

The Annual Memorial Day Parade came roaring through Norwood Monday, as the whole town came out to pay their respects for the brave men and women who paid the ultimate sacrifice serving their country. In particular, the town celebrated the life of U.S. Army Spc. Keith Benson who perished this year in Afghanistan.

Norwood citizens took a moment to reflect on Monday, as Memorial Day took on renewed significance for the town.

The passing of U.S. Army Spc. Keith D. Benson in Afghanistan earlier this year served as a reminder of Norwood's connection to continuing conflicts in the Middle East and elsewhere. During the town's Memorial Day festivities, much attention was focused on Benson's memory, to which this year's Memorial Day ceremony in Highland Cemetery was dedicated.

Throughout both that ceremony and another held at Norwood High School three days earlier, residents were reminded that they should keep those who have served their country in their thoughts every day, not just on specific holidays dedicated to them. U.S. Army Msgt. Dennis P. Mawn, who had also served in the Middle East, reminded residents that returning soldiers and their families often have to cope with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), depression and severe physical injuries suffered in combat. And the families of those who did not come back would

Memorial Corner dedicated to Benson

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

Norwood concluded its Memorial Day activities this year with a dedication ceremony for a new Memorial Corner commemorating the life of a local soldier who had died while serving overseas earlier this year.

Following a Memorial Day ceremony at the Highland Cemetery, Veterans Agent Ted Mulvehill and others converged at the corner of Gay Street and Joy Street. There, they held a ceremony in memory of U.S. Army Spc. Keith David "Doc" Benson, with many of Benson's family in attendance.

The ceremony included the unveiling and dedication of a Memorial Corner in memory of Benson at the corner of the two streets, near the house where Benson grew up. A prayer was recited, and Mulvehill told of Benson's service in Afghanistan, some details of which were presented in the event program. Mulvehill and other speakers noted that Benson had been given the nickname "Doc" by his comrades, who bestow that distinction only on medics they feel have earned it.

"They knew that he would care for those who were in need," said Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue. "They knew that he was reliable. They knew that he was honorable, strong and brave. What a loss to all of us."

Fellow Selectman Paul Bishop described Benson as "an American hero," and noted that residents should remember the type of person he was, rather than ponder his passing. He noted the lengths that Benson had gone to in what sadly proved to be a failed attempt to save a wounded comrade's life.

"Under heavy fire, Keith gave everything to save that man," Bishop said. "He revived him three times in the field, while not worrying about his own safety."

Mulvehill added that Benson lived by the tenets of "family, country, love, honor, courage, sacrifice [and] fidelity."

"In today's society some of these tenets don't ring true," Mulvehill said. "But to men like Keith David 'Doc' Benson, these were the tenants that he chose to base his life by."

Mulvehill noted that Benson's was the 56th Memorial Corner erected in Norwood, out of a total of 103 that he hoped the town would eventually be able to put up in memory of fallen Norwood soldiers. He said that Elks Lodge 1137 had recently agreed to help with the endeavor, financially and otherwise, and he thanked them for their help.

Mulvehill had previously told the Norwood Record that some Memorial Corners not yet created were for soldiers who had passed away long ago, and who no longer had family in and around Norwood, making arrangements for them difficult. He noted that the unveiling of Benson's Memorial Corner - which drew dozens of people - was much better attended than most, due to his death having occurred so much more recently.

Members of Benson's family politely declined to speak when invited to do so. Mulvehill concluded the event by offering thanks to them on behalf of the town.

"We owe you a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid," Mulvehill said. "You've given us your best. And for that we thank you sincerely from the bottom of our hearts."

not mourn just once or twice per year.

"To families who have lost a loved one, every day is Memorial Day," said Michael Lyons, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen. "For far too many families, every day is Memorial Day."

"It seems that now, more than ever, this special holiday, Memorial Day, carries a new significance," Mawn told NHS students on Friday. "I ask that those of us here, knowing what we know now in May of 2012, reevaluate what this wonderful weekend means for all of us."

Mawn said that while American news media often mentioned recent casualties of war, such mentions did not reflect what those losses meant to soldiers' families. They could not convey, for example, the loss faced by a child whose father or mother had been killed in action.

Despite the high human cost of war, however, Mawn said speaking before students in the high school's auditorium reminded him of why he enlisted in the first place.

"I see this beautiful institution, funded and built by a community that values education and freedom of thought for their young people over ignorance, mindless paranoia and the hypocritical repression of women and outsiders," Mawn said. "I still thank God every day that I am free to voice political opinions without fear of persecution; that my sister can walk the streets of Manhattan without a male relative escort or a mandatory head-dress; that those who choose to do so may pursue their dreams without fear of perpetual conflict."

School board seeks support

High School going to 6 period day

Laura Griffin
Staff Reporter

Last month's Town Meeting should serve as a wake-up call for supporters of the schools, according to School Committee members who urged parents and allies of the schools to speak up and get involved.

"Support in that forum is needed," Chairman Paul Samargedlis, referring to the school budget battle at the May Town Meeting, said, adding, "We need people to speak on our behalf because we're speaking on the children's behalf."

Samargedlis, who chaired last week's School Committee meeting, was joined by other committee members dismayed by the surprise presentation by school budget critics at Town Meeting.

"It has been challenging," said Samargedlis, adding, "It doesn't sit well, a slide show that we're not prepared to answer. We need a chance to answer back."

"We need to improve our efforts in getting further funding," agreed committee member James Gormley.

At the same meeting on May 21, the committee voted unanimously not to participate in the state's School Choice Program. That program allows non-resident students to attend schools in other districts.

However, school districts must formally opt out of the program each year or their enrollment will automatically be open to non-resident students.

School Superintendent James Hayden recommended that the schools not participate in the School Choice Program after citing the increasing student enrollment and the potential financial burden.

According to Hayden, the system's per pupil cost is $12,920 and the state's reimbursement is just $5,000.

Six-Period School day

In other business, the committee endorsed without a vote a shift for high school students from a five-period school day to a six-period school day.

As a result, Norwood High School students will have 28 more classes next year, according to Principal George Usevich.

The change offers teachers "more face time with students," according to Usevich, who explained that by adding a few minutes here and cutting a few minutes there, classes will meet 156 times over the course of the school year versus the current 128 meetings.

Under the plan, class time will be set at 57 minutes, rather than the current 60 minutes and the school day will increase by five minutes. Usevich provided data from 18 other local districts and only five districts schedule classes of 60 minutes or longer.

In other business, the Committee voted 5-1 to approve a $1,000 payment for unexpected medical charges for a school field trip and voted 5-1 to change a Professional Development Day from Sept. 27, which is Yom Kippur, to Oct. 17.

Committee member Eleanor Travers opposed both motions. Samargedlis, Vice Chairman John Badger and members Gormley, Susan McQuaid and Courtney Rau supported both measures.

Travers warned that approving the switch could open the door to future requests for school schedule changes due to religious practices.

Committee members also encouraged vigilance in approving school-sponsored field trips, noting that private groups can sponsor most trips so that the schools do not incur liabilities.

Hayden announced that the search for a new school principal for the Willard Early Childhood Center has been narrowed to three candidates who will be named at a future date.

OPINION

A little more of this and that...

It really is fun to be around Norwood this time of year. Not only did they do a fantastic job paying tribute to veterans lost in wars on Memorial Day, but, the weekend kicked off all kinds of cool stuff coming up in the weeks ahead. The Concerts on the Common will begin very soon, as will the newly reorganized and located Farmers Market, set to commence on June 19 and run every Tuesday, also on the Common. And, before you know it, July 4th will roll around and no town does a better job than this one in commemorating our nation's birth. And just as you come down off of that high, the center will again be buzzing with the grand opening of The Norwood Theater in August, followed shortly thereafter by Norwood Day. Does it get any better than that?...

The whole town also looks great this time of year, thanks in large part to Norwood's DPW. While driving through other towns, what is becoming more and more noticeable are the poor condition town owned open spaces are in, due in large part to budgetary cutbacks in personnel and equipment spending, but not in Norwood. The neighborhoods around here just always look great. Not sure how they do it, but it sure is appreciated.

That being written, we were a bit surprised to hear DPW chief Mark Ryan inform Selectmen of the fees Norwood pays its trash collector to go around and pick up bulk items like mattresses and box springs upon request by residents. This newspaper understands the logic of charging residents for these bulk pickups, even with the inherent issues related to multi-unit dwellings and claims of folks dropping items in front of others' houses, but the town paying $25 to the collector just seems extremely expensive. Anyone can go to a landfill and pay $25 to get rid of these things, yet the town could negotiate no better deal from their contractor than to pay retail? What's up with that?...

After reading Tim Bonfatti's comments on Page 5 of this week's issue relative to lack of enthusiasm from the contractor currently working at the high school, we highly support the suggestion of PBCC member Dan Gold, who said it might be best to put the project out to bid, particularly after Bonfatti said it may be possible to build a concession stand the town would accept for $250,000 on a design/build basis. There is very little to lose, and the guess here is that bids could come in that will get this project rolling for the budgeted amount. Hard to believe that $250k isn't enough to build a block building with a few bathrooms with the utilities already in place. Just too hard to believe...

Are we the only ones noticing more police presence in the neighborhoods and on the main streets lately? We even saw officers writing license plate numbers down on Washington St., obviously tracking potential parking scofflaws. And for those who have heard Norwood referred to as "Needlewood" in obvious reference to this town's issues with drug peddling and use, it is becoming more and more obvious that the new police chief is taking those comments personally, as the number of drug busts, both high and low profile, are showing up in the police logs and on court dockets. Nice to see, very nice to see...

Speaking of chiefs, no official word as to the status of Norwood Fire Chief Michael Howard. He has not been working within the walls of the department for some time now and town officials are tight-lipped as to his future at the department. One thing is certain. Any department, particularly one with a budget as large as the fire department's, cannot be run absentee or on a temporary basis for long, and an official announcement from the town should be forthcoming. Taxpayers have a right to know...

Finally, don't forget to support local merchants. They work hard and want a chance to earn your loyalty and trust....

Have a great week...

LIGHT DEPARTMENT FUNDAMENTALS

To the Editor:

The sound of the gavel startled me, not ever having heard that before in Town Meeting; a nerve was struck. The presentation on the Norwood Light Department at the Annual Town Meeting was less than stellar, a mismatch of too much information in too short a time.

To give the effort justice, I would offer the following information regarding the notion of a Board of Commissioners to oversee the Norwood Light Department.

There will be a discussion of this concept in upcoming Town Meetings. It only takes the signatures of 10 residents of the town to get an article placed on the Annual Town Meeting warrant.

Whether or not Town Meeting voted to acquire the Norwood Light Department is not in question. If it did occur, it may have been in and around the late 1800s; however, Town Meeting has never voted to elect a board of commissioners, as the laws allow, at least not in modern history.

The Light Department's annual reports to the Department of Public Utilities are vastly different than the data presented to Town Meeting. For example, they reported to the Department of Public Utilities in 2010 that the town's proceeds were approximately $1,900,000 from the Light Department revenue and $1,100,000 in 'payments in lieu of taxes' for a total of about $3,000,000, yet in the FY13 budget books, the amount reported as returned to local government was $4,460,000. It is also noteworthy that the report to the DPU is required to be reported for the FISCAL year (July 1 to June 30), not the calendar year as it currently does.

There is $70,000,000 in unappropriated retained earnings. In the private sector, these are the accounts from which dividends are derived. Dividends are paid to shareholders and represent why people invest in certain things. This $70,000,000 equates to over $14,000 for each residential customer of Norwood. Without a doubt, each and every one of us could use this kind of wind-fall.

The ambiguity of information available on the Light Department's operations is veiled and secretive. Town Meeting is constantly lectured on the 'bottom line budget' enjoyed by the School Department, yet the light department's $40 million dollar budget gets no scrutiny because it is paid for by the Light Department revenues. To try to affect the operational budget of the Light Department, we are told, is an exercise in futility, something that cannot (and WILL not) be done. However, for every 100 dollars we save in the Light Department operational costs, we gain $8 in the general fund of the town.

At the 2010 Annual Town Meeting we were told that the Light Department needed a $62 million dollar budget to operate (Pg 1-3 of the FY11 budget books), yet this year we were told that that figure was actually $46 million dollars, a $16 million dollar overstatement. We were also told that we would be giving back to the general fund, a total of $4,100,000, yet this year that number was actually reported as $4,460,000 (two years after the fact). I am sure everyone is happier with the bigger number, but how can this be, since the amount given back to government is a product of revenue minus expenses, a hard and fast formula dictated by the DPU. Revenue was decreased $16 million dollars, yet proceeds increased $300,000. This is also true of the original numbers presented to Town Meeting in 2011 for FY12.

Norwood is one of three municipal light departments out of 41 that does not have a separate, elected board of commissioners. The school committee with their bottom line budget has an elected body to govern its operation, yet for the light department, we rely on the Selectmen, not by choice, but by default since that is the way the charter was written in 1914. Take it or leave it. By the way, the Light Department's budget is bigger, much bigger, than the School Department's.

And who is kidding who? Is there some endearing or uniquely qualifying factor that makes a selectman an appropriate governor of energy procurement and distribution in Norwood? Absolutely not; as one selectman once said, being the light department commissioner is like being the town's fence mender; another confided that being light commissioner was a big joke. Who really runs the light department? Well you need to look no further than the town's annual DPU report - the manager of the light department, as you all know, is the town manager (denote sarcasm here). This revelation alone should make you wonder what really is going on at the NLD.

Our leaders say Norwood is the crown jewel of the Commonwealth. One wonders if that is because we are the only town in the state whose town accountant is also the town clerk, whose elected finance commission is a rare commodity, because we are one of seven South Shore communities with a representative Town Meeting, or because we are one of only 3 towns who have no municipal light board, and whose general manager is the also the light department plant manager.

If it is because of these reasons, so be it - but if we want to put all our eggs in one basket, we had better be looking to the future. As the town accountant has said, he's been here almost 35 years and so has the Town Manager. As the stewards of this town's great resources, we must look to the future. These two guys are not going to be here forever, we need to plan now for what this town will look like in ten years, otherwise you might not recognize it then.

We don't elect the general manager or the accountants or treasurers, etc. These are appointed by our elected selectmen. The elected school board is responsible for that resource intensive operation, yet we, the townspeople of Norwood have no independent representation for what is arguably the largest and most complicated financial operation in the town.

Back to the crown jewels. Jewels remind you of trinkets for royalty not the byproduct of sound leadership. Jewels can also be sentimental and gifts of love, appreciation and award. We need to decide how to treat the asset that is the Norwood Light Department. Do we want to allow it to be held onto and polished and coveted, or do we want to put it on display so that everyone can enjoy all that it has to offer and help them understand its meaning and importance?

PBCC seeks meeting with concession stand group

Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

In its first meeting since Town Meeting voters denied a request for additional funding, the Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC) decided to confer again with proponents of the concession stand project for which the funds had been requested.

At their meeting last Thursday, PBCC members spoke with Compass Project Management President Tim Bonfatti - whose firm is overseeing the nearly finished Norwood High School construction project - about the fate of the proposed concession stand. Three days earlier, voters at Norwood's Annual Town Meeting had voted to deny a request for additional funding the PBCC said was needed to build the concession stand, but voted to allow more funds to be raised for the project via private donations.

A sum of $250,000 had previously been authorized for the design and construction of a concession stand at the high school. The PBCC went before the Board of Selectmen and eventually Town Meeting to request an additional $100,000 after discovering that a facility meeting the town's standards could not be built for the allotted amount.

New ideas as to how to go about the project were discussed, but Chairman Ted Callahan said he felt uncomfortable going forward with them until Recreation Department Director Gerry Miller and other proponents of the concession stand project could be brought in for a discussion of the project's future.

"They ought to know what's going on," Callahan said. "They've invested $30,000 in this."

The amount Callahan mentioned refers to money provided for the project by Miller and a group of volunteers after they held a fundraiser to raise money for the concession stand. One possibility that the PBCC discussed last week was that of Miller's group taking over the project, now that the town has eliminated any limit on the amount of funds they may raise via donations.

"If they get $100,000 and volunteer labor, they could build this [themselves]," Bonfatti said.

"As far as I'm concerned, the ball is in the court of those people to raise money before the next Town Meeting," added PBCC member Ed McKenna. "That was the action of Town Meeting."

PBCC member Dan Gold said it might be best to put the project out to bid, despite the complications that might cause, and Bonfatti agreed that this might be the way to go. Bonfatti also suggested that it might be possible to build a concession stand the town would accept for $250,000 on a design/build basis. However, he noted that the contractor currently working on the high school construction project did not seem enthused.

"I don't think we're getting a lot of cooperation from the contractor," Bonfatti said. "He's not getting back to me. I've been on this for about a month."

The PBCC's next meeting is scheduled to take place on June 14. The Committee hopes to have its discussion with Miller and others involved in the concession stand project that evening.

Bill and Ted's change of the guard

The PBCC also voted to formally re-organize, now that this year's election has taken place, with Vice Chairman William Kinsman being chosen to replace Callahan as Chairman and relinquishing his former vice chairmanship to Gold.

The vote was quick and unanimous. Callahan thanked the rest of the Committee for their work, noting that their dedication had made his job easier. Kinsman said he expected this dedication to make the task possible for him.

"I want to thank everyone," Callahan said. "This has probably been the roughest [period], and it's not going to get any better. My sympathies go out to Bill."

"I don't have the knowledge that Ted does," Kinsman said. "It's going to take the entire Committee to do this to the standards that have been set by Ted. But I think we can do it."

Theft reports on rise at hospital

Vinaya Saksena
 Staff Reporter

Alleged larceny incidents at Norwood Hospital are under investigation, following a substantial increase in reports of such incidents in the past year, according to the Norwood Police Department.

Norwood Police Spokesman Kevin Grasso said recently that there had been an increase in the number of larceny incidents reported at Norwood Hospital. Both he and the hospital's ownership confirmed that the two parties had been in contact to discuss the matter more than once.

"We have had detectives and administration working with hospital administrators to address these thefts," Grasso said. "To the best of my knowledge the hospital staff has been cooperative in our investigations." According to Grasso, 27 incidents of alleged larceny at Norwood Hospital were reported between May 14, 2011 and May 14, 2012, compared with 14 over the previous one-year period. He noted, however, that this reflected the number of reported incidents, and not nec-

Assault / kidnapping suspect sought

Vinaya Saksena

Local police are seeking an unidentified man who allegedly tried to kidnap a woman last week.

On Friday morning at approximately 5:00 a.m., Norwood Police received a report of an attack that took place "on Buckminster Drive just in from Walpole Street," according to a police statement. Officer Terrance Connolly spoke with the female victim.

According to police, the victim told Officer Connolly that she had been walking on the sidewalk towards the entrance of Berkshires at Windsor Gardens when she saw a male subject on the opposite side of the road cross the street and walk towards her. The suspect then allegedly grabbed the victim by the neck and held her in a choke hold.

Police said the woman was able to escape from her attacker after a brief struggle. She allegedly suffered minor injuries while defending herself.

According to police, the male suspect was last seen fleeing south towards Walpole

Street. A witness, who heard the screams of the victim, allegedly looked out a window and saw a male subject run from the site of the assault. Norwood and Walpole Police Officers searched the area for this suspect, but did not find him.

Police described the suspect as white or possibly light-skinned Hispanic male with a medium build, 6' to 6'2 tall, with no facial hair. He was reportedly wearing all black clothing, including a plain baseball cap with no symbol, a hooded sweatshirt with a zipper in the front, baggy sweatpants and black footwear, and was carrying a black backpack. Anyone with information regarding the attack is asked to call Detective Richard Giacoppo at (781) 440-5195 or Norwood Police at (781) 440-5100.

UK company buys YCN

Vinaya Saksena
 Staff Reporter

A local transportation company has been bought by a British company, but a member of the family that founded the business says the sale will not hurt the company's quality of service.

YCN Transportation Vice President Richard Armour confirmed this week that his family's company had been purchased by the United Kingdom-based National Express, a passenger transport company that provides rail, bus, coach and school bus services in the UK, Spain and North America. He said National Express employed 38,000 people worldwide, and was listed on the London Stock Exchange.

The business that became YCN Transportation was founded in 1962 by Armour's brother, Bob Armour and their father, Arthur. Bob Armour retired about ten years ago, and Richard Armour said he was ready to follow suit.

"Basically, it's time," Armour said. "No reason other than that."

National Express' acquisition of YCN took effect on March 23. Armour said he could

Donors, partners needed for $3.8M Coakley Park overhaul

Laura Griffin
Vinaya Saksena
Staff Reporter

It's been a home run, a touch-down and a slam dunk for most of the town's playing fields over the past ten years as they've been upgraded to top status, but the town's four most important fields at Coakley Park remain shabby and in disrepair, according to Gerry Miller, Superintendent of Parks and Recreations.

"This is the lynchpin of all the places in town," Miller told the School Committee last week, noting that the average use of a playing field is 400 to 450 a year.

In contrast, Miller said, the Coakley Fields "average about 1,000 uses a year. They really don't have time to breathe."

Miller then presented a proposal that would not only upgrade the neglected playing fields, the only lighted fields in town, but overhaul the open spaces at the 88-acre site which includes the Coakley Middle School on Washington Street.

Before offering the details, Miller said he was in the process of seeking grants from the state's Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) as well as a potential partnership with Boston College.

However, Miller added that he'd welcome any other business or private entity interested in sponsoring the $3.8 million project, possibly even bargaining naming rights.

Under the proposal, Coakley's fields would be upgraded with two turf fields and the massive acreage at the site would include such amenities as expanded walking trails, passive recreation, cleaned ponds, a pavilion designed as an outdoor classroom, a dog park, areas for bocce and horseshoes as well as stationary activity and upgraded tennis courts.

Miller said the Coakley area, which has the highest volume of use in the town, does not have a playground at this time so a playground is included in the plan.

"Obviously, it would have to go piecemeal," said Miller of the varied projects.

Miller told the School Committee that while no commitments have been made, talks are underway with Boston College officials who have expressed interest in an educational component at the site. In fact, Miller said that a meeting with college officials was set for the following day.

In addition, Miller said applications will be filed with the DCR, which offers annual grants of $500,000 with a cap of $1.5 million over three years.

The following morning, Miller met with Town Manager John Carroll, DCR Chief Engineer Raul Silva, State Rep. John Rogers and others at the Robert H. Ivatts Tennis Facility, located at the Coakley Middle School. There, they discussed the possibility of erecting a hockey facility on the school property, and obtaining help from the DCR with that effort.

Silva discussed the matter extensively with local officials, fielding questions from many of those present about the logistics of funding the project. He said the site showed considerable promise for the construction of a hockey facility.

"I think you've got a winner here," Silva said.

Rogers said he hoped to begin the process of filing legislation authorizing DCR to build a rink in Norwood. He said he would ask for between $5 million and $6 million for the construction of the rink, noting that additional funds would likely be needed for site preparation.

Silva said DCR operated seven rinks throughout the state. He said most state-owned rinks in Massachusetts were operated by an entity other than the state, citing the privately run Jim Roche Community Ice Arena in Boston's West Roxbury neighborhood as an example.

Carroll said he wanted to ensure that the matter was discussed with both the School Committee and the Board of Selectmen before any action was taken. Silva essarily the number of times items were actually stolen at the Hospital. Of the 27 incidents reported in the more recent period, Grasso said, two were known to be duplicates, but most had incident reports associated with them.

Grasso said one of the recent incidents reported at the hospital appeared likely to result in a summons in the near future. The incident allegedly involved one hospital employee stealing from another employee, rather than a patient or visitor.

A Norwood Hospital spokesperson had not responded to calls seeking comment as of press time. The Norwood Record eventually reached a representative of Steward Health Care, which owns Norwood Hospital.

“Recently, Norwood Hospital noticed an increase in reports of thefts at the hospital,” said Chris Murphy, Director of Media Relations for Steward Health Care. “While a number of these claims proved to be unfounded, we take our responsibility to protect the personal belongings of our patients and employees very seriously. In response, we increased the visibility of hospital security and engaged the Norwood Police Department. As a result of these efforts, reports of these incidents have decreased dramatically. We will continue to monitor these reports and respond accordingly to any increase.”

said the project looked like something DCR would be interested in becoming involved with.

“This is the first one that we’ll have built with the input of the town,” Silva said. “To me, this is the future of public rinks.”

When speaking to the School Committee last week, Miller noted the Parks Department’s past success in improving the town’s recreational facilities since 1999.

At that time, he said, “Our fields were in tough shape. Other communities would not let their (teams) come.”

After the town commissioned a $36,000 study by Gale Associates, the work commenced, according to Miller who said, “Our fields are now the envy (of other communities).”

In fact, park officials from other towns have been borrowing the Gale study, according to Miller, who sought and won the School Committee’s verbal encouragement to proceed with the Coakley study and fact-finding.

To qualify for the grant, Miller said the DCR would require that the school department turn over the fields to the town, as the DCR does not fund school projects.

The entire Coakley property includes 42.1 acres under the town’s Conservation Commission, 38.29 owned by the school department and 7.8 acres under the Parks Department, according to Miller.

The boys lacrosse team was set to play Melrose on Wednesday night. Coach Anthony Roman said he believed his team was ready for the challenge of the postseason.

Boys Lacrosse sets for postseason opener

Kevin Stone
Staff Reporter

Its finally that time of year again.

Along with graduations and proms galore, high school athletes are also getting ready for playoff time.

Perhaps the playoffs are one final chance to enjoy days in the locker room with people they have known most of their lives. The Norwood boys' lacrosse team is beginning that run this week with its opening round playoff game in the division 2 east tournament.

The Mustangs will open up with Melrose this Wednesday, May 30 at 6 p.m. on the Norwood High School turf. The team that struggled down the stretch, after being 13-1 at one point, is now having to turn the page and hope that some of their bad habits do not creep in during the "one and done" scenario they will now be facing.

"The team is in good spirits headed into the tournament," said head coach Anthony Roman. "I didn't think we got a good seed, considering we beat two teams seeded above us, but we got a favorable draw. We feel like we can beat any team in our section of the bracket so we have high hopes for the tournament."

Obviously, those high hopes depend on the entire

Girls Lax falls to Westwood in first round

As quickly as a playoff run can begin, it can end even quicker. Unfortunately, it also means many high school athletic careers are over as well.

The Norwood girls lacrosse team now faces that reality after having their season ended with an 18-5 loss Tuesday in the first round of the girls Division 1 South lacrosse tournament.

The 14th seeded Mustangs had a tough draw, facing the number three seed and perennial power house Westwood in the first round.

Brittany Sullivan, Allison Ryan (2), Smith and Kelsey Colbert had the goals for Norwood.

Leah Murphy was by far Norwood's best player in the first half, making several point blank saves with Westwood players on the doorstep continuing to barrage the net.

It was 10-1 Westwood at halftime, and they would eventually push it to 13-1 just about four minutes in to the second half before Norwood would score again.

With the score 17-1, Norwood continued to fight, a sign of a maturing team as Norwood traveled to Westwood, and quickly found themselves in a 4-0 hole less than two minutes in to the game. By the 19:55 mark, Norwood still had not carried the ball into the Warriors offensive zone or taken a shot.

Playing the highly seeded Westwood squad was a challenge for the team.

"Drawing Westwood in the first round I think was intimidating for us especially because we have a relatively young team," she acknowledged.

The Mustangs finally got on the board with 4:22 left in the first half on a coast to coast sprint and snipe from Kacie Smith.

three straight goals came from the Mustangs from the 10:52 mark to 8:02 remaining in the game making it 17-4. A goal for each team in the last minute left the score at 18-5 as the teams shook hands following the end of Norwood's season.

Despite the loss, Norwood's 10-9 season was a successful one for the first year head coach. A tournament berth in any situation is always a successful season at the high school level especially for a young team like Norwood.

Volleyball season comes to end in first round

Kevin Stone
Staff Reporter

After making the tournament for the first time since 2007, the Norwood volleyball team was feeling fairly confident about themselves heading in to the Division 1 South tournament this past Tuesday against a familiar Bay State opponent in Needham.

The sixth seeded Mustangs were set to take on the number three seed with a trip to the semi finals on the line against either Newton North or Brockton this Friday.

Unfortunately, no one told Needham that things were supposed to go smoothly in the rest of the fantastic story that was the 2012 season for the Mustangs. Needham made quick work of Norwood, sweeping the quarterfinal 3-0 and ending Norwood's second season just as quickly as it began.

Norwood's season ends at 12-7, while the Rockets will now move on to the final four and a potential berth in the championship game next week.

Entering the first round, head coach Lauren Coville had said her team was "excited and looking forward to the challenge," however, what Coville did not expect was a dominating performance from a team they had already seen twice during the regular season, especially after a few days off to prepare.

Despite the loss, Norwood's historic season should go a long way in helping to build interest for the program heading in to next season. With just nine teams total in this year's tournament, a return trip with high expectations should be a real possibility entering next season.

Needham has historically been a top tier program for volleyball, and once again proved that they were ready for the postseason challenge.

Norwood's seniors were praised for the dedication to the program, and their key roles in bringing the team to the postseason for the first time in several years.

The Mustangs have maintained a strong presence at the net all season long.

Boys Tennis finishes with a win

Kevin Stone
Staff Reporter

The Norwood boys tennis team has come a long way this season.

The best proof of that came in their final match last week, a clean shutout of visiting Stoughton to finish the year. At the beginning of March, very few people could see this team with the ability to sweep anyone. Now, after suffering some tough growing pains with tough losses, and also gaining some wins that were not really expected, the program has built a ton of momentum heading into next season when they could legitimately be someone that other teams need to worry about and prepare for.

Norwood 5, Stoughton 0

1s: Owen Smith(12) 6-4,5-7,6-4 Jalen Joseph (11) (W)

2s: Liam Kelly(11) 6-3,7-5 Ross Andler (12) (W)

3s: Nathan Jones(9) 6-2,2-6,6-3 Cris Oliveira (11) (W)

1d: Walter Aspinwall(11)/Michael Breen(11) 6-0,6-0 Joe Ialuna(12)/Steve Colling(12) (W)

2d: Ben Richwine(12)/Jason Najm(11) 6-3,6-1 Jeff Zesersen (12) / Josh Rubenstein(12) (W)

"This was a great win for us against a team we lost to in the first week of the season," said head coach John Churchill. "To earn this win 5-0 was exciting. This was another match that goes to show the progress that we have been able to make this year. It feels very good knowing that most of the starters will be back next year. The JV players have also been making a lot of progress. We will be in a better position, next year, to start off the season well in the close matches."

The most notable improvement of the team this year was their ability to compete in doubles. Churchill said he personally focused more on the team's development in that area, and it has helped them take yet another step towards what he hopes will result in having a play-off-qualifying season.

"The first doubles team of Walter Aspinwall and Michael Breen has really blossomed into a very competitive team. They have had several terrific matches. They have won half of their matches and only two of their losses did not go three sets. Today, they showcased how good they have become by earning a 6-0,6-0 win. Their win helped get us off to a good start," noted Churchill.

Liam Kelly, who now has eight wins on the season, avoided a three-setter by coming back to win the second set after being down 4-5. In addition to the wins, he has also had four tough 3-set losses. Liam has set a good example as one of the two captains this year. It will be huge for the team to have Liam back next year since he has learned to compete well and, according to Churchill, he is "really committed to the team".

He is in line to play first singles next year unless Nathan Jones is able to pass him in ability.

"Nathan Jones was able to bounce back today. He had not been at his best against Walpole and today he had a little difficulty getting started. However, in the end he began showing what he could do, and he earned the clinching win. Since moving to singles, Nathan has won half of his matches (including a win at 2nd singles when Liam was out). As a freshman, Nathan has already been noticed by other coaches as a player with quite a bit of potential in the league. Nathan needs to grow in experience and confidence before he is ready to take on the #1's, but he is well ahead of our typical developmental curve. He enjoys the game and the team, and I think he is well on his way," said Churchill.

"Ben Richwine and Jason Najm have had several solid matches at second doubles. [The match against Stoughton] was one of them," Churchill said. "They won in straight sets by controlling the net and by making good decisions. Our internal competition has been very tight for the second doubles spot. I have played six different guys at this position. Ben and Jason have had the best teamwork of the six. When they have been on, they have been quite effective. It is good for us that four of the six guys are able to return next year. We still could improve our strength at this position.

After the duration of both doubles matches (back-to-

DONATE BLOOD, YOUR OLD LAPTOP OR BOTH

Have you bought a new laptop computer recently? If you have a new model, there's a good chance your old one is gathering dust, and if you have no use for it, there are local school children who could use it in its next life.

Several laptops already have been donated to the Masons of Westwood for their LAPTOPS FOR KIDS program, and school children are using them, at no cost. The Masons would be happiest if you brought one with you to their Westwood Community Blood Drive on June 2, and also took the opportunity to donate a pint to the Red Cross. But they also will be delighted to accept your computer donation even if you can't donate blood. Stop by at the lodge building, 655 High St., between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. for either purpose, or both! You might save a life while helping a Westwood student whose family can't afford a computer. Your old laptop, if Windows-based and its operating system is Pentium 4 or better, will be completely stripped of any data - with your personal security assured - and given a new life with up-to-date software. A carrying case would be a welcome extra. The LAPTOPS FOR KIDS program is a recognized 501 3 (c) charity so your donation is tax deductible.

To make an appointment for a blood donation, call 1-800-REDCROSS, or visit www.redcrossblood.org. Walk-ins are always welcome, especially in the afternoon. Breakfast will be served to all who donate - blood, or computer - and anyone who visits with you, so bring the family or a friend.
