First Ice Cream 5k a hit

The first-ever Norwood Recreation Department Ice Cream 5k was deemed a great success by residents and officials on Saturday, June 22.

The weather was clear and warm and more than 600 runners, residents and officials came up to the Willett School to register and start racing. The race included the traditional 5K as well as a fun run for children after the first race.

The full race results can be found at runsignup.com/Race/Results/73451/, but the top three male finishers were Bronson Venable of Warwick, Rhode Island, Titus Mutinda of Dorchester and Darrin Reynold of Norwood. The top three female finishers were Biliانا Mihaylova, Norwood's Gina Coras and Medfield's Mary Holt-Wilson.

Norwood Recreation Program Director Catherine Seasted said she was thrilled they were able to get so much interest in the event for its first go.

"We have 300 registered runners and we're seeing anywhere from 600 to 700 people here," she said. "It made us feel great. I'm still a little anxious because it's our first time out, but bringing the community together is something we really pride ourselves on. So we really appreciate that."

Seasted said any profit they see from the event will go to the Norwood Recreation Department's Scholarship Fund for the summer.

"We do have scholarships available and so anything raised will go to that," she said.

Charles River Running Club member and race officiator Jim Henry has officiated for several high-profile

Norwood races, like the annual Turkey Trot, and he said it's great to see Norwood pull off such an event in its first go round.

"For a first time event? It's fantastic as far as the numbers we have had," he said. "It's a great first-year showing, especially for Norwood Rec. to kick off their summer programming."

Norwood residents Kim Frederico and her daughter Molly said they wanted to support Norwood Rec.

"I thought it would be a good workout to do with my mom," Molly said.

"And support the Rec with all their initiatives, it's just getting the community together which is great," Kim said.

Residents Sokha Saing and Elissa Quinn showed up, both decked out in banana costumes for the event.

According to Norwood Police Chief William Brooks, mental health and policing were not, historically, considered part of normal operations.

Brooks said residents may not think mental health issues are a big concern in Norwood, but he said it is something the police deal with on a regular basis.

"Norwood is a very nice Town but we're busy," he said. "It's densely populated; we have 30,000 people and there's a lot of activity here. There's the hospital and, on the mental health side, we've got two Riverside Community Care offices and Riverside housing spots. We also have people on the streets dealing with mental illness. In any 24-hour period I get a popup on my phone from the last 24 hours detailing about 65-90 calls for service and some off initiated stuff too. That's phenomenally busy. We're not a high crime community or violent crime community, but there's a lot going on, and some of it involves mental illness."

Brooks said he has been working with Officer Greg Shore for the last few years to change the way the Norwood Police Department (NPD) deals with mental illness. He said he's been work-

Selectmen approve of water/ sewer rate increase

Kevin Perrington-Turner
Staff Reporter

On Tuesday, June 25, at 7:05pm, around 30 people circled in and out of the Norwood Board of Selectmen meeting at the Norwood Town Hall. The meeting was right after the Executive sessions that consisted of Labor Negotiations.

The first matter heard was from Maria Wilfredo from the Vico Ristorante Italiano on 89 Central St. in an attempt to change her license category from Wines and Malt Beverages to Wines and Malt Beverages with Cordial Liqueurs. The Board of Selectmen passed this unanimously, the second such decision in as many months. They also voted to approve a limited entertainment license for acoustic instruments to be played.

The second matter was the Concerts on the Common, scheduled to start July 7 and continue every Sunday for the rest of the summer. The Board of Selectman voted to approve the schedule as proposed.

Another discussion was the water/sewer rates in Norwood, including an increase of 5 percent, or $3.80 a month to the average homeowner, due to sewer rate increases depending on usage and size of the homes. The Board of Selectman voted to approve this increase.

The 4th of July Committee also stopped by to speak on this year's planned activities. "Independence Day, the Norwood way" is the theme this year. Music will be played throughout the day, they will host a tour of the Carillon, the Town will host a children's parade, a 5k race and more. Many games and raffles will be held in support of the family-orientated event. The festivities begin at 1 p.m. at the congregational church for the Children's Parade. The Board of Selectmen praised the work of the Committee, and everyone is looking forward to a good time.

Officer Stephen Begley from the Norwood Police Department submitted a recommendation for a stop sign at the intersection of Tamworth Road at Cranmore Road. This stop sign was approved by the Board with one vote in opposition. The board worried about the safety of children going to school in the morning, while also considering that it might back up traffic.

Joseph Greeley submitted interest in being reappointed to Community Preservation Committee for a three year term ending July 1, 2022. The board approved this by unanimous decision.

Assistant Planner, Patrick Deschenes submitted a notice that the Community Preservation Committee has reorganized with John Hall as Chairman, Peter McFarland as Vice Chairman and John J. Aprea III as Treasurer. The Board approved this by unanimous decision.

Milton resident, Michael McCarron submitted an application for a lodging house license for the Tyler Thayer House II, on 98 Vernon St., Norwood. The board approved.

The Board also approved a block party on Saturday, Aug. 17. If approved by the Norwood Fire and Police Departments, it will start at 11 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. There will be a section blocked off between Juniper and Heather Drive.

Reverend Amanda L. Warner, from the Emmanuel Lutheran Church submitted a request to use the DAV Park (off of Walpole and Berwick Street) on Sunday Aug. 25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for a worship service and a picnic. The board approved this event if allowed by the police and fire department.

The Trinity Community Church submitted a request to use DAV Park for a Vacation Bible study on July 15 to July 19. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. They would also like to block off an area of Berwick Street on Sunday, Sept. 8, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for an annual picnic and again from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. for the youth "kickoff".

Medical City bid has us concerned

So, are we the only ones wondering about the status of “The Medical City of Norwood?” Just as a reminder to some, the winning bid for the Forbes Hill property, purchased for $13mil by the Town to try to keep even more dense apartment complexes from being built here (i.e. like the concrete jungle currently under construction behind the Shaw’s Plaza known as The Avalon Complex) came from Dr. Roberto Feliz, an international pain management specialist with more than 25 years of experience.

A quick search on Dr. Feliz establishes that he is, in fact, an MD with impressive curriculum vitae. Dr. Feliz earned his medical degree from Dartmouth Medical School. He completed his residency at Harvard Medical School at Beth Israel Hospital. He has a fellowship in Pain Management from Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital completed in 1993 and Massachusetts General Hospital in 1994. Fantastic, but what we couldn’t find is anything relative to his real estate development credentials.

The fact that Dr. Feliz appears to lack a significant history in big project development doesn’t in and of itself mean he isn’t qualified to pull off this kind of project, but it should have raised an eyebrow or two of public officials judging the submissions before awarding the bid.

According to the bid documents there will be a medical supply store on site, as well as one or two restaurants, a hotel, and 80 condominium units. The proposal also calls for the Forbes Mansion to be used as a conference center and that there will even be an omni theater used to actually show the inner workings of the human body, both in its healthy and diseased states. In other words, Forbes Hill will be transformed into a medical Disney World.

If a New England Development or other major development company had submitted such a plan, this newspaper would be a little less skeptical. However, this plan was submitted by what appears to be a doctor with a vision and good intentions. Can he produce? Maybe, but who really knows?

According to Selectman Bill Plasko at the meeting, “We have spent money preserving this site, but it was money well spent,” of the $13 million spent buying the property. He went on to say, “I would certainly recommend this project subject to the developer’s agreement and the purchase and sale agreement without reservation.” Selectman Alan Howard agreed. “We asked the people at Town Meeting to put faith in us,” he said. Yes, we have spent some money maintaining it while we have been beating the bushes for a quality developer.”

To this writer, self congratulatory comments may be a bit premature. For example, from the above comments one may assume that all of the carrying costs of Forbes Hill are currently being absorbed by the applicant, however nowhere is that documented. So, more than likely, the Town is still spending tens of thousands every month supporting the dream of an ambitious MD. According to the bid, Dr. Feliz will be making a $260 million investment, which is impressive, and he did submit a non refundable deposit. However, the guess at this address is that the deposit won’t be nearly enough to cover all of the expenses the Town continues to incur should Dr. Feliz eventually fail in his efforts to develop his medical Shangri la.

One other note in the description of the project gives us pause. According to the bid, “The Medical City of Norwood would be a one-stop medical location. The focus would be on complex, advanced diseases.”

Does the expression “complex advanced diseases” bother anyone else? More than likely it doesn’t mean another Atlanta like Centers for Disease Control (CDC), but did anyone ask? Inquiring minds want to know.

It has only been two months since the bid was awarded, so a bit too soon to draw any conclusions from a lack of information coming from public officials relative to progress. Stay tuned to these pages to find out what we are able to uncover concerning The Medical City of Norwood. We are hoping it will all be good, but worried that this bid may have been a bit too good to be true.

HI GUYS, A REMINDER TO NHS CLASS OF ‘61

Remember to ‘save the date,’ Saturday, Oct. 19, 2019. It is then that we will celebrate our 58th reunion at The Olde Colonial Cafe, across from the Common. If you are not on the mailing list, please text or call...617.750.0712, or, email...ptracy59@comcast.net

How did 58 years pass so quickly? How different things are today. Remember in ‘our day,’ if boys wore a white shirt to school, they had to wear a tie. In the winter when girls wore slacks under their skirts, they had to be removed at the locker. Remember ‘Miss Ryan?’ I changed to the standard tennis outfit, of that day in the girl’s room, in order to play Wellesley at our school. I’ll never forget walking near her office when she yelled, “Miss Howard, get in here. What do you think you’re doing walking the corridors dressed like that”. I said I had a tennis match and probably added, where do you want me to change, on the court? Immediate detention in her office was the punishment while she called my dad at the station, a man in uniform. He came and all was cleared up. Can you imagine the kids today being told what to wear? Can you also imagine today’s generation picking up a ‘land line’ and hearing the voices of a conversation since they had a two or three party line? Hearing the voices, we hung up immediately and waited until the line was clear. What a gift it was to get a private line! How about having to actually get up to change the volume or one of the 3 stations on our black & white TV, the size of which was approx. 12 x 12 on four wooden legs? John Cameron Swayze reported the facts, called news, for about 15 minutes every night, that’s all folks, and it was enough. Remember at 11 PM the TV stopped programming and showed their station logo while playing our National Anthem, or the Lord’s Prayer, with a beautiful bubbling brook in the background to say good night. Actually, except for WWII and the Korean War, family life was terrific with the ‘Greatest Generation’ in the 40’s and 50’s. Oh to go home again!

CRAFTERS NEEDED

The Norwood Senior Center ‘Crafters,’ invite you to join them as they work together creating thousands of afghans, blankets, hats, etc. All their beautiful work is donated to veterans’ groups, schools, hospitals, and anywhere there is a need. If you cannot join the group at The Center on Mondays, you may work your magic at home. All help will be greatly appreciated. The Crafters have been ‘quietly doing good’ for many years. Please call the Center for more info. 781.762.1201.

FIREFIIGHTERS MEMORIAL

Our beautiful ‘Jake’ was dedicated to Our Town 18 years ago this past May. Amid the beauty of Highland Cemetery he stands tall, strong, and brave, respectfully honoring our firefighters past, present, and future. When visiting Highland, take a ride by Jake and see the beautiful

We thank the Norwood Firefighters Memorial Committee for their commitment and the honor it has brought to Our Town; George Geary, Pres., Daniel Harkins, Treas., William Sullivan, Clerk, Peg Amirault, Kathy Bane, John Howard, Harvey LeBlanc, John Lydon, Ronald Maggio, and Phillip Morrison. TEXTING An individual may now ‘text’ to 911 if they have difficulty speaking or cannot speak at all. It is in full use in this state. IN MEMORY To the family and friends of Edna (Walsh) McCafferty, I send my sincere condolences due to her passing. She is greatly missed by so many! Memory Eternal.

front of the plaza is supposedly complete after an approx. year of work. Trying to navigate into the exit aisle to the street is a tough situation as there is not enough space for two cars to move at once. The curbing is a problem and the vinyl like pieces that stand on the sidewalk adjacent to the storefronts seems questionable as to its strength if struck. It is so dangerous to park in front of one of the stores as pedestrians are always walking behind the cars and can be very difficult to see, so be extra careful. IT'S STILL THERE The unsightly group of 'things' atop our Town Hall have not been relocated. That's what one sees when looking at the magnificent building. It's an eyesore.

KIDS

National news reported that the number of kids signing up for school sports is less and less. When the kids were asked why, their simple answer was... their parents embarrass them at the games... some schools don't allow kids to play 'dodgeball,' they might get a boo-boo. Also, in some schools, if you don't have the same opinion as another student, you can run and hide into a 'safe-room,' instead of talking with each other and finding out that everyone has a right to an opinion and sometimes putting opinions together might help each one come to a good decision... After all the to-do regarding shark bites, it takes a young 17 year old girl to sum it up correctly after she was bitten. She said 'I was in HIS home he wasn't in mine.' BYE, Enjoy your summer.

"I started running the Maine 39.3. You do a half marathon and then a full and I would do it in a banana suit," Quinn said.

Chris Barnes said he came from England to see some friends in Norwood and thought it would be a good place to reconnect.

"Well, it is the 51st state," he said with a laugh. "Norwood is fantastic, I can understand why my friends have lived here for years and don't want to move anywhere else."

And Barnes added that the two Norwoods in England aren't quite as nice as their American cousin in Massachusetts.

"There's one in Crystal Palace, but I think this Norwood is a lot nicer than that Norwood, you know the weather is much better," he said.

Milton resident Geoff Karasic came with his wife and two children because his wife's gym, Burn Boot Camp, was participating in the race and race warm ups. He said he or his wife usually run with the kids in a double stroller.

"Around my neighborhood and in other races definitely," he said.

Removal of dam at Mill Pond considered

Susan Kryczka
 Staff Reporter

About 15 people attended the Neponset River Watershed Association/Mill Pond Community meeting at Morrill Library on Monday, June 24 to hear the latest plans for removing the dam located at the northeast end of the Mill Pond.

Environmental scientist Chris Hirsch lead the meeting by giving an update on the project and to hear questions and elicit feedback from attendees. He began by explaining the uniqueness of the pond and the brook that is connected to it.

“Traphole Brook is a special brook. It is the last remaining example of what an eastern Massachusetts brook looks like in the area.”

The dam, which was constructed over 100 years ago to harvest ice for refrigeration, severely limits the amount of water entering the Mill Pond, causing rising water temperatures, sediment build up and loss of fish and other animal life. Despite this, Traphole Brook has brown trout and a recently discovered mussel colony, suggesting that increased moving water in the pond would encourage the trout to spawn more successfully and also bring back other wildlife.

At the moment, any trout that do make their way from the brook to the pond are unable to reverse their course due to the sediment and temperature of the pond. “We talk about the trout a lot as they are kind of canary in the coal mine,” said Hirsch.

Joe Gould, from the Massachusetts Department of Fish and Game, whose expertise is in dam and barrier removal, expanded on the issues surrounding the dam and the timeline.

“We are the technical lead. The design and permitting phases are first. There are lots of permits for dam removal, and that will take about a year." Removal would probably occur at the end of 2021 or early 2022. Another consideration is raising the necessary funds to cover the project and ensuring community participation in the process.

"The heron and the ducks are all gone from the pond. Twenty-five years ago the city wanted to put up a sidewalk through our yard," noted Tony Nikolassy, who along with his wife Sheri, are abutters to Mill Pond. They fondly remember the pond as a nature respite and want the water back.

The speakers noted that many dams in the US are 200-300 years old, while today's dams are built to last 75 years, so it is not unusual to see dam deterioration. By working with the community at each location on its unique dam removal, more attention can be drawn to the problems and hopefully corrected.

The process can be complicated and riddled with hitches.

Nick Nelson, a fluvial geomorphologist, explained the project is just starting so they can better understand it. "We're surveying the topography of the pond and river. Information is gathered regarding how much water is in the river and what possible flooding will do with and without the dam."

Nelson went on to explain the steps required before a decision on the specifics of the dam's removal can be made. "We're measuring the depth of the sentiment on the pond and how much. The plan is to remove the 5,000 cubic yards, which may seem like a lot."

The decision requires not only removal but then where to put the sediment. Contaminated sediment adds to the cost of relocation. Clean sediment can be sent down stream, but that could cause some flooding. Contaminated sediment is removed and sent to landfills in Texas, New Hampshire, or Ohio. After that more analysis, mapping, discussion with the community and looking at any construction challenges are the next steps. "Rivers move sediment; they are meant to move, to erode, and change the landscape," said Nelson. He noted that the rivers in Massachusetts have been impacted for a long time, so the study is important.

Hirsch opened the meeting for questions. Gould passed around photos showing the restoration of other rivers after dam removal, showing that after just a year the health of the system already shows. It was reiterated that the objective is not just to restore the pond but remove the dam and bring back the wildlife and fish. It is also important to ensure that the abutters are not flooded out.

The group was supportive of removing the dam and finding a way to eventually allow others from the community to enjoy a trail walk in the area, with limited parking for neighborhood use. "We all think it would be wonderful for people to use it," said one abutter.

"We'll have a ribbon cutting—maybe we can serve trout," joked one attendee.

Monthly Mental illness support group meeting

The South Norfolk Mental Illness Family and Friends Support Group will hold its monthly meeting in the Willett Conference Room in the Lorusso Building at Norwood Hospital (800 Washington St., Norwood, MA) from 7-9 pm on Monday, July 8. Note: this is the conference room beyond the Cafeteria.

Mental illness is a label for a variety of diseases of the brain. Often it strikes in late adolescence, devastating the afflicted person and the family. The South Norfolk Alliance is composed of such families who find mutual support and join together to advocate for their loved ones.

We welcome all families in the South Norfolk Area who are dealing with mental illness and their loved ones.

In case of inclement weather, we will align with the Norwood schools. If they close, the meeting will be cancelled.

Thomson as secretary. The regular meeting was then called into session, approving the minutes from the June 5, 2019 meeting.

Karin Sheridan was introduced as the finalist for the school's director of finance and operations position. Sheridan gave a Power Point presentation to further introduce herself and her philosophy to the committee. "My belief is to be as transparent as possible." Sheridan's ideal budget process would emphasize engaging all stakeholders at every level. "The budget for me is a yearlong project. The budget is a team process." She underscored that it is not just one person's or a school's budget, but a district budget. She also supports cross training staff and communicating often with parents.

Committee member Maura Smith asked Sheridan about her experience working with town officials. She indicated she has worked with many town officials.

"My goal as director of finance is to communicate and have conversations, especially with the superintendent." Thomson explained that Sheridan was chosen from 11 applicants and she was a good match for the team. "Her references came back incredibly," he said. The committee approved Sheridan's appointment as director.

Coakley Middle School Principal Margo Fraczek discussed changes to the 2019-2020 Coakley Middle School Handbook. Changes were made in defining attendance, behavior, the dress code, where to lock a bike, and the detention protocol. "We are trying to get away from a gender focus," Fraczek said regarding the dress code. "We talk to kids about getting dressed for school," suggesting it is in a manner that fits a school environment, not for a trip to the beach.

"Is there anything about length of skirt?" asked Smith. Fraczek said that she wants to avoid having to spend time measuring skirts. "I don't want it to come down to my judgment or a teacher's." A discussion ensued about the rights of students to express themselves in ways that are not dangerous to others. The committee approved the changes.

Elementary special schedules were discussed for 2019-2020. The elementary schools are looking for common planning time for teachers to meet. Thomson explained it as "...giving them time to plan, discuss student work, student results, and an investment in the classroom to organize as a professional team." Thomson said that any change must be budget and FTE neutral. The committee approved the plan unanimously.

Chairman Stewart and committee member Joan Giblin brought forward two policy projects. They are suggesting a partnership with Northeastern University to have graduate students review the policy manual and make recommendations with background and research work and also to look at the donation policy. Assistant Superintendent Alexander Wyeth suggested a third possible project. "They could be really helpful with the communication policy, social media." Giblin agreed that this third policy could also be added. The committee approved Giblin's request to discuss this with Northeastern.

The superintendent's report included a grant funded lunch program being offered starting at the Coakley for free lunches in the summer to anyone under 18 years of age to ensure that no Norwood child is hungry during the summer break. A $95,000 grant has also been received through the Department of Public Health which will fund mental health care, cultural competencies, and a nurse health leader. The hope is to extend it to the high school later.

Wyeth gave an update on the English Language Arts (ELA) curriculum review committee. There will be a pilot of three programs at all the elementary schools from Sept-December 2019 to identify one of the programs to purchase. "These are expensive programs and we want the best program for our money," Wyeth said. There is a search for an ELA coordinator with interviews going on during the week of June 24. The Oldham principal search is down to seven candidates with ongoing interviews.

The next meeting is Wednesday, August 7. "It's been a very eventful year in the Norwood Public Schools," said Bodenhofer. She wished everyone a good summer.

Miracle Prayer

Dear Heart of Jesus, in the past I have asked You for many favours. This time, I ask you this very special one (mention favour). Take it, dear Heart of Jesus, and place it within Your own broken heart where Your Father sees it. Then, in His merciful eyes, it will become Your favour, not mine. Amen. Say for three days, promise publication and favour will be granted.

Thank you, J.R.G.

ing with crisis intervention training (CIT) for a few years now as well, and the results he's seen in the community are impressive.

"We've made a switch, and that comes from the chief," said Shore. "Now we can spend about 40 minutes on these kinds of calls and work to resolve them. It's a better way than just demanding someone goes to the hospital whether they want to or not."

Shore and Brooks said the basis of CIT is to calm someone down and work through what they're dealing with if they are in a crisis. Brooks said that they now have several CIT certified officers, and that there is always one on duty to respond to such a call.

"If a CIT officer is not the first one on the scene, then they are the first sent out for backup," he said.

The training came from the One Mind campaign, headed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Shore went for training a few years ago and became a certified teacher. He then trained Norwood Police Officers, dispatchers, officers from other towns and dozens of other Norwood Town employees.

"It builds in empathy and teaches what people are experiencing while in crisis," he said. "This is not an easy thing to deal with, and we try to treat them better now and also make sure officers know how to approach people in crisis. Teach them to slow things down and recognize that when someone is in crisis, there's something else that triggered that event and it's not necessarily a criminal event."

Shore said he's been in many situations where he will spend about an hour talking to someone in crisis and really getting to the root of the issue, whatever it is. He said it's a different approach to try to control the situation than many police officers may be used to.

"By doing that you have a better rapport," he said. "For instance, if when talking to someone you raise your voice then they're more apt to raise their voice at you. When you calm down the situation, we see better results... I can personally say that I can see the difference.

Brooks said that in the past an officer would be hard pressed to spend more than 20 minutes during a mental health call, but now he said the dispatcher will only check in with the officer to make sure they are all right and will give the officer as much time as they think they need.

"I look at numbers and data all the time because it's interesting, but I try not to be driven by just that," Brooks said. "As long as we know the officer is safe then I'm completely disinterested on how long they take to resolve the matter."

Shore said he and other officers generally follow up with a person having experienced crisis. He said building that trust makes all the difference, and if that person experiences crisis again, which Shore said does happen, they will look differently at an officer, perhaps calming down just by remembering the prior episode. Shore said the training includes asking the person what helps calm them down, which may seem like an obvious step, but in those situations it might not be the first thought to occur to someone responding. He said that person has most likely experienced this kind of crisis before and might know what helps them and is more likely to know specifically than any training manual.

"If they feel rushed or not respected or listened to, that's one component we have to address," Shore said. "If someone is in a high level of crisis, whether they're having auditory hallucinations, suspicions of government agencies, or they could be imagining things or be experiencing a drug-induced psychosis, the verbal communication can take a lot longer. Just getting their name can take a few minutes, and giving them the time to respond to you in a calmer manner can make all the difference. In crisis, we are typically the first people they call or other people will call on their behalf, so that first impression is everything. If they feel rushed or disrespected, they're not going to want to deal with you."

Brooks and Shore said they work with people in crisis or their families to figure out what services would be best for that individual. Shore added that just making sure families know the police are there to help is extremely important as well.

Brooks said originally Shore went to Philadelphia to train and has been a great help training other officers in Norwood. He said Shore presented at the 2018 Massachusetts Police Chiefs Conference about the training and Brooks said he was extremely impressed with Shore's approach.

"It was honestly like a TED talk," he said. "He just held them captivated for a couple of hours, to the point that after the class I gave his email from the stage if people wanted to contact him directly and I know a lot of police chiefs did. It's really quite a thing to see an officer from my department get up there and hold a room of 300 police chiefs captivated; it was very rewarding."

Shore is dedicated to this work because he has personally dealt with mental health issues in the past.

"I have been a police officer for 15 years, but there was a point in my career that I had mental health issues going on in my personal and professional career," he said. "It wasn't until I was finally able to get help through an employee assistance program and seeing a private therapist of my own was I able to resolve those issues... Once I realized I wasn't the only one out there struggling with these types of things, it was a great weight off my shoulders. When the Chief approach me about the One Mind Campaign, we discussed the mission and he said 'I think you have a story to share and I think you're the best person for this,' and it's been one of the best things I have done in my career to save lives."

Shah elected to Girl Scout Board

Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts (GSEMA) elected Girl Scout Khushi Shah of Norwood to serve as a Girl Board Member on its Board of Directors for 2019-2020 during the council's Annual Meeting on May 7. Voting members of the council elected this year's slate, which includes four new adult board members, four new girl board members, and two new Board Nominating and Development Committee members. The Board of Directors is chaired by Tricia Tilford. "Our Board of Directors plays an essential role in advancing our mission to build girls of courage, confidence, and character, who make the world a better place," said Caitríona Taylor, Chief Executive Officer, Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts. "We are pleased to welcome our newly elected board members, whose unique backgrounds and strong commitment will help ensure Girl Scouts continue to reach their full potential as leaders, take healthy risks, and raise their voices through the best girl leadership experience in the country." Khushi is a high school sophomore and has been a Girl Scout since Brownie level. She is actively pursuing her Girl Scout Gold Award project to bring STEM workshops to communities where young girls lack exposure. Her goal is to enhance girls' perspectives in these fields while empowering their self-confidence. She has earned the President's Volunteer Silver Service Award with special service committed to education and she participated in the Model G20 Youth Leadership Summit, which reinforced her skills in cross-cultural understanding. Khushi is a member in the National Honor Societies of academics, music, and foreign language. She envisions taking on a role as an entrepreneur and following her passion in the engineering field. 2019 Jeep Cherokee 4x4 Trailhawk

I recently spent a week in a 2019 Jeep Cherokee Trailhawk. The Trailhawk, like all Cherokees, has three engine choices. The base is a 2.4 liter, 4 cylinder with 180 horsepower, next is a 2.0 liter, turbo 270 horsepower, and the 3.2 liter, V/6 with 271 horsepower. Our test Trailhawk had the 2.0 liter turbo that felt more like a high powered V/6. All are mated with the flawless shifting of the 9-speed automatic transmission. No matter what speed you are going, there is more than enough power at your command. Another nice touch is the quietness from additional insulation.

On cold mornings, you will enjoy the remote start and the heated seats and steering wheel that come on automatically when the temperature drops. Entry level has been lowered for us shorter people and seating has also been redesigned with lower bolster heights. Seats provide excellent support and comfort, there is room for two adults in the back. Fold down the rear seats and there is plenty of room for whatever you can throw in. As for the large touchscreen multi-function center display, it is simple to use. Heat and A/C controls can be operated manually with knobs, as well as the radio from knobs or the steering wheel.

In the old days, Jeeps had a hard ride and they were a guy thing. That was then – now I see many women buying Jeeps. In my own neighborhood, three women under the age of 25 bought Jeeps recently. Shift on the fly, 17-inch wheels and tires, anti-slip rear differential, and more are standard. The option list is long. The Technology Group brings in forward collision warning, rain sense wipers, brake assist, active cruise control, exterior mirrors with directionals, automatic high beams and more for $995.
