Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

Standardized testing has become an important benchmark for both students and school districts, and the Norwood Public Schools has begun reviewing several other test results since the MCAS scores were released.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Alec Wyeth said that Norwood students had been on a five-year trend for the critical reading and math SAT exams. He said there is a 7 percent increase in the number of test takers, with notable increases in female, Asian and black students.

“One of our objectives in standardized testing is making sure students of color have access to this testing,” Wyeth said, noting the SAT is an important stepping stone for college admissions.

Wyeth said he was a little disappointed with this past year’s results, saying there was an overall seven-point drop in critical reading from year to year and a 10-point drop in the math exam.

In the critical reading component, females increased their performance by eight points, while males decreased by 20 points, Wyeth said, with both genders dipping in math scores, which had a 497 mean score overall - the lowest of the past five years in Norwood. According to Wyeth, this disparity between male and female scores follows the national trend but is still a “big shift.”

According to Wyeth, the Norwood

The Norwood Airport Commission is weighing what was presented during a show cause hearing for misconduct and violation of airport regulations by Boston Executive Helicopters (BEH), with a decision anticipated at its November meeting. The Commission will have to do so shorthanded, as at least two members have resigned since the hearing as well.

The hearing was held to see if BEH conducted unauthorized operations, two counts of misconduct and violation of preservation of property when members of the company allegedly tipped over jersey barriers, spilling 330 gallons of a glycol and water mixture onto the airport on Feb. 13.

The incident took place on the Airport’s Lot G, which is between space leased by Flight Level and BEH. Both parties have disputed the rights to Lot G, which is leased by Flight Level, though BEH believes it has right to use the lot. The barriers were installed by Flight Level after BEH had conducted some

No, this is not the start of Forbes Hill

The area bordered by Route 1A and Clapboardtree Street continues to bustle with development as Benchmark Senior Living prepares to construct its 90-unit living facility.

While Campanelli has begun leasing units at One Upland, its 262-unit 40B project that granted the Town of Norwood a two-year safe harbor status, Benchmark - which operates over 50 assisted living facilities for seniors in New England - has begun site work on the Norwood half of Clapboardtree Street, right across from Xaverian Brothers High School.

Contrary to what some residents have suggested, this project is not the Forbes Hill 40B project brought by the Marcus Davis group and denied by the Zoning Board of Appeals on the grounds that Norwood has reached its local need for affordable housing. The Zoning Board said this was because the Town of Norwood now had over 1.5 percent of its land dedicated to affordable housing.

“Any work on that street has absolutely nothing to do with Forbes Hill. Just nonsense,” Selectmen Bill Plasko said. “Ownership of the street is share part way up from the intersection, then it becomes all Westwood, so specific location is important.”

Town Planner Paul Halkiotis said Benchmark’s 8.3-acre assisted living project will likely take a year to build, depending on this winter’s weather. The facility will be around 79,000 square feet and will feature 29 special memory care units. The project will have 65 parking spaces and projects to generate around 292 new trips, with a 2014 traffic study stating that it will not have any major effect on the level of service at nearby intersections.

The plot consists of two parcels, one undeveloped plot of land and another with a single family home currently built. The Planning Board assigned several conditions of approval for the project, including plans for electric and broadband services approved by Norwood Light Department, connecting to either Norwood or Westwood sewers, plans for an additional fire hydrant, good housekeeping of the site and all appropriate approvals from Town bodies, maintenance of plantings and vegetation during and after construction, and that construction must begin within 24 months, among others. The Planning Board voted unanimously to approve the site plans in September 2014.

“The facility will provide aging seniors with a comfortable place to live with professional staff to help care for their daily needs,” the decision read. “With the projected increase of seniors from the aging Baby Boomer population, there will be an increased demand in the future for this type of housing and services.”

Plasko said a major obstacle for the project had been access into the street for utility tie-ins, which were in Westwood’s control. He said he believed Westwood was looking for Benchmark to help pay for sewer or water line improvements, which the developers balked at.

The utility issue - Westwood and Norwood meet in the middle of Clapboardtree Street, but Norwood only has utility tie-ins on Washington Street - resulting in meetings and correspondence between municipal leaders from both towns before becoming resolved.

“Benchmark made peace with Westwood so their project could go forward,” Plasko said.

The appeal period having passed, the Planning Board granted final approval and signed the decision for the project on Oct. 26. An ANR plan was also approved, moving the lot lines to create one joined parcel instead of two.

DPW building named after Carroll Lyons will not seek reelection

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

Public Works Superintendent Mark Ryan announced the new DPW facility was fully complete and the staff had been working to make the new space “their home” at Tuesday’s Board of Selectmen meeting. Ryan said his department was thankful for everything they had been given - though Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue said they had “earned it” - and all were excited to show off the new facility during the open house and ceremony on Nov. 1.

During Ryan’s report to the Board, Selectman Bill Plasko noted that the new DPW administration building lacks a name and proposed dedicating it to the current Town Manager by calling it the John J. Carroll Administration Building.

Plasko said Carroll has been a strong administrator in the Town of Norwood for 37 years and had “done so many fine things for this town.” Plasko commended Carroll for building a tremendously strong and respected administration team, which he said was a “sign of a true leader.”

Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue said Carroll has been the third Town Manager she’s known in her lifetime and said that he has done a “wonderful job in the Town of Norwood” and the dedication would be a great honor.

Chairman Paul Bishop said it was fitting that a DPW administration building was being named in Carroll’s honor, since Carroll had previously worked as a DPW head in Lexington and at the state level during Gov. Dukakis’ term.

According to the Selectmen, the decision had already been made and they had worked with Steel Art on Dean Street to have the letters fabricated, which will be installed this week. This will be the second facility named in Carroll’s honor, as a Massachusetts Water Resource Authority - Carroll serves on the MWRA’s Board of Directors - treatment facility was also dedicated in his name.

Carroll was visibly moved during the announcement, and said he was “totally surprised” and “very humbled.” Plasko’s motion was unanimously and emphatically approved.

Selectman Michael Lyons announced that he would not be seeking reelection to the Board in April after around 10 years of service, as he and his family were considering moving out of Norwood in the near future. The Board expressed their thanks to Lyons for the work he had done, with Bishop saying he considered Lyons to be a mentor and a great chairman. Donohue also commended Lyons for his job as chairman. Plasko said he and Lyons had become good friends over their time on the Board together.

In his report, Light Department Superintendent James Collins announced that the Army Corps of Engineers has issued a permit for the transmission line replacement project and they had received bids during the last week.

Collins said the bids ranged from $5.7 million to around $10 million. The low bidder, Collins said, had a good reputation and said it appeared they could save around $4 million from the original estimate. Collins said despite this, there will be no change to consumer costs because the money was being borrowed and Town Meeting had authorized borrowing “up to” the estimate.

The Town will also be reimbursed, Collins and Carroll said, so it won’t “cost anything.”

When it was noted that Town Counsel Karis North was working to fulfill Denis Drummey’s public records request regarding the 1.5 percent issue, Plasko clarified his remarks during the previous meeting that he had seen seven or eight cases before the Housing Appeals Committee. He said they were not all argued by attorney Dan Hill, who has been recommended to handle Norwood’s case by Drummey and other residents. Plasko said he did not want to misrepresent this particular attorney’s record.

The Selectmen also approved a common victualler’s license and a transfer of an All Alcoholic Beverages license for Olivio’s Grille and Pizzeria, which will open at 1210 Boston Providence Highway. The business owners, the Urios, have entered into a purchase and sale agreement with Tuscany Pizzeria and Grille, which is closing, for the AAB license.

The Urios, who have Norwood roots, have operated a restaurant with the same name in Stoughton for several years without alcohol service and manager Kayla Urrio has experience with serving alcohol while working with the 99 Restaurants. The restaurant will feature extended hours from Thursday to Saturday, during which time the restaurant will be open until 1 a.m. The Urios ensured the Board they would be working with the Norwood Police regarding training of staff and regulations regarding alcohol sales and storage.

Letters to the Editor

MY RIGHT AS A RESIDENT

To the Editor:

I must say that I was very flattered to have had two selectmen at last Tuesday's meeting chastise me over my letter to the Board bemoaning the fact that such a poor effort was put in on the 1.5 percent Committee. Messer's Plasko and Bishop were quite vocal in their disdain for my Freedom of Information Request as my right through M.G.L. Chapter 66, Section 10 for all background, files, emails, and satellite data from Advanced Geographics, etc. It is still due on Oct. 28, 2015 per the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office. You see not much of anything has been done and if someone understands why we would want more 40B's in this town - please let us know.

The de minimis land area we must reach is 1.5 percent of total town land dedicated to affordable housing. Either 1.51 percent or 1.54 percent is the number we have seen from our Assistant Engineer and Legal firm. Billy said I did not know what I was talking about. For example, Karis North, is 0 for 0 in these matters - not 0 for 2 which I said. Great. However, she has no experience at all in this kind of case. He also rolled out the drivel about me being a show horse, not a workhorse like himself. Workhorses, however, are not given the right to control all matters involving this town either. Last time I checked, we are still a democracy.

Apparently, Bill forgot I was the first resume the BOS received - to join the 1.5 percent Committee. I am persona non grata because the BOS violated its own policy of bringing in candidates for interviews. I didn't even get a "thanks, but no thanks." Once again, control. Secondly, he attacks the credentials of Dan Hill and Dick Heaton neither of whom I mention in my letter to the Board. He claims I am demeaning people when in fact he is. I simply pointed out that our group for legal defense has zero experience in front of the Housing Appeals Committee. We were also told repeatedly that they would do GIS satellite imaging to get a correct read on roadways and ponds in the Fowl Meadow. Seems like it was never done. Also, Dave Hajjar, Chairman of the 1.5 percent Committee was told by Billy he wouldn't be needed in the defense. Is this making sense? I had suggestions as a public meeting attendee, which Dave thought were good, but they came from the "Show Clydesdale." Never acted on.

After that Chairman Bishop likens me to Nikita Khrushchev pounding my shoe on the table. I don't know, Paul, this guy was known as the "Butcher of the Ukraine" because he liquidated over 1 million Ukrainians. I don't always play nice in the sandbox, Paul, but this is a bit over the top.

I did the FOIA because I want to see what went into the number. I know I could add to. In fact, three of the Committee members (outsiders - not Town Hall) also asked for, but have not yet received the same details I am currently asking for. One lady has made five FOIA requests and received nothing. Sound funny to you? Does it have to be referred to the AG's office again like Brian Hardiman's?

Let's go to the Sept. 3, 2013 minutes (pages 6-7): Allan Howard: "Conor Kenney, who has been giving me information, but he at times got confused, so an outside agency that has done this before is what we need."

Chairman Plasko stated: "Then we need to have the engineering department to figure this out and they may not understand...we should look at this in case we can use it but if Town Counsel or Engineering feel more is necessary, maybe they will advise. (Maybe?) Let's try in-house review first." Well, if you are comfortable with the number, you have more faith than I.

So we are teetering at the 1.5 percent and are very likely to lose the Davis case if one small thing is thrown out. There is an article on the upcoming TM Warrant specifically put on by 139 citizens asking for an appropriation to hire expert counsel and consulting. It is lunacy not to do this. Three hundred (300) more units, in addition to Campanelli's abomination. Isn't it enough already!

Further, gentlemen, please do not forget that you are elected officials for the Town of Norwood. Using public broadcasting time to voice your negative opinions of me only reflects poorly on you and on our town. I have not asked for any information that is not my legal right to receive.

*Denis Drummey, Sr.
Norwood*

SO, HOW DO WE WIN?

To the Editor:

I greatly appreciate our democratic process. As a town meeting member for many years, I have publicly stated that process is so important. Aligning with that belief, I have often been guided by the famous quote of cultural American anthropologist, Margaret Mead, who said, "Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, concerned citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has."

Over the past two years during Norwood's safe harbor period, a group of very thoughtful and concerned citizens have been following town actions and meetings to stay abreast of the affordable housing development situation in Norwood. Despite the fact that Chapter 40B has been around since 1969, Norwood leaders did not take compliance seriously enough to meet the regulations criteria. I do not know the reason for this - maybe the town didn't know how; maybe they made one mistake after another; maybe they didn't want to; maybe important staff were ill; maybe it was just plain old politics...maybe, maybe, maybe...

However, it is the present situation that must be dealt with. A group of committed citizens, who truly love our town, school system and its people, gathered more than the 100 signatures necessary to place an article on the special town meeting warrant for the Nov. 16 meeting which requests at least $125,000 in funds for the purpose of hiring specialized experts who can maximize our defense of Norwood's 1.5 percent position in front of the Housing Appeal Committee.

With all respect to the Board of Selectmen, residents waited over 45 years and the town was still not compliant with 40B. Residents of Norwood have a perfect right to be disappointed and frustrated with the direction Norwood leadership has taken us. As an elected Board, you should be listening.

Fortunately, we are caring, hard-working people. Our compromise to the town leaders is this: Do your job and fight the next 40B with all your might and we, in turn, will assist you by supporting the vote to obtain funds to help the town win. It is that simple. If Norwood is going to try to win their case, then you go in with all the expertise that you can. Don't tell me about other towns that haven't won. Tell me how WE can win! Each town's data is so different - mutually exclusive. Norwood will stand on its own facts...period!

Community at large - please help us. Show your support for this article by attending the special town meeting. Town meeting members please support the article when it comes to the floor. Remember, a small group of concerned, committed citizens can change the world - or at least a little piece of it here in Norwood.

Toni M. Eosco District 5 Town Meeting Representative

STOP DISMISSING CITIZENS

To the Editor:

I'm astounded by the actions of our Board of Selectmen these days. But, I'm not surprised. Let's take credit for the citizen's 1.5 percent initiative, water down all their hard work as we take credit for it, then blame them for all the mistakes we have made. The problems in town emanate from one source. All fingers point to Town Hall. I've got some news for you Bill Plasko, your neighbors at Crestwood Circle are upset and angry with you, not me. I still knock on their doors. Have you ever done that? Your claims that I have chosen to work against the town leaders is absurd. In the earliest days of the Plimpton 40R crisis, I reached out to you and offered my help as I asked for yours. On the third telephone call I made to you, you claimed I was "harassing you." You were the Chairman of the BOS at the time. Who would you have suggested I should approach? The point of those phone calls was to get abutters equal airtime with the developers at the proceedings. Your public statement made many times was "it's not us against them." It has been nothing but that from day one. Actions speak louder than words. It is time to stop shedding those crocodile tears and do the job people entrusted you to do. As for my efforts made, I received threats of a letter of dis-invite from Town Hall! Is that how to "work with citizens" of this town that offer to help? Can you explain why citizens are being forced to file Freedom Of Information Act requests? There will be more of those requests made before the smoke clears. That alone will clear up any "misinformation" going around town. Having a truly open meeting format at the BOS meetings would help things. The School Committee starts each session with a public forum. Why won't our other boards do that?

Each and every citizen's effort to fight 40B and 40R housing has been dismissed and the underlying theme has been thanks, but no thanks. Even when we simply suggest using experts as every other community facing 40B's has. We have even provided them to you at our expense and are still met with the same old rejections. Meanwhile, The BOS has just rolled out the red carpet to Avalon to welcome a third 40B to Town! You reprimand citizens, and meet and greet with 40B developers the next day. Wasn't one 40B enough? You volunteered that one to town. But I guess I go too far to claim the BOS has "betrayed this town." The BOS is culpable for its decisions and actions. So are the Town Manager, Planning Board, Town Planner, Town Engineer and Town Counsel. You have all insisted on having things go your way. You have ignored the people's wishes and input. We are heading for a disaster in town and in court. I will take no solace in the fact that those mentioned will be blamed and held responsible. The damage to our beloved Norwood will be done. Folks, I apologize for all my shortcomings. I'm just one of those "nasty abutters" who happens to love this town and cares enough to do something about it. This Vermonter is still fighting for this town. So are a lot of other good citizens in Norwood. Our Town is about to change if the powers that be have their way. There will be no going back. We still have the only housing shortage we have ALWAYS had. That is the lack of affordable housing for seniors who have paid their dues here in town. Does Mr. Duffy's 40R help with that? Who worked at the Housing Authority for all those years Bill?

The incident took place just before 7 p.m. on Feb. 13, and Flight Level enacted its stormwater control plan, which required an environmental cleanup.

According to a police report filed by Norwood Police officer James Payne, the police were contacted by Flight Level, which had video surveillance of the incident and believed it was BEH president Chris Donovan and employee Robert Silva who tipped the barriers.

Norwood Police approached BEH, and though Donovan was not present, Silva said he was aware of a property dispute between the two companies and allegedly said, "they don't like us."

The video surveillance showed two individuals coming and going from the BEH hangar to the barriers before the barriers were tipped, but the distance prevented police from identifying the individuals. The video footage also shows vehicles allegedly belonging to both Donovan and Silva coming and going around the time of the incident. Airport Manager Russ Maguire said of the 12 or so people with security access for BEH, Donovan and Silva appeared to be the only ones operating their security cards at that time.

A show cause hearing in Dedham District Court did not issue a criminal complaint, and chairman Mark Ryan revealed during the Oct. 21 hearing that both Donovan and Silva were offered clean slates if they kept out of trouble for three months.

Donovan was not in attendance at the hearing, though Flight Level Norwood President Peter Eichleay did testify before the Commission.

Eichleay said the barriers his company erected were along a leasehold boundary line confirmed by a Norwood Engineering survey. Flight Level reported the tipping incident via voicemail on the night it occurred.

BEH was represented by attorney Tim McCulloch, who said he did not feel the Commission was an objective body in the matter because it took a position on the release of pollutants in its FAA Part 16 complaint answer as far as BEH was concerned. McCulloch said it had "already prejudged this outcome" and suggested the Selectmen take on the matter.

McCulloch also said that Flight Level was in violation of state law because it had engaged in "self help to settle a property dispute," and the Commission had initially recommended the issue be taken up in court, not before the Commission.

McCulloch did not discuss any motive or defense of the tipping, but called upon two expert witnesses from FSL Associates in Boston to discuss whether the spill required the $25,000 clean up enacted by Flight Level.

Bruce Hoskins, a licensed site professional from FSL Associates said glycol was not regulated by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and was not considered an environmental pollutant by the US Environmental Protection Agency or the DEP. Maguire said the Airport's stormwater plans required cleanup because of the Airport's location in an environmentally sensitive area.

Commissioner Paul Shaughnessy said he was not sure if the barriers were aviation approved and if they had contained a pollutant, they should have been labeled.

Sheehan was unsatisfied by the expert testimony regarding the contents of the spill.

"All of the rest is smoke and mirrors. This is an act of vandalism...those are the questions that I want answered," Sheehan said.

"It appears to me that this commission wants to impose a death penalty on BEH," McCulloch said, noting the company's removal would shut them down and causing $8 million in losses from BEH's new hangar construction alone.

The Commission deliberated for some time in executive session before determining that it would extend BEH's 2014 commercial permit one more time so that it could operate until the Commission reaches a decision on the matter on Nov. 19. The Commission also requested Donovan be present to discuss his 2016 permit application.

Following the hearing, both Paul Shaughnessy and Hylie Hutchens announced their resignation from the Airport Commission. Both were appointed to the Commission 18 months ago when membership was expanded to nine members in order to resolve disputes at the Airport.

"When I told the Selectmen, I thanked them very much for the opportunity to serve the people of Norwood for 18 months," Hutchens said. "I hope what I did was for the benefit of the town and for the airport."

Hutchens said the hearing was not necessarily the final straw, but he had done a cost-benefit analysis of his position and found the costs were "too great."

"I found it to be more contentious than I was comfortable with," Hutchens said.

Shaughnessy could not be reached for comment.

FinComm and Schools discuss redistricting as part of budget

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

The Finance Commission has begun meeting with various departments in the Town ahead of the budget season in order to get a better idea of what the major issues will be. This month, the Commission met with members of the School Committee and Superintendent James Hayden.

“It’s a daily challenge. The grind has begun and we can almost predict what the budget balancing process is going to be like,” Chairman Joe Greeley said. “We still have great students who we need to do right by.”

Greeley said the School Department had presented a basic budget and spending summaries in the School District that show actual spending.

Hayden said one of the important components in Norwood was making sure “the children had a good start in their elementary years,” when it came to moderating class sizes and analyzing enrollment. He said they did have to eliminate foreign language positions in the high school, and the middle school challenges resulted in a split seventh and eighth grade team, which caused problems for scheduling exploratory courses, as well as class sizes.

As such, the Schools added some paraprofessionals with money from the state kindergarten grant, and added a .4 physical education teacher, and a .6 English Language learner instructor that would also be a .4 Spanish teacher.

Hayden said the kindergarten classes were in the 21-student range, while grades one and two had an average of 18 students per class. In third grade, the number jumped up to 30 students, while fourth had 23 students per class and fifth had 21 students. Overall, Hayden said comparisons within the DART group of similar districts was still favorable.

The Finance Commission then asked about the possibility of redistricting to edit class sizes.

“At the moment, we’re balanced in the various schools,” Hayden said. “What I’m watching very carefully is Upland Woods, and if I’m going to have students from Upland Woods, what level do they come from, what need of service are they.”

Hayden said he was also watching the residential development going up at the end of Endicott Street, which could affect Cleveland School populations. The projections would end up being based on the price, the number of bedrooms in the units, and whether the location was considered a kid-friendly place to be. He also said some families may not end up choosing public school either.

Hayden referenced a proposal by the School Committee to have Town Meeting fund a long-range building plan, which would look at school populations and projections and determine whether the neighborhood school model was still a good idea in Norwood or if they should go for magnet or regional schools.

Hayden said the Massachusetts School Building Authority was unlikely to help fund a new school with a population of less than 500, but could help with repairs for the district’s smaller elementary schools, some of which are over 100 years old. Hayden said they could decide to opt for two to three elementary schools or develop a K-8 building to avoid constant transitions between schools. This is where redistricting would likely come into play.

Commissioner Judy Langone said there was a lot of competition for MSBA reimbursements and Norwood had already received funding for the High School and the recently completed boiler replacement at the Callahan School, making the chances of getting more money “next to nil.”

“I don’t see us doing new buildings, no matter what a study says,” Langone said.

School Committee chairman Jim Gormley said buses would also have to change if redistricting occurred and they would have to look at land for new schools and what the Town could do with the old sites.

“If the MSBA doesn’t participate, I’m not sure we could afford building new schools without reimbursement,” Langone said.

Commissioner Alan Slater agreed.

“I think it’s a given. Without MSBA funding, we won’t participate...I think it’s a good idea to do a facilities study to see what our needs are.”

Langone contested that it was still a risk because much of the study could involve recommendations the Town might not be able to do anything with in the end.

Greeley said the Committee needs to be open to “thinking out of the box.”

Public Schools results were below the Massachusetts public school average by 13 points in critical reading, 24 points in math, and 11 points in writing. When compared with the national results, Norwood students were five points above the average in critical reading, and one point below in math.

Overall, Wyeth was pleased to report that more students of color are participating and doing better than their peers in previous years, though fewer students overall were taking the non-required SAT subject tests. The number was down to 17 students last year, which Wyeth said was a 47 percent drop.

Wyeth cautioned that the SAT tests will be changing in March 2016, so he said Norwood educators would be cautious in their response to this latest batch of results. The SAT is similar to the PARCC and MCAS tests, Wyeth said, because they are skill based and targeted towards gauging college and career readiness.

Wyeth said the ACT results were more encouraging, and showed an 87 percent increase in the number of students taking it, which is still a small population. Wyeth said that the number jumped from 39 test takers to 73, but he was not sure how many were also taking the SAT.

On the ACT English exam, Norwood showed a .8-point increase to 22.4 on a scale going up to 36. Math saw a .1 bump to 23.3, reading was increased by .7 to 23.6, and science saw the largest jump of 1.2 to reach 23.3. Wyeth said the ACT is “fundamentally more curriculum based” and is more geared towards what the students are learning in their high school curriculums, which could explain the improving score in Norwood.

Wyeth said there was an eight-point difference between the state and Norwood average, which was narrowed to only four points this year for English composition, and a similar gap narrowing occurred in the algebra portion. The gap narrowed from 16 points to five in social science, 14 to three points in biology and the gap for all of the above narrowed from 16 points to seven.

More Norwood students are also taking Advanced Placement (AP) exams, which Wyeth said was a good sign. Overall, Norwood saw an increase of 9 percent in test takers, with the number jumping up to 116 students, with increases in the Asian, Hispanic, and black populations.

Students can take more than one AP test as well, if they are in the AP level course for that exam, and Wyeth said they had 22 more tests taken overall. Students are eligible to receive college credit if they score a 3, 4, or 5 on the AP exams, and 133 tests scored in that bracket this past year, though there was not much of a percent increase.

Females again increased their performance, while males showed a decrease. Wyeth said there was also a shift in the number of test takers for each subject: biology decreased from 15 takers to two, English language composition decreased from five takers to none, calculus saw a dip from 34 to 30, statistics decreased from 13 to six and Spanish saw a drop of seven test takers to none. Meanwhile, computer science test takers jumped from one to six, English literature composition jumped from 16 to 33 takers, US History test takers jumped from 53 to 59, and physics took a notable jump from no test takers last year to 24 this year.

Wyeth said 90 percent of takers were scoring a 3 or above on the literature test, 70 percent were scoring similarly for US History, 71 percent were doing so for the calculus test, and psychology and statistics showed 100 percent of takers scoring a 3 or above.

Wyeth said the state would likely be making a decision around the PARCC examination in mid-November, with district-level scores being released in the early part of the month. He also said a “new wrench and twist” had been thrown in to the decision between MCAS and PARCC, as some officials are looking into creating a hybrid test tentatively called “MCAS 2.0.”

Wyeth said this was mostly due to political pressure not to adopt PARCC because the state may want to remain autonomous and have latitude to change the test how it sees fit. PARCC, in which Norwood students up to eighth grade participated, has shown itself to be a more demanding test, Wyeth said.

This was evidenced by a lower overall percentage of proficient scores on PARCC than on MCAS. Wyeth said to anticipate lower scores for PARCC than MCAS when the district results are released as well because it is a newer test.

“That’s the nature of the beast. I don’t think it means we’re doing anything horrible,” Wyeth said.

Balanced attack propels Field Hockey over Natick

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

Norwood stormed out to an early lead and never looked back in a 3-2 win over the Natick RedHawks on Oct. 21.

With just two more regular season contests before the tournament, the Mustangs got yet another balanced attack on offense, with three goals from three different players. This time, it was Maura O'Neill, Valerie Quinlan and Bryn Garczynski filling the stat sheet for Norwood, with Beth Tobio getting the win in goal on Senior Day for the Mustangs, the final regular season home game for some 13 seniors on the squad.

"Senior Day is always intense and emotional and all that fun stuff," said Norwood head coach Allison Doliner after the game. "Thirteen seniors is a lot to recognize, and they all contributed to the win today, so that was awesome."

Not even five minutes into the game, the Mustangs were up 2-0. O'Neill was on the receiving end of a Casey MacDonald pass down low at 1:12 to open the scoring, and the fervent pace continued on Quinlan's goal, off a rebound, at 4:38.

From there, Norwood took its foot off the pedal on the offensive end, but continued to play stout defense, limiting Natick to just two shots on goal for the duration of the first half. One of the shots did beat Tobio, however, with just 1:06 remaining, and the RedHawks gained a bit of momentum heading into the break.

Doliner wasn't concerned about the lack of offense the final 25 minutes of the half, but did wonder how her team could maintain that energy over a full half, not just a fraction of it. She also stressed how great it was her team has the ability to get a quick first goal.

"They've done it, they've felt how good that is," she said of scoring early, noting that even in the 4-1 loss to Needham on Oct. 15, the Mustangs scored first for an early lead. "You're seeing it more often, which is good. The more that they do that, and the more that they get confident that they can do it, the more they feel how exciting it is...it's not a bad time for that to all start coming together, right before the tournament.

Rose Campbell clears a ball out of the defensive end in Norwood's game vs. Natick last week. Along with Bryn Garczynski, Campbell has given Head Coach Allison Doliner a pair of freshman revelations this season.

Garczynski added the insurance goal for Norwood at 21:11 of the second half, a span of nearly 47 minutes without scoring. It wound up being an important goal for the Mustangs, as Natick tacked on another with just 1:14 to go in the contest.

"It's just focus," said

Doliner, not overreacting to allowing each RedHawk goal within the final 75 seconds of each half. "We had a lot of control of that second half. Sometimes, you're in so much control that the defense gets flat. That's a mental piece that we just have to keep going over and reiterating."

Doliner also noted the contributions of several seniors who got extended playing time vs. Natick.

"Lauren Gillis had a few great stops when she went in at sweeper today; she played really, really well in there. Same with Katherine Kelley on defense," she said.

Two more tune-ups remain for Norwood before the playoffs start. At 12-3-1, they would appear to be in a good position to host at least one tournament

Norwood Girls Soccer rallies past Ursuline 3-2 for first win

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

Fifteen games into the season, the win column was barren for the Norwood girls soccer team, showing no signs of activity.

That all changed for the Mustangs with a 3-2 come-from-behind victory over the Ursuline Academy Bears in Dedham on Oct. 23, the first win for the program since 2013.

Kay Goncalves and Cait Brincklow were the goal scorers for Norwood, Goncalves finding the back of the net twice. Her second goal wound up being the game-winner, leaving a euphoric Jeb Brunt all kinds of emotional in the postgame.

"It feels good to finally get a 'W,' I'm so proud of them," said the Mustangs' head coach after his team overcame deficits of both 1-0 and 2-1 to upend Ursuline. "I can't say I wasn't a little bit worried there, but at halftime we regrouped and said if we come out and win the second half, we win the game. And it was as simple as that."

Delia Bartucca got the win in net for Norwood, coming up with six saves over the contest.

The Bears, who played the Mustangs to a scoreless draw back on Sept. 21, struck just three minutes into the game, painting the picture of another long afternoon for Norwood.

Instead, the Mustangs were ignited by the goal, tightening up possession and spending the majority of the next 20 minutes inside the Ursuline end of the field. They were rewarded for their efforts on Goncalves' first tally in the 21st minute, tying the game at 1-1 apiece.

Not even a minute later, the Bears re-took the lead, in the most gut-wrenching of ways imaginable for Norwood: an own goal, off the leg of a defender in front of the net.

But again, rather than fall into old habits, the Mustangs responded with even more fire and aggression. Brincklow would tie the game in the 25th minute, her goal a result of determination. Ursuline's goalie made the initial save, but couldn't corral the rebound. Brincklow stayed with the ball and kicked it loose from the scrum and into the back of the net, tying the game at 2-2. The score remained tied into the second half.

"We've been working at practice so hard at connecting passes, trying to make things be more efficient and faster," said Brunt. "We match up well against Ursuline."

Norwood continued to control the ball well into the second half, its reward being the bulk of the scoring chances. Goncalves had the first great chance for the lead in the 8th minute, while Samantha Shea sent a cross towards the middle in the 26th minute, keeping the ball in the attacking end after the Bears cleared it out of bounds.

Finally, in the 30th minute, Goncalves cashed in on the Mustangs' plethora of scoring chances to put her team on top, 3-2. Goncalves carried the ball across midfield, and sent the ball towards the middle on a cross. The ball deflected right back to her, and after she dribbled past a few Ursuline defenders, got off the shot which would lead to Norwood's first win of the season.

"We just felt like we could win this game," said Brunt. The Mustangs secured three of a possible four points from their two meetings with the Bears this season. "We played a tough first half, we regrouped and came out on top in the second half."

NHS Mustangs Football falls to Natick in nail biter 21-17

Searching for its first win over Natick since 2011, Norwood came excruciatingly close to completing the task before falling to the RedHawks, 21-17.

The Mustangs overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit to take a 17-14 lead into the final minute, only to have the carpet pulled out from underneath them on a Malik Williams 1-yard touchdown run with 9 seconds left in the fourth quarter.

"Natick, even in a down year, is a good team," said Norwood head coach Jim Tighe after the loss. The RedHawks finished the regular season with a 3-4 record, an identical mark to that of the Mustangs. "They came to play. They showed us nothing that surprised us, it was just execution. Our kids have to come to play. I think they did in the second half; the problem is, we're in such a deep hole, it's tough to get out of."

Norwood's strong second half showing ultimately wasn't enough due to two major factors: allowing Natick to convert all four of their fourth-down conversion attempts, and seven penalties totaling 85 yards.

The most damaging fourth-down the Mustangs allowed the RedHawks to convert on came on Natick's final possession. Facing a fourth-and-12 from the Mustangs 42-yard line, RedHawks quarterback Christian D'Antonio hooked up with Pete Ryan for a 16-yard completion, keeping the drive alive and enabling Williams to pound the ball into the end zone five plays later.

"We were in Cover 3, and they found a soft spot in front," explained Tighe of the fateful play. "We actually got there in time, it's just we didn't get our hands in front and deflect the ball. That was a good play. they made a play when they needed punt after one first down, giving Natick the ball back at its own 23.

This time around, Norwood's defense wouldn't fare as well. The RedHawks embarked on an 18-play, 77-yard drive which lasted 7 minutes and 18 seconds, a Williams 1-yard touchdown run the caper. Natick converted two fourth downs on the drive, and were with his two rushing touchdowns.

Things went from bad to worse for Norwood when they went back on offense. Quarterback Joe Leanos threw the first of his two interceptions on the third play of the drive, giving Natick the ball at the Mustangs 14; 15 yards were added to the interception return by Jared Abbruzzese thanks to a ter. The team's traded field position for the remainder of the half, neither team able to sustain a long drive.

But a different Mustangs team emerged from the break. Receiving the ball to start the third quarter, Norwood ran the ball right down Natick's throat, taking only seven plays to march 77 yards to the end zone, the exclamation point being a Joe Mazzotta 27-yard touchdown run. Mazzotta finished with 18 carries for 97 yards, 77 of those yards coming in the second half.

Tides continued to turn in favor of the Mustangs, when a Natick drive ended abruptly with a fumble recovered by Reuel Toney. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Leanos found Zac Pungitore in the back of the end zone from 28 yards out, tying the game at 14-14 apiece.

Pungitore has scored in six of Norwood's seven games this season, the lone blip coming in a 14-0 loss to Wellesley-when no one scored.

Once again, the Mustangs would come up with a big play on defense. Adley Eugene picked off D'Antonio on a tipped ball, giving Norwood the ball at its own 41 with 9:21 remaining in the contest. D'Antonio was still very solid on Saturday, finishing 8-for-11 for 116 yards and the one pick.

With 2:57 to go, after converting three third-down conversions on the drive, the Mustangs lined up for a field goal attempt from the Natick 14-yard line.

Norwood kicked off to begin the game, and had a promising first series on the defensive side of the ball. Steve Lussier and Mike Flynn combined to sack D'Antonio on a third-and-7, forcing a RedHawks punt after just one first down.

The Mustangs would also also gifted a first down on a field goal attempt thanks to an offside penalty against the Mustangs. The RedHawks accepted the penalty despite the kick being good, resulting in a four-point swing, which wound up being the difference in the game.

Williams carried the ball 21 times for 63 yards to go along facemask penalty on Norwood.

Leanos finished 5-for-12 for 73 yards with a touchdown and two interceptions.

Natick would score two plays after getting the ball back on a 5-yard touchdown run by Abbruzzese, giving the RedHawks a 14-0 lead with 8:10 still to play in the second quar-

Football playoff bound after 13-year drought

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

Despite the 21-17 loss to the Natick RedHawks on Saturday, Norwood is off to the postseason for the first time since 2002.

Norwood (3-4) will be the No. 8 seed and face a familiar foe, the No. 1 Milton Wildcats (7-0), on Friday night at 7 p.m. at Milton High School. It will be the fourth meeting between the two teams in the last two seasons; the Wildcats have won the first three, including a 26-14 win in Norwood on Oct. 9. Last year, Milton won 21-6 and again 10-7, the latter meeting coming in consolation bracket play of the Division 3 Southwest field.

While the Mustangs aren't riding a great deal of momentum into the tournament, losers of four straight games following a three-game winning streak, head coach Jim Tighe isn't letting anyone feel sorry for themselves.

"It was one of the goals at the beginning of the season to make the tournament, and we made the tournament," said Tighe. "No one really asks you how, they just ask you if you did."

Norwood is heading to the tournament thanks in part to losses by the Milford Scarlet Hawks and Medfield Warriors over the weekend. Along with the Bishop Feehan Shamrocks, the Mustangs, Scarlet Hawks and Warriors all finished with identical 3-4 records in the Div. 3 Southwest field. By virtue of higher power ratings, Bishop Feehan and Norwood edged out Milford and Medfield for postseason berths; the Mustangs rating (10.14) just eking out the Scarlet Hawks (10.00).

"Would we have preferred to win on Saturday and get in? Certainly," said Tighe. "But we'll take it. We're looking forward to going over to Milton and playing them."

Milton's head coach, Steve Dembowski, was also coach of the Swampscott Big Blue team that eliminated Norwood from the postseason in '02. It is Dembowski's first year coaching Milton, a team that won its first Bay State Conference title since 1963 after a 14-7 win over the Wellesley Raiders on Saturday.

"We played them once [this year], we did some good things, we did some things poorly that we could improve on," said Tighe, who enjoys the fact that the teams have already squared off three times in the past two seasons, not to mention offseason competition in the summer passing league. "We know them, and they know us. So the familiarity is something the kids feel good about."

The Mustangs have not beaten the Wildcats since a 41-13 win on Nov. 5, 2011.

One motivation tactic Tighe seems to be employing is the underdog card.

"It's good to be in and be playing a game that's part of the tournament," said Tighe. "I told the kids, if you win, it's a big upset, you can really turn the tables on the whole division."

The rest of the Div. 3 Southwest playoffs are as follows:

No. 2 North Attleboro Red Rocketeers vs. No. 7 Bishop Feehan;

No. 3 Duxbury Dragons vs. No. 6 Hopkinton Hillers;

No. 4 Walpole Rebels vs. No. 5 Stoughton Black Knights.

Obviously a lot has to happen, but the possibility for a Norwood vs. Walpole playoff game exists in Round 2.

Milford, Medfield, the Hingham Harbormen, North Quincy Red Raiders and Oliver Ames Tigers are the non-playoff teams from Div. 3 Southwest. Norwood defeated both Hingham and North Quincy in consolation bracket play a year ago, but will not face them again this year since they are not a part of the main tournament.

game in the Division 1 South field; they played their first two tournament games at home last year, taking care of Hopkinton and Mansfield at home before falling to Oliver Ames on the road in the sectional semifinals.

The Mustangs were at Newton North on Tuesday, in an event held after the Record's deadline. Today, they'll be seeking revenge on the Walpole Porkers, this time in Walpole, at 5 p.m. The Porkers got the best of the Mustangs earlier this season, 3-2, on Oct. 1 in Norwood.

Volleyball looks past loss with playoffs ahead

Jake Levin
Staff Reporter

With a playoff spot sewn up, Norwood volleyball coach Paul Nimblett is less concerned with wins and losses, and more concerned about his team's trajectory.

Facing a mammoth of a challenge in the Brockton Boxers on Monday, the Mustangs fell in straight sets, 25-15, 25-7, 25-7. The first set was tied at 13-13 apiece before Brockton went on a 12-2 run, foreshadowing the rest of the match.

Nimblett isn't worried about the loss to Brockton though, or about matches coming up against other powerhouses, such as the Newton North Tigers or Walpole Rebels.

"Every time we play a team like a Brockton, or a Wellesley, or a Natick, we're just getting better for the tournament," said Nimblett, whose squad has already qualified for the Division 2 South tournament despite an overall record of 5-12. Per the Sullivan Rule, since Norwood has already clinched a record of .500 or better against competition of the same level (meaning a winning record vs. Div. 2 or 3 teams), they are safely into the playoff field. "I use every game as a building block to get better for the tournament. And when we play these [Division 1] schools, who are good, we're getting better."

Monday's match was also Senior Day for the Mustangs, who were playing in their final home match of the season.

"It was about the seniors to-

Despite its losing record overall, the Mustangs girls volleyball team is assured a postseason berth for the second year in a row thanks to its winning record over Division 2 and 3 schools. night, I played all the seniors most of the night. We're celebrating the seniors and their accomplishments, their last home game. And now it's time to focus on the rest of the season," said Nimblett.

Norwood traveled to Newton North on Tuesday, in an event held after the Record's deadline. They're at Walpole today at 5 p.m., and have their regular season finale on Monday night at the Sharon Eagles, at 6 p.m. The Mustangs beat the Eagles, 3-1, earlier this season at home on Oct. 9.

Jay Wladkowski, the lone freshman on Norwood's roster, nailed the 31-yard field goal try and put his team on top for the time being, 17-14.

After Williams scored with 9 seconds left to give the RedHawks the lead, the Mustangs were unable to return the kick-off, thanks to a 15-yard roughing the kicker penalty. Kicking off from the Norwood 45-yard line, rather than the Natick 40, Matt Carey booted the ball through the back of the end zone, nullifying the chances of a miracle kick return for the Mustangs.

Norwood would line up to run one play on offense from its own 20, with 4 seconds left on the clock, and attempted a hook-and-ladder play, similar to the one they ran against Milton earlier in the season. That play worked for a 45-yard gain, but this one ended with a fumble, recovered by Mazzotta as time expired.

The Mustangs ended the regular season with four consecutive losses after opening the season with three consecutive wins.

tering as time expired and Norwood avoided what could have been its second-straight winless campaign.

The Mustangs had two fewer goals on Friday (3) than they'd managed over the previous 15 games (5).

With just two games left this season, Brunt hopes the win leaves a mark on the younger players, and can perhaps be a turning point for the program. The girls traveled to Newton North on Tuesday, in a game held after the Record's deadline, and close out the season today at Walpole at 3:45 p.m.

"I think this team can win games in the Bay State [Conference]," said Brunt. "They just needed a little confidence, and it starts with today."
