The Finance Commission voted to support all four articles on the April 25 Special Town Meeting warrant. This Town Meeting will deal with implementing a local option meals tax, implementing an early retirement incentive (ERI) program, selling land on University Avenue and changing whom the town's fire chief reports to.

Both the general government and school departments have reached their eighth pass targets. However, these targets assume positive action from Town Meeting members on the local option meals tax, which would raise $465,000 in fiscal year (FY) 2012 and $575,000 in FY 2013 and beyond. It would do this by adding a 0.75 percent tax to the existing 6.25 percent meals tax collected by the state, and the additional money raised would be passed on to the town as revenue. If approved, it is anticipated the increased tax would go into effect July 1.

"I think you all realize this $575,000 is anticipated revenue, and would help balance the budget," General Manager John Carroll said, noting that the town's eighth pass budget assumes approval of this sales tax.

If the meals tax proposal is rejected by Town Meeting, both sides of government would have to make additional cuts, possibly leading to further personnel cuts. The general government departments would have to cut an additional $209,250 and the school department would have to cut an additional $255,750 from their FY 2012 budgets.

The FinCom voted 4-1 to recommend approval of the local option meals tax, with John Hayes opposed.

"If you put this through, it will be on the books 20 years from now," Hayes said. "Any time you put a tax on the books in Massachusetts, it's perma-

The Downtown Steering Committee unanimously voted to recommend acceptance of the new Downtown Master Plan, as prepared by Ted Brovitz, Senior Planner for The Cecil Group.

Brovitz said that while Norwood Center can be improved, it is in a good position compared to other towns in the Commonwealth.

"I've done a lot of downtowns and I think you're in really good shape," Brovitz said.

He described Norwood Center as "an undiscovered jewel," and with a little polishing, new businesses can be attracted to the area. His master plan has several recommendations for the downtown, and addressed the issue of parking. He noted that Norwood Center has a good supply of parking, but is lacking in some areas.

"There are pockets where parking is constrained, mainly in the core areas of Washington Street," such as the portion between Vernon Street and Cottage Street, Brovitz said,

In addition, there is a lack of

Selectman Kinnaly passes

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Former Board of Selectmen Chairman, FBI agent, World War II veteran and Norwood business owner John F. Kinnaly, 85, died of cancer on Wednesday, April 6.

Kinnaly, a former Sherwood Drive resident who was spending his retirement in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, served as a member of the Norwood Board of Selectmen from 1980 through 1995. His legacy of service lives on today, as he was instrumental in bringing the Civic Center to town and helped convert the Guild School building into a medical center.

"John served with dignity and was a very generous man," said Joseph Curran, who served with Kinnaly on the Board of Selectmen from 1982-1993.

Curran noted that Kinnaly's relationship with then Governor Edward J. King allowed them to purchase the armory for $1. King and Kinnaly were former classmates at Boston College.

After his tenure on the Board of Selectmen, Kinnaly remained active in town. He and Curran opened Sherwood Travel, and the two of them worked together on this travel agency for five years.

"It was a pleasure to be associated with him in both his political and personal life," Curran said.

In addition to serving the town, Kinnaly served the country. Kinnaly was a World War II United States Army veteran and an active member of the Norwood Knights of Columbus, where he achieved the rank of 4th degree Knight.

"He was a great guy," said Tony Mastandrea. "He was a great person who did a lot for the town of Norwood."

Former Board of Selectmen Chairman, John F. Kinnaly

Though he was spending his retirement in Florida, Kinnaly spent his summers in Norwood. Selectman Bill Plasko, who served with Kinnaly from 1980 to 1982, noted that Kinnaly often attended the annual Fourth of July parade.

Plasko and others also noted that Kinnaly had a fatherly relationship with Boston Mayor Thomas Menino.

"He became sort of a second father to him," Plasko said, noting that Menino would often call Kinnaly "dad," and that this relationship was reciprocated by Kinnaly.

Curran said, "Tom Menino was the son John and Louise never had," noting Menino was very close with the family and called John on a daily basis. It's appropriate that Menino spoke at Curran's funeral on Monday and provided the eulogy.

"Somewhere along the line, John stopped being 'a friend to the Menino family,' and instead became 'a part of the Menino family,'" Menino said. "Angela and I truly loved him."

Menino compared Kinnaly's death to the death of his father, Carl Menino, in 1986.

"I remember the feeling I had when my father died, 26 years ago," Menino said. "It was horrible, and it's a feeling I'm having again here this morning, because that's what John became to me, someone I looked up to, someone I trusted and loved, someone I'm going to miss every day for the rest of my life. It's as if a piece of me died, too, when he died last Wednesday morning."

The funeral mass was held at St. Timothy's Church, after which Kinnaly was buried at Highland Cemetery.

School Committee approves budget

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Prior to approving their fiscal year (FY) 2012 budget of $34,345,233, the School Committee held a public hearing, where concerned residents were given a chance to speak out regarding the proposed School Department budget.

The School Department initially requested $36,293,139 for FY 2012, so they had to cut $1,947,906 from this request. While there are cuts from requests, the FY 2012 budget is actually a $151,096 increase from FY 2011 budget of $34,194,137.

Members of the public questioned why the Fine Arts Department was taking such a heavy hit, if department heads and principals were consulted during the budget balancing process and which teachers were being cut.

Several people spoke out against the $109,020 in cuts to the Fine Arts Department.

"It seems other departments aren't being hit as hard as the Fine Arts Department," said Carmel Kerrigan, Vice President of the Norwood Parent's Music Association (PMA). "The Fine Arts is the only program that's been that hit hard. I'm not seeing any other program hit that hard, and I'd like to know why."

Brenda Farulla, Ex-Officio members of the PMA, questioned the $63,000 cut from the elementary instrumental music program, noting that cutting this program could adversely affect the program as a whole.

"Elementary instrumental music is a key part of the end product we see at the high school," Farulla said. "I ask you to take another look and distribute those cuts more equally across the board."

Several people asked who was involved in the budgeting process. Superintendent of Schools Jim Hayden said the school principals, department heads, the SPED Director, Fine Arts Director Catherine Connor-Moen, Athletic Director Brian McDonough, Business Manager Anne Marie Ellis and Assistant Superintendent Dr. Alec Wyeth were all consulted. They considered closing a school, going back to the half-day kindergarten, examining the busing costs and increasing fees as they worked to balance the budget.

"This committee has worked hard day after day and night after night to turn over every stone," Hayden said.

The specific teachers being cut were not named at the meeting. However, there are staffing cuts at all levels. The $1,033,800 in personnel cuts represents 20.8 full-time equivalent jobs, including four Norwood High School teachers, 6.8 Coakley Middle School teachers and five elementary school teachers. The remaining faculty cuts include one SPED position, one technical position, one custodial position, one elementary instrumental music position and one intervention specialist.

PTO member Sarah Quinn requested more information on these cuts, because as a Town Meeting member, she wants to know just what specific positions would be lost should she vote for this budget on the Town Meeting floor. In addition, as a parent, she felt the public has a right to know, as these cuts will affect their children.

However, the specific positions potentially being cut are not finalized yet. They are still looking at schedules and models for the Coakley Middle School, and just what will be cut is to be determined.

"Absolutely everything is on the table right now," Wyeth said.

Chris Hannaford spoke out regarding the budget, saying if the school department needs more money, they should create a larger budget pie.

"If we value education and our expenses keep going up, we have to go back to the taxpayers and do a proposition 2 1/2 override or whatever it takes," Hannaford said. "Times are tough, but somehow, we need to solve the problem, and not solve it by making the parties fight against each other."

The School Committee accepted the budget by a 4-3 vote, with Mark Joseph, John Badger, Eleanor Travers and Dick Kief in favor, Bill Plasko, Paul Samargedlis and Courtney Rau opposed.

Joseph stressed that this vote does not end the budgeting process. They are waiting on a vote from the unions regarding the proposal to roll back salaries to their FY 2011 levels, rather than see a pay increase for FY 2012. If the union accepts this freeze, the move will save approximately $700,000, allowing the School Department to restore 14 of the cut jobs.

THIS IS ONLY A TEST

We've often been among those offering the common sense opinion that for schools to improve, more parental involvement is vital.

We still maintain that, but our faith in the concept is being tested.

At different times over the past few weeks, children across the nation have been - or will be - taking assessment tests mandated as part of the federal "No Child Left Behind" act put in place by the Bush Administration.

In Pennsylvania, a mother has made national news for pulling her kids out of that state's variation of the test. Her complaint: she's Catholic.

The woman takes issue with the testing, saying it causes undue stress on her kids and is unfair to some less advantaged schools and students who are held to the same standards as those better off. As a Catholic, she squeezes that faith's call for social justice through a loophole that allows an exemption to the test on religious grounds.

She's not alone in her umbrage. Parents everywhere are upset over the weeklong exams and the toll they allegedly take on students.

Even the president has weighed in, pointing to estimates that more than 80 percent of schools across the nation will likely be labeled as failing this year. "What we're doing to measure success and failure is out of line," he is reported as saying.

So let's get this straight, parents and politicians alike have long bemoaned the lagging performance of American students compared to their peers, so we put in place a way to quantify achievement, to provide a baseline to build upon. To make an analogy, you can't fix your car until you first figure out why it won't start.

But, when confronted with the fact that the achievement gap is wide, many have a reaction akin to a junior high student's lament about a math test: "It's too hard!"

Schools are failing? Must be a bad test.

As for parents like that woman in Pennsylvania, we are far from sympathetic. She seems one of the many parents who love to complain about the quality of schools, but when moves are made to improve them, they fight back because their precious snowflakes should be above the fray. Her "social justice" argument should be an affront to faithful Catholics in its use as a political weapon.

Parents hate the test because it means their kids are upset. Teachers hate it because it might reveal how the under-achievers in their profession are insulated and protected by their union. Politicians and school administrators like neither the cost, nor the bad news.

Don't get us wrong. There are problems with the tests. We'd argue that they need to be more standardized state by state, school district by school district. Clear policies and metrics need to be in place when it comes to special needs students (especially given that we seem to be steadily reaching a point where all students will be classified as having a learning disability or some alleged form of autism). Funding is arguably lacking for schools facing mandates in concert with budget cuts.

One common complaint is that teachers are teaching to the test, structuring curriculum almost exclusively to fit what they will be measured on. If that means other essential work falls to the wayside, this may be bad. Maybe, however, the fact that kids are failing in their grasp of core educational measures means that they need that renewed focus on the basics of math and science. Teaching to the test, just maybe, ensures that they learn at least the essentials expected of them.

The fight over these tests is typical of how too many view problems these days. We want change, but reject any move beyond the status quo. It's the wrong lesson to send to our kids.

FinCom member Alan Slater noted, “All of our neighboring towns have either adopted the tax or are trying to do so, so it doesn’t put us at a competitive disadvantage.”

The FinCom also voted 3-2 to recommend the ERI, a budget balancing measure taken by Carroll to help the general government departments reach their budget target. Hayes and FinCom Chairman Joseph Greeley were opposed to this the ERI program.

The ERI program will cut seven positions: two from the Fire Department, two from the Police Department, two from the Department of Public Works and one from the library. It would give the town an estimated $322,463 in savings.

“We have to close the budget’s structural gap somehow,” Carroll said. “We haven’t done a lot of cutting, but we have to do something. We have to reduce positions.”

Cutting these seven positions through the ERI program does help the town reduce its structural deficit. While the town is allowed to hire back some employees, Carroll has no plan to do so.

“It allows you to hire back in the first year 45 percent of the [cut] payroll,” Carroll said, meaning Norwood would be able to hire back about $145,000 in personnel. “I wouldn’t hire anybody. I don’t see why - we have to reduce payroll.”

Greeley was opposed to the ERI program because of the cuts to the Fire Department.

“That flies in the face of what we’ve heard from [Municipal Resources, Inc.] over the last few months,” Greeley said.

He noted that MRI is recommending they hire two firefighters to help reduce substitution expenses. While Greeley agrees the town is not in the fiscal position to do so currently, he disagrees with removing the two firefighters from ERI.

The FinCom also unanimously voted to recommend the sale of a 15.45 acre piece of land on University Avenue. The land has an assessed value of $1,773,000, and this would be the minimum amount the town would accept.

Sealed bids were accepted through April 11, and the high bidder was Joseph Federico, who bid $2,451,000, about $600,000 more than the second

The Norwood Record highest bidder and $678,000 more than the minimum acceptable price.

“We’re getting $600,000 more than expected, presumably, if all things go well,” Carroll said.

The sale requires Town Meeting approval, and was offered to bidders conditionally. If Town Meeting opts not to sell the land, then the sale does not go forward. If they do, the town gets $2,451,000, which can be used for capital expenses in the years ahead.

The FinCom also unanimously approved recommending that the fire chief report to Carroll, not the Board of Selectmen. While this is not directly a money-based article, they believe it will have budget implications, and felt it was appropriate to comment on the matter.

“I definitely think this will have a positive impact on the budget, at the very least,” Greeley said.

Asphalt plant a go

State's highest court upholds lower rulings

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

The town's ongoing legal battle with the Norfolk Asphalt Company has hit a dead end. At Tuesday night's Board of Selectmen meeting, it was revealed that the Supreme Judicial Court has denied further appellate review of the case, which means the decision of the lower courts stands.

This means the Norfolk Asphalt Plant, located at 601 Washington St., is able to reopen as a matter of right. Both the Massachusetts Appeals Court and Land Court affirmed that bituminous concrete differs from fresh asphalt, and thereby the manufacture of bituminous concrete is not disallowed by local bylaws.

The arguments were based on the definitions present in the bylaws. The town argued that bituminous concrete is a toxic or hazardous material, and therefore requires a special permit, while the Norfolk Asphalt Company argues it is not a hazardous material, so the bylaw does not apply. The bylaw defines asphalt as an oil or petroleum derivative, and the courts believe bituminous concrete cannot reasonably be described as such, as it is a composite material made of sand, aggregates, bitumen and asphalt.

The item was on the Board of Selectmen's late agenda, and filed for now. There was indication it would be discussed further at a future meeting, and perhaps see if the town had any other options in this case.

"This is generally bad news," said Selectman Helen Abdallah-Donohue. "[Town Counsel] David DeLuca did a great job trying to preserve the rights of the people of Norwood," but the decision was out of their hands, and the Supreme Judicial Court has opted not to hear the case.

In other matters, The Board of Selectmen met with Dave Polcari to discuss a pair of projects in town. The first deals with the water main on Route 1, the second with the sanitary sewer mains near Westover Parkway.

"We're going to replace 400 feet of 14-inch pipe on Route 1 due to the water main breaks last fall," said General Manager John Carroll, and the town aims to get a $500,000 grant loan from the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA) to fund the project.

The second project involves lining and rehabilitating the sanitary sewer mains in the Westover Parkway area. The pipes in question are over 50 years old and in need of repair, and it will cost approximately $2.2 million to rehabilitate the approximately 17,000 linear feet of pipe in question. This is the complete price tag, and covers everything from construction costs to police details.

"The main objective of this project is to reduce infiltration and inflow into the water pipes," Polcari said, noting that if the town lowers the infiltration rates, they lower the amount they must pay to the MWRA.

"It is more cost effective to fix the pipes than pay for the leakage in the long term," Polcari said. The pipes allow an average of 200,000 gallons of water in per day, with a peak infiltration rate of 330,000 gallons. At a cost of .00178 cents per gallon, ground water leaking into the pipes costs the town $130,000 annually. With a $2.2 million price tag, it will take about 17 years for the project to pay for itself.

"You'll have a net savings by doing this project," Polcari said.

The board unanimously agreed to seek authorization from Town Meeting to borrow the funds necessary for this project.

The Board also met with Fire Chief Michael Howard, who presented his monthly report to the group. He continues to be overspent in the overtime and recall, substitution and building accounts.

"Overtime and recall is overspent," Howard said. "The over-expenditure is based on a very difficult winter and heavy storm coverage."

So far, the department has spent $74,092.37 of its $80,000 overtime and recall account, meaning just $5,907.63 remains for the last quarter of the fiscal year.

Substitution is also overspent, as the department has spent $536,174.24 of their $637,000 budget.

"The substitution account is overspent by 9.18 percent," Howard said. "That includes the funds that were allocated in December."

While the budget is overspent by approximately $58,487.94, Howard is confident they can make do with the $100,825.76 that remains.

"We are confident that with the money provided in December, we will make it through June 30," Howard said, as he is attempting to manage the account in as frugal a fashion possible.

The other area of concern is the police and fire building budget, which is overspent by 6.83 percent, or approximately $21,915.81. This is due to the building's electricity bills. As of April 1, just $6,310.91 remains in the electric line item, which started the year at $125,000.

Per the recommendation of the Finance Commission, Howard said he is not paying the electricity bills for the last five months of the fiscal year. He is confident they can fund the remaining expenses in the building budget, but the electricity bills will have to be dealt with later as unpaid bills.

"We are concerned that something is running that we aren't aware of," Howard said, as the building's electricity usage has gone up by approximately 10 percent, but the department isn't doing anything different from years past.

long-term parking spaces for employees. There are approximately 2,300 spaces in the downtown area, and 2,300 employees who work there.

"I think that there is an issue for employees," Brovitz said. "There are not many long term parking areas," specifically for people looking to park for approximately eight hours so they can operate a business in the center of town.

His suggestion is to heavily enforce the parking limits on Washington Street, and allow for longer term parking as you move further away from the center of town. Premium spaces should be reserved for customers, but employees need access to long-term parking near their workplaces.

Downtown Steering Committee member Michael Lyons noted the town has had numerous parking studies, and this Master Plan confirms these studies.

"We've learned from every parking study we've had is it is more of a perception issue than it is a reality," he said.

Vacancies are a similar problem. Brovitz said Norwood Center does not have a large vacancy problem, but the vacancies they do have are in highly visible areas on Washington Street.

Brovitz also addressed how the town can promote the center. It is important to let businesses know Norwood has a vibrant community, one that is conducive for business.

"I think there is a market here," Brovitz said. "I really think you have an attractive environment for stores."

He recommends creating a website promoting Norwood Center, saying it is the least expensive way Norwood can get the word out and spread information about the center of town to large number of people.

Brovitz also addressed the idea of hiring a Downtown Manager, someone who would meet with business owners and organize events promoting the center of town. While the Downtown Steering Committee agreed this was a good idea, member Jean Taylor noted the town might not be receptive to hiring someone right now, especially with layoffs and with an Early Retirement Incentive program being used to balance the budget.

Planning Board approves FM Global, Elmway Farms

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

The Planning Board unanimously supported FM Global's major project on Route 1 and a new plan of record for Elmway Farms.

FM Global is planning its major expansion at their 1125 and 1151 Boston Providence Highway site, the current home of the Four Points Sheraton Norwood. Joining the Four Points Sheraton will be a 160,000 square foot building that will house Dedham Medical and FM Global offices. Currently, both these businesses are located on River Ridge Drive in Norwood, and this move will allow them to expand.

"The new building will be integrated nicely with the buildings that exist there," said David Mackwell of Kelly Engineering.

Mackwell added that they addressed some of the Planning Board's concerns with the site, including the subject of pedestrian access. They have designed a sidewalk for FM Global Way, and this will connect to Pleasant Street and the Neponset River Walk. An easement will be included, so Norwood residents can access the River Walk.

The sidewalk that connects the site to Pleasant Street will be a full sidewalk, feature a three-foot wide grass strip and granite curbing. With the added sidewalk will come two new catch basins and 400 feet of new pipe, which will connect into Norwood's drainage system.

"[This sidewalk] meets all of the Town Engineer's requests of what needs to be done down there," Mackwell said, adding he has walked the site with Mark Ryan to address his concerns.

Another issue was parking. While he does not feel it will be an issue at the site, Mackwell ensured that a specific portion of land will be available for use as parking in the future.

"We have ample space to building parking lots to put us above the required amount," Mackwell said.

The Planning Board also approved a new plan of record for the Shoppes at Elmway Farms. At their March 21 meeting, the site was split from one large lot into two smaller, conforming lots. This split required a new plan of record and new easements, which Don Myers of Norwood Engineering and site owner Joe Laham presented on Monday.

"We've gone out and done a complete survey of this parcel of land," Myers said, and they added three new easements to the site. These easements include an access easement, a utility easement and a sewer easement.

"It actually works better for all of us," Laham said, as these easements ensure people will be able to access both lots going forward.

Laham noted he has numerous tenants ready to go into the Shoppes at Elmway Farm, but they are all waiting for an anchor tenant to step up and be the first one in. At the previous meeting, the lot was split to accommodate potential tenant MonkeySports Inc., a large specialty sports store that sells hockey, lacrosse, baseball and softball equipment.

"Once we get this thing occupied and people come in, it'll get going," Laham said.

The Planning Board was glad to see this project moving forward, as they originally approved the Special Permit for the site in 2007.

"It'll be good to see some action down there," member Ernest Paciorkowski said.

Planning Board Chairman Thomas Wynne added, "It's a good looking project. It was a good looking project to begin with, it just never went anywhere."

The Planning Board also approved two new signs in Norwood Center: one for the restaurant Peony, which should open soon, the other for Salon Mirage. In addition, the board recognized E. William Bamber for serving 45 years on the board, and being re-elected to his tenth term on April 4.

"That's certainly got to be a record for the town of Norwood, perhaps even the state," Wynne said.

Trusted by prostate cancer patients from around the world – and around the corner.

If you've been recently diagnosed with prostate cancer, or care about a man who has, it's good to know about the option of minimally invasive robotic-assisted prostate surgery at the Brigham and Women's Center for Robotic Surgery at Faulkner Hospital.

Jim C. Hu, MD, MPH, director of the Center, is one of the most experienced surgeons in the nation with this procedure. Both he and his associate, Steven L. Chang, MD, MS, are fellowship-trained in robotic surgery.

Robotic-assisted prostate surgery is a state-of-the-art procedure that can offer shorter recovery times, less pain and weakness, and a quicker return to daily living. But what's most important is the experience of the surgeon using the technology — which is why so many patients turn to our surgeons and specialized team for our expertise in robotic-assisted surgeries for prostate, bladder and kidney cancers.

Mustangs tame Tigers 5-0

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

Two games into the season, the Mustangs girls' softball team has shown an ability to score early and often as Norwood defeated Newton North 5-0 on Monday to remain undefeated.

The Mustangs scored twice in the first inning to kick off the game's scoring. Norwood catcher Nicole Casey went 2-for-2 in the contest, providing consistent play on both sides of the plate.

Norwood head coach Carol Savino recognizes Casey has made tremendous progress, thanks to her hard work.

"She's gaining confidence behind the plate," Savino said of Casey, "which is good to see."

Norwood continued to score, with one run in the third inning and two runs in the fifth. The Mustangs have changed their offensive philosophy this season, but the transition has not impacted their ability to score runs.

"We made good contact throughout the game," Savino said, noting the team's offensive play.

While Norwood scored plenty of runs last year behind the strength of its power hitters, the team will emphasize speed and defense to win games during the 2011 campaign.

Savino has seen her team score runs consistently early in games. The Mustangs have scored a total of six runs in the first inning in its two contests.

Offense can take time to develop, but the Mustangs are off to a great start.

"You always hope you can score runs early in the season," Savino said. "Today, we managed to get some runs playing small ball."

Norwood senior co-captain Lauren Duggan contributed to the Mustangs small ball effort, squeezing home one of the team's five runs. Duggan finished the contest with a triple and an infield single.

The Mustangs received contributions from a senior pitcher as well. Norwood senior co-captain Ali Maloof struck out 13 Tigers, allowing two hits and one walk in the complete game effort.

Maloof and Duggan have dominated their first two opponents, carrying over their strong efforts from last season. Norwood has already shown it can compete in the Bay State Conference.

"We're on the right track," Savino said. "When we went 22-1 [last season], we knew we wanted to get off to a good start this season. And we're definitely headed in the right direction."

Norwood needed a comeback in last season's contest to defeat the Tigers. The Mustangs scored twice in the 7th inning to stay undefeated and earn a 3-2 road victory.

Savino recognizes this season's contest could be a positive sign for the Mustangs.

"It was nice to compete with a team that we played close last year and score five runs this time," Savino said. "We wanted to start out winning games early, especially league games."

Boys' track struggles in harsh weather

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

The Norwood indoor track team battled inclement weather during the winter. The outdoor track team faced the same challenge last week.

The Mustangs boys outdoor track team dropped to 0-2 this season following a 91-45 loss at Walpole last Tuesday. The afternoon meet featured rain and wind, but the Norwood squad did its best to compete.

Norwood juniors Jon Canniff and Owen Gearty led the Mustangs' efforts. Canniff placed first in the 110 meter hurdles and second in the high jump. Gearty earned the top spot in the high jump, triple jump and the 400 meter hurdles, and finished third in the 110 meter hurdles. Doug Jensen helped the Mustangs earn the top spot in the javelin as well.

Norwood head coach Russ Booth recognizes his team competes well on a daily basis.

"We have a consistent number of kids at practice every day, which is great," Booth said. "We have a solid group of 50 kids who show up every day, work hard and do the best they can with the facility we have."

Booth admits the weather may have played a role in his team's performance. Harsh weather conditions made it difficult to compete last Tuesday, and have made practice challenging for the Mustangs. But Booth anticipates the squad's performance will improve later in the season.

Girls' tennis falls short in season opener

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

The Norwood girls' tennis team lost its first contest of the season, falling 3-2 to Stoughton last Wednesday. The Mustangs played the Black Knights close, but their inexperience may have been too much to overcome.

Despite the loss, Norwood's young team showed it is adopting the mindset of its new head coach Carl Briggs.

Norwood's first doubles team earned a come-from-behind victory in the effort. Sandra Mastinggal and Anna Shivosky lost their first set 7-6, but won the next two 7-6, 6-1 to earn a point.

Briggs recognizes his first doubles team gave the Mustangs a great opportunity to win their season opener.

"It took a lot of determination to pull out the win," Briggs said, noting Mastinggal's and Shivosky's effort. "They stayed focused throughout the match and were able to come back to win."

The Mustangs showed they can compete in singles matches as well. Norwood's Britney Cadiz earned a point at first singles 6-3, 6-1.

But Briggs recognizes his team's lack of experience may have hurt them in the match. Norwood's roster includes 21 student athletes, but many lack tennis experience.

"It's been a tough spring because of the weather," Briggs said. "Practice has been limited because of the conditions, and we haven't had a lot of time to get ready."

Norwood's second doubles duo

"The weather was really bad," Booth said. "We're not going to see great times until we get a great weather day."

The Mustangs have faced plenty of challenges early in the season. The squad had less than two weeks to prepare for its first meet, a 95-36 loss at Needham on March 31. In addition, the team has been unable to train and practice for jumping events consistently because of the weather and the lack of a suitable training facility.

Norwood will have a new facility next season, but is trying to do the best it can with what is available.

"We have a lot of good young talent," Booth said, "so I'd love to see if we can find a place where we can practice our jumping."

The Mustangs had a chance to earn their first win of the season against Milton on Tuesday. Booth anticipates the meet will be a hard-fought battle between two Bay State Conference squads.

"I expect us to do a lot better," Booth said prior to the Milton meet. "We can be a lot more competitive."

Norwood will have the opportunity to improve its record as it moves into the heart of its schedule. The team will attempt to develop a consistent training regimen and schedule for its student athletes.

"Now we're able to get into a routine," Booth said, "and hopefully we'll see a lot more improvement."

The Mustangs will search for the right routine as they compete in the Bay State Conference.

Softball tops Boxers 9-0

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

The more things change, the more they stay the same for the revamped Norwood softball team. The squad has changed its offensive philosophy, but continued its dominance on the field last week.

The Mustangs defeated the Brockton Boxers in its season opener last Friday, earning a 9-0 road victory.

Norwood finished last season 22-1 behind consistent pitching from Ali Maloof and Lauren Duggan, along with its power bats. The Mustangs pitching remains intact this season, but their offense has transitioned into one that emphasizes speed and smart base running.

The Mustangs consistent pitching was on display against the Boxers. Duggan pitched the first four innings, striking out eight Boxers in the outing. Maloof closed the contest with three innings of work, striking out eight as well.

Norwood pitchers shut down the Brockton offense, as Duggan and Maloof allowed a total of two hits and no walks in the contest.

The senior co-captains made their presence felt on the base paths as well. Duggan finished the game with three stolen bases, while Maloof swiped two bags.

Norwood scored four runs in the first inning. Sophomore Makenna Lane provided much of the offense for the Mustangs, hitting a two-run homer and a triple as part of a 2-for-4 day.

"It was nice to have happen," said Norwood head coach Carol Savino, noting the Mustangs' three-run first. "The two-run homer by [Lane] certainly helped make a difference."

Norwood senior co-captain Sarah Eckhardt provided an offensive spark with two singles, along with strong defensive play at second base.

The Mustangs hit five singles in the fourth inning, and every member of the team entered the game as the team built its 9-run lead.

"It was nice to score nine runs," Savino said. "It allowed us to play the kids we wanted to get a look at as well."

The Mustangs averaged more than eight runs per game last season behind an offense featuring several power hitters. On Friday, the team used small ball to put runs on the board.

"The kids did a nice job bunting," Savino said. "But we can put all that into play as the season progresses."

Smart base running could prove to be the key for the Mustangs to maintain offensive success this season. Norwood took advantage of several Boxers errors to score runs on Friday. The team will look to do the same as the season continues.

The shutout victory provides the Mustangs with momentum they hope to carry throughout the campaign.

"It's a good way to start," Savino said. "Starting the season with a win puts everything in a positive light."

The boys' lacrosse team dropped their season opener 12-10 in a game at Scituate. The opening game was a hard fought loss, but the team expects to make an impact in the Bay State Conference. First year head coach Anthony Roman has taken over the squad after former head coach Tom DeMaio moved to California. Roman spent three years as an assistant at Cohasset High School before taking the Norwood job. The team is expected to have an up-tempo style under Roman, something that was evidenced in the opening game. Mike Murray, Brian Rossman and Andrew Alty are the captains for this year's team.

of Hanil Patel and Molly Smith lost their match against Stoughton's Vicki Tran and Danielle Durham 6-3, 6-4.

Despite the season-opening loss, the team showed potential, and can learn from its mistakes.

"We had our chances to win," Briggs said, "but had difficulty winning the big points."

Briggs admits he is still determining which lineup provides the best chance of winning consistently. The head coach recognizes Norwood's first and second singles teams are set, along with the first doubles team.

The Mustangs failed to win a contest last season, but things are already looking up this year. Briggs anticipates the team will continue to grow as its players learn the game.

"The team might be difficult to manage at times," Briggs said, "but if I can get [the players] to put the work in, the possibilities to improve and compete are there."

Norwood eyes gradual improvement throughout the season.

"Eventually, we should be able to compete with teams like Stoughton," Briggs said. "But we still have a lot of work to do."

The Mustangs struggled to follow up their showing against Stoughton, falling 5-0 to Braintree on Monday. The early season has been a challenge for Briggs, but the team has a positive outlook.

"We have a great bunch of girls who are fun to be around," Briggs said. "My job is to create a love for tennis that will stay with them."

Jon Canniff reaches new heights

Daniel Kobialka
Staff Reporter

Norwood junior Jon Canniff has elevated the boys' indoor and outdoor track program with strong performances in several events, including the high jump, long jump and 55 meter hurdles. Canniff, the boys' indoor track team MVP, has taken his success in stride throughout his high school career.

Canniff began his track career as a freshman, learning the hurdles and jumping events. The junior continued to improve year after year and has learned what it takes to be successful.

He still challenges himself to compete in several events.

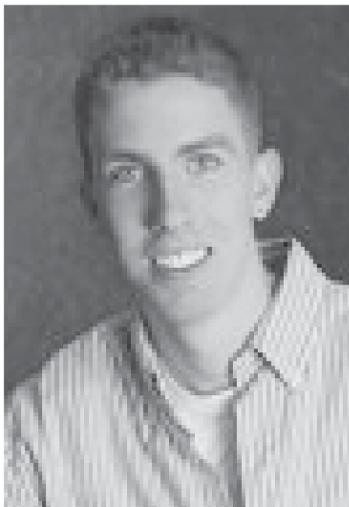

"I try to stay in shape," Canniff said, "because I want to be involved in a lot of different events."

Canniff has earned his reputation as one of the top hurdlers in the state. The junior finished sixth in the 55 meter hurdles at the Division 2 Championship in February, setting a personal best time in the process.

Following the indoor track season, Canniff began to set his mind to the spring campaign. The student athlete has no intention of resting on the laurels of his winter success, and has specific goals in mind for the outdoor season.

Canniff recognizes this season will be challenging, but would like to place in the top 10 in the All State Meet. The Mustangs started their season with a loss to Walpole, but Canniff remains confident in the team's abilities.

Jon Canniff

"We've gotten off to a rough start," Canniff said, "but the future of the team looks promising."

The Mustangs finished last season with a 1-6 overall record, and they eye significant improvement this year. Canniff's performance in the hurdles and jumping events will help the Mustangs improve quickly.

Norwood head coach Russ Booth recognizes Canniff is an integral member of the indoor and outdoor track squads.

"Jon [Canniff] is a real track guy," Booth said.

The Mustangs boast a young roster of student athletes in need of a strong, confident leader. Canniff is ready for the challenge.

"My track career has taught me how to be a leader," Canniff said. "I've learned a lot of good traits that have helped me. I've learned if you put your mind to something, you can definitely accomplish your goals. You just need to work at them."

Canniff has embraced a leadership role, teaching by example and helping his teammates understand what it takes to be successful in their respective events.

"I try to help out everyone on the team," Canniff said. "I'll give advice to teammates if it will help them, and try to help out the team as best I can."

Canniff will continue to lead his teammates on and off the track.

As part of an ancient Christian custom, we will welcome new members into our church community on Easter Sunday. There will be a reception with cake following the service.

EMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Good Friday Vacation Bible School is April 22 from 9 a.m.- noon for children age 4-Grade 4 are invited. Services are as follows: Emmanuel Lutheran Church, located at 24 Berwick St., 781-762-9457. On Palm Sunday, April 17, two worship services will be held. A formal worship service will be held at 8:45 a.m. and a contemporary worship service at 11:15 a.m. At both services, the Procession with Palms begins our Holy Week observance. Highlighting the triumphal entry into Jerusalem, we will join the joy of Jesus' followers in proclaiming him "Son of David" the one who comes in the name of the Lord. Then in the second part of worship-through a dramatic reading of scripture - we will remember the costly price Jesus paid for us as we follow his footsteps from arrest to trial, from judgment hall to Calvary's hill. Holy Communion will be shared. All are welcome to the Lord's Table at Emmanuel Church. On Holy Thursday, April 21, Emmanuel will have two worship services. There will be an afternoon service at 2:00 p.m. and an evening service at 7:30 p.m. in the main sanctuary of the church. Holy Communion will be celebrated at both services. The 2:00 p.m. afternoon service will end with a solemn reading focusing on the passion of our Lord. The 7:30 p.m. evening worship will conclude with the stripping of the altar and removal of all the chancel decorations. Worshipers will leave the church in silence. Good Friday, April 22, two very different worship services will be held, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The 2:00 p.m.

worship will focus on the Stations of the Cross. The large cross will be present in the chancel area as a focal point for our devotion. The 7:30 p.m. worship will follow the form of the traditional "Tenebrae" service of deepening darkness. Seven candles will be extinguished as the death of Jesus the Son of God is marked. The service closes with the sound of the earthquake and the last light of Jesus life being snuffed out. Saturday evening, April 23, at 7:00 p.m., Grace Episcopal Church will join Emmanuel in the Great Vigil of Easter. The service this year will be held at Emmanuel. We will light The "New Fire" of the resurrection and process into the still darkened nave of the church. Then, as the liturgy unfolds before us, we will experience the beautiful and moving transformation from the darkness of sin and death to the brightness of the new life in Christ. Join us as we "keep vigil" for the first word of the resurrection to reach our ears. On Easter morning, April 24, Emmanuel will have two worship opportunities. The 8:45 a.m. worship will feature a traditional formal liturgy including the Easter Procession with the new light of Christ, Easter message from our pastor and the sacrament of Holy Communion. All are welcome to the Lord's Supper at Emmanuel Church. The 11:15 a.m. Contemporary Easter Worship will follow the style of worship that has become so much a part of Emmanuel's weekly schedule. With a blend of traditional and contemporary hymns we will welcome the "Happy Morning" of Jesus' resurrection, hear a message from our pastor and share in the Holy Meal of Communion.
