

Board hears of alleged sex tape airing at tavern

Krystal Grow
Staff Reporter

On Tuesday night, the Norwood Board of Selectmen heard testimony relative to a sex tape allegedly played at the Krazee Horse Tavern in South Norwood.

According to witnesses and police reports, the tape, which contained explicit sexual activity, was broadcast to patrons of the pub in December of 2006. The tape was of a man and woman having consensual sex, although it was allegedly recorded without the woman's consent or knowledge. The male in the video was a roommate of an employee of the Krazee Horse Tavern at the time.

If found to be true, the incident, though almost two years old, could lead to an extended suspension of the Krazee Horse's license. Selectman Bill Plasko recommended that the bar be closed for a full week this November.

However, the board of four (Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue was not present) consistently split on motions brought to the table. After more than two hours of discussion from lawyers, witnesses and Krazee Horse employees, they failed to take any action on the matter.

According to testimony from Norwood Police Detective Paul Ryan, who interviewed several people in connection to the case, Charles Carp acquired the tape from his roommate and showed it to an audience in the back area of the establishment. Carp, now living in Maryland, did not attend Tuesday's hearing.

One witness testified that he was at the Krazee Horse on the night the tape as shown. While the board agreed that a tape did exist, they were not convinced by the witness' testimony regarding the airing of the video and said that the evidence he provided was insufficient to make a deter-

Fire destroys Norwood home

Eight residents injured during Friday night blaze

Two Norwood families were left out in the cold Friday night as what started as a common cooking mishap turned into a blaze that destroyed a two-family home on Pleasant Street.

Norwood Police received a call around 11:45p.m. Friday reporting a large fire at 213 Pleasant St. Moments later another caller reported residents jumping out of second story windows in a desperate attempt to escape the blaze.

High tech trash day! New system off to a good start

Krystal Grow
Staff Reporter

The big green barrels were lined up and ready Monday morning as Norwood residents ushered in a new era in rubbish removal.

After months of questions from concerned citizens and various educational campaigns, Town Manager John Carroll and Assistant Town Manager Bernie Cooper were up bright and early to make sure the program went off without a hitch, and so far, they say it has.

"It's going far better than we had expected," Cooper said.

The initial backlash to the new mechanized trash pickup and single stream recycling program had many people wondering if the system would work at all. Carroll relentlessly defended the program from May's Town Meeting to the Board of Selectmen all the way to the Norwood Senior Center.

Local seniors had expressed concern over the size of the barrels, which can hold 64 and 96 gallons, respectively. But it's the truck that does most of the heavy lifting.

On Monday morning, many of the barrels on Autumn Street were half full at the most, and lined up along the curb neatly, and instead of a few strong arms throwing bags of garbage into the back of the truck, a bright yellow, mechanical arm wrapped around the barrel and tipped it upside down, shaking the contents into the big green truck. The barrel was replaced gently back on the curb.

"This is new equipment not only to the town, but in the industry," said Greg Freitag of Waste Management.

The new trucks, with their automated arms and high tech controls, cost $227,000 each, Freitag said.

But the new system will actually save the town money, Cooper said, and will hopefully raise the recycling rate while simultaneously lowering the amount of regular trash that needs to be disposed of each week. Since recyclables no longer have to be sorted in the single stream system, the idea is to find more recyclable items while taking away the hassle of sorting through old cans and newspapers.

"We're saving money and trying to provide Norwood with the highest quality service available," he said.

Bomb scare cancels school for the day

Students and staff at high school dismissed early Monday morning

Krystal Grow
Staff Reporter

Norwood students got an unexpected half-day as they were suddenly dismissed Monday morning to allow firefighters and local police to investigate a possible bomb scare at the high school.

Interim Superintendent of Schools John Moretti said a note had been found in the high school hallways making open-ended threats to student safety that forced him and Principal George Usevich to clear the building.

"The note indicated that there was a bomb in an unspecified room," Moretti said. "There were no specifics, and we brought in the Fire Department and thought it best to dismiss the students."

The note was found at 9:40 a.m., and Moretti said the building was cleared by 10:30. Parents of all Norwood students were notified through a ConnectEd message that went out shortly after Moretti and Usevich decided to release high school students. Elementary and middle school students remained in class throughout the day.

Two fire engines, two police motorcycles, one police cruiser and multiple town facilities maintenance vehicles lined both sides of Nichols Street. A small group huddled on the sidewalk and watched firefighters and maintenance personnel enter and exit the building, searching each classroom, and later moving outside to check trash barrels for suspicious materials.

"We have to take these things seriously," School Committee Chairman Paul Samargedlis said. "Whoever is doing this needs to know they are affecting and disrupting things."

Norwood Police spokesman Paul Bishop said Monday's threat on the high school was the third in three weeks.

"It's still being investigated, but as of 1:30 p.m., they haven't found anything," Bishop said Monday afternoon.

All after-school activities were cancelled Monday to ensure the building and grounds were searched appropriately and that every square inch was inspected beyond the shadow of a doubt.

"We had to dismiss the students and staff because the letter didn't identify any particular area of the building," Moretti said.

Moretti confirmed that another letter was found two weeks ago that threatened "mayhem," but identified that the trouble would be in the locker rooms and gyms.

"That allowed us to evacuate and search those specific areas, then allow the students back into school, but the open endedness of this letter made it necessary to dismiss all the students and do a complete sweep of the entire building" he said.

"This sort of thing is very disruptive," Samargedlis said, "but we have to handle it this way to let this person know we're serious about our students' safety."

Moretti said he and the entire high school administration were determined to find the person responsible for the letters.

"It's a hoax," he said, "but we're going to find who is responsible and they will be expelled."

By 11:30 a.m., three teachers remained on the school grounds, staying behind to make sure every last student had been picked up and brought home. Moretti and Usevich brought school buses back to the high school to transport students home.

"This is disruptive for everyone, but we believe it's better to err on the side of caution," Moretti said.

Let's Talk Real Estate

with Jerry Armstrong, Broker, REALTOR, CBR, ASR

PAYING TO ADVERTISE. A recent survey shows that real estate agents who have been in the business longer tend to spend more money advertising their listings. According to the survey of more than 1,300 agents and brokers, the more experienced among them spent an average of $864 per listing for marketing while agents with less than five years' experience spent $675 per listing. Although the dollar amounts can certainly vary from area to area, the survey does reveal that experienced real estate professionals strongly believe that getting the word out about a listing through advertising is an effective sales tool. Beyond that, it takes knowledge and experience to divvy up dollars among the various media, including newspapers, signs, brochures, and the Internet.

Effectively marketing property includes giving it the greatest exposure available. ## A NICE REMINDER

Due to the lack of space in this week's issue, this editorial will be short and sweet.

Sweet in the sense that I received a very nice email from a representative of the Balch School in South Norwood thanking this newspaper for putting pictures of their students having fun at a reading and ice cream social on the front page last week. I was again jolted as to how much I love this business.

Her email was a reminder to me that this newspaper should be the ones thanking you, the citizenry of Norwood, for the opportunity to provide news to you each and every week. It is a privilege for us to be welcome into a place like the Balch School to take the aforementioned pictures. Just like it is a privilege for us to provide this week's front page photos of different events happening around town.

The irony of this business is that the folks usually thanking us for giving coverage of their events are the very ones making our business viable. Without their good works, volunteer efforts, creative talents, social networking and coming together as a group as they do week in and week out, we would not have the very material we need to publish a good, community newspaper.

So although it is always nice to hear thanks, please remember it is you who are the stars of what we do, and we are always grateful for the opportunity.

Giovanni Ibanez told the board he went to the bar one evening after work in December, 2006, and heard Carp mention the tape. He said that Carp then went to his car, where he retrieved both the tape and a VCR. After hooking up the equipment, Ibanez and other patrons at the bar allegedly watched the tape. Ibanez admitted to knowing some of the people that evening at the Krazee Horse and said they could corroborate his story. He declined, however, to name anyone else. This appeared to have an impact on selectmen.

Ibanez claimed that about 10 people saw the tape that night and that it was shown again at his apartment for another group of people by Carp.

Months passed without further mention of the tape, until one night Ibanez mentioned the Krazee Horse viewing to a mutual friend of both himself and the woman in the video. Once the woman heard about the tape, she took action.

The woman, whose name is being withheld by this newspaper but was made public during the hearing, and her sister immediately proceeded to the Krazee Horse and demanded the tape be given to them. She was told that Carp had left the video at his other job in Framingham. Demanding the tape be surrendered immediately, Carp agreed to go with them to retrieve it.

While in Carp's car, the woman claimed that he admitted to playing the tape for a live audience at the pub. When they arrived at his place of employment, Carp handed over the video.

Attorney Albert DiNapoli, representing the Krazee Horse, claimed that neither one of the two brothers who managed the bar knew anything about the tape being played at their establishment and would never have allowed such a thing to happen. Chris and A.J. Grant denied any knowledge of the supposed incident during the hearing on Tuesday.

DiNapoli came prepared with photos, seating charts and printouts of computer conversations between Ibanez and a former girlfriend. He sought to show that hooking up a VHS machine to the existing video equipment was extremely technical and not something a typical person would attempt. He added that although the video screen in question was positioned at the back of the tavern, it was easily viewed by others anywhere else in the bar because of its position and reflections. He said that should such a video have been played, it would have been impossible to stop others from seeing it.

Norwood Town Attorney Michael Lehane asked the one question that seemed to keep the board in limbo.

"The real question here is motive," he said. "Who has more of a reason to lie about something like this? Who has more to lose?"

Plasko's motion to shut down the pub for one week failed, as did a similar motion to close the bar for two consecutive Mondays. A motion to table the hearing until Carp could be reached also resulted in a tie vote.

After four split votes, it was clear that the board was not ready or fully convinced by the evidence to make a definitive decision on the case. It will reexamine the matter if police provide further evidence that a license infraction took place and action is required.

SABER STATEMENTS SHOCKING

To the Editor:

Your paper has been a welcomed new option for readers in Norwood and I thank you for your efforts covering local news, sports and community events. My issue is with your columnist Jackie Saber. It's obvious that I don't agree with her politics, which is fine, that's what makes America great. And I have to admit I read her column, not to be enlightened, but because I am truly impressed on how someone can distort facts and use out of context information so often and still be allowed to publish a column. Normally, I read the column, shake my head and move on, but her column in the Oct. 2, 2008 paper had to be addressed. Here is the section that made me cringe:

"Congress has passed a 48 BILLION dollar global 'AIDS' bill, (your money), for a disease that can be stopped through the responsible actions of individuals"

Am I the only one shocked by such an insensitive statement? As a responsible paper you should be ashamed for allowing such a statement to be published, and as for Ms. Saber, well, it's hard to even find a place to begin. Her knowledge of this epidemic is unknown, but her underlining meaning is well understood, let 'them' people with AIDS take care of themselves, 'they' got themselves into this.

Does she not understand that AIDS is a "global" problem that affects us all? How insensitive.

Maybe she can let us know how to handle other health crisis' that arguably can be avoided by responsible actions of individuals, such as: lung cancer, obesity and heart disease.

I am all for free speech, but in the absence of other perspectives, the Norwood Record has a responsibility to its readers not to allow inflammatory remarks and un-verified information to be published.

STRIKING OUT BASEBALL IN NORWOOD

To the Editor:

The town of Norwood and its town schools "strike out" baseball while Norwood baseball people sleep and allow it to happen in silence.

In 1981, Norwood eliminated the American Legion baseball diamond, made it into a hospital parking lot and did not replace it (a strike call).

In 1985, Norwood and the School Department again eliminated the North Junior High School Babe Ruth baseball diamond, did not replace the field and turned it into two rectangular soccer fields. Also, the school department, the owner of the field, did not maintain it on a regular basis. I, George Lally was the only one that appeared before the Town Manager and five member Board of Selectmen and spoke against the elimination of a second Baseball diamond of proper size (strike call again).

Over the past eight years, a move has been put on the South Junior High School Babe Ruth baseball diamond (where the sun sets in the first baseman's eyes, not in right field where a baseball diamond built correctly has set since the 1860s). This diamond again was not going to be replaced (another strike call). I wrote a letter to the newspapers, spoke before the Town Manager, the Recreation Superintendent, other officials and Town Meeting. The town was then going to go from the full-sized diamond to a re-engineered much smaller diamond at Ellis Field. A baseball diamond was built at the Willet with a left field of 282 feet, a right field of 300 feet, with no power alleys in left center and, unique in Norwood Massachusetts, is a center field 328 feet shorter than the so-called power alleys, which are a part of baseball and keep our teenagers on a level playing field.

The South Jr. High School Babe Ruth baseball diamond has been on the Planning Board's agenda for years to become another rectangle field. The Norwood School Department, over the years, has not maintained this field on a regular basis. We were told at Town Meeting by two town officials that the distance down the foul lines at the Willet Field would be 353 feet and 353 feet, but it came in at 282 feet and 300 feet.

The Norwood School Department has eliminated Junior High School baseball, not maintained the fields and allowed them to go to the Recreation Department/Department of Public Works and become rectangle fields. The reason the Senior High School Baseball team plays at the Balch Field is because we had the worst kept baseball diamond in the Bay State League, because, again, the School Department does not maintain it.

In 1985 we spent hundreds of thousands of dollars doing over the Sr. HS Football and baseball field, track and tennis.) The town DPW does maintain the town fields and the school department does not maintain the Jr. HS and Sr. HS fields. This is why the High School Varsity, Jr. varsity and freshmen baseball teams use the town fields most of the time and have first choice over the youth programs who are doing the job of the Jr. HS by providing a baseball program for the Jr. HS ages and saving Norwood taxpayers thousands of dollars every year.

The School Department allows the parking of motor vehicles on the baseball diamond during football games, as well as using it for football practice and other sporting participation. The sun does not set in right field at the high school baseball diamond.

The final strike is the eliminating of the Norwood Senior High School baseball diamond from the proposed new high school. There is no baseball diamond on any of the drafts that have been drawn up by the Committee of 21.

The Norwood School Department is divesting itself from all of Norwood School baseball land property. The photo, courtesy of Symmes, Main & McKee Associates, has a rectangular soccer field in front of the proposed new Sr. high school, with the baseball diamond eliminated again. Why does baseball again strike out by the town?

No one on the committee of 21 or the open space committee has spoken for Norwood Baseball, with full-sized diamonds with correct distances. Not everyone can get on the Balch field, which is the only full-sized baseball diamond left in what people call a great baseball town!

If we build a new high school with a new football field, track, tennis courts and baseball diamond, we must maintain proper measurements for the baseball diamond with the sun setting in right field; minimum distances from home plate down the four lines; left and right field 323 feet; in the power alleys left center and right center 373 feet; to straight center field 406 feet.

Dugouts should be below ground so that fans can see the game, 1,000 seats on each side. The field must be completely enclosed to prevent damage and have a wide gate to allow maintenance. A common concession stand with utilities for football, baseball, track and tennis and both gender restrooms. A common flagpole, electric scoreboards for football and baseball feeding cable to each press box.

In conclusion, Norwood is eliminating four Baseball Diamonds, and replacing one by re-engineering down to the next level. If you do not maintain and build them, they will not come.

Trash continued from page 2

Single stream recycling is relatively new to Massachusetts, but is steadily sweeping the nation as more and more communities come to realize the importance of recycling.

Matt Stenceil of the Norwood Department of Public Works said most Norwood residents were on top of the new system, and had their barrels out and ready Monday, making the first run on the new route relatively simple.

"Compliance has been a lot higher that we expected," he said. "The only real problem so far had been people placing the barrels too close together."

Stenceil said the recycling and trash bins should be placed a few feet apart to allow the mechanized arm enough room to get a good grip.

"We've really only had a handful of problems," Cooper said. "I think that after a few weeks, people will have forgotten about the old system."

But for now, there will be a second truck following the new vehicle to take trash from households that haven't caught on to the new method yet.

"For the next two weeks we will pick up everything to get the system up and running," Carroll said. "We're trying to make this run as smoothly as possible."

Fire continued from page 1

Norwood Police spokesman Paul Bishop said Officers Reen and Padden were in the Pleasant St. area at the time of the call and were the first on the scene.

Upon arrival, the two officers found the front of the house fully engulfed in flames. According to Officer Padden's report, residents were running from the building screaming.

One of the residents frantically told the officers that her 12-year-old daughter was still inside the house, likely trapped in her bedroom.

Padden attempted to break the back window open. Though unable to climb through to rescue the girl, she managed to find her way to the window following Padden's voice and flashlight beam.

The Norwood Fire Department arrived on the scene shortly after the first call, and was able to pull the girl through the window. She was quickly transported to Massachusetts General Hospital with second-degree burns. The girl's mother was rushed to Brigham and Women's hospital with similar injuries.

Fire department spokesman George Morrice said responding officers also observed heavy smoke and flames pouring from the windows of the multi-family home. Crews attacked the fire in front of the house, and were able to extinguish the flames in about 10 minutes.

A total of 10 people were injured during the fire, including two Norwood police officers.

Morrice said the Norwood Fire Department has concluded that cooking grease caused the fire. As of Monday morning, there were still people on the property investigating the incident.

Norwood Fire Chief Michael Howard said the total damage to the home had reached about $75,000.

Football zaps Needham's unblemished mark Latest win sets up showdown with Walpole

Stephen Cottens

Staff Reporter

Twice now this season, the Norwood football team has dethroned an undefeated Bay State Conference foe. Norwood (4-1) handed Weymouth its first loss of the campaign a few weeks ago, and now with even more gusto, the Mustangs cracked Needham's perfect 4-0 mark with a stunning 17-0 win over the host Rockets last Friday.

More notably, after the bye week, Norwood will have a chance to knock off its most renowned rival, Walpole (5-0), from the unbeaten ranks on Oct. 18.

"[We] have certainly earned our share to compete against a very talented Walpole team," said an elated Norwood head coach Buzzy Curran. "It's always a fun week when we play them no matter what the records are, but this has a little extra meaning with the Herget Division and a possible playoff spot on the line...I'm very happy for our kids. It's going to be fun."

Most remarkably about its latest victory was that Norwood, while touted for having one of the more feared ground games in the BSC, scored with the run, pass, and kick in an amazing display of versatility.

"It certainly makes us more balanced to be able to throw and run," said Curran. "And I was particularly happy when we got the field goal because it made it a three-score game. Overall, I was very happy with our play in general."

The recurring theme, of course, was that the Mustangs again "played lights out" on defense, said Curran, whose squad recorded its second shutout of the season.

"Our front seven was as good as it's been," said the coach. "They deserve the accolades. With Needham, we both knew one wasn't going to blow the other out. They had a large crowd, we had a huge crowd. There were a lot of fans. It was fun to be a part of, and we responded [on the road] very well. I was glad for the kids to have had that success."

In a super display of defensive strength, the Mustangs shut down another top BSC running back in Needham's Jean Baptiste.

"You can credit [defensive] coach [Billy] Egan for another great game plan," said Curran. "We have faced [and contained] some great running backs and we have another one [Walpole's Ryan Izzo] coming up. It's a credit to the coaches who have worked hard."

In addition to Baptiste,

Norwood has cut down the rushing yardage of Weymouth star Royce Terrell and Milton standout Paul Connor.

"We're basically calling a defense that the kids are comfortable and competent with," said Curran. "Billy's got a good sense of what other teams are going to do, and what we need to employ."

Norwood surprised the Rockets in the first quarter with a 45-yard touchdown pass down the sideline from quarterback Pat Cavanaugh to Stephen Cottens.

"They've been working hard all year long at that," said Curran of the two seniors, adding it "was a great call" by coach "Fam," referring to offensive coordinator Shawn Famiglietti.

The Mustangs continued to alternate quarterbacks Cavanaugh and Brian Williams, as the latter orchestrated Norwood's second score of the night with a 74-yard drive in the second frame.

"We're going to continue to do it," said Curran of switching off between his two signal callers. "They both led the team into the end zone again. They both bring solid attributes to the program, and we're not going to change it if we're successful."

Swimmers shine despite Needham loss

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

Even in defeat, the Norwood girls' swim team (3-2) showed just how far it's come from recent campaigns during last Friday's 100-92 loss to host Needham.

"Needham as well as our next two opponents, Brookline and Newton North, have beaten us quite handily in past years, so our goal is to keep it close and to keep bringing [our] times down," said Norwood head coach Kim Goodwin. "[And] we did just that Friday night. The girls were amazing."

How amazing? Well, take this statistic to the bank: Norwood won eight of the 12 events, including two of three relays.

"We knew from the start after winning the first relay by at least three body lengths that this was going to be a great meet with fantastic results," said Goodwin. "There was electricity in the air as the times kept falling."

Winning the opening relay were Natalie Metta,

Emily Metta, senior captain Juliana Cirillo, and Katherine Lee.

Goodwin said that almost every Norwood swimmer registered a personal-best time. The coach cited Bailey Lambert, Colleen Carroll, Meghan Curran, Shannon Walsh, Meghan Shilo, Nicole Flaherty, Mary Pat Norton, Kayla Ring, Anna Baturin, and Becky Gillis as improving their times in the freestyle and butterfly events.

"The coaches must continue to readjust goals set for the end of the seasons [because] the swimmers are surpassing [the original ones] now," said the head mentor.

Lee, Lauren McDonough, Megan Clifford, and Sarah Wilson all broke goal times they set in the back and breaststroke events.

Also making significant gains were divers Amelia Atwood, Kathleen Maroun, and Emily Rivard.

The biggest individual highlights came when Natalie and Emily Metta and Cirillo swept their events, said the Prolific star tailback Jhorgy Antoine burst through for a five-yard run to cap the drive. Overall, the junior rushed for 168 yards on 22 carries.

Curran also noted that junior Mark Nardelli played a solid game at fullback.

In the third stanza, Norwood closed the scoring when Cavanaugh, who kicked both extra points for the Mustangs, booted a 22-yard field goal.

Perhaps appropriately, there's time for a lot of buildup as Norwood sets its sight on Walpole next. With another week to wait for the big game, this town may be oozing with the same anticipation that fuels the days before an NFL Super Bowl.

"In a way, I don't know if we need the bye week with the run we've been on right now," said Curran. "I think the kids would feel ready to play them today if they could. So we have to keep our emotions in check, stay healthy, and continue to hit the weight room."

coach. Goodwin lauded Natalie Metta for dominating the sprint and freestyle races.

"Her 50 free-style time qualified her for the state tournament," said Goodwin, noting that Cirillo also earned a berth to the postseason with her stellar finish in the 100 fly.

The coach added that Cirillo also came within a few tenths of a second in breaking a team record in the 100 backstroke, held by 2007 graduate Katie Curran.

As a team, Norwood fell just short in the final tally.

"In end, Needham just had a bit more depth than [us]," said Goodwin.

Pat Conroy lines it up for the Mustangs. Conroy and Ryan Collins, both juniors, proved strong in an 18-9 match win over Framingham in golf action last week.

There was still outside hope that the Norwood golf team could sneak into the state tournament entering Tuesday's tilt against visiting Wellesley.

The Mustangs (5-8) rebounded from a loss to Walpole with a solid 57-51 victory over Framingham at the Norwood Country Club in a Bay State Conference match last Friday. For Norwood to make the postseason, it needs to win its last three matches to earn a .500 record.

"Both Needham and Wellesley are coming here. Then we finish at Dedham Country and Polo [Club], where their team is very tough to beat," said Norwood head coach Slava Heretz.

Against Framingham, "the guys all put together good scores on the modified course," said Heretz. "The middle holes were underwater so they played nine dry holes for a par of 34."

Competing in match play, junior Brendan Buckley, who shot a team-best par 34 and Chris Ryan defeated their opponents, 14.5-12.5.

The second group of Ryan Collins and Pat Conroy proved strong in an 18-9 win.

Pairings Jim McGuire and Adam Kewriga and Charles King and senior captain Matt Walsh kept things close despite dropping 12.5-14.5 and 12-15 decisions, respectively.

"[They all] shot a 40 or better, which is a good sign since we're not out of the tournament [possibility] yet," said the coach. "Hopefully, we got a bit of momentum coming off today's win and can carry it into [this] week."

Earlier last week, Norwood lost, 38-70, to Walpole.

"As always, Walpole showed us just how tough they were on their home turf," said Heretz.

Walsh led the Mustangs, shooting a 42 on the par 35 course.

"It was the first time he had the lowest score of the bunch," said Heretz.

The coach also lauded the play of Collins and Conroy in the second group. The duo registered Norwood's best match score in a 13-14 defeat.

Girls' soccer falls to Weymouth, Milton

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

It took the defending Division 1 South champion Weymouth girls' soccer squad to end Norwood's unprecedented team unbeaten streak of eight.

Until the Mustangs clashed with the Wildcats last week, they were sporting a remarkable 7-0-1 record, while holding down first place in the Bay State Conference Herget Division.

The Mustangs still have a firm grasp of the top spot in the Herget, but their 4-1 loss to the Carey Division leaders left them knowing they have to play much better against the tip-top competition.

"We came out flat and did not play our best today," said Norwood head coach Jay Dupuis. "If you want to be able to defeat a team like Weymouth, you need to be at the top of your game to do it."

Playing their first game in a week because of the recent rainouts, the Mustangs appeared to be a bit out of sync. While not one to make excuses, Dupuis thought "having a week off did not help our chemistry on the field."

The coach added, "There is a reason [Weymouth] won the Division 1 South championship last year, they are a very good team. That said, if we played our game, we could have at least earned a point [through a tie] today."

Despite the sub-par outing, Norwood was still very much in the thick of things when sophomore star midfielder Cory Ryan headed in a beautiful corner kick by Katie Johnson to knot the game with a little more than 10 minutes left in the contest. It was Ryan's BSC leading 10th goal of the campaign.

However, the Wildcats took the lead on a direct kick from 20 yards out and went on to score two more unanswered goals to put the game away.

"Despite being able to tie the game up with a bit more than 10 minutes to play, we came up a bit short," lamented Dupuis

Norwood hit the skids again against host Milton with a 2-0 loss last Friday to fall to 7-2-1. Both goals occurred late in the contest.

"We out-shot Milton, but failed to take advantage of our opportunities," said Dupuis. "We defended well for the most part, but we had a couple of fundamental breakdowns that allowed Milton to score both goals.

Norwood will host Fontbonne Academy in a non-league contest tomorrow.

Field hockey teeters with tourney hopes

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

Last season, the Norwood field hockey team came oh so close to making the state tourney, but fell short by a game. This fall, the stakes are high again as the Mustangs find themselves teetering between qualifying and missing the postseason.

Entering yesterday's game at Bellingham, Norwood was 4-5-1, after losses to Milton and Nantucket last week.

"At this point in the season, every point is critical as we are trying to get back to the state tournament," said head coach Allison Parks, after her squad lost to Milton, 3-2. "Overall, I was disappointed with our team's effort. I felt if we played a strong 60 minutes, we would have definitely come out with a win."

Certainly, the Mustangs started fast. Six minutes into the game, senior right wing and Co-captain Kim Clougher scored off a feed from junior center Jillian Walsh.

"I thought we started off the game real strong," said Parks. "We had a few more scoring opportunities after that first goal, but we were unable to capitalize."

However, the Wildcats made good on their chance at the 15:50 mark on a straight shot from the right side of the circle. About eight minutes later, Milton registered the go-ahead goal to lead 2-1 at the half.

"I thought after that second Milton goal, we played back on our heels and really let Milton take control of the play," said the Norwood mentor. "Defensively, I thought we were disorganized and we were not aggressive on defense. In addition, we did not do a good job of stopping the ball, allowing Milton to gain about 15-20 yards on the majority of their free hits."

The Wildcats continued to flourish, adding an insurance goal at 19:16 of the second frame.

Norwood, meanwhile, cut the deficit to one with two minutes left in regulation on a strike by junior left winger Gina Mancini, but "unfortunately, we were unable to gain possession after the hit and did not get another scoring opportunity in the game," said Parks.

The coach praised Clougher and senior co-captain Liz Greeley for playing outstanding in the losing cause.

The Mustangs also came out strong against host Nantucket last week, but once Norwood fell behind, it never recovered during the non-conference contest.

"Throughout the first 10 minutes of the game, I thought we outplayed Nantucket," said Parks. "But, after they scored to up 1-0, [they] just seemed to step up their game. I thought we were outworked and just didn't play the way we are capable of [playing]."

Nantucket scored first at the 20:51 mark and went up 2-0 with just 3:31 left in the first half. It stayed that way until the break.

The Mustangs had their chances in the second stanza, but again had trouble maintaining any offensive flow.

"We played much better in the second half and had a few scoring opportunities, but just couldn't manage to keep the pressure on Nantucket in their defensive circle," said the coach.

The Whalers made it 3-0 with less than five minutes left in the game to put the game out of reach.

"It was disappointing to go all the way to Nantucket and not come out with a win," said Parks.

The coach cited Clougher, Greeley and junior Jessica ElBach as all having "solid games."

Freshman soccer standout Nicole Quintiliani had helped in supporting Norwood's strong offense this season. The Mustangs, who lost two straight last week, still hold first place in the Bay State Conference Herget Division.

FinCom takes airport to task

In looking after the town's monetary interests, the Norwood Finance Committee has recommended that the Board of Selectmen take a serious look into the recent findings against the Norwood Memorial Airport.

In May, the Federal Aviation Administration found that the airport was in violation of three major grant assurances, which the airport commission is required to maintain in order to secure federal funding. The airport commissioners appealed the FAA ruling that was denied in September.

"I am totally shocked by this," said FinCom member Judith Langone. "We didn't even know this was going on, and if I remember correctly, we asked recently if everything was alright, and I believe you said things were fine."

Airport Commission Chairman Brian Corbett assured Langone and the FinCom that the FAA's decision would not turn into a lawsuit, and that the airport was required to submit a corrective action plan that offered some solutions to the pending problems.

The issue stems from a self-fueling request and a long-term lease that have caused some internal conflicts and murky legal matters that the airport commissioners are trying to figure out to satisfy the FAA and ensure their federal funding.

Boston Air Charter, which operates out of Norwood Memorial Airport, wanted to install their own fuel pumps to service their own vehicles. Eastern Air Charter currently owns and operates the only fueling facility on the premises.

The problem, according to the airport commissioners, is that in order to install their own system, Boston Air Charter would have to install electrical wiring across property owned by EAC, who have an 80 year lease on the land that was signed in 1967.

"I don't imagine we'd be offering leases like that now," Langone said.

FinCom chairman Allan Howard said the easy solution would be to grant BAC an easement to install wiring around the property lines, but that decision will have to be worked out between BAC, EAC and the FAA.

Corbett said it would cost millions to buy out the remainder of the lease, and the EAC has indicated that they will bring the matter to court if BAC is allowed to cross their property.

FinCom member Joe Greeley pointed out that the airport commission is technically under the purview of the Board of Selectmen, who, according to Corbett have not asked for any information regarding the FAA violations.

"Do they know the possible expenses the town is facing?" he asked. "We need to resolve this, because there is a possibility that this will cost the town money."

The Fin Com voted to send a letter recommending that selectmen consider researching the matter.
