More money may be raised for concession stand

Those seeking to have a concession stand built at the new Norwood High School did not get the additional funding they were hoping for Monday night - the second night of Norwood's Special Town Meeting - but they did get the go-ahead to generate more money for the project on their own.

The article pertaining to the concession stand was the primary topic of debate when the Special Town Meeting's last few articles were heard on Monday, with the evening's installment of the meeting ending just before the customary cutoff time of 10:30 p.m.

A previous Town Meeting had resulted in the appropriation of $250,000 for the design and construction of the concession stand, but after extensive discussion this year, the Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC) said the stand could not be built to the standards the town desired without more funds. When Article 29, which pertained to the concession stand, came up, the Finance Commission recommended indefinite postponement, but the Board of Selectmen recommended a different approach.

Michael Lyons, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, recommended that a November, 2009 Town Meeting vote be amended to increase the funding available for the project to $350,000. He said the Selectmen had been shocked by the anticipated costs, but did not feel that building an inferior quality facility would serve the

Norwood pools no longer in compliance

New ADA regulations will require updates

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

New requirements related to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) will require changes to two public pools in Norwood, though it appears that those changes may only be possible on one of the pools for now.

Recreation Department Director Jerry Miller said recent updates to ADA regulations regarding swimming pools affect both the Hawes and Father Mac Pools. He noted that updated equipment had just been installed at the Father Mac Pool two years ago and the Hawes Pool a year later.

Under the new regulations, public pools are required to include handicapped access in the form of chairlifts or ramps, rather than just stairs with railings. The regulations were originally expected to go into effect on March 15, but the date was moved back to May 15.

"We are getting prepared to put equipment there to do what the stairs were designed to do," Miller said.

Miller said the Recreation Department was looking into what equipment could be acquired to meet the new regulations. And while the exact specifications of that equipment needed were not yet known, Miller said its cost was expected to be approximately $4,700 for each facility.

The new ADA regulations require that all pools provide at least one means of access into the water for those with disabilities, while pools with more than 300 linear feet of pool wall must have a second method of entry. As a primary means of access, all pools must have either a sloped entry/ramp, or a mechanical lift that can lower and raise people in and out of the pools.

While the logistics of meeting the new regulations were still being figured out, Miller said it was possible that only one of the pools could be brought into compliance in time for its opening this season.

"In the worst case scenario, we can only do one," Miller said, noting that he would recommend tackling the Hawes Pool first. "I don't have the final say in it. But that was going to be my recommendation for now."

Miller said he hoped the work could start on that pool by the end of the month. He said it appeared that the sleeves into which the existing lifts are placed could be used for the new equipment as well.

According to Miller, working on the Hawes Pool first made sense due to both the degree of need for the improvements there

Jimmy Fund can stolen

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

A local man was arrested last week after he admitted to stealing funds donated to a popular charity, according to the Norwood Police Department.

Robert M. Gately, 23, of 103 Cottage St. was arrested at his home on Tuesday, May 8 on a charge of larceny from a building. The arrest came after a storeowner reported that a donation can for the Jimmy Fund had been stolen from their business earlier that day, according to Norwood Police spokesman Kevin Grasso.

The theft was reported to police by the owner of Shurfine Market on Nahatan Street. According to Grasso, the owner had not witnessed the theft when it occurred, but later noticed the can missing and checked surveillance video footage of the store, on which he recognized Gately, who allegedly came into the store on a regular basis.

After speaking with the owner, Norwood Police Officer Greg Gamel went to Gately's residence, where Gately himself arrived a short time later. Upon questioning, police say Gately admitted to stealing the donation can and cashing it in for $32, though the exact amount that had been in the can was uncertain.

Grasso said the money had not been recovered. He said no cash was found on Gately's property when he was questioned.

"I'm not sure what he did with the money, but he had cashed it in," Grasso said.

The Norwood Police Department places containers for Jimmy Fund donations in businesses and other public places. As a result, Grasso said, his department took the matter somewhat personally.

"We're treating it as a $50 loss," Grasso said. "We take it to heart when someone takes a can from us."

Father Mac's Pool, shown here, will need new equipment to comply with recently updated provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). The Recreation Department said they will be adding such equipment to the Hawes Pool before the summer, but says Father Mac's probably cannot be updated yet.

and the relative ease of bringing the facility into compliance. He noted that the facility received more use by disabled individuals than the Father Mac Pool, particularly when in use by the Camp Challenge program. The Hawes facility also has ADA compliant bathhouses on site, Miller noted.

Miller said it did not appear likely that the new regulations would affect the opening date of either pool facility. He said both were scheduled to open on June 23.

The Americans with Disabilities Act was signed into law on July 26, 1990. The law was divided into five subparts but the portions relevant to the swimming pools are Public Entities and Public transportation (Title II) and Public Accommodations and Commercial Facilities (Title III).

The original ADA enforcement guidelines did not provide accessibility standards for swimming pools. Fourteen years later, in 2004, the Department of Justice issued enforcement guidelines that included pools and spas, but at that point, they were merely guidelines and not law.

In July 2010, the Department of Justice announced its final rule making, with the revised regulations being published in the Federal Register on Sept. 16, 2010. Although the Federal Government initially said the improvements had to be completed by March 15, 2012, the date was later moved back to May 15.

Wine Vault license revoked

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

The Board of Selectmen ended what has been a long-standing source of frustration for them Tuesday night as they voted to revoke the package store license of a business whose use of that license has been spotty at best.

The Board held a show cause hearing for the Wine Vault, located at 1275 Boston Providence Turnpike, to determine whether the store should be allowed to keep its wine and malt beverage license. Ultimately, the selectmen voted 3-1 to revoke the license, with Allan Howard casting the dissenting vote and Helen Abdallah Donohue sitting out the hearing.

Board Chairman Michael Lyons asked Wine Vault owner Jeff Groper to give the selectmen an update on the business, noting that Groper had been called in for hearings on several previous occasions due to the business not being in operation. Groper said the store had indeed been closed for much of the last few months, mainly due to financial problems and difficulty finding a replacement for an employee who had quit earlier this year.

Groper said he had been trying to find a buyer for the business for some time, with a couple of deals falling through. However, he said he had finally found a buyer with whom he was finalizing a deal: Stop & Shop. Accompanying him that evening was Daniel Newcomb, who was serving as a buyer for the supermarket chain and said he had been working with Groper on the transaction.

The selectmen, however, were skeptical, noting that they had been told on more than one previous occasion that a sale was imminent, only to hear nothing for a long time thereafter.

"We keep bending and giving you leniency," Selectman William Plasko said to Groper. "And you have abused it, as far as we're concerned."

Groper said he understood the selectmen's frustration, and both he and Newcomb insisted that a deal with Stop & Shop would soon be finalized.

"It's going through a long corporate chain ladder for it to be signed," Groper said. "But their counsel has agreed that it's a deal."

The selectmen pressed for more information, asking if this meant that the deal was not, in fact, definite. When questioned further, Newcomb said no documents had in fact been signed. Selectmen said they did not feel the business had a legitimate reason to be closed so much of the time, with Lyons noting that the town had not been informed of closings on previous occasions.

"If I was in your position, I'd be in the store myself at least part of the time," Howard told Groper.

Newcomb said a signed agreement with Stop & Shop could likely be brought to the selectmen within fourteen days. Howard made a motion to allow the hearing to be continued until that time, but the motion did not receive a second.

Selectman Paul Bishop also questioned why a representative of Stop & Shop had not come to the hearing. He also expressed skepticism about Groper's claim that he did not receive notice of a hearing on the matter despite the fact that the Board's secretarial staff had mailed one.

"I trust the women in this office more than your ability to check the mail," Bishop said.

Bishop made a motion to revoke the Wine Vault's license, which was seconded by Plasko. The motion was approved 3-1, with Howard dissenting.

Man killed in train accident

An unidentified pedestrian was killed when a train struck him Tuesday morning, according to the local Police and Fire Departments.

Norwood Police spokesman Kevin Grasso said the matter was being investigated by the Transit Police, who had responded to the scene along with State Police assigned from the Norfolk County District Attorney's office. Grasso said detectives from the Norwood Bureau of Criminal Investigation were assisting the Transit Police in the investigation, and that he could not confirm further details as of press time.

Fire Department spokesman George Morrice, who was one of two firefighters who reported to the scene, said they and Captain Kevin Romines were called to the scene at approximately 12:32 a.m. He said the victim, a 27-year-old male, was found in the area of the train tracks near the end of Tremont Street. He said the victim was deceased upon their arrival.

A message sent

Monday evening's Special Town Meeting was "special" for a number of reasons, but mostly because every member voicing an opinion on the concession stand did so with the Town's best interests in mind. Special interests and ulterior motives never played a part in the bantering back and forth because there weren't any. The only real question of the evening was how best to approach the project and what is a reasonable amount to spend.

What was very nice to see were all the new faces stepping up and being heard. They had done their homework and came prepared to ask questions, and weren't shy about doing so. They were a compliment to the tried and true loyal TM contingency who have taken their responsibility seriously over the years and showed up again to represent their districts with distinction.

Also nice was a presentation prepared by TM member Francis Hopcroft, who had taken the time to do some research and presented an alternative to his brethren in the form of a less expensive option than the one presented by the PBCC and supported by Selectmen.

Though TM ultimately decided that Hopcroft's idea of utilizing prefabricated, potentially mobile structures was not in the Town's best interests, the vote in no way diminished the appreciation all should have had for the effort put forth by he and others to lessen the financial load of already strapped Norwood taxpayers. Bravo for the initiative.

TM's decision not to support Selectmen's efforts to increase the spending cap on a new concession stand by another $100,000 was the right one for a number of reasons.

First, and surprisingly, the presentation for increasing the spending lacked substance. The architect's rendering of the outside of the proposed building, harshly referred to as a "cartoon" by one TM member, was out of character for contractor Tim Bonfatti, who usually comes prepared with multiple visuals and more substantive answers to questions asked. Renderings of the interior of the facility and the bathrooms may have made a difference in the vote, and should have been made available to the taxpayers who have already paid the architect $20,000 to prepare them. They were owed at least that much.

Also, Selectmen Mike Lyons, Bill Plasko and Helen Abdallah-Donohue came dangerously close to justifying the spending by implying it doesn't cost taxpayers much when spread out over 20 years. Another $100,000 is just that, and playing the salesman's game of "working the numbers" is the last way to convince TM. They are simply too smart for that.

The argument for justifying the additional spending is that it is easy and expeditious. Easy for the contractor who will make a quick and tidy profit while still present on the jobsite, easy for the PBCC who would not need to go back to the drawing board, and easy for John Carroll and Selectmen, who now need to work with the PBCC and the Friends of Norwood High School in trying to bring home the project within their budget, perhaps by soliciting volunteers and seeking donations instead of just showing up for the ground breaking.

A permanent concession stand will be built at Norwood High, and it will be attractive and worthy of the school it shall sit in the shadow of. Norwood residents are too creative and industrious to accept anything less. There is a large amount of money already waiting to be spent in the form of last fall's TM funding, and the donation made by the Friends of Norwood High School. The decision to deny the additional $100,000 was primarily because it was just too hard for TM members to believe that the $285,000 already in the bank wasn't enough to make it happen.

And finally, this writer believes that in some small way Norwood's Town Meeting has sounded a warning to government contractors and architects the world over. The days of taxpayers accepting meaningless explanations as to why municipal construction costs are so much higher than on private projects are over. It's not like comparing apples and oranges, as many would suggest. There will always be some additional expense to government projects, but they better be spelled out in black and white before taxpayers, sick of the nonsense, will provide a stamp of approval. This could be the start of something big...

TM approves all land takings

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

Voters approved all of the articles considered on the first night of a Special Town Meeting last week, including three land takings and an article that would allow for a partial refund to a company that had bought land from the town.

Town Moderator David Hern Jr. decided to adjourn the meeting at 10:30 p.m., which is the customary ending time for an unfinished meeting unless a vote is taken to continue beyond that point. It was decided that the few articles which had not been considered by that point would be voted on Monday night, when Town Meeting voters would also be gathering in the Norwood High School auditorium for the Annual Town Meeting.

The majority of Town Meeting Members voted to approve taking three parcels of land for use in the planned expansion of the Department of Public Works (DPW) headquarters. Article 8, which was approved by a vote of 125-1, authorized the taking of a property located at 211 Central St. and 140 Railroad Ave., formerly owned by Norwood Crossing, LLC. Article 9, which was approved by a vote of 152-27, did the same with two portions of a property located at 153 Nahatan St., which were occupied by Sovereign Bank.

For the land acquired, the town will pay the former owners $15,000 and $25,000, respectively, though the latter figure did not sit well with some Town Meeting members. Gerri Slater, for example, questioned why the town would give the owners of the Sovereign Bank property $25,000 when they were not using the land and had proved difficult to contact.

"If we can't find them, what or who are we giving the 25 grand to?" added Town Meeting member Debbie Holmwood.

Town Manager John Carroll said that while he did not have the relevant report on hand, the entire piece of land owned by Sovereign was worth much more. He also said the town would get its money back if no one was available to accept the check the town would be sending for the land.

Selectman William Plasko added that the town had been using the property for years, and that the ability to use the land was vital to the town. Town Meeting member Allison Priore questioned why the town had not taken the land via adverse possession. Town Counsel David Deluca replied that doing so would require a Land Court judgment, the pursuit of which would likely result in the town incurring extensive legal costs.

Article 11, which reduced the minimum price established for a parcel sold by the town last year, was approved by a vote of 90-38 after some discussion. The intent of the article was to allow the town to pay back UAVE, LLC the difference in price owed to them for purchasing a parcel on University Avenue from the town after an April, 2011 Special Town Meeting, as the property was found to have been 15.08 acres in size, versus the 15.45 erroneously stated by the town in part of a related document.

Some Town Meeting members expressed concern about the article, wondering how the town had gotten into such a situation. Town Contract Administrator Cathy Carney said a document on the transaction drafted by the town had given the 15.45 acre figure as an approximate size of the parcel, but that one portion of the document that mentioned the figure did not include language indicating that it was an approximate number.

Norwood Public Schools, meanwhile, received the $184,000 that the School Committee had been hoping for, as a result of Article 24 receiving a unanimous vote. The funds, which were left over from the Fiscal Year 2011 budget, will be used to offset special education costs in Fiscal Year 2013. Finance Commission Chairwoman Judith Langone explained that the funds were being transferred into the current year's budget, but would be used to pre-pay those special education costs.

town well in the long run.

"Nobody's happy about it," Lyons said. "We questioned the amount of money that has to be spent. I don't understand why it costs as much as it does. It simply does."

Compass Project Management President Tim Bonfatti - whose company has been overseeing the high school construction project for the town - said construction of the concession stand would be covered by funds borrowed for the construction of the school, which had cost nearly $2 million less than anticipated. He said the Massachusetts School Building Authority's (MSBA) rules had not allowed for something like a concession stand to be built as part of a project receiving MSBA funding. However, he said, these rules had since been changed so that a concession stand could be built as part of an MSBA-funded project, but the project would still not be eligible for reimbursement from the agency.

Opinions on the concession stand varied, but the primary concern about it for most who spoke was its cost. Selectman Allan Howard, who had long held reservations about the project, said he was not totally against it, but did not like the degree of uncertainty that has existed regarding both the cost and what the project entails.

"I hope the $350,000 is a final number," Howard said. "We don't have exact plans at this point, and from the beginning, that disturbed me a great deal."

It was also noted that a shot put throwing area located on the high school property would likely have to be moved to accommodate a concession stand. Several Town Meeting members questioned why this problem could not have been avoided via better planning. Bonfatti noted that the concession stand was not part of the plan for the new high school when the building was designed and built.

PBCC member Francis "Jerry" Hopcroft, who had voiced dissenting opinions on the concession stand during several recent meetings of that committee, made a short presentation on mobile concession stand facilities, which he felt would be a viable and cheaper alternative to a permanent facility. He said he did not want his proposal to end the debate on a permanent facility, but added that he felt other options should be considered, as a movable stand could end up costing $100,000 less than expected, rather than $100,000 more.

"I don't view this as an opposing position," Hopcroft said. "But it's an alternate proposal."

Hopcroft added that a mobile facility could be towed to any of the other schools for events there if needed, and that it could even be used in a town-wide emergency. However, some Town Meeting members echoed views expressed by Selectmen, that such a facility would not be aesthetically pleasing, and some questioned how much savings would really be generated once other costs associated with a mobile facility were factored in.

In the end, both Hopcroft's proposal and the request for an additional $100,000 for the concession stand failed. Following these votes, former Town Moderator Jack McCarthy suggested that a vote be taken only on the portion of the Selectmen's proposal that would allow additional funds to be raised for the concession stand via donations or similar means. That motion quickly received unanimous approval.

Other articles were approved with minimal debate or dissent. The only exception was a motion to reconsider Article 18, which had been approved the previous Thursday. Town officials sought to add $96,000 for Fire Department salaries to the amount approved, due to the previous vote erroneously not including the sum. The additional funds, which were intended for retroactive pay, were approved by a majority of Town Meeting voters.

Coakley students give back

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

Coakley Middle School students have been busy in the last few weeks, helping their fellow man - and some animals - via a pair of charitable projects.

A recent movie screening event at the school was used to raise money for the Jimmy Fund. Eighth graders, meanwhile, held a food drive for cats, which garnered a total of 250 pounds of food.

The cat food drive was conducted with the help of the Bay State Animal Cooperative, to which the cat food was donated. Eighth Grade

Math Teacher and Animal Club Advisor Emily Clarke said students had held a similar food drive for dogs and cats last year, but that students had decided to focus the campaign on their feline friends this year. Previous drives have also included pet toys or other items, depending on what is needed at the time, Clarke said.

"The students did a great job," Clarke said. "They had a lot of ideas for the drive that made it a success."

According to Clarke, the drive lasted approximately three weeks, with the last donations accepted on March 28. The homeroom that raised the largest amount of company a financial incentive for its proposed relocation to Norwood - also carried overwhelmingly. The agreement will give the business a ten-year, 40 percent tax exemption, the amount of which will taper off gradually over that period.

Consultant Scott Butcher of Tax, Inc., who has been representing Steel Art in discussions on the matter, noted that the company is family-owned, with its two top officers having been there since 1972. He said the company would be investing heavily into the long-vacant Dean Street property where it planned on locating, which formerly housed Innovative Membrane Systems. This, Butcher said, would involve extensive renovation of the facility, as well as the purchase of laser cutters, water jet cutters and other equipment needed for the company's metal sign manufacturing operations.

"This is a sound investment for a family-owned company," Butcher said. "It's a company that really manufactures its products here in the United States."

Butcher said the company currently had 58 employees, and that it planned to add a dozen more once it had relocated to Norwood - something he said the company hoped to do in late summer or early fall. Selectman Plasko, who also chairs the Economic Development Committee, said he and other town officials had been pleased with what they had learned of Steel Art's plans.

"We're very impressed with Steel Art," Plasko said. "And we're encouraging them to come into town."

Voters also approved Article 7, which authorized the town to accept a 4.9 acre parcel of land off of Irving Street, donated by the Devine Family Trust. And while some voters expressed concern that the vote could set a precedent for others giving unusable land to the town - thus taking it off the tax rolls - selectmen noted that this parcel abuts the Father MacAleer Playground, and that acquiring the land donated by the Devine family would effectively expand the town-owned playground property.

Voters quickly and unanimously approved Articles 1 and 2, which authorized revisions to the town's Zoning Bylaws. Planning Board Chairman Ernie Paciorkowski said Article 1 - which pertains to the Flood Plain Overlay District - would allow the town to conduct updates to maintain its eligibility for flood insurance. Article 2, meanwhile, addressed typographical errors in the town's Zoning Bylaws, Paciorkowski said.

cat food won a pizza party. Clarke said the students collected more than 250 pounds of wet and dry cat food, according to a nurse's scale used to calculate that figure.

On April 27, meanwhile, the Middle School held an event dubbed Movie Mania, in which the popular Smurfs movie was screened. Sixth Grade English Teacher and Student Council Advisor Rachel Siegel said patrons got in for a $5.00 donation, which included the price of snacks.

According to Siegel, a total of $1,112.38 was raised for the Jimmy Fund as a result of the event. Siegel said she and the Student Council were happy with the result, as their fundraising goal had been to hit the $1,000 mark.

Siegel said this was the second year the school had worked with the Jimmy Fund, having held a dance at the Norwood Civic Center for the cause last year. She said the Student Council decided to try running a different event this year, which turned out to be a good decision, judging by the enthusiasm it generated.

"In addition to buying tickets, some students would throw change in," said Siegel, who sold tickets with co-Advisor Sarah Legare that night. "Some students couldn't come to the movie. They still wanted to donate money."

Siegel said students who helped organize the event would be going on a field trip to the State House on June 5. Following their visit there, they will participate in the Jimmy Fund's Scooper Bowl event, in which numerous ice cream companies offer free scoops of their products. Coakley Middle School Principal Matthew Ehrenworth said he was proud of what his students had done, noting that efforts like this were used to foster an interest in giving back to the community.

"We're about more than academics at the Middle School," Ehrenworth said. "We try to teach students how to be good citizens and contribute to the town."

The Department of Public Works recently gave Norwood's elementary schools a total of 200 sugar maple saplings from the Massachusetts Tree Wardens' Association, in celebration of National Arbor Day. The holiday, which took place on April 27, is a celebration in which people are encouraged to plant trees, either individually or in groups. Each of the schools asked its 3rd and 4th graders to submit short essays explaining why they wanted a sugar maple sapling and how they would take care of it. The students who submitted the most convincing requests for saplings were each given one to take home and plant. Students from the C.M. Callahan School are shown here with their saplings.

Volleyball in the tourney for first time in five years

Kevin Stone
Staff Reporter

In a year when Norwood teams have won state titles and made deep postseason runs, it is only fitting that one of the less talked about sports at the school makes a name for itself by making some history in what has already been a historic season for Norwood athletics.

The boys volleyball team is heading back to the state tournament for the first time in five years. In other words, Norwood's volleyball program has done something that no team at the school has done since the Patriots were going 18-0.

As the season is quickly coming to a close, the team is more than thrilled to be heading back to postseason volleyball.

"Despite nearing the end of our season, the team is extremely pleased to be in the tournament for the first time since 2007," said head coach Lauren Coville.

Currently at 11-4, the squad is facing a tough week with matches against Natick on Monday, 5/14, Taunton Tuesday and Needham on Wednesday - not an easy stretch for a team looking to set itself up for a good seed and solid playoff run.

The squad will find out its tournament seeds on Tuesday, May 22.

It's odd and funny how quickly things can change.

Just two weeks ago, both the boys and girls lacrosse teams were seemingly surging towards the postseason and nothing seemed like they were going to be able to slow either squad down.

Now, much like the boys team, Norwood girls lacrosse is 1-2 in its most recent games, and while the boys team is still in a prime position for a playoff spot, the girls team is sitting at 7-7 at the time of this story, making a postseason berth anything but a guarantee with the season ending in two weeks.

Norwood beat Weymouth 14-13 early last week in what seemingly would have been a huge win, especially due to the fact that their best player, Kelsey Colbert, came back from a 12-day injury to score a ridiculous six goals along with one assist.

Marykate Galvin added

a goal and an assist in the win while Brittany Sullivan chipped in with two goals and Allison Ryan had a six-point day of her own with a hat trick and three assists. Kacie Smith, Sammy Hayes (1g 1a) and Lauren Harrington (one assist) all got on the score sheet as well.

One would think that with Colbert coming back and so many girls getting on the score sheet that Norwood's offense would be getting back on track at just the right point in the season. Unfortunately, that was not the case.

Norwood followed the win up with an extremely tough loss to Wellesley, 6-4.

Brittany Sullivan, Allison Ryan, Kelsey Colbert and Courtney Fernandes all had just one goal for Norwood, another rarity that head coach Caitlin Harrington is not used to seeing from her very talented team. Leah Murphy was the biggest player in the loss for Norwood, making an im-

For a team that has been cruising for the postseason with very little going wrong since the squad opened up in March, the Norwood boys lacrosse team is facing a bit of adversity as the season quickly winds down.

Entering last week at 12-1, a division title and very high seed in the tournament seemed to almost be a guarantee. But now, after going 1-2 in their most recent three games at the time of this article, Norwood is now all but out of the division title race, and needs to focus on getting back to their game before they can even think of approaching the tournament with high hopes.

Norwood's lone positive of the last week plus was when they beat Weymouth 12-4, improving their overall record to 13-1 at the time.

Andy Alty continued to lead the offense in the game with three goals and one assist. Emmett McNamara chipped in two goals while Mike Murray also had two of his own. Nick Nardelli continues to be the catalyst of the Mustang defense and posted 12 saves in the victory.

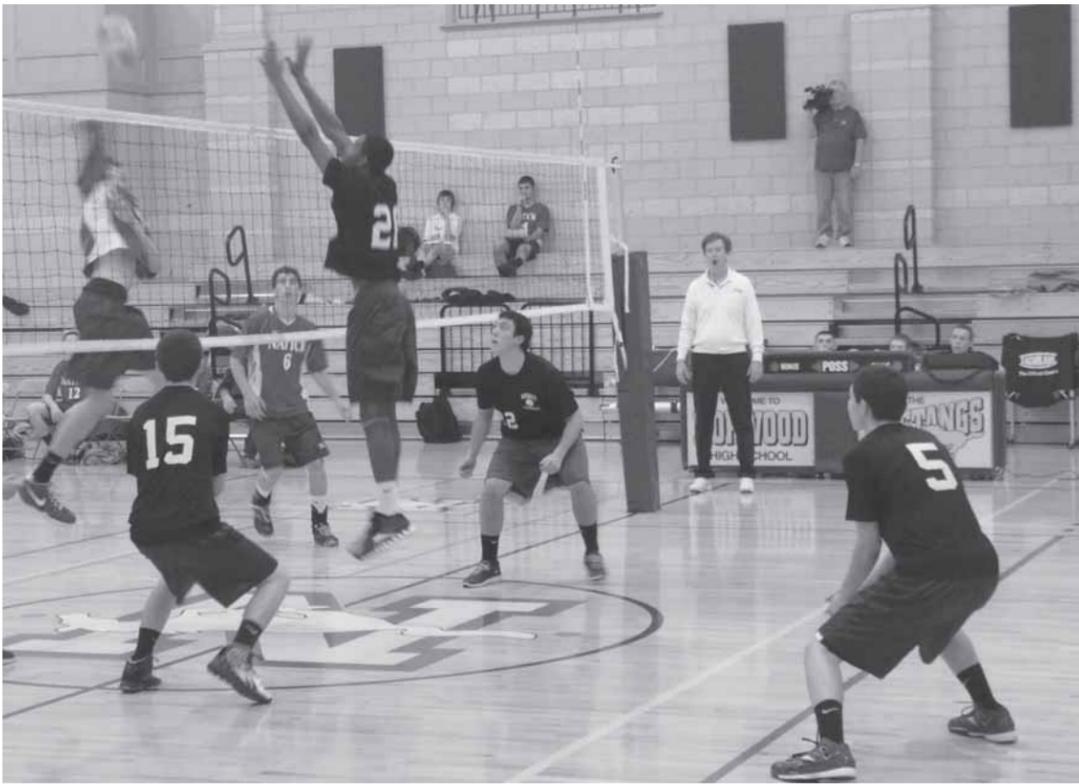

As they have been doing early and often this season, Norwood ran out to a big lead, 3-0 at the half, and they ended up pushing it to 7-1 going into the 4th.

"We controlled time of possession early but the Weymouth goalie played real well," said head coach Anthony Roman. "We came out in the second half and put better shots on goal which lead to the third quarter lead. Defense was the story the whole game. Brendan Altieri and Nick Nardelli played real well in our end and Weymouth didn't get many good looks all rience is preparing themselves both mentally and physically, as well as building confidence in themselves and each other, something that Coville is well aware of.

"As a team we are gaining confidence, and this week will be very important. We are fortunate to have juniors and seniors on the court who have gained experience in knowing how to play with their teammates," she said.

To Coville's credit, she has instilled a winning attitude into a program that really didn't have much of a feel to it entering this season. Now, the Mustangs are tournament bound and ready to make some noise once the regular season raps up in a few weeks.

"They have certainly improved in knowing who is covering and when to go and not go for a ball. Confidence and momentum will be important to help us continue strong this season," Coville added.

Boys' Tennis remains positive

Kevin Stone
Staff Reporter

For everything good that the Norwood tennis team has done this season, there have still been plenty of bumps in the road over the course of the nearly three month season.

There have been plenty of positives for a program that really didn't have many expectations entering the year, but like any program trying to build itself up, there have been a few ugly losses to go along with many of the good things taking place.

On May 10, Norwood lost 5-0 to Weymouth, its second swept loss of the season. Here is a breakdown of how the match played out.

Norwood 0, Weymouth 5

1s: Owen Smith(12) 6-0,3-6,3-6 Adam Beady (12) (L)

2s: Liam Kelly(11) 0-6,6-4,0-6 Sean Rose (11) (L)

3s: Nathan Jones(9) 4-6,6-4,3-6 Nate Leverett (12) (L)

1d: Michael Breen(11)/Walter Aspinwall(11) 6-2,0-6,5-7 Felix Reynolds(12)/James Carlou(12) (L)

2d: Ben Richwine(12)/Corey Haigh(11) 3-6,3-6 Zak Kayyalli (10)/Christos Papadopolous(9)

Despite the score, head coach John Churchill is still finding ways to look at the brighter side of things rather than just the overall result.

"This is our second 5-0 loss that did not feel at all like a 5-0 loss (the Foxboro match being the other)," he said. "When we played Weymouth the first time (our third match of the season), we were swept with only 1st doubles going to a three set loss. This time, 4 of the 5 matches went 3 sets."

The biggest positive there for Norwood is the fact that Weymouth threw the exact same lineup out as they had in the first match, meaning the Mustangs are beginning to grow and learn from their mistakes.

"This is a significant improvement for us as we faced exactly the same lineup as before. We were really in this one. Owen, Nathan, and first doubles all came quite close and Liam pushed his match to the third set against a tough opponent," explained Churchill. "Weymouth deserves a lot of credit for how they have played and the season they have been having. I expect them to earn a playoff berth. For us, we are just a little bit short of their caliber, and we will do our best to keep improving and stepping up our game as we move forward."

The biggest test for the Mustangs has still yet to come, as the season will hit perhaps it's toughest portion of the schedule in the next few weeks, during which time all the other extra curricular activities surrounding graduation will be going on.

"We are about to enter our toughest part of the schedule as we will face the elite teams, Wellesley and Needham. Framingham will also be quite a challenge based on their 5-0 win over Weymouth," said Churchill.

Despite the tough road ahead, Churchill has began building confidence in his squad this season, something he hopes will continue to carry over.

"We expect to compete well with Foxboro, Walpole, and Stoughton, and I think we have plenty of optimism moving forward in order to stay focused on our goals," he said.

"Leah and the entire defense deserves praise in this one, but there's not much else that came out of it today," said Harrington.

Norwood followed the loss to Wellesley with a loss this past Monday in some cruddy weather to Framingham, 14-7.

Allison Ryan led the offensive output with four goals while Marykate Galvin, Amy Moynihan, and Lisa Moynihan all had one goal apiece on the stat sheet for the lady Mustangs. Smith continued her impressive season with two goals of her own as well, while Sarah French tallied one of her own too.

Moving forward, the girls will take on Needham and Canton this week, hoping to get things back on track and inch closer to a tournament berth. Entering the season, Harrington was fully confident about how talented her team was, and now the key will be trying to harness that talent into full 50 minute efforts, and hopefully, three more wins in order to clinch a playoff berth.

The baseball team sits at 9-5 on the year after a recent win against Dedham. The team topped Dedham for the second time this season. The team has been bolstered by a strong season from senior Sean O'Neill (number 23). The Mustangs remain hopeful that they can finish out the regular season on a high note and qualify for the postseason. The team's next game is at home against King Philip on Thursday afternoon.

game," he added.

Following the win one would think momentum would have carried over into the biggest game of the year when Norwood took on first place Wellesley. It didn't happen though as an 11-6 loss to the Bay State Conference leader dropped Norwood to 13-2 overall.

The game was huge as Wellesley now sits with a 9-0 league record despite their overall record matching Norwood's. The Mustangs are sitting at 6-3 in the conference and would need Wellesley to implode in order to clinch the Herget division.

McNamara again led the offense with a hat trick and an assist while Danny Farrell added a hat trick of his own and Nardelli posted just six saves in the tough loss.

For the first time almost all season Norwood was overmatched early, trailing 7-2 at the half, and getting blown out 11-3 by Wellesley going into the fourth quarter.

Early in the season Roman had preached that faceoffs and ground balls would win games at this level during the season. Unfortunately, it would end up being Norwood's downfall in this game.

"We couldn't win a face-off in the first quarter which got us in a tough spot early. Too much time on the defensive end was the story of the whole game," he said.

Despite the loss, Roman was encouraged by the final score based on his team's ability and desire to fight back.

"We fought back late which was a very good sign moving forward," he said.

Depending on how you look at it, the most discouraging loss of the year came this past Monday, to what many thought was an inferior team. Norwood lost to Framingham, who has a 6-3 conference record but is now just 9-5 overall, by a 9-3 final, dropping them to 13-3.

Andy Alty, Emmett McNamara and Patrick Clifford had the lone goals for the surpassingly quiet Norwood offense. Nardelli did his part for most of the game, posting 12 saves

For whatever reason, Norwood just couldn't find its usual offensive flow, which is startling as the postseason is usually all about who can make the largest runs throughout the game. It was 3-1, Framingham at half, and 5-3, Framingham going to the fourth.

"Our defense and goalie played well for most of the game. I'm not sure why but we just seemed to run out of gas in the fourth quarter," said Roman.

The team now needs to quickly forget both losses and what they meant in regards to the conference and get back to the little things that had made them seem like one of the elite teams making its move in eastern Massachusetts.
