Rec. Dept. gets into the brine

The Norwood Recreation Department held an event last week with Jr. Play and the Morrill Memorial Library to show more than 100 students what the outside and inside of a whale looks like. The department put on two shows to the delight of all involved.

Forbes Task Force attempting to finalize sale details

Staff Reporting

The Forbes Hill Task Force met on Aug. 2 for about two and a half hours with all members present. Town Planner Paul Halkiotis began the group discussion by presenting his thoughts as to the decisions the group needed to make before the construction of a Request for Proposal (RFP) or an Invitation to Bid process could begin.

Halkiotis, citing that the general consensus of the Town being to sell the property, asked whether or not details should be provided to potential buyers in the RFP as to what is important to the community and how should the group weigh the submissions made by responders.

Halkiotis explained that because Norwood has a split tax rate, those looking to develop commercial properties would represent 50 percent more tax revenue in the long term, than would residential developers. Halkiotis went on to describe potential commercial uses potentially including bio tech and life science companies like Moderna, that currently employs more than 200 people and is likely to add another 50 in the not too distant future. He also said that there has been talk about another life sciences building being constructed in close proximity to Moderna, and said this is an example of an economic cluster, which could be beneficial to the Town. He used the Automile as another example of an economic cluster.

"I think we should rate proposals from these types of developers as top rank," said Halkiotis. Continuing with his ranking system thoughts, "Class A office buildings, mixed-use developments with commercial below and residential above would be ranked more highly than say retail. Do you (addressing the Task Force) agree with this kind of thinking?"

Task Force member Peter McFarland agreed that commercial would be the most advantageous, and member Judy Langone appeared to concur.

ZBA votes in favor of medical marijuana dispensary

Mary Ellen Gambon
Staff Reporter

The Zoning Board of Appeal (ZBA) on Tuesday night, Aug. 7, voted 4-1 in favor of the application for the Middlesex Integrative Medicine (MIM)'s special permit to become a licensed medical marijuana dispensary. It will be located at 76 Astor Ave.

The meeting was located at Town Hall's Room 12 and was attended by more than 25 people, who spilled out into the hallway to await the decision.

"This was a hard decision to make," said Chairman Patrick J. Mulvehill. "It was the first decision of its kind in the Town of Norwood, so there was nothing like it on the books. And now it is falling into the state's lap."

He described his methodology as being "an essence of fairness."

"The applicant has followed all the procedures of the law," Mulvehill said. "I was concerned in the beginning with it being within several feet of the Goldfish School or learning center, or whatever you want to call it. But there will be no congregating out there. And with Velocity, at no point will they be congregating outside."

Shaw's Plaza construction set for Nov. completion

The construction going on at the Norwood Plaza, known colloquially as the Shaw's Plaza, is causing some disruptions to residents shopping there, but officials said they hope the project will be completed in the fall.

The scope of the construction includes replacing the entire pavement in the parking lot, and shoppers and residents in the area are concerned that this would take up more time than necessary.

Resident Lisa Hargis said she changed her shopping habits because of the disruption, and she said she feels the businesses are feeling the strain. She added she doesn't see why night work wasn't an option.

"I talked to the guy when they first started and he said they wouldn't let them do it at night," she said. "The Town said they couldn't do it at night, and when they first started taking the pavement off, one of the foremen had to stop all the work while the seniors went in and out. It was pretty bad."

ConCom approves Moderna, tables Neponset

Staff Reporting

The Aug. 1 Conservation Commission (ConCom) meeting began with a brief conversation relative to a continuation of a July 19 public hearing regarding Moderna Therapeutics, located at 100 Tech Dr. in the Upland Woods limited manufacturing subdivision.

The ConCom's involvement in the issue dealt with the proposed renovation of a 136,000 square-foot building and some external improvements. Specifically, the ConCom NOI (notice of intent) is for the security fence planned for the property; a small portion of is proposed to pass through a section of wetlands containing an intermittent stream.

Moderna requested fencing through the wetlands due to security concerns. The Commission, upon reviewing the plans, requested that the plan should make the stream crossing more visible, and a concern that the fencing passed too close to a drainage swale.

At the Aug. 1 meeting, Conservation Agent Al Goetz made clear the revised plans met the conditions and the plan as submitted was approved by a unanimous vote.

The second discussion of note concerned the continuation of a hearing, also from the July 19 meeting, regarding 429 Neponset St., which has been a work in progress since 2005 and currently also has ongoing business with the Zoning Board of Appeals regarding an application extension for the project. As explained by Goetz, the issue to be dealt with was that the project order had expired and was refilled in order to remove and replace the deteriorated foundations from five of the six buildings on the site.

senting developer Joseph Robicheau (who was present with his daughter Chrisanne Craven) – once again at the hearing, was back before the board to present changes to the proposal relative to the ConCom's concerns regarding drainage and erosion. The Commission sought a 50-foot buffer zone to be marked (both 25 and 100-foot zones had already been marked), and for erosion control to be updated to present day standards, which the Commission agreed should be in the form of a compost sock and silt fence.

The plan presented a 50-foot buffer zone as requested, and added a drainage system to the plan. Agent Al Goetz appeared to be satisfied with the changes made. However, member Joe DiMaria had some issues with the plan, specifically with what was not noted. Discharge areas were not designated and, according to DiMaria, the plan didn't even have a plan key.

"I have no idea where these drains go to, it looks like it all went out into the street...you don't even have a key. I mean, you need to do that so that we have some idea what they are and where the drainage is" said DiMaria. "There is no specific area

Time for Task Force to eliminate tasks

It was a bit disheartening to learn that the Forbes Hill Task Force may not have anything of substance ready for Town Meeting in November.

At its Aug. 2 meeting, it became clear that the group as a whole seems cohesive and open to all ideas to move the divestiture of the property forward. However, observers couldn't help but notice that some members seem more intent on getting the "For Sale" sign up on the property as quickly as possible, while others were less inclined to rush into things just for the sake of having something ready for Town Meeting by November.

During discussion as to what specifics should be disclosed to potential bidders in the development of the RFP, so many variables were thrown on the table that at one point Town Manager Tony Mazzucco felt it necessary to query members as to what the fundamental direction was they wanted to head in.

"What you really need to decide is whether or not the Town is looking to redevelop the land, or just trying to sell it. That is the fundamental question the Task Force has to answer," said Mazzucco. "The RFP route gives you the most control, but is limiting in its design, or is the land just surplus property and we put it out to sell it."

Mazzucco's comments made clear to this observer that the Task Force was floundering and falling significantly behind in their work. Members have had more than enough organizational meetings, they have had presentations by experts in the field of project development; they have put a survey in the hands of residents interested in responding and already have the results of the survey at their disposal, and they already know that Town Meeting wants something tangible to chew on come November. Yet, Mazzucco at this stage is still asking them to decide which direction they should be focusing on?

There is an old expression in business called "Paralysis by Analysis," and the fear here is that this is what the Task Force is experiencing. It is late summer and though all of the group are hard working and dedicated, the disposition of the property seems no further advanced than it did in the spring, and the body language of at least some of them signifies frustration.

For example, a decision should have been made well before now that the mansion had to be protected from demolition or not through RFP language created by the group. Yet, they haven't even decided on that yet. Some used language expressing dismay at the old girl being torn down or desecrated through re-design, while others were more pragmatic that those decisions should be left by developers who will put the most money in the Town's pockets.

Bill Plasko wavered on the building's demise, expressing it should be a community decision, while Ted Clark represented the less nostalgic of the group.

"We are trying to recoup our investment; the plan was never to save the mansion so we should not put a restriction on it," said Clark.

A vote should have been taken right there and then to either try to preserve the mansion or not, yet no action was taken. If not then, when? Town Meeting has placed their trust in this group to make decisions and they are not doing so, almost in fear of angering or disappointing TM. They need to get over that.

The Forbes Hill Task Force will never make everyone happy. When they present their recommendations at Town Meeting, a significant percentage of TM will criticize whatever they recommend. It is the nature of government. But coming before TM in November with little more than a progress status signifying significant decisions still have to be made will disappoint everyone. And the most painful part of this whole affair is that for every month that goes by, tens of thousands of dollars are expended on maintenance and debt service. It is time for this Committee to trust their judgments and start casting votes.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

RE: Narrowing of Plimpton Ave.

To Mr Tom Maloney
Chairman, Norwood Board of Selectmen
Mr Maloney,

I just arrived home tonight and was amazed at the sight I saw on Plimpton Ave. The contractor (Susi) has moved the berms of this already narrow street a foot and a half in towards the street on both sides. This will narrow Plimpton Ave three full feet. This is completely unacceptable. This street narrows every winter with snow banks as it is. During the worst part of the winter, cars need to pull to the side and stop as they navigate through this busy narrow street. This will make Plimpton Ave effectively a one way street during the winter months. It will also be made a dangerous street throughout the entire year at any time.

This contractor needs to correct this before this job is completed. I have enclosed pictures for you to view. This is shoddy work, at this neighborhood's and Town's expense. I shall speak to the contractor myself if they show up for work on the weekend. I will surely do so Monday morning as they arrive. I will do so because this needs to be addressed and corrected immediately.

You will note I have also cc'd Mark Ryan, Andy Murphy, and The Town Manager. I will be reaching out to them all on Monday morning on these matters. Please contact me at your earliest convenience on this concern.

Thank you.

pressed about how everything was going to be set up."

ZBA member Philip W. Riley countered that, despite his counterparts' research and testimony, the facility does not follow the intention of the zoning code.

"There is a thin thread of evidence that it would benefit the people of Norwood," he said. "The adverse evidence presented was a letter from the Board of Health that not only suggested the adverse effects, but directly said there were more negative social and community effects. It is hard to make a determination based on that."

Riley said that a specific bylaw of the code spells out "and other areas where children congregate."

"That is what I think the intent of the law is," Riley said. "And children will be congregating here."

Riley voted against the measure.

"I do understand where Mr. Riley is coming from," said ZBA member Paul W. Eysie. "He has a great legal mind. But if a court challenges it (the decision), can we defer to Town Counsel?"

"If the decision is considered to be arbitrary or capricious, and towns will create a postage stamp, that would create a fact basis for invalidating the zoning," said Town Counsel David DeLuca.

Eysie added that the dispensary would add $300,000 of revenue to the Town.

night for us," said Canton attorney Richard Staiti. "It is a great victory for the area because a lot of people can benefit from medicinal marijuana. The Town reflected on its decision and gave it some serious consideration. It is a great achievement for us and for the Town of Norwood."

Mulvehill said that, as he spoke to residents leading up to the decision, he thought their perception of MIM was unfair.

"This facility is being stereotyped as some sort of haven for drug use," he said. "This is a pre-conceived notion from their childhoods. We are here to discuss a zoning issue, not the merits of the establishment. I have a personal friend who benefited from this treatment."

The main issue in this case – in which there were two previous hearings this summer before this decision was made – was the proximity of the proposed dispensary in relation to two local businesses: the Goldfish Swim School (128 Carnegie Row) and Velocity Sports Performance (11 Morgan Dr.)

According to Town bylaw, marijuana dispensaries cannot be within 200 feet of a residential district and cannot be within 500 feet of a school, recreation area, daycare center, church or area where children usually congregate. Both businesses fall within 500 feet of 76 Astor Ave.

Staiti demonstrated in the previous meetings that MIM was beyond any residential district because it was proposed for one of the Town's two marijuana overlay districts, according to Mulvehill.

The proposed site falls within one of the two medical marijuana overlay districts in the Town, this one located in the Vanderbilt district, located in the area of the Vanderbilt Club, the Feisty Greek restaurant and the Children of America Norwood Building.

Mulvehill said that Staiti effectively argued that neither Goldfish nor Velocity qualifies "as a school, daycare center or church," because then the law would prevent its licensure.

"Mr. Staiti dotted all of the I's and crossed all of the T's," added ZBA Board member Richard Perry.

ZBA member Barbara A. Kinter described how she originally opposed the facility out of concern for the children of Norwood. Because of this, she went to the area and toured the proposed site for MIM.

"In my book, there was enough space outside," she said. "But when I got inside (the proposed facility space), I was more im-where you show parking, I hate to make assumptions," he went on. "What percentage of this lot is paved as opposed to open space?"

Susi respectfully pointed out that the purpose of this plan was not to deal with paving and parking.

DiMaria took exception to that and said that because what the plan proposed was essentially all new, that detail needed to be provided.

A suggestion was made to table the discussion until their next meeting due to the Commission only receiving the revised plans in the last 48 hours. Chrisanne Craven seemed disturbed that the new requests being made on the plan presented wasn't requested at the prior meeting.

"These plans now are based on approved partial completion plans; the plans being shown now are no different than they were then. I'm not sure why those plans aren't available to you now."

"Because we can't use them. You are defunct. Which means you have to start again in order for these to be part of the record," said Member Cheryl Doyle.

"That's fine" said Craven, "but at the last meeting you said you wanted to see a 25-foot buffer and you wanted to see the drainage on the site, no one said you wanted to see anything beyond that."

"Because you have to label plans," said Doyle. "The entire board needs to be able to read the plans. It's not rocket science; you have to be able to label plans."

After a detailed discussion as to what is expected to be detailed on the plans at the next meeting, scheduled for Aug. 15, a motion was made to continued the public hearing.

PBCC awards masonry bid for St. Gabriel's Chapel

Matt MacDonald
Staff Reporter

The Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC) met on Thursday evening, Aug. 2 at Town Hall for a session that ran about an hour and a half.

Chairman Bob Silk, Vice Chairman Bill Kinsman, Ted Callahan, and Steve O'Connor were present for the PBCC. Town Contract Administrator Cathy Carney was also present.

In a departure from recent meetings, the focus of the night was – in substance and spirit – squarely on the St. Gabriel's Chapel restoration project rather than on the paused Town Hall renovation project.

Project designer Dale Gienapp (Gienapp Design) and OPM (owner's project manager) team John Racine and David Greene of RGB Architects appeared before the PBCC to continue going over masonry bids for the Chapel.

At the July 26 meeting, they had begun to address the low bid – from MJS Construction – as well as a second low bid from PJ Spillane, with the plan to look into them in more detail in order to award the contract.

Racine – having spoken with MJS, checked their references, and looked into its subsequent bid information – had this to say about his findings:

"We feel like he's (MJS) qualified to do this work at a smaller scale, and we feel that – for this scale – he hasn't done anything quite this size in value and manpower issues."

Racine went on to add that "we feel he could have a real challenge to get the project exterior done prior to the winter and – not carrying (winter) conditions (in its bid) – it's going to increase the issues that he may have."

The masonry portion of the Chapel restoration is targeted for completion by mid-November or Thanksgiving at the latest, with Racine saying that MJS estimated a four month project with a crew of three to four, with masons being drawn from the union hall.

Racine mentioned the booming construction industry and the resulting difficulty in finding skilled help – as well as MJS's tendency to finish projects behind schedule – as main concerns regarding its bid.

Callahan – speaking of these things and project delays that can occur – was more direct in expressing his reservations:

"If any of these calamities happen and it tumbles into the wintertime, we're going to be in terrible shape."

"I think the Town will be okay..." Racine started to respond before Callahan cut him off.

"No, the Town won't be okay because we're very concerned that this is not just any building... The reason we're doing all of this intelligence here is to try to make sure we get it right and – right now – I'm not feeling that we're going down that path in this particular instance."

In contrast, the second low bidder – PJ Spillane – lists 120 staff members and much experience with similarly-valued projects as well as historical construction work.

In its bid, it anticipated seven to 10 workers for the ex-

"We could put forth a very active recruitment effort, get the Economic Development Committee more involved," said Langone, though she didn't want to completely write off some kind of mixed-use with home ownership included. "We have a lot to offer and we can put a nice presentation together."

Member Allan Howard ranked a commercial focus first followed closely by owner occupied residential, but wanted to leave the door open to rental units for seniors. "Senior housing, in my opinion, would be the only area that should allow for rental apartments. However, commercial is a no brainer and the way to go."

Expanding on the residential discussion, Halkiotis offered his opinions on how to rank those proposals. "It is very difficult for your kids to stay in Town or move back to Town; we need affordable starter housing more than we need senior housing. I urge you to consider future generations. So, how do we want to prioritize residential proposals?"

In general, the group appeared to lean toward starter homes though no one was willing to place restrictions at the RFP stage.

"Let the market decide, I don't support any age restrictions on housing," said member Steve Keefe.

A discussion then followed regarding if and how the Town may want to protect the Forbes Mansion in any kind of sale of the property. Though the group agreed placing language in the RFP may be too restrictive, all were concerned with the historic building's future.

Member Bill Plasko suggested language in the RFP to reflect that the building could only be torn down should a structural engineer determine it to be unsafe and could fall down, and that any work to the building must be architecturally consistent with the structure. "I think it would be a shame to see that old building torn down. If we don't do anything, there is a good chance developers would determine to tear it down. I think it should be a community decision whether to allow that or not."

Member Ted Clark said he would be severely disappointed if it was torn down, but was fearful of restrictions. "We are due to the amount of work necessary to put one together without knowing if the Town is really serious about selling the property at all. He also went on to question the legalities of not establishing restrictive zoning up front. "We don't even really have the authority to sell it yet, without the zoning you are really going to discourage a lot of bidders."

Halkiotis made clear his differences with Plasko in this regard. "I don't want to limit the development options of the site. Mr. Plasko and I have gone back and forth on this and I respectfully disagree with him. It would be difficult to create zoning that would allow out-of-the-box projects we may have not even thought about yet, but would work well at the site."

Town Manager Tony Mazzucco, having been quiet during most of the evening, was queried by Allan Howard as to his thoughts.

"What you really need to decide is whether or not the Town is looking to redevelop the land, or just trying to sell it. That is the fundamental question the Task Force has to answer," said Mazzucco.

"The RFP route gives you the most control, but is limiting in its design, or is the land just surplus property and we put it out to sell it."

The Task Force set a date of August 16th to continue discussion on all of the issues brought forth.

Town bylaw, not a zoning bylaw – and that no construction work can proceed in a residential neighborhood. The plaza itself is a General Business Zoning District, but – with the exception of the Norwood Public Safety Complex and the nearby Dunkin' Donuts – the surrounding area is a General Residence Zoning District.

Chubert confirmed that the general contractor for the project, Highland Development out of Medford, did request approval for night time paving, but he said the Norwood Board of Selectmen invoked the Town bylaw, and the Norwood Police Department, for which he said has jurisdiction in enforcing Town bylaws, did not budge either.

"(Highland) did reach out to the Town to see if the Town would entertain evening paving, and because of the proximity of the residential abutters on Monroe and Rock Streets, they declined the offer," Chubert said.

The bylaw prohibits heavy noise of any kind in a residential neighborhood from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. Chubert said the scope of the project includes paving of the parking lot and a re-facing of the plaza.

"They're doing the paving in four phases, and we're in the first of those four," he said. "They're hoping to have the job completed by, at the very latest, mid November."

Chubert said the Board of Selectmen did not want to give a precedent for night time paving, as other projects down the line could say that, if they allowed it here, why not elsewhere.

"I wouldn't want to be listening to jackhammers at all hours of the night if I lived on Rock Street either," he said.

Resident Bob Colleran said he doesn't see it as too much of a disruption.

"Well, it's not affected me much, a couple of times I had to go down the other end of Shaw's to get to the door, but they opened that up now," he said. "I usually don't use any stores but Shaw's, and it's not much of a hindrance to me."

Resident Lisa Dufrane pointed out that half of the lot, at least in the afternoon last Friday, was almost completely full and folks were having trouble parking. She also pointed out that the bus taking seniors from the Norwood Senior Center to get their groceries is also having some slight difficulty navigating the lot.

"This is an abomination," she said. "This is absolutely outrageous, do one at a time, but not both. Do the construction for the storefronts and then the parking lot. The parking lot first would make more sense, and I'm disabled, seniors can't get around. It's not a good thing."

Dufrane said it's definitely having a noticeable effect on the businesses.

"I just came from TJ Maxx, and there were three of us in there," she said. "All of them are affected."

Resident Mary Clair said she

felt that if nighttime paving was an option, it could be done much faster.

"If they did it overnight, they would have it done by now," she said. "This kind of stuff would get done so fast in the real world, but for some reason this is not the real world. I think it's an annoyance, I come here every day and I walk it."

Clair added she saw a senior driver go through the barrier onto the dug up side of the parking lot.

"She went through the barrier and all the dirt and went through the opposite side," she said.

Chubert did say if night time paving was approved, it would be done much quicker, though not to the point where they would have completed work now.

"In a perfect world, it would have been nice if they could pave at night, because they could bang it out in half the time," he said.

GENTLE CHAIR YOGA

How does yoga work? Spend a relaxing, fun, and informative hour with physician yogi Dr. Hari Kirin as she presents, "Calm, with Energy: How Yoga Works," on Wednesday August 29 at 7:00 pm. Learn how we are actually more "wired" for relaxation than for stress, and experience "chair yoga" and meditation tools for everyday use. This low key class is for anyone. No mats or pretzel postures, just learning, breathing, moving, (and a few laughs) in a chair. Wear comfortable clothing and bring a bottle of water if you'd like; space is limited. Please register by calling 781-769-0200 x110, emailing norprograms@minlib.net, or visiting the Reference or Information Desk.

AUTHOR VISIT AND RAKHI CRAFT PROGRAM

New England author Nandini Bajpai will visit the Morrill Memorial Library for a book talk, story time, craft program on Tuesday August 21 at 3:30 pm in the library's Simoni Room. Nandini Bajpai is an author of books for children and teens such as "Red Turban White Horse," "Starcursed," "Rishi and the Karmic Cat," and "Let's Make Some Juice." Originally from New Delhi, most of Nandini's books have been published in India, but her next book, "A Match Made in Mehendi," will be published by Little, Brown & Co next Spring.

Nandini's program will take place before one of her favorite festivals: RakshaBandhan. RakshaBandhan is the festival of sibling love celebrated across India, and in 2018 it falls on Sunday August 26. Nandini will help us celebrate by leading a craft where we make Rakhi bracelets to give as gifts. And, if the attendees are interested, Nandini will even give us a storytime!

All materials will be provided for the Rakhi craft and all ages are welcome. Registration is required. To sign up, please call 781-769-0200 x225, email norchild@minlib.net, or visit the library.

LUNCH & LEARN: DIGITAL DISASTERS

In her next Lunch & Learn workshop on Wednesday, August 15 from 12-1 pm, Technology Librarian Alli Palmgren will discuss "Your Digital Disaster Plan." How will you store your very important documents securely in a digital format so that you and your loved ones can access them if disaster strikes? From natural disasters to end of life planning to everyday forgetfulness, everyone should have a plan in place for how to access your most vital documents. You've stockpiled canned goods and extra batteries – the next step is to prepare your digital resources. To sign up for this workshop, please call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, email norprograms@minlib.net, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk. Bring a bag lunch if you wish; dessert and beverages will be provided.

Turn the Page Book Group to discuss "Remarkable Creatures" The Morrill Memorial Library's Turn the Page Book Club will meet again on Wednesday, August 15 at 10 am and again at 7 pm to talk about Tracy Chevalier's "Remarkable Creatures." When Mary Anning uncovers an unusual fossilized skeleton in the cliffs near her home on the English coast, she sets the religious fathers on edge, the townspeople to vicious gossip, and the scientific world alight. Luckily, Mary finds an unlikely champion in prickly Elizabeth Philpot, and in the struggle to be recognized in the wider world, Mary and Elizabeth discover that friendship is their greatest ally. This book promises to be a great summer read! To sign up for this month's group, led by Charlotte Canelli and Irene Gotovich, please call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, fill out the form below, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk. Refreshments and beverages will be served.

All materials will be provided and space is limited. Registration is required and all ages are welcome. To sign up, please call the library at 781-769-0200 x110, email norprograms@minlib.net, or visit the Reference or Information Desk.

Sunanda Sahay on Thursday August 23 at 6:30 pm. Sunanda will be leading us on a journey through the history and creation of Mithila art. Mithila, or Madhubani, art is the ancient and traditional art form of Northern India, originally practiced by women and transferred to their daughters as a closely guarded secret, depicting mainly mythological stories and rites and rituals of daily life. The main theme is densely surrounded by nature and birds, making them integral motifs to the style. The evening will start with a presentation about Madhubani art and then Sunanda will lead the class in creating their own samples to take home. Sunanda Sahay has been painting in Mithila/Madhubani style for the last 20 years and has held exhibitions, workshops, artist-in-residency, talks, and interactive workshops at several museums (PEM, MFA, Danforth, Fitchburg art, Boston Children), schools, colleges, libraries, and various other community places. She is the recipient of the MCC Finalist Award (2010), Apprenticeship Award (2014, 2016), and has been part of various juried shows.

"The Ancient Art of Northern India" is brought to you with federal funds provided by the Institute of Museum and Library Services and administered by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners. This program is part of Norwood's Global Village, a grant being funded by the Library Services and Technology Act.

terior portion of the project and five for the interior, with the exterior taking three months to finish and the interior two.

Although RGB recommended that the PBCC might want to consider Spillane rather than MJS, the concern – as mentioned in the prior meeting – was the possibility of a protest.

The first motion to reject MJS's bid met with a 3-1 vote – missing the minimum 4 votes necessary for approval – because O'Connor felt uncomfortable with its language.

Consequently, the Committee reworked the language to reflect RGB's recommendation and the new motion passed unanimously.

This was followed by the motion to award Spillane the contract, which also passed unanimously.

In other Chapel business of note, Community Preservation Committee (CPC) Chair Joe Greeley spoke to the Committee and vendors of the CPC's $400,000 portion of the project, as well as the accounting of those funds and its visibility on the project.

Greeley explained, "If we had a Town Meeting in November, for instance, you (the PBCC) would present your side of it, but we likewise have that shared responsibility."

After some discussion, a general tracking plan was established to achieve these goals.

Notably missing from the meeting was extensive discussion regarding the pause in the Town Hall renovation project, which will be discussed in detail at the Aug. 7 Selectmen's meeting.

The next PBCC meeting is tentatively scheduled for Thursday Aug. 9 at 7:30 p.m.
