Community comes out big for Norwood Day

Patrick Cochran
Staff Reporter

The community was out in full force on Saturday as hordes of locals congested the streets for the 13th annual Norwood Day parade.

The morning parade culminated with the awarding of the town's Anne T. Lydon Volunteer of the Year award to Michael Saad.

Pre-parade predictions expected as many as 15,000 Norwood and area residents to be on hand for this year's installment, which featured nearly 200 groups, businesses and organizations in participation.

"It's always a great time," said Bill Discepolo, who was working at the Norwood Food Pantry booth, which has participated in the event every year since 2002. "The weather's beautiful. It's always

HI GUYS, IN LOVING MEMORY

Dante Picciano recently passed away at the age of 90. His beloved wife, Carmela, preceded him in passing 15 years ago. His three daughters are Maria, Lisa, and Diana, of our town's famous Dante's Three Hair Studio that has been in Norwood Center for more than 36 years, now operating from Serenity Hair Salon on Washington Street. Dante's life story is very interesting as he, his wife, Carmela, and children, Maria, and Robert were born in Ortona, Italy and had decided to leave their homeland and come to America. After all the paperwork, etc. was done and approved for legal migration to America, the Picciano's boarded the Andrea Doria in 1956, bringing with them everything they owned; all their household furnishings, clothing, food, etc. There was no limit as to what they could bring on the ship to America. As you know, the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm, crashed in the New England waters of Nantucket. Maria remembers the ship beginning to list with thick oil filling the halls and decks. Ironically, it was the Stockholm that saved the families aboard the Andrea Doria. The Picciano's lost every item that they brought on board. They were left with nothing. They were transported to New York where they met Dante's uncle, who brought them to Hyde Park to start their new lives. Maria states that the neighborhood was wonderful in sharing everything they had with the new arrivals. Lisa and Diana were born here in America. It is unimaginable how difficult it must have been for the Picciano's and the others aboard the sinking ship. Dante leaves his beloved children, Maria, Robert, Lisa, and Diana, and his adored seven grandchildren. Memory Eternal.

NORWOOD DAY

Another great celebration on Norwood Day downtown. Congrats to all that worked so hard to yet again make our town shine. Also, congratulations to Volunteer of the Year, Mike Saad. Great job, great guy! SANBORN GLASS CO. Sanborn has moved up the road to 242 Pleasant St., behind Kelley's Gas Station. Bob began the business 37 years ago in February 1978 (coinciding with the Blizzard of '78). Sanborn's offers excellent work in auto glass repair, house windows, Plexiglas, mirrors, and all types of cabinet glass, (decorative or plain). Stop in and see Bob or Jamie, tell them you read it here. You won't be disappointed! I know that for a fact.

IMPORTANT ISSUE

Yes, it is important to stand one's ground when correct and not lower ones standards when attacked by ignorance. A few years ago, someone blew in from out of town and called the ACLU telling them that the Nativity scene that sat in front of the Balch School was 'threatening the children.' Eighty years of Norwood tradition was trashed when the Nativity was taken down. Now, the Norwood School's cannot say Christmas Recess, but instead they will use the inane term, holiday break. It's a FEDERAL holiday, and it's CHRISTMAS around the world! The Nativity on the Town Common is on land paid for by residents' taxes. The Nativity should be put back in front of the Balch as the land is also paid for by Town residents! Traditions are important. Being PC is bringing our nation to its knees!

ABUNDANT TABLE

The AT is open again serving meals for their guests at the Congregational Church. They have just reopened, as all repairs have now been completed from the damaging storms of last winter. There are many in need and all are welcome every Wednesday and Friday evening for dinner at no cost. The AT is staffed by all volunteers who do amazing work for those that might need a bit of help. Their work goes beyond Wed. and Fri. Check the following for more info... aislynn@abndant-table.org... or call 978.501.1264. Aislynn's dream of helping those in need in suburbia, has continued to blossom like beautiful roses that show their quiet beauty for all to enjoy.

NPD

Our Town's police did a terrific job while dealing with the hundreds of people, cars, etc., during Donald Trump's visit to Norwood at the Boch Estate. The NPD also were great at Norwood Day. Thank you to the NFD for their quick response to all calls even though many streets remained closed during the Norwood Day celebration. We are very fortunate in Our Town to have a great NFD and NPD!

SAD STATE OF AFFAIRS

The Center for Immigration Studies states that 60 percent of illegal aliens in the USA receive multiple welfare assistance. Can we afford to take in refugees that have nothing, and will need everything, as we no longer have that to give? Mrs. Clinton states that the Federal Government should be responsible for the cost of public college education. Does she think that we don't know where the Feds get their money? They've had their hands in our pockets long enough. Leave us alone! A poll was taken in regard to removing the picture of Alexander Hamilton, (founder of the US Treasury), from the $10 bill and replacing it with the face of a woman.

The woman chosen by the poll was Eleanor Roosevelt. I don't think it should be changed at all. If it was to change there is no question in my mind that the woman should be, Rosa Parks. She changed a nation.

Selectmen discuss fire issues, liquor licenses

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

The Norwood Board of Selectmen met on Tuesday night, touching on a number of subjects including another active month for the Norwood Fire Department.

Norwood Fire Chief Anthony Greeley submitted his monthly report, calling August a "very busy month." After a slow month in July, Greeley said the department expected another relatively slow month in August. But, that was far from the case, as August became the fourth month of calendar year 2015 with 500 or more reported incidents for the department.

The heat was partially to blame, Greeley said, as August was the first month to feature a heat wave, or at least three consecutive days of high temperatures above 90 degrees, since August 2013. There were 233 reported medical transports, according to Greeley.

A tragedy struck Norwood in early August, when a 4-year-old boy drowned despite the best efforts of the fire department and its paramedics to save the child.

"[They] didn't want to take no for an answer," said Greeley of the responders. "They worked very, very hard to save that young boy."

A fire at 12 Rosedale Road was also mentioned by Greeley, a situation complicated when a fire engine and ambulance on their way to the scene were involved in an accident across town. A different engine arrived on the scene and limited the damage, according to Greeley, who added the home was not lost. Greeley referred to the operation as a "great stop," and acknowledged Group 2 captain Rob Henry for his role in taming the fire.

Lastly, Greeley mourned the loss of retired fire dispatcher Frank Dietzel, Sr. on Sept. 3.

"He was always ahead of the curve in giving us information when we were in the field," said Greeley, saying Dietzel had visited the fire department earlier in the summer. He was 84.

The second item on the agenda for the board was the transfer of a liquor license at the Hampton Inn in Norwood, located at 434 Boston-Providence Highway. Norwood Hotel Operator, LLC, will be selling the license to Summit Hotels, a national chain. William Ferrulo of Summit said that it is essentially a "transfer of stock."

"We have extensive experience running restaurants of this type," said Ferrulo. "We believe you'll be pleased."

Ferrulo said they were considering changing the name of the restaurant, currently known as Kennedy's Public House, to Emmett's Irish Pub, but added that the menu and hotel service would remain the same.

Selectmen raised no major issues with the transfer of ownership, but selectman Helen Donohue requested that manager Camille Brooks remain on.

"She's been a tremendous help to the town of Norwood," said Donohue. "We support her."

The transfer of the license was unanimously approved.

Next up was the issue of a gas main at the intersection of Walpole, Chapel and Fisher streets. Dennis Regan was at the meeting on behalf of National Grid, and outlined the company's plans for the main.

Selectman Bill Plasko raised several questions, including why wouldn't the main be connected to Nichols Street, which runs perpendicular with Fisher Street. The age of the existing gas main was brought up, with several of the pipes dating back to the 1930s.

Plasko's No. 1 concern was the re-paving of the road after the work on the main was done, as he'd seen enough gas mains worked on and paved over, but still leaving the remainder of the roads in question a mess.

"My concern is that we're disturbing this entire road," said Plasko. "Those repairs sometimes are not good, and we're doing the whole street? I think the entire street should be repaved as part of this project."

Plasko reminded Regan that the Board had the authority to ensure the entire road was repaved.

The issue of construction commencement time was next brought up, with Regan agreeing that construction should begin no earlier than 8:30 a.m. as to avoid rush hour traffic along Walpole Street, which is part of Route 1A.

The Board voted unanimously to allow National Grid go forward with the project, so long as the entirety of Fisher Street is repaved.

The Board unanimously approved an application for a CV license to operate Gyro and Kebob House on 1275 Boston-Providence Turnpike. The Board also approved a request by Pastor Jean Jackson Luma to use the DAV Park on Chapel Street on Sunday, Oct. 4 at 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. for their fourth anniversary. They will take responsibility for cleanup.

THINK DIFFERENTLY

We can say this much about Massachusetts, when we make up our collective minds there is no turning back.

A bit of an aside, perhaps, but we were simultaneously amused and disturbed by the backlash Johnny Depp, who portrays Johnny Whitey Bulger in the new movie "Black Mass," received for comments he made on the red carpet this week in Brookline at the film's premier.

Depp, to the chagrin of his PR handlers, spoke of his approach to the role, telling of how he tried, unsuccessfully, to meet with the notorious gangster, endeavored to find humanity in the man, and worked to muster a necessary level of respect. Victims' families, already upset by the story's celluloid treatment, are blasting him on social media.

Not that he needs us to, but we are compelled to defend him.

He is an actor and was speaking as an actor. The comments are a logical discussion of his craft and the challenge of portraying a real-life figure. His point: Hitler was once a cute baby; Charles Manson was once an awkward teenager; Bulger, at some point in life, chose a life of crime and murder. The philosophical question is why the latter chose that path?

We compare the brouhaha to the similar outcry that accompanied an infamous Rolling Stone cover featuring Dzhokhar Anzorovich. The cause for anger, as you recall, was that the magazine chose a rather flattering picture of the murderer (one that even the rabble-rousing Boston Herald also matter-of-factly used). Even though the piece attempted to answer the question of how a seemingly "normal" college kid became an infamous, unremorseful terrorist-and the word "monster" was emblazoned on the cover-people freaked out.

We ask, however, isn't it a worthwhile exercise to dig into what makes people turn bad or engage in self-destructive behaviors? Why is there almost always violence at local Caribbean festivals and parades, despite the opportunity for these colorful events to unite their constituency? What makes [admittedly few] cops and criminals step over the line? Why are so many signing their own death warrant by even trying heroin? These are important questions that cannot, and should not, go unasked if we want safer communities.

Ok, enough Philosophy 101. Let's talk about booze. We turn our attention to Somerville where, two years after the city

WHO DO THEY REALLY CARE ABOUT?

To the Editor:

Regarding your front page article about renaming the Christmas Holiday by the school committee. It seems to me that our elected officials care more about the people who do not even bother to vote rather than those that make the effort to fulfill their civic duty. If they want to be "Inclusive" they should include the voters and exclude those who could care less...

THE HOUSING NUMBERS GAME

To the Editor:

I am of the belief that housing should be affordable to all. It is becoming more and more difficult to survive in this world of ours. Rents have skyrocketed, mortgages are astronomical, and real estate taxes keep rising, even without a 2 1/2 override. Young people struggle to survive. Our seniors find it more and more difficult to stay afloat. A law that is flawed was passed decades ago and needs serious revisions, commonly known as the 40B law or anti-snob law, was a developer's dream. Just ask Campanelli, and now Davis as he is knocking at our doors with a 40B high-density apartment complex adjacent to Campanelli. To compensate for the problems of 40B, a devil in disguise was born in the form of the 40R. The 40B has the ability to circumvent local bylaws, and the 40R high density pretends to care about the community.

I know many are weary of hearing about these issues. The State allows cities and towns to comply with this law by meeting one of two goals. I have no doubt many have seen the signs on lawns of how 1.5 percent will save us all. The second option is to meet the goal of 10 percent affordable housing. The 10 percent criteria is a farce and I urge everyone to research the matter. Initially, Norwood chose to chase the 10 percent criteria though never informed Town Meeting it is a temporary fix. The affordable units are counted at some point, eventually bringing a town to 10 percent compliance. The problem is, when the 2020 Census is taken, all the new housing stock is counted (which includes single family homes, double or triple deckers, condominiums, market rate apartment complexes, 40B and 40R). Once all the new housing is added to existing housing stock the town would no longer be at 10 percent and find itself in another pickle trying once again to comply with the flawed 40B law. This housing stock count occurs every 10 years. The 1.5 percent is a more solid number. It uses the criteria of land and affordable housing. Land does not change much. The town would need to keep an eye on the 1.5 percent number and it would need to be tweaked from time to time.

In my opinion, the Davis 40B proposal could have been avoided all together. Our Town Planner indicated to me and others that a first time homeowners' program may have strengthened the Town's 1.5 percent report. It would have needed his help. It could have been instituted a year or more ago during safe harbor. The premise is to allow a couple or family to get a loan, purchase an existing home, deed restrict the home to make it affordable and the land would count towards the 1.5 percent criteria. Exactly how many homes needed to strengthen the 1.5 percent can be determined easily. This is the numerator of the 1.5 percent and substantially increases the 1.5 percent equation and counts far more than the denominator (the denominator equals purchasing land only). For Norwood, the 1.5 percent is the better option to comply with. Norwood brags about its low tax rate, and I concur. The Town of Norwood is an affordable community to live. The future may not be as kind.

Budget, exchange program dominate School Committee meeting

Patrick Cochran
Staff Reporter

In their first convening since the beginning of the 2015-16 academic year, the Norwood School Committee used their Wednesday meeting to touch upon the budget, new purchases and programs, and to gauge the general pulse of the first week of school.

On the topic of the 2016 school budget, Superintendent James Hayden reported that the process, so far was going well.

"The report is that the budget is moving along smoothly," Hayden said.

One evolving element of the budget includes the likelihood that some of the school's paraprofessionals will take full-time teaching jobs next year in other districts, creating openings to fill in Norwood.

Other than that potential variable, Hayden reported that all of the teaching jobs had been filled and that they were in the process of filling the final known paraprofessional positions.

Hayden also announced a $91,000 purchase of two 17-passenger vans and two minivans. The school requested bids from three different vendors - MHQ of Marlborough, Stoneham Ford and Central Motors of Norwood - eventually settling on Central Motors.

The $91,000 purchase came in under the $96,000 awarded in a grant. According to Hayden, the additional $5,000 will be put toward adding van boards to the four new vehicles.

Before being put to use, the vans will need to be painted yellow, "which is new registry regulation for school transportation vehicles beginning July 1, 2017," according to Hayden. Members of the committee referred to the regulation as an "unfunded mandate" - a rule made by the state which is not financially aided by the state.

The School Committee also voted to add two part-time positions. These included an assistant coach for the freshmen girls volleyball team - a position expected to pay $1,606 for the year - as well as a position to manage the district's expanding online learning program, which will pay $3,672.

Also on hand for the meeting were three students - Olivia Haglund and Daniela Jurado, of Norwood, and Leyre Garayoa, of Málaga, Spain - to discuss their experience with the school's three-week exchange program.

Haglund and Jurado's families have hosted students from Spain during the duration of the program. Garayoa is currently staying with the Haglund family.

"Everybody here is very kind and welcoming," Garayoa said. "I feel very comfortable here. They treat me like any other student."

The students said that over the first week of the program they explored Norwood, visited Cape Cod and Boston, and even did some back-to-school shopping.

"A truly American experience," Committee Chairman James Gormley joked.

Also on the program's itinerary were historical trips to Lexington, Concord and Plymouth, a Harvard University tour, and a "beach visit and cliff walk" in Newport, R.I.

"We showed [Garayoa] around the different things in Norwood, and we've had a lot of food," Jurado said.

Hayden commended Haglund and Jurado, along with other students involved in the program.

"You're role models for everyone," Hayden said.

The program started on Sept. 3 and runs through Sept. 24.

"We're learning a lot from the students from Spain. It's a great experience."

was granted 12 extra liquor licenses by the state, it is once again asking for others to keep pace with its growing restaurant base. The legislature appears to be balking at the request and sticking to a Prohibition-era formula that issues licenses in proportion to population.

We've bemoaned this before: how dare some antiquated, puritanical mindset take precedent over the real need for businesses, large and small, to succeed. By refusing to think outside of its "we have a formula" box jobs are at risk and the economy is weaker for it.

There is hope: a bill is making the rounds at the State House that would give city and town officials the right to grant as many liquor licenses as they want, as they see fit. That would be wonderful news for a restaurant-heavy community like Norwood and, if a century-old legal complexity can be resolved, Boston as well. A healthy business base is far more important than some antiquated head count. Also, spurred by the complications of casino licenses, the state Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission will soon embark on a two-year review of our liquor laws.

Finally on the evening, Boy Scout Steven Ayoub was present for the meeting, earning his communication merit badge towards his progress of becoming an Eagle Scout.

We can only hope that the State Legislature gets beyond its habit of only seeing the world in knee-jerk tones of black and white.

Planning Board reviews construction plans

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

The Norwood Planning Board held its most recent meeting on Monday night, addressing seven items on its agenda over the course of the three hours.

The meeting led off with a lengthy discussion over Phase II of construction on Maxwell Avenue, issues ranging from wetland preservation, to storm water drainage, to the wiring of poles on the street. Five lots, Nos. 9 through 13, will be built on following lot Nos. 1 through 8, which were completed on Maxwell Avenue and adjacent Sopp Circle in 2013.

Bill Buckley, the project engineer representing Carroll Construction, was present for the meeting. Buckley outlined the plans, assuring abutters that the process would be the same as the one followed during Phase I of the project.

Some concerned residents from David Terrace, which runs parallel to Maxwell Avenue, were in attendance as well. David and Ann Marie Ralli asked where the water would run off to during significant storms, thinking that a gully would be developed behind the parking lot of the Kia dealership at 105 Boston-Providence Highway, which has a parking lot that abuts lots 9 and 10. Apparently, that was no longer the case.

Buckley apologized for what he may have said at a previous meeting about the location of the storm water runoff, saying he couldn't remember the context, but said that the new location would be just fine, adding that it has been working out well for the other recently-completed structures.

"The soils are really good, great sand, deep groundwater," said Buckley. "Each of the houses will also have roof drain systems; we capture the gutter, and we put it in here," said Buckley, referring to the new location of the gully. "Just like all of these houses."

"I've never had water in 16 years," said Ralli, who lives on David Terrace. "So I don't want it going my way."

The construction on Maxwell Avenue will expand the road roughly 245 feet in length, will include sidewalks, and will remain a 30-foot wide private roadway. Buckley said the topography of the road will remain more or less the same, with just an additional 1 percent down pitch of the pavement. Additional "catch basins" would be created for storm water at the end of the road.

For additional telephone poles and wires, Buckley said that he has met with the town planner and the electric department. The issue over whether the poles will be above or below ground has yet to be resolved.

Buckley added that in two years, the two phases of the project will look the same, saying "we'll never know it was two separate projects."

The planning board discussed a site visit to Maxwell Avenue, which was tentatively set for this Sunday morning at 10 a.m. Board member Ernie Paciorkowski indicated he would likely go on his own time.

A motion was then made to continue with the issue of Maxwell Avenue, Phase II, on Sept. 28, which was unanimously passed.

Next up was the issue of special permit signage at 501 Washington St., where Lucky Mart is located. Remesh Patel, the owner of the store, was looking for a special permit to keep the exterior sign for his store internally lit. The Board has been trying to do away with internally lit signs, but Paciorkowski pointed out that the New England Dentistry sign in town was recently approved, since it was only the letters that were going to be internally lit, not the entire sign.

Paciorkowski also noted that Patel was basically just pulling a piece of Plexiglas out of his window, and that this too would just be the letters remaining internally lit.

The board moved to vote and approved the sign for Patel, 3-2, with members Debbie Holmwood and Alfred Porro, Jr. casting the two votes against.

Construction at the TD Bank located at 143 Nahatan St. was granted a unanimous two-year extension. Mark Vaughn, who has overseen construction at all TD Bank locations throughout eastern Massachusetts, said that some $500,000 had already been poured into the Norwood project.

A site plan review of C & E Auto Body, located at 664 Pleasant St., was unanimously voted to be heard from again at the Sept. 28 planning board meeting.

Drainage along Sunset Avenue was then discussed, with Mario Gomes, the owner of the project, and Paul Cutler, the engineer, in attendance. Several abutters of the project came to the meeting to voice their approval for the project, with the topic of different types of trees being planted coming up.

Lastly, two more signage issues were reviewed: A&E Driving School, located at 99 Central St., and U.S. Taekwondo, located at 20 Broadway.

Extreme Weather, Resource Depletion, Changing Earth Systems & Bible Prophecy: THESE THINGS GO TOGETHER

A Three-Part PLANET IN DISTRESS Seminar at the Norwood Seventh-Day Adventist Church on September 25 & 26

This seminar series explores the confluence of accelerating challenges the world is facing: oceans in precipitous decline, farm soils around the world rapidly degrading, accelerating water shortages and drought, ominous changes to our atmospheric and hydrospheric systems and dramatically increased disasters and extreme weather. These seminars look at human society and the increasing levels of conflict seen around the world, then link what we are seeing in the natural world and in human society to prophecies in the Bible.

Join author Scott Christiansen as he articulates cutting-edge thinking in the Christian world and connects the dots between Bible prophecy, the accelerating decline of the natural world, and the state of human society. Find out what started the decline of the earth, what the Bible says will happen next, and how it ends.

A man's life of service in Norwood

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

Norwood has been home to many members of the greatest generation over the years, including Endicott Street resident Bob Arnold, who first brought his love of aviation and helping sick children to town 53 years ago.

"I'm very proud to live in Norwood," Arnold said. "It's a nice town, a stable town with good people. I like Norwood."

Arnold, who turned 92 on Sept. 1, was born and raised in Boston - where his father was one of former mayor J.M. Curley's barbers - among 10 brothers and sisters, who struggled at times to get by during the Great Depression.

This upbringing and proximity to one of Boston's most storied mayors may have instilled something in Arnold, who believes Norwood should have a mayor instead of Town Meeting. He said he's been fortunate to see the new High School get built and to live in such a "stable town," but Arnold pointed to what he sees as a struggling downtown as reason for his position.

"We need a mayor, a single source of operation with full authority to establish a city," Arnold said.

As for the rest of town government, Arnold said Norwood is a "well-kept town," and has been pleased with management thus far. Arnold himself made a brief foray into local government, as he served on the initial television broadcasting committee in town.

After he joined the Army Air Corps at 18 - training in Las Vegas before embarking for Europe - Arnold served as a gunner in a B-17 bomber for the 8th Air Force in World War II from 1943 - 1945 and flew in raids over France and Germany.

Because the raids were dangerous daytime missions, Arnold said there were times when he was afraid up in the nose gunner position. He tells a story of a time when his plane was hit and it looked as though the crew had to bail. But when Arnold went to grab his parachute, he was wearing an incompatible vest. So, with self-preservation in mind, Arnold said he began to unlace his shoes and tie his chute to the vest with his shoelaces.

Then, as he prepared himself for a precarious jump, the co-pilot said they'd try to make it home instead.

By war's end, he had been bitten by the aviation bug. He learned to fly and began doing flights for aerial commercial photography. After coming to Norwood in the early 1960s, Arnold got a private license and flew out of Norwood Airport, where he amassed a group of like-minded friends who flew each other's planes and kept a sort of community at the airport.

Arnold was still flying until just last year. He also spent some time flying out of

Bob Arnold

Mansfield and other regional airports.

"I loved the place," he said.

For 50 years, Arnold flew around New England for the Civil Air Patrol, which is the official civilian auxiliary for the US Air Force. Arnold's time in the Civil Air Patrol was spent doing search and rescue, drug enforcement, and charitable missions.

Arnold's first memory of his fascination with flight stemmed from a very early age.

"When I was a kid, I remember Lindy (Charles Lindbergh) flying across the Atlantic," Arnold said. "I knew I wanted to do it."

When he wasn't flying for the Civil Air Patrol, Arnold made a career selling medical equipment, notably EKGs and pacemakers.

Arnold remembers that Norwood Hospital was slow to adopt some of the technology, but he was still very supportive of the local doctors. Arnold himself recently returned home from the hospital and rehabilitation after a sickness that kept him away for the summer.

"I have a lot of respect for Norwood doctors," Arnold said. "They were among the best."

Perhaps his proximity to doctors and their work struck a chord with Arnold, a mason, who would go through clown college and join the Shriners Aleppo Clown Unit. As Dum Dum the clown, Arnold spent years cheering up ill children at the Shriners Hospital and even was able to hand out DumDum lollipops with help from the company.

"I always wanted to be a silent clown," Arnold said. "It was a magnificent opportunity to be me, nobody else, and to extend it to whoever need a little love and affection, some consideration."

Arnold said he could empathize with many of the children, having been raised with so many siblings that it was sometimes difficult to get attention.

Asked what made members of his generation so generous and willing to give even their lives for their community, Arnold at first said, "I can't answer that."

"I don't think there's an answer," Arnold said, noting that he chose to enlist instead of being drafted. "We all had our own personal problems. We came through the depression...and we were all obligated."

As Arnold reminisced about Poirier's, Sam's, Harold's Deli, and a number of other local haunts, he said Norwood was "a great town. Marvelous."

And maybe it is people like Arnold who have made it so.

A SPRINKLING OF CONCERN

There is no question that an automatic sprinkler system can significantly curtail the damage that fire can wreak on commercial property. A properly installed and well-maintained system will respond faster and more directly than even the most immediate response by a fire department. However, with these advantages come the possibility that an automatic sprinkler system might discharge in the absence of fire due to malfunction or some non-fire-related triggering effect. In such cases, the resulting water damage could be rather extensive. Fortunately, the good news is that water damage caused by both an inadvertent discharge of the automatic sprinkler system and fire responders who extinguish fires is covered by an endorsement to a Standard Fire Policy.

Do you or should you have an automatic sprinkler system? At AMBROSE & GRANT Insurance Agency, located at 1500 Providence Hwy., Ste. 24B, we provide comprehensive coverage and comprehensive, fast, courteous, efficient service to all of our clients. We pick and choose only those policies that make sense for you and your family. Call us at 781.762.2300.

NOTE: In areas prone to earthquakes, business owners should seek an endorsement that protects them against damage arising from a tremor setting off an automatic sprinkler system and causing damage.

"We do well," said Discepolo. "We always get a lot of volunteers. The town's been wonderful."

The Norwood Food Pantry has been around for over 25 years and is "dedicated to fighting hunger on the local level." A volunteer-based group that serves approximately 300 families in Norwood and Westwood, the group is able to use Norwood Day to build support and recruit volunteers.

Businesses were also well represented at the event, with a plethora of local restaurants and vendors on hand providing samples and serving food to hungry patrons.

"I was over at the food booths trying some samples, and I've got to say, they were great," Tim Hempton said.

Hempton, a candidate for state representative in the 12th Norfolk district in 2014 midterms, was attending the event on behalf of the Norwood Republican Committee.

The Norwood branch of the GOP was out promoting various positions and candidates to anyone interested, offering literature and paraphernalia.

On the topic of the current race for the GOP presidential nomination, the Norwood Republican Committee said that they would not officially back any candidate until after the convention. Their table featured several pamphlets on Carly Fiorina and former Ohio Gov. John Kasich - both presidential hopefuls in the 15-candidate field - and was noticeably absent of anything featuring current controversial candidate Donald Trump.

Less than a year removed from his defeat to Democratic incumbent Rep. John Rogers and more than year to go the 2016 general, there is one thing that Hempton is sure of: he plans on running again.

"[The 2014 campaign] was a great experience," Hempton said. "It was great going around the district and meeting people and talking to different people at events like this. I love Norwood Day. It's a great experience."

The Republican Committee was not the only political group on hand at the town's signature event. Located both figuratively and literally to the left of the GOP table was the Norwood Democratic Committee.

The Democrats brought out some of their top names to Norwood Day, including Rogers, State Sen. Mike Rush and Sen. Stephen Lynch.

"We really enjoy Norwood Day," said Committee Chairman Jim Garrity. "It's a good way to get people out and we always have a good time."

In the parade, Avenues for Success won best float while Bluebird Restaurant placed in second. The Musical Performance award went to Star Strutters and the two business awards went to United Dairy Farmers and Liberty Tax Service.

Local officials at forefront of battle with opiates

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

With the support of local law enforcement, Massachusetts Attorney General Maura Healey announced in Norwood on Aug. 31 that her office had reached an agreement with Amphastar Pharmaceuticals, Inc., which will make a payment offsetting the increasing cost of its overdose-reversal drug Nalaxone.

"The demand for Narcan to help save the lives of overdose victims has risen sharply, and with that, so has the price, making it tough for police and fire departments to access this critical drug," Healey said. "This money will help us get Narcan into the hands of every first responder, giving them a tool they need to help save lives."

The agreement is the result of a letter of concern sent by Healey's office to the pharmaceutical company in response to a price spike in 2014. Amphastar Pharmaceuticals agreed to pay $325,000 - the equivalent of around 10,000 doses of Nalaxone - into the state's Municipal Naloxone Bulk Purchase Trust Fund, which was approved as part of the state budget in July and seeded with $150,000. The Trust Fund allows municipalities in the Commonwealth access to the drug at a reduced cost.

This is the first payment of its kind from a pharmaceutical company to a state, and Norfolk County District Attorney Michael Morrissey felt it couldn't have come at a better time for the county.

"We purchased 900 doses of Naloxone to provide to all of our police and fire departments in March of 2014, and we paid roughly $22 a dose," Morrissey said. "Some of our municipalities were using those doses very quickly. When we offered grants to help replenish those supplies, we saw that the prices were inconsistent and rising...We knew something was wrong with this picture."

Norwood Chief of Police Bill Brooks was also on hand for the announcement - Healey said Brooks was "no stranger to this issue" - and lauded Healey's work on the issue.

"The purchasing arrangement announced today by Attorney General Healey is an important one for public safety in Massachusetts," said Brooks, whose department has carried Nalaxone since January 2014. "Every day, police officers across Massachusetts administer Narcan to people in the throes of opiate overdoses, in keeping with our core mission to protect human life. Centralizing its purchase and establishing a stable price will go a long way to helping first responders on their important work."

During his remarks, Brooks noted that Nalaxone has only been available within the last few years, but use by first responders of its intranasal form has become "the rule, not the exception."

"We're all trying to do the right thing, we shouldn't have to worry about fluctuating price," Brooks said.

Brooks and Morrissey had also recently joined Healey and state lawmakers during a press conference on Aug. 17 announcing legislation that would make trafficking of opioid fentanyl a crime.

The legislation would punish trafficking of quantities of fentanyl above 10 grams by incarceration for up to 20 years. Fentanyl is a medical opioid that is considered to be as much as 50 times more potent than heroin, and heroin dealers have been known to mix fentanyl into heroin.

"Fentanyl's disturbing correlation with fatal overdoses makes a clear case that we should treat it as we do the most dangerous threats our communities face," Morrissey said.

Brooks spoke on behalf of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association, of which he is vice president.

"The Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association agrees entirely with Attorney General Healey that our drug trafficking statute should be updated to include Fentanyl," Brooks said. "While opiates like heroin and opium are already included, Fentanyl is not, simply because it is a synthetic, and even though it is actually more potent."

CHANGE OF VENUE FOR FALL CONCERT SERIES

The Concert Series in support of the Chapel of St. Gabriel the Archangel at Highland Cemetery in Norwood will be held at the historic F. Holland Day House, 93 Day St., Norwood this fall. The Chapel itself will be closed for an interior and structural assessment in anticipation of future restoration.

The series of free Sunday concerts begins on Sunday, Sept. 20 at 3 p.m. with the Oneida String Quartet whose members met through their participation in the Brookline Symphony Orchestra playing violin, viola, and cello. Although they have not been playing together for long, they are very active at local festivals and fundraisers. They will perform works by Nepomuceno and Mozart.

This fall series, to be held on Sundays, Sept. 20, Oct. 18, and Nov. 15 at 3 p.m., will provide three unique programs to the Norwood community. In addition to the Oneida String Quartet in September; Barry and Patty Simon, who perform on hammered dulcimer and flutes will arrive in October; and in November, accomplished guitarists Dylan Mowry and Tim Prosser will present solos and duets of classical music selections.

All concerts remain free and open to the public. Seating is limited and on a first come, first serve basis. These concerts are organized by the Friends of St. Gabriel's, under the auspices of the Norwood Neighbors, a local cultural non-profit organization. The Friends of St. Gabriel's can be reached at

StGabrielNorwood@gmail.com <<mailto:StGabrielNorwood@gmail.com>>

The Chapel of St. Gabriel the Archangel is located at Highland Cemetery, on Winter Street in Norwood. A quaint and picturesque chapel, at the time of its donation to the town in 1903 it was regarded as one of the most beautiful structures of its kind in the nation. In addition to increasing the cultural offerings in Norwood, it was hoped these concerts would increase public awareness of the Chapel, its restoration being the ultimate goal. We look forward to returning to this beautiful and contemplative space once renovations are complete.

SAINT GEORGE GALA EVENT

On Saturday, Oct. 3, beginning at 7 p.m. at Central Fiat of Norwood, 141 Providence Highway (Route 1). The evening will include live music, hors d'oeuvres, small plate stations and late night dessert and coffee buffet. The cost is $75 per person. Proceeds support the church's goal of raising funds for renovations and improving access for seniors and those with disabilities. For more information, contact St. George at 781-762-4396 or visit: <http://stgeorgenorwood.wix.com/gala-event-2>

125TH ANNIVERSARY MASS WITH BISHOP DOOHER

On Sept. 20, St. Catherine of Siena Parish in Norwood will celebrate their 125th anniversary at the 11 a.m. Mass at St Catherine of Siena Church, 547 Washington St., Norwood. We invite all present and former parishioners as well as alumni and friends to join us in celebrating this momentous occasion. Reception to follow in the St. Catherine Middle School Cafeteria. No RSVP required.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL BLOOD DRIVE

St. Timothy's Parish is hosting a Blood Drive to benefit Boston Children's Hospital on Saturday, Sept. 19. The Bloodmobile will be at the church parking lot, 650 Nichols St., Norwood, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. To schedule an appointment to donate, go to www.halfpints.childrenshospital.org, sponsor code is STC NORW or call the Parish Nurse Office, 781-769-2522, ext. 34. For specific questions about donating blood or eligibility, call the Blood Donor Center @ 617-355-6677. Each donation can help up to four young patients!

CIRCLE OF HOPE INVITES YOU TO ATTEND 2ND ANNUAL OKTOBERFEST

You are invited to join The Norwood Circle of Hope Foundation for our second annual Oktoberfest on Saturday, Sept. 19 at the O.C.C. from 7 to 11 p.m. Tickets are $20 and include food, dancing and music from one of the area's best German bands, The Oberleandler Hofbrau Band. Tickets may be purchased by calling (781) 762 - 3549. The Norwood Circle of Hope Foundation is a non-profit organization established to assist Norwood residents who need help due to a catastrophic medical occurrence. The foundation was established in 1998 in memory of Michelle Kennedy, a young Norwood resident, who suffered with leukemia. During Michelle's battle the entire Norwood community, many of whom did not know Michelle, joined together and it is in that spirit that the Norwood Circle of Hope Foundation plans to continue. Since it's founding the Norwood Circle of Hope Foundations has provided over $535,000 to Norwood residents in need. This is truly a local organization that demonstrates neighbor helping neighbor. Tickets and more information are available by calling (781) 762 - 3549.

Field Hockey comes back to tie Milton Drubs Brookline in second game

Norwood accomplished something it hadn't done all of last season in its season-opening draw vs. the Milton Wildcats.

In playing to a 3-3 tie, the Mustangs overcame a deficit on two separate occasions to tie the score and later take a 3-2 lead. Norwood didn't come from behind to tie the score or take a lead once last season.

Granted, the Mustangs only trailed in two games during the 2014 season. But the two games in which they trailed also happened to be the only two they lost, so it's an encouraging sign for head coach Allison Doliner her team was able to show some resiliency so early in the new year.

"It's great to have that competition right off the bat, to make the girls realize nothing's going to come easy this season," said Doliner, impressed with the Milton goaltender who made a stag-

Norwood's offense failed to click in a 5-0 season-opening loss to the Milton Wildcats last Wednesday night.

There were too few quality scoring chances for the Mustangs, particularly in the first half, when Milton scored two goals in the first 17 minutes to seize control of the game.

Head Coach Jason Andrews was far from pleased with the result, but still saw a few positives to take away from the game, including the play of junior goaltender Stephen Tribuna.

"I thought Stephen held his ground well," said Andrews of Tribuna, who made nine first half saves in his debut varsity start. "They just got so many chances; there's only so many balls you can stop. I thought Stephen, for his first game as varsity keeper, handled himself very well."

Milton's first shot on goal came in the third minute of the first half, setting the tone for establishing possession in the Mustangs' defensive zone early and often. Trailing by two, Norwood had a few scoring chances late in the first half to steal back some momentum. After hitting a crossbar in the 31st minute, the Mustangs created a 3-on-1 opportunity, with Michael Dooley leading Saurav Kandel on a pass, but he couldn't get a good enough shot off.

Milton added a goal in stoppage time at the end of the first half to take a 3-0 lead into the break.

At halftime, Andrews switched from a 4-3-2-1 formation to a 4-4-2, hoping to generate some offense. Norwood did have some more scoring chances, which Andrews attributed to the play of his bench.

"The desire of the bench players, what I like to call the 'second wave' of guys, they were playing to win, even down a bunch of goals," said Andrews. "And they really helped spark a little fire. All 24 guys got in today, and not a single one of them let me down."

Andrews continued to praise his bench, but didn't want to take anything away from his starters, either, saying that neither set of players has anything to lose. "A couple of guys went in, who don't get a chance to start, and took every advantage to make plays happen," said Andrews. "They had nothing to lose. The starters were kind of tentative, because they feel like they have something to lose, even though they don't."

The Wildcats scored 11 minutes into the second half to make it a 4-0 game, and added their fifth and final goal of the evening in the 14th minute for a 5-0 score.

Quincy edges Norwood, 1-0, as the Mustangs remain winless

Norwood girls soccer fell to 0-3 on Monday afternoon after a nonleague loss to the Quincy Presidents, 1-0.

Despite the one-goal differential, head coach Jeb Brunt said he was more pleased with his team's efforts in losses earlier in the week by wider margins, a 4-1 loss vs. Milton and a 3-0 loss vs. Brookline.

"We just played a bad game all around," said Brunt after the loss at Father Mac's, lamenting his team's offensive woes. "We just have to play better as a team passing. We need to pass around this team, and we didn't. We tried to go behind them and over them, and which didn't really work. We didn't do a good job getting back on defense, either."

Quincy scored its lone goal of the contest in the 36th minute of the first half, its tally coming after out-shooting the Mustangs 6-3 in the first half. Norwood began the game applying pressure, including an early open look by Emily Bonaccorso, but the Presidents weathered the early storm and began generating better chances over the course of the half.

Brunt was pleased with the performance of sophomore goalie Delia Bartucca, who was making her first varsity start. She had six saves in the first half and three more in the second half to finish with nine saves overall.

"Our goalkeeper was really awesome," said Brunt, who also praised performances earlier in the week by junior Nicole Power. "We have two fantastic goalkeepers, so it's a nice problem to have."

Norwood's offense began showing signs of life later on in the second half, its two best scoring chances coming off of free kicks. Kay Goncalves took both of them for the Mustangs, her first landing in traffic in front of the Quincy goal. Michelle Brincklow was able to get a shot off after the ball landed, but it went wide to the short side of the goal. Goncalves put her second free kick towards net, but the ball curved just high over the crossbar.

"We just want to win a game," said Brunt, frustrated with the failed opportunity the Presidents presented. A win vs. Quincy, a Division 3 school, would have helped the Mustangs' under the Sullivan Rule. The Sullivan Rule allows a team to count wins and losses against teams with an equal or lesser division ranking when it comes to qualifying for the postseason. Norwood, Div. 2 in girls soccer, would have benefitted from a win over the Presidents, as the majority of the Bay State Conference is Div. 1 in girls soccer. "We've just got to start one game at a time. We thought today, we had a good chance."

Brunt said that his team will continue working on corner kicks at practice to better create offense, as well as other methods to improve goal scoring.

Brunt is hopeful his team can get in sync better offensively its next time out on Friday at Braintree High School, where the Mustangs will take on the Wamps in a cross-divisional Bay State Conference match at 3:45 p.m. The girls are at home next on Monday for a nonleague game vs. Ursuline Academy (Dedham) at 3:45 p.m.

Norwood opens season in convincing fashion with win over Framingham

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

Norwood opened its season with a 31-13 triumph over Framingham on Friday, a larger margin of victory than any of its four wins from last year.

The 18-point victory continues to move the needle in the right direction for the Mustangs, who are now winners of five of their last six contests dating back a season ago.

"We had some trouble in the first half, but we cleaned that stuff up at halftime, and in the second half we played really well defensively," said Jim Tighe, who won his first season opener as head coach of Norwood. Leading 14-13 at the half, the Mustangs turned on the jets in the second half, blanking the Flyers 17-0 in the third and fourth quarters.

Quarterback Joe Leanos was involved in all four touchdowns for Norwood, throwing for three and rushing for another. Zac Pungitore, George Mason and Connor Riggle were on the receiving end of Leanos's touchdown passes, from 50, 45 and 20 yards out, respectively. "They were really excited about playing somebody else," said Tighe. "I thought it was a real good win because we went out on the road. Playing at Framingham is never easy."

"Framingham, they were really good," continued Tighe. "They had a quarterback who was a pretty good athlete; we felt, after watching the film and watching them play, that it was important we didn't let him beat us with his legs. We wanted to force him to pass, so that's how we went after the defensive game plan...we did a pretty good job, especially in the second half."

Tighe singled out Keith Stokes, Ryan Cullinane, Damari Mayers and Riggle for their efforts on defense and keeping Framingham at bay, especially in the second half.

In addition to his 20-yard touchdown reception and his defensive contributions, Riggle kicked all four extra points for Norwood, and added a field goal as well. The Mustangs struggled mightily in the kicking game a year ago, something that's not lost on Tighe.

Norwood will try to keep it going this week vs. the Wayland Warriors at 1 p.m. at Norwood High School, the return game of a home-and-home series which began last year with a 14-12 Wayland victory.

gering 17 saves on the afternoon.

Two of Milton's three goals were the result of miscommunications by the Norwood defense, but that didn't seem to concern Doliner in the slightest.

"We have a very young defense, and they're learning as they play," said Doliner. "The best way for them to keep learning is to just keep playing."

The Mustangs controlled the pace of play throughout the contest, receiving eight corners in the first half to Milton's zero. But, it was the Wildcats who struck first at 10:08 of the first half, putting Norwood in its first hole to climb out of.

Casey MacDonald answered the call for the Mustangs' first goal of '15 at 17:19 of the first half, coming after yet another barrage in front of the Milton net.

After not having a single corner in the first half, the Wildcats received one just over a minute into the second. They capitalized, retaking the lead at 2-1 with 28:25 still to play.

At halftime, Doliner said she pulled aside Maura O'Neill and told her that she wanted two goals from the co-captain. Some 32 seconds after Milton had taken the lead, O'Neill got halfway there with her first goal to tie the score. And in another 35 seconds, O'Neill gave Doliner exactly what she'd asked for, giving Norwood its first lead of the game-and season.

"She's such a great leader out there, she makes it look so easy," said Doliner of O'Neill.

Milton would tie the score over 15 minutes later, with 12:33 still on the clock. The Mustangs had a number of chances to take the lead once again, but Milton's goalie continued her performance for the ages, enabling the Wildcats to escape Norwood with a 3-3 tie.

"Sometimes you come out, 6 or 7-0 win in the first game, and sit back and expect everything to come easy," said Doliner. "It's not going to come easy. You need to work for everything you earn in this league."

Norwood earns first win over Brookline

Doliner warned after the Milton game that such a lopsided margin of victory in a season opener could cause complacency.

But she never said she wouldn't be happy with a blowout win at any point after, which was the case on Friday afternoon as Norwood drubbed the Warriors, 6-0, at Larz Anderson Park in Brookline to earn its first win of the season.

In her first career start, freshman Bryn Garczynski was a revelation for the Mustangs, scoring the first four goals of the game for her team-all in the first half. She also added an assist to finish with five points, and earned nothing but praise from Doliner after the game.

"Her speed's awesome, she's still learning the game a little bit, which is fun," said Doliner. Garczynski scored all four of her goals in less than a 13-minute span of the first half, covering from the 5:47 mark to the 18:34. "There's a lot you can do with her. She's aggressive and fast, and those are two of the things that are really hard to teach."

Cassidy Mahoney also scored her first goal of the season for the Mustangs, while Maura O'Neill added her third in just two games.

Garczynski and fellow freshman Rose Campbell mark a change for Norwood. Doliner didn't have any freshmen on her roster a year ago, when the team went 16-2-2 before losing in the Div. 1 South semifinals. While two freshmen may not seem like a lot, it's demonstrative of a program at the youth level that is getting stronger, becoming somewhat of a feeder system. Former Mustangs varsity coach Allison Penza runs the program.

"She's done such a phenomenal job expanding it," said Doliner of the coach who preceded her. "They do a summer camp now, a spring league last year. This year, we ran it through the Civic [Center] and I think the numbers doubled from the last year."

Norwood's young defense also played significantly better against Brookline, to the tune of not allowing a single shot on goal in the first half. The Mustangs led 4-0 at the break behind Garczynski's hat trick-plus-one, and iced the game on Mahoney and O'Neill's goals in the second frame.

Though she didn't have any tangible statistics that showed up on the sheet at the end of the game, Doliner was equally impressed with Campbell as she was Garczynski.

"Rose is someone that's been playing at the youth level for awhile, and to have her up here now, it's exciting to see her transition," said Doliner. "She's started the last two games on defense. She's getting used to the pace of it, but she's learning a lot, and she does everything you tell her. So between her and Bryn, it's exciting to see the youth coming up."

Norwood faced Dedham at home yesterday afternoon, in an event held after the Record's deadline. Next up is a road contest at Braintree High School, where the Mustangs will take on the Wamps in a cross-divisional Bay State Conference match-up tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 p.m.

NEW FALL FILM SERIES

To kick off the fall film series at the Morrill Memorial Library "Before They Were Stars" the 1973 classic "American Graffiti" will be shown on Monday, Sept. 28, at 7 p.m. Directed by George Lucas and produced by Francis Ford Coppola, this iconic film features a young cast of future stars including Richard Dreyfuss, Harrison Ford, Ron Howard, Cindy Williams, Mackenzie Phillips, and Suzanne Somers. The night before leaving for college, a group of friends in small-town California cruise the strip looking for a white Thunderbird and listening to a mysterious DJ play rock 'n roll as they contemplate their futures.

The next movie in the series, "Driving Miss Daisy" on Tuesday, Oct. 6, stars a young Morgan Freeman and Dan Akyroyd and traces the 25-year relationship between a wealthy, strong-willed Southern matron (Jessica Tandy) and her equally stubborn, kind-hearted Black chauffeur. The 1989 film won Academy Awards for Best Picture, Best Actress, and Best Screenplay.

ASUPERNATURALEVENING

Prepare to explore the unexplained with a multimedia lecture, Q & A, and book signing at the Morrill Memorial Library on Monday, Oct. 5 at 7 p.m. with Jeff Belanger. The award-winning Emmy-nominated host and writer of PBS's New England Legends, Belanger knows all about things that go bump in the night. He will provide an in-depth look at ghosts and legends, including images, audio clips, and video from some of the world's most infamous haunts. In addition to having written over a dozen books on the paranormal, he has appeared on the History Channel, the Travel Channel, CBS News, the BBC, NECN, and all the major networks. To sign up, please email norprograms@minlib.net, call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk. This event is being sponsored and funded by the Friends of the Library.

TITLES ON TAP BOOK GROUP

Join the staff of the Morrill Memorial Library at Napper Tandy's of Norwood on Tuesday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 pm for another meeting of Titles on Tap. This social group is designed for readers in their 20s and 30s and the young at heart, and is a casual way to meet up with fellow book lovers for a fun night out. September's title will be "Horns" by Joe Hill, a supernatural mystery thriller. Print and audio copies are available to pick up at the Reference Desk, so come out to meet, discuss, eat, drink, and be merry! RSVPs are not required, but you may sign up by emailing norprograms@minlib.net, calling 781-769-0200 x110 or 222, or visiting the Information or Reference Desks. Visit our blog titlesontap.wordpress.com or follow us on Twitter @titlesontap to learn more.

FINDING LOCAL FALL FOLIAGE PROGRAM

On Wednesday, Oct. 7. Join Marjorie Turner Hollman at the Morrill Memorial Library in Norwood for her program, "Foliage Detectives: Finding Foliage Just Around the Corner." Marjorie is the author of Easy Walks in Massachusetts, and More Easy Walks in Massachusetts. Learn a few simple things to look for when seeking out those vibrant glimpses of color in New England in the fleeting few weeks known as "foliage season." Plan leisurely trips right around the corner from where you live; avoid the crowds, skip the traffic jams, get out and walk, look, take lots of pictures. Marjorie will give a slide show of photos from some very local spots that offer great views of fall color. Copies of her books will be available for purchase after the presentation. Please sign up for this free, colorful program by calling 781-769-0200 x110 or 222, by emailing norprograms@minlib.net, or by visiting the Reference or Information Desk.

MERCURY: AN AVOIDABLE TOXIN TALK

The fall 2015 Sustainability Series, sponsored by Together Yes, begins on Thursday, Sept. 24 at 7 p.m. at the Morrill Memorial Library with the program "Mercury: an Avoidable Toxin." Pat Scanlon of Wheelabrator Technologies will lead a presentation and discussion on this highly toxic metal responsible for contaminating more than 120 bodies of water in Massachusetts. Mercury is used in thermometers, thermostats, button-cell batteries, etc. Come learn about Norwood's Mercury Recovery Program and the vital difference it makes. To sign up, please call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, email norprograms@minlib.net, or stop by the library Reference and Information Desk.

DRAMATIC PORTRAYAL OF DEBORAH SAMSON GANNETT

Actress Judith Kalaora of History at Play will perform a one-woman dramatization of the life of Deborah Samson Gannett, the first woman to enlist and fight in the Revolutionary War, at the Morrill Memorial Library on Wednesday, Sept. 23 at 7 p.m. In "A Revolution of her Own," experience Mrs. Gannett's arduous upbringing, her years of active combat service, and her success as the first female professional soldier in America. Dressed in authentic colonial attire, Ms. Kalaora will entertain and inform, and through interactive stories, will take you back two centuries in time. To register for this event email norprograms@minlib.net, call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk. This program is generously funded by the Friends of the Library.
