went on to serve in the Air Force Security Services. Among his accomplishments, he has served as the commander of the Norwood American Legion Post many times, and he has served as the district chaplain since 1995 and as president of the Norwood Veterans Council.

"This is so cool," Mulvehill said humbly as he accepted the award. "I love this stuff."

Veterans were treated to sandwiches from D&G Deli, beverages, and patriotic-themed gourmet cookies donated by Merry Go Sweets, a bakery in East Walpole that is owned by the mother of an eighth-grade SCS student.

"I'm a Vietnam vet," said veteran Richard Lang, who attended the event with his wife, Elaine Kelly. "When we came back from Vietnam, we weren't treated like this. I'm not whining or anything. I think it's good to teach the kids to appreciate the men and women who have served."

"I'm just getting such a kick out of this," Kelly added. "This is so beautiful. Even the drawings the students made on the placemats are just adorable."

"It's very nice of them to do this," said Tom Healey, a former history and political science teacher at Canton High School. "It's important for students to learn about history and the importance of service, especially in the age we are living in now. It's also great to see some familiar faces, and some of them are wearing their uniforms."

CHECK YOUR SMOKE AND CARBON MONOXIDE ALARMS

Residents are encouraged to check their smoke and carbon monoxide alarms to ensure that they are working properly and to change the devices' batteries, if needed. Smoke alarms that are properly installed and maintained are vital in reducing deaths and injuries due to fire by giving you time to escape.

Today's smoke alarms are more technologically advanced to respond to a multitude of fire conditions, yet mitigate false alarms. Residents are reminded that smoke and carbon monoxide alarms are not interchangeable and should never be disconnected.

For questions on smoke or carbon monoxide alarms, contact the Norwood Fire Department at 781-440-5212.

HELP LIGHT UP THE CIRCLE OF HOPE

The Norwood Circle of Hope Foundation invites you to help light up the Circle of Hope by purchasing a luminary to be lit on Saturday evening, December 3, on the Town Common from 4-6pm. Continuing a Norwood tradition begun 21 years ago, the members of the Circle of Hope Foundation say the luminaries are a symbol of Life, Hope, the Season, and Remembrance of others. Last year more than 2000 luminaries were lit on the town common.

Luminaries can be purchased for $5.00 each by sending your payment to COH, PO BOX 421, Norwood, MA 02062 or by stopping by Murph's Place Restaurant at 58 Broadway, Norwood. You may include a brief message of life, hope, the season or remembrance to be written on the luminary. The candles will be lit beginning at 4:00 pm and the Foundation members welcome residents and friends to come out and see this beautiful site.

The Norwood Circle of Hope Foundation is a non-profit organization established to support Norwood residents who need assistance due to a catastrophic medical occurrence. Since its founding in 1998 the Foundation has provided over $1,000,000 to Norwood residents in need of assistance. The Foundation was established in 1998 in memory of Michelle Kennedy, a young Norwood resident, who suffered with leukemia. During Michelle's battle the entire Norwood community, many of whom did not know Michelle, joined together and it is in that spirit that the Circle of Hope Foundation continues.

MUSICAL SUNDAYS CONCERT SERIES CONTINUES

The third concert in our Fall 2022 series, held on Sunday, November 20, will be renowned artist Marc Berger. Marc's life has been about pursuing twin passions: creating, recording and performing his original songs and exploring remote areas of the American West. He's performed at Austin's SXSW Music Festival and the Kerrville Folk Festival, opened for Bob Dylan and other national acts, and his song The Last One was a staple of Richie Havens' concerts. Marc's critically acclaimed album, RIDE, a collection of songs all having to do with the romance of the West has received national airplay and been licensed by STARBUCKS for worldwide in-store airplay. At this special concert, Marc will perform songs from the album and share some unforgettable stories about his experiences as an easterner in the mountain and desert West.

WRITING FROM PERSONAL ARCHIVES WITH GRACE TALUSAN

The Morrill Memorial Library is honored to host acclaimed author and memoirist Grace Talusan for an in-person writing workshop, "Writing from Personal Archives," on Wednesday, November 30 at 7:00 pm in the Simoni Room. Join Grace Talusan, author of the award-winning memoir "The Body Papers," for a generative writing workshop and lecture about using the material of our lives to write personal narrative.

About the author: Grace Talusan's memoir, "The Body Papers," won the Restless Books Prize for New Immigrant writing and the Massachusetts Book Award for Nonfiction. In 2022, she was awarded fellowships from United States Artists, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Brother Thomas Fund, and as of this autumn, joined the English Department at Brown University to teach nonfiction writing.

KIA EV6 GT-Line AWD

It seems like car companies have an ample supply of electric vehicles and here is another example from KIA. The KIA EV6 GT-Line AWD. First look and your looking at a very modern and sleek car. The steel matte gray finish adds even more to the modern look. It has taken many years for buyers to look at the KIA brand. If I did not have the opportunity to drive a new car like this KIA and others I would not consider cars like this. We could argue the point internal engine verses electric power. There are pros and cons for both. Both have excellent features for drivers that fit into the driving requirements. The all electric EV6GT AWD has a range of approximately 310 miles. The EV6 drives and handles like a true sports sedan under any driving condition. Standard equipment such as heated steering wheel and seats, 12.3 inch display, all driver safety features also included. It has Super sport seats as well as nice audio system. There is instant heat from the heat pump system.

KIA has always been known for their warranty. The electric battery has a 100,000 mile limited warranty. If your driving habits and daily miles fall into the electric car spec's this is a car that needs to be on your list. The matte paint and GT-Line are the only 2 options full MSRP is $58,105.00 all in.

Miracle Prayer
Dear Heart of Jesus, in the past I have asked You for many favours. This time, I ask you this very special one (mention favour). Take it, dear Heart of Jesus, and place it within Your own broken heart where Your Father sees it. Then, in His merciful eyes, it will become Your favour, not mine. Amen. Say for three days, promise publication and favour will be granted.
—D.J.

apple juice, rolls, and a lot of other items that they might use for other meals," she said.

And Norwood has been very generous over the years. Marybeth said just last year, they managed to raise $7,500 for families in need.

"Just checks and cash to me," she said. "People are really generous. Even over the last few years with the economy struggling and COVID we didn't think we were going to have good years, but they turned out to be the best year ever. Even during the pandemic when we couldn't make these baskets, we still had volunteers."

Marybeth said she and her husband John are ending the program this year. She said they are getting up in age, and they've just, "run out of steam."

"The shopping, the picking up, the organizing, it's just an awful lot. We were retired but now we're working again and it's just a lot on us," she said. "This will be our last year. But if someone in the neighborhood would be crazy enough to pick it up, that would be great, but for all intents and purposes, this is our last year."

When asked if they would help anyone willing to take over, she was emphatic. "Absolutely!" she said. "But this takes a great deal of time, effort and muscle. We have the time, but we're running out of muscle."

The couple said they could not have done what they have over the past 35 years without the help of their family, friends, neighbors and willing volunteers. Marybeth said they started years ago with only a couple of boxes in the driveway and one or two volunteers. Now they do about 30 or 40, and the infrastructure they've built allows them to produce these boxes much more efficiently, making the time spent more enjoyable. She said it's a great feeling increasing how much they can give to make a difference in more families' lives.

"Without our children and our children's spouses and our friends, this would never have taken off," she said. "So this isn't about John and Marybeth McDonough, this is about the mission. We are our brothers' keeper. We do it because we sit down to a lovely meal on Thanksgiving and there are people just across the rotary from us who don't have that luxury, and we don't take that for granted. Never ever do we take what we have been blessed with for granted".

If you're looking to volunteer, shoot the couple a message at MMcDonough54@aol.com. The couple will be rolling up their sleeves one last time this Saturday, so if you want to do it, now's the time.
