Rink project dead in the (ice) water

According to officials close to the project, the odds of seeing an ice skating rink erected in South Norwood are slim to none for the foreseeable future.

Town Manager John Carroll said it "looks dubious" that the rink will come to fruition, based on talks with state officials, State Sen. Mike Rush and State Rep. John Rogers

Rogers secured an initial $5.6 million to build the rink in 2012, when he successfully amended the state budget - specifically a 2008 environmental bond authorization - allowing the state to spend up to $5,696,000 for a Department of Conservation and Recreation ice rink in the Town. Rush supported the bill and earned support from the senate as well, since the project appeared in line with then-Gov. Deval Patrick's plans.

The amount was based on initial estimates for what a rink near the Coakley Middle School would cost, but as the design and construction documents phases proceeded, the estimate eventually reached $8.1 million by August 2015.

Carroll, Rush and Rogers, along with the Town Rink Committee worked to secure another $3.5 million, but the state budget under Gov. Charlie Baker did not appear to al-

Building permits review confirms less ownership trend

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

The Boston Globe recently reported that the homeownership rate in Greater Boston recently dipped below 60 percent for the first time.

The article, "Boston homeownership keeps sliding," cited population growth - especially in the 20-34-year-old demographic, which makes up the "core of the region" - the rising cost of living in the area and lending standards as reasons for why many have been unable to buy homes. In 2015, homeownership rates dipped as far as 58.7 percent and finished at 59.5 percent, below the 63 percent reported for the fourth quarter of the previous year.

According to 2010 Census numbers, Norwood's population was 28,602, and boasted 12,479 housing units. Homeownership rates for 2009-2013 were 56.5 percent, compared with the state rate of 62.7 percent. The Town also reported higher rates of housing units in multi-unit structures than the state.

According to the Town Assessor's office, there are 5,843 single family dwellings, 757 two-family dwellings, 210 three-family

No propane at Endicott Woods, as natural gas to be installed

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

Town Manager John Carroll said he and Town Engineer Mark Ryan had met with a gas company to "promptly install a natural gas line" to the condo development at 70 Endicott.

The developers for the 112-unit Endicott Woods project had requested a license to store 37,000 gallons of propane underground at the site to be used for heating. This prompted a hearing to be scheduled on Feb. 8 during the Selectmen's meeting.

Carroll said the gas company had agreed to run gas to the site so the developers would no longer need to use propane for gas utilities. Because of the change, a hearing is no longer required. Carroll said the attorney for the project would be sending notification to the abutters of the changes and the Selectmen said if this is the case, the applicants should withdraw the request for a hearing. Otherwise, the hearing will simply be opened and closed at the Selectmen's meeting.

Conservation Agent Al Goetz said the Conservation Commission has an order of conditions for the project that includes propane work being done in the buffer zone for an environmentally-sensitive area, and if the plans no longer require work in the buffer zone, the developers need to apply for a change in the order of conditions.

"I was so worried about that," Selectwoman Helen Abdallah Donohue said. "Who thought of Norwood as a large trailer camp with propane tanks? That would be a terrible idea."

Selectman Allan Howard said that while homes in Norwood do use propane, he agreed when it came to that spot.

"The abutters should be assured that this is not going to go forward," Howard said.

No town-wide facilities manager

The Board of Selectmen approved a recommendation from the exploratory Town-Wide Facilities Management Committee to permanently adopt a new Town Facilities Committee instead of hiring a town-wide facilities manager at this time.

Chairman of the committee Alan Slater said the group looked into what other communities had done when they hired a facilities manager, and noted that in Norwood, the Schools have a director of building and grounds, but there is no similar position in general government.

Slater said the committees that did adopt the town-wide facilities manager approach had reported problems in maintenance and energy management. The committee, he said, did not see these same issues in Norwood.

Instead of a facilities manager, the committee unanimously voted to recommend a committee made up of the Chairman of the School Committee or designee, the Chairman of the Selectmen or designee, the Chairman of the Finance Commission or a designee, the School Superintendent and the Town Manager. Non-voting members of the committee would include the facilities manager of the schools, a facilities rep-

Impact Norwood seeking grant money

Sam Nickerson
Staff Reporter

The Impact Norwood substance abuse prevention coalition is looking to secure more funding through grants to expand its programming.

The group plans to apply for the federal Drug Free Communities Grant, which would provide Impact Norwood with $125,000 year for the first five years, with a chance to reapply for the funding again in years 6-10. The grant is geared towards communities with new substance abuse prevention coalitions.

Impact Norwood coordinator and Health Department Director Sigalle Reiss said the application process is "arduous" and is "quite a big undertaking."

"We might not get funded a lot of people don't get funded their first year," Reiss said, noting that many other nearby communities with new coalitions are also applying.

The coalition has two plans of action for applying. To apply for this year's grant, the coalition would have to submit its application by March 17 and Reiss said it would need data from various departments, including schools, police and public health, among others.

If the application process takes more than the seven or so weeks before the deadline, the coalition said it would also consider taking the year to apply for next year's grant, since the process should remain the same.

low for such expenditures.

For example, early in January, Baker announced $50 million in cuts for the current fiscal year in order to make up for a $320 million shortfall in the existing budget. While cuts halfway through the year are not uncommon at the state level, the gap was largely due to non-tax revenue and the budget as it stood could not include obligations including public defenders, human services and state legal costs.

Of that $5.6 million that was secured, Norwood was given $500,000 to pay Project Manager Rick Southgate and to pay for designs and architectural services. Carroll said $5.6 million was "never in our coffers" or held in any Town account and was always in state hands to be allocated.

"If the cost of the rink had been $4.9 million, we would have been building that rink today," Carroll said. "Then we found out that the rink was going to cost a lot more than the $5 million."

Throughout the Rink Committee's presentations to the Town, it stressed that residents would not be on the hook for the project and no Town funds would be used to build the rink. Carroll said the committee was also now dormant.

Carroll did state that Town officials were continuing talks with the Skating Club of Boston, which has a signed purchase and sales agreement with Campanelli to build facilities with several sheets of ice off Upland Road, to see whether the facility could accommodate the needs of Norwood youth and school hockey programs.

"Our needs could be supplied by the Skating Club of Boston," Carroll said.

The Skating Club of Boston - which largely focuses on figure skating - is currently based on Soldiers Field Road in Brighton and is still negotiating sale terms with Campanelli.

Town Planner Paul Halkiotis said during a January Planning Board Meeting that the negotiations between the Skating Club and Campanelli did not seem "insurmountable" and that the Skating Club planned to build an Olympic-sized rink and two NHL-regulation rinks.

Carroll said there was a "very distinct possibility" that the Town and the Skating Club of Boston could work something out.

representative on the general government side and the director of the library.

The new committee would meet during the year and report to Town Meeting. Slater said there would be no additional cost to having the committee.

The committee would be established on an interim basis and could be revisited in a year or so to evaluate whether it was working or the facilities manager position should be further explored.

Slater said the committee also "couldn't really quantify a cost savings" for the facilities manager position, though it could see the potential for savings in things like personnel down the road. Slater said that in such a "difficult budget year, as it always is," the committee found it problematic to recommend something that would not readily bring forth cost savings. He also said collective bargaining could be an issue.

Selectman Bill Plasko, who served on the committee, said he was the "closest to a no vote" on the committee and said he was "discouraged that the committee got into a rut and didn't get as far along in this process" as he had hoped.

Plasko said he believed the town-wide facilities manager approach was "the future," and felt Norwood could be "parochial" sometimes and that made it "hard to make changes."

"It's going to scream to be done in the near future," Plasko said, noting that he was encouraged that the committee did not view it as a dead issue.

The request was unanimously approved by the Selectmen.

New Assessors

The Selectmen unanimously appointed James Grover to fill the Assessor term expiring in April left vacant by Joseph Turner, who retired, and Robert Thornton to fill the term expiring in April 2018 that was left vacant after the passing of Paul Wanecek. Donohue nominated Tracey Brown, but did not receive a second.

Medical Marijuana

Plasko presented the Board with a draft application for medical marijuana dispensaries looking to move into Town. The application was created with the help of Attorney Brandon Moss, who previously worked with a committee on the medical marijuana issue.

The Town currently has a zoning bylaw and general bylaw regarding medical marijuana, which require a comprehensive application and licensing process, but the application itself had not been developed. Plasko suggested $300 as a licensing fee and the Board is taking a week to review the application.

Green Harbor Dispensary recently notified the Town that it would like to appear before the Selectmen regarding moving its operations into Norwood.

Car chase leaves officer injured, two in custody By Sam Nickerson

An early morning motor vehicle stop on Jan. 27 resulted in one officer injured and two in custody after a car chase through Norfolk County.

Just before 2 a.m., Norwood Police approached a white pickup truck driven by Steven Brant on Lenox Avenue, who officers knew had six outstanding arrest warrants. Before the officers could reach the truck, Brant drove away. Moments later, he was pulled over and officers asked Brant to step out of the car.

Brant refused, and with three passengers in the car, he put the truck into reverse and accelerated. In doing so, Brant's open truck door struck one of the responding officers, knocking him over.

Brant then sped through Norwood and into Walpole via Washington Street, where Walpole Police picked up the chase. The chase continued through Foxboro on Route 140 and Route 115 in Norfolk before returning to Norwood. State Police units deployed stop sticks in Walpole, which Brant ran over.

Eventually, Brant jumped out of the vehicle while it was still moving. The truck hit a utility pole on Prospect Street, ending the multi-town chase.

Brant, 29, of North Attleboro was charged with Assault and battery with a Dangerous Weapon, Resisting Arrest, OUI Drugs, Negligent Operation of a Motor Vehicle, Failure to Stop for Police, Assault with a Dangerous Weapon and Operating a Motor Vehicle with a Suspended License. These charges do not include the six warrants for which Brant was wanted.

Also arrested after the chase was passenger Kelly Dutcher, 53, of Burnley Road in Norwood, who had three warrants out for drugs, Assault and Battery of a Police Officer and providing alcohol to a minor. The other passengers were released.

Both the injured Norwood Police Officer - whose name was not released - Dutcher and Brant were all treated at Norwood Hospital.

Something's not right below the surface

It will come as no surprise to anyone who reads this newspaper on a regular basis that we were not in favor of a rink being built in South Norwood. Now that the project appears to be dead in the water, we have no desire to celebrate. Too many people worked really hard to make the rink happen, and no effort put forth like that should come away empty handed.

However, the genesis of the rink's money was purely political. Political in the sense that no need was ever established, no studies ever conducted to determine if the area was underserved by either public or private rinks. The money was bestowed upon This Town because someone scratched someone else's back in the past and this was a way to say thank you.

However, as everyone who lives in Massachusetts knows, politics, like the weather, can change overnight, and a new Governor appears to have decreed that the money earmarked for a rink in Norwood could be better spent elsewhere. And, who can really argue with him?

The good news is a portion of the money, roughly a half-million dollars already spent by the Town in architectural and engineering fees, does not have to be paid back. It will and should be written off by the state as one more example of a former governor's inability or unwillingness to run the state with sound fiscal discipline. The bad news is, when all is said and done and the dust has settled on the rink's demise, we get the sense, again, that Norwood public officials were not completely forthcoming with the residents they represent.

It wasn't until this newspaper reported that the Campanelli project at Upland Woods was in serious conversations with the Boston Skating Club to build not one, not two, but three rinks up in that neighborhood that Selectmen admitted they were aware of it. However, at that time, they argued that they already had detailed conversations with the club and determined it was not likely those rinks could spare any ice time for Norwood's needs, so their argument seemed the Campanelli rinks weren't relevant to Norwood's rink project. Well, that doesn't appear to be the case.

Norwood officials are now having conversations with the Boston Skating Club about possibly utilizing their rinks for the Town's use. The Town Manager himself intimated that it looks promising. So, the average person should question whether it's more likely that the Boston Skating Club severely overestimated their need for ice surfaces when deciding to build the three rinks during their original talks with Selectmen, or if Selectmen decided not to tell residents that those rinks up on the hill were of possible use to the Town, thereby diminishing the population's resolve to build a rink in South Norwood.

The bottom line is the area by the Hawes Brook Park designated for the Norwood rink will remain a bucolic setting, at least for now. Some residents will rejoice while others grouse, but all residents should wonder if they were treated honestly and fairly by the people elected to represent them.

Letters to the Editor

SHAME ON THIS TOWN

To the Editor:

We have let the chosen few steer our future to a certain decline. Norwood has watched this housing debacle unfold with the eyes of a child. Many have followed those who speak out of both sides of their mouths and not looked at the real motivations of this affordable housing scam. It has all been a big lie folks. We are indeed way over the 1.5 percent threshold. But we are about to get three 40Bs and three ice rinks. There is also a fourth rink for South Norwood waiting in the wings and a Fourth 40B pointed at South Norwood as well, on Morse Street. It's only 600 more apartments, what's the big deal? All they have to do is file and our only way to stop it is with our Town Manager's "home grown" 1.5 defense at DHCD. That fourth 40B will piggyback on the Forbes Hill case, just as Avalon did. We will get them all! We will surely lose with those watered down numbers. That is exactly what the powers that be want. We are all going to pay the piper soon.

Now, we start to see some truth. This comes in the form of tax overrides and trash collection fees. I told folks that was coming years ago. Here's another one coming. We will get higher automotive excise taxes too. Whose crystal ball is more accurate? Mine speaks the truth. This isn't rocket science. The numbers are very simple to understand. We have destroyed our commercial tax base and replaced it with housing at a lower tax rate. That brings more students who need to be expensively educated. That includes, when the smoke clears, having to build a new school and put an addition on our newest one, the high school. When the full impact of these 40Bs hits this town, we will not be able to financially recover. We will be at a 60/40 rental to home owner ratio. We are truly doomed at that point.

Do not support any tax override. Do not support a Community Preservation Act. That one is as dumb as it gets. You can vote every single candidate up for re-election out, for a start. The Board of Selectmen has failed us. So has the Planning Board and the School Committee. It is not dwellings and 958 condominiums in Norwood. The average single family home value is $399,580, Assessor Timothy McDonough said, which is above the statewide median home value of $335,000.

Town Planner Paul Halkiotis pointed out that there are also 94 use code 111-125 units.

“These are not broken down by specific code, but would be apartments and rooming houses and such,” Halkiotis said.

According to a January Planning Board memorandum to the Board of Appeals, Mass Housing said in a 2013 letter that Norwood’s rental housing stock - 43 percent - was greater than “all neighboring communities, the Boston Metro area, and the Commonwealth.”

The letter also said that “the percentage of multifamily housing in Norwood (56 percent) exceeds” that of all of those same areas. At that time, Norwood had 705 units of affordable housing, of which over 98 percent were rental units and just 1.42 percent was homeownership.

The Globe article went on to say that though building permits issued in the Boston area were at a 10-year high, the types of housing development has changed, as fewer than one-third of the permits issued were for single-family homes. Apartments and condo permit totals were much higher.

Building Department office manager Deborah Frangioso said the department could not say whether Norwood was following Greater Boston’s 10-year trend towards less permits for single family homes and more permits for apartments or multi-family dwellings.

“We do not at this time have a comparison monitoring trends, whether increased or decreased for the housing/dwellings described,” Frangioso said.

Comparing permit data from 2014-2015, though, does paint a bit more of a picture of Norwood’s housing situation.

In 2015, the Norwood Building Department issued 879 permits, down from 1,003 in 2014. Of the 879 permits issued, four were for detached single family homes, four were for two-family buildings and three were issued for five or more family buildings.

In 2014, the Building Department issued seven permits for detached single family homes, one for an attached single family home and only one permit for a five or more-family building.

The Town of Norwood is seeing plenty of interest in multi-family development within the town, and much of that development includes rental apartments.

Campanelli’s One Upland 40B development is now leasing its 262 apartment units, and should Norwood lose its fight to block Davis Marcus Partner’s Forbes Hill project, 300 more apartment-style units could come online. Norwood could see its rental housing stock climb even further should Avalon Bay’s proposed 218-apartment 40B project at the former Plimpton Press site come to fruition. Meanwhile, the Endicott Woods development has 112 condominium units being built on Endicott Street. A 40-unit 40R project - 25 percent of which will be affordable - at Regal Press’s Guild Street location was also approved by the Planning Board in 2014, and speculation is building that a large multi-unit plan on Morse Street in South Norwood will be proposed shortly.

The coalition would then use an agenda item at each Norwood Impact meeting on the application.

The grant is provided by the Executive Office of the President, Office of National Drug Control Policy, the Department of Health and Human, Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, and the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention.

The grant intends to "establish and strengthen collaboration" among actors at all levels to support substance abuse prevention and use reduction in youth and adults.

Some of the information has already been secured, as the coalition finished its assessment process with interviews and focus groups, and regional staff in Needham - paid for through grant funding - has compiled that data from hospitals, police, schools, etc.

The "chicken or the egg" problem that Reiss identified for Impact Norwood was that it needs funding to pay staff to be able to do things like grant writing, but it might struggle to get grants without paid staff who have the time to devote to grantwriting.

Reiss said that according to District Attorney Michael Morrissey's office, the 2015 overdose totals through the first of December reached 153 deaths throughout Norfolk County. These figures only include incidents where 911 calls brought public safety officials to the scene.

Also according to the District Attorney's office, many of the overdoses are seen either on the day of or within three days of release from rehab centers or incarceration. Other overdoses are often coming from people on drug maintenance and those prescribed opiates who shouldn't have been.

Reiss said this last problem could be better managed if prescribers used the web-based prescription monitoring program in the state. Reiss said sober homes are also reporting fatal overdoses because many do not stock overdose reversal drug Narcan.

Board of Health Chair Joan Jacobs - who also attends Impact Norwood meetings - said Norwood High School was looking to set up a model bedroom in a storefront as part of the Hidden in Plain Sight program. The model bedroom would have drug paraphernalia stored throughout and parents would be invited to visit the room and see if they can find all of the various items and hiding places youth are commonly using for drugs.

"It's amazing how kids have very unique ways of hiding things," Jacobs said. "I'm really happy to see that the High School is getting involved in things like this."

a case of IF we lose in court, it is WHEN we lose in court with DHCD. That is the time to break out the tar and feathers. Let's start by parting ways with the town manager, town planner and town engineer, and the absent minded town counsel. They are the ones we have been paying to work for this community. They haven't earned their large paychecks, and none of them live here in town. They get paid to make this mess and it doesn't affect them one bit. They have chosen to work with the developers instead of the citizens of this Town. For those members of boards not up for an election challenge, RECALL THEM ALL! They have betrayed us as all. Does that sound too harsh? Remember one thing. Our Town Manager had a smile on his face as he used that silver shovel to welcome Upland Woods to town.

Even now, as we watch and wait for the court results we could win if the desire was there. The REAL 1.5 percent numbers can still be used to protect us. It is a simple snapshot of that Sept. 6 filing date. That is the key. The denominator study could be done with supportive data in time. We would have the numerator number we need with just that. But, we will stick with the 'homegrown' lies and the 1.5 percent Task Force nonsense and continue to deceive the masses using town counsel to make things appear legitimate. It goes perfectly with what our BOS did with our safe harbor, which was nothing. Nothing at all.

INSURANCE STRATEGIES

by George Grant and Jim Ambrose

MORE, NOT LESS

Most insurers don't fully cover the cost of damage to a home due to the occurrence of an insured loss unless the homeowner has purchased insurance coverage that is equal to at least 80% of the house's total replacement value. Savvy homeowners go beyond this baseline coverage and opt for "extended replacement coverage," which generally pays an additional 20% over the amount for which the home was insured. This provides policyholders with protection against variables such as a sudden increase in construction costs. For even greater coverage, when available, homeowners may choose "guaranteed replacement cost coverage," which pays for the full cost of replacing or repairing a damaged or destroyed home even when it is above the policy limit.

At AMBROSE & GRANT Insurance Agency, we provide effective and efficient solutions to your home insurance and financial needs, and we are able to offer you "one-stop-shopping" for commercial and personal insurance coverage as well. We're located at 1500 Providence Hwy., Ste. 24B. Please call us at 781.762.2300 to help answer questions about insurance matters.

NOTE: When purchasing homeowners insurance, insure your house for the cost to replace it (reconstruction costs), not its real estate "market value," and do not factor in the value of the land.

ADOPT-A-HYDRANT

Last year we experienced record breaking amounts of snowfall in our community. This huge amount of snowfall caused delays in firefighting operations throughout New England. In the event of a fire, fire engines respond with enough water in their tanks to provide only a few minutes of fire protection/suppression. Therefore, it is imperative that firefighters gain access to a water supply via a fire hydrant. If a fire hydrant is buried by snow, it can be difficult to find and valuable time is lost digging it out. This process can take anywhere from 5 to 7 minutes. Since fires double in size every minute, precious minutes lost could be the difference between life and death. Norwood firefighters and DPW workers worked tirelessly to keep hydrants clear last year, but we need your help. The Norwood Fire Department is looking for volunteers to "adopt" a hydrant near their homes or places of work. In doing so, it only makes a safer environment for your families and co-workers.

Norwood and Canton took their border rivalry to the Dunkin' Donuts Center in Providence, R.I., where the Mustangs pulled away in the fourth quarter by outscoring the Bulldogs 21-11. The day-long event, the Higher Learning Sports Basketball Classic, featured six games involving a total of 12 high school teams from Massachusetts and Rhode Island Wins are piling up for the Norwood boys basketball team, and they aren't even confined to being within state lines anymore.

Tied at 31-31 entering the fourth quarter, the Mustangs utilized a 9-0 quarter-opening blitz to pull away from the Canton Bulldogs and win 52-42 at the Dunkin' Donuts Center in Providence, R.I. on Sunday afternoon, improving to 11-4 in the process.

"It's a cool experience and obviously any win's a good win," said Norwood head coach Rich Cormier after the game. "I don't think many of these guys have played in an arena of this magnitude. I definitely think there were some jitters and some nerves when they were shooting. They don't know what 3-point line they're at, etc. It definitely took us a little too long to warm up today."

Norwood's win was part of a six-game package for the Higher Learning Sports Basketball Classic, which featured seven high school teams from Massachusetts and five from Rhode Island playing at the home of the Providence College Friars over the course of the day.

Chris Bell led the Mustangs with 14 points, followed by Richie Watson with 12. No other Norwood player cracked double figures, but a total of 11 players made their way on to the score sheet on Sunday.

"At this point, I don't even know if it's necessarily guys 'stepping up,'" said Cormier of his parade of contributors all season long. "We've had a bunch of different guys do it all year now, consistently. There might be one guy who has a better game, but we're getting to the point where we know who can do what. The guys have really embraced their roles, whether it's defensively or offensively."

Ice cold shooting dominated the first quarter, the score tied at 6-6 through eight minutes. Watson hit a 3 to give the Mustangs a 10-9 lead early in the second quarter, the last time they'd have the advantage over Canton (2-12, 0-11 Hockomock League) until the fourth.

But the Bulldogs were unable to create significant space between themselves and the Mustangs, a 20-14 lead their largest of the game. The six points were whittled down to one by halftime on another 3-pointer from Watson, who took a pass from Conor Riggle just before the shot clock expired to make it 20-19 with three seconds left in the quarter.

A mini-6-2 Canton run led off the third quarter, but Norwood's defense began clamping down by making things miserable for the Girls Basketball win-streak ends at seven

Norwood's seven-game win streak came to a close on Tuesday, as the Wellesley Raiders successfully bookended the run with a 38-29 victory in Norwood.

Leading 27-24 after three quarters, the Mustangs (11-3) went frozen on the field. Their only points of the quarter came with 32 seconds left in the game, on a Meghan Reen layup, long after the outcome had already been decided.

"We knew they were a really, really good defensive team," said Norwood head coach Amy Lepley after the game, her team's first loss since Jan. 5—also against Wellesley. "I thought we made some good adjustments from the first time we faced them. We won three quarters of this game, which is really frustrating that we let them control this fourth quarter."

The Raiders (14-1) outscored the Mustangs 14-2 in the game's final period, paced by senior captain Caroline Sullivan, who finished with 16 points for the game, seven of which came in the fourth quarter.

A post player, a multitude of Sullivan's points came from the paint, several off second-chance points. Rebounding has been an issue for Norwood, but not one that Lepley believes will cause the season to come unraveled.

"We're undersized. Everyone in the league knows it," she said. "We've done very well with it so far, I just think they totally out-toughed us...especially in the fourth quarter, they made a run and we didn't respond."

It was the Mustangs' defense on display early, forcing turnovers on the first two offensive possessions for the Raiders, and taking an early 4-0 lead on buckets from Maura O'Neill and Alyssa Chamberlain.

After Wellesley gained their footing and took a brief lead, Norwood would go back on top on a Kaylin Reen 3 near the end of the first quarter, 9-7. The Mustangs would either have the lead or be tied from that point on until the fourth quarter.

O'Neill would give Norwood a jolt heading into the half, with Meghan Reen finding her open along the perimeter as the clock dwindled down to 2.4 seconds left. O'Neill connected, sending the Mustangs to the locker room with a 21-16 advantage.

An exhilarating 5-4 come-from-behind win over Framingham last Monday didn't quite kick-start the turnaround Norwood head coach Tim Coskren had hoped for.

Instead, a new losing streak has begun, with a 3-1 loss to the Needham Rockets on Wednesday and a 3-2 setback vs. the Dedham Marauders on Saturday.

Nevertheless, Coskren can't complain with the amount of effort he's been getting out of his young Mustangs squad, who've been competitive in nearly every game they've played this season.

"We're in the games, it's not like we're getting blown out," said Coskren after the Needham game, in which Rose Campbell scored the Mustangs lone goal at 12:25 of the third period. "At least they're giving 100 percent effort, that's all you can ask for."

Janelle Kelleher was back between the pipes for Norwood (2-13-1), making 32 saves in a losing effort. She had missed Monday's game vs. the Flyers, in which sophomore Courtney Burke, normally a forward, was thrust out of position and strapped on the extra pads for the Mustangs.

"She was so excited and so pumped up," Coskren said of Burke's 28-save spot start. "I think everybody got pumped about it. So she did a great job.

"Janelle played well, her usual game, especially coming back after being sick," said Coskren of Kelleher's return. "So I've got to give her credit for stepping right up."

Needham (10-1-2) scored once each period, including a real momentum-swinger at 14:09 of the second period.

"We had a letdown in the second period, we chased them around a lot, and the power play never got going," said Coskren, frustrated that despite being outplayed in the middle frame, the only goal Norwood gave up was in the final minute. "The first period we played, I thought, very well, especially the first couple of minutes. We had some golden opportunities, just didn't get the hard shots on net that we really needed."

"We always seem to have one period that's a letdown and we do nothing. But we did play two good periods against a very good team, maybe one of the best teams that we've played this year."

Campbell's goal was assisted by fellow-freshman Emily Cataldo, the two jumping over the blue line in unison on a two-on-one rush. Cataldo swept the puck over to Campbell, who buried her opportunity to ensure Norwood

First win still eludes Wrestling

Norwood wrestling continues to see a string of impressive individual performances, which haven't yet been enough to garner a full-squad win.

As the season enters its final month, the Mustangs are still searching for that first win, sitting at 0-12 with three matches remaining.

Last Wednesday night in a home match vs. Walpole, Norwood fell to its archrivals, 39-12, although three Mustang wrestlers caught the attention of head coach Billy McDermott.

Senior captain Greg Williams, along with juniors Sylvain Applon and DeVaughn Carter earned wins in their respective matches.

Williams, who wrestles in the 132 pound weight class, won via a pin in the third round of his match. Applon, wrestling in the 145 pound weight class, went all three rounds with his opponent, winning 3-1.

Carter, of the 152 pound weight class, had the most lopsided victory of the night, a 10-2 win over his opponent in a match that went all three rounds. Wrestlers earn points based on any different number of moves within a match, including pins.

On top of said individual wins, another item McDermott took from the match was his team's improved conditioning.

"Our guys' conditioning is coming around," said McDermott, who said that both he and assistant Scott MacLean could see the difference. "It was very noticeable in the matches."

McDermott also reiterated that once his team can get the same type of membership numbers as opponents, Norwood will be a very competitive team in the Bay State Conference.

"Again, it was forfeits that hurt us," said McDermott in reference to the lopsided score vs. the Rebels. "But once those numbers come around, we are going to fit in well in a tough [Bay State Conference]."

The Mustangs wrestled at home vs. the Brookline Warriors last night, in an event held after the Record's deadline.

on track following an abysmal first half shooting (5-for-26 from the field), scoring on each of its first three possessions to tie the game at 22-22. Again, a Kaylin Reen made 3 would shift momentum, with her trey giving Norwood the upper hand heading into the fourth quarter.

From there, it was basically all Wellesley for the first 7:28 of the period. The Mustangs missed their first 11 shots from the field, as well as an 0-for-2 showing from the free throw line.

Ball movement wasn't the issue for Norwood, not even into the fourth quarter. The offense still flowed with the efficiency of a team scoring in the 50s and 60s, and Lepley also had no issues with shot selection.

"We got the shots we wanted for the most part," said Lepley. "In the fourth quarter, not so much."

The loss drops the Mustangs 2 1/2 games behind the Raiders in the Bay State Conference-Herget Division standings. With four league games left, and Wellesley having swept the regular season series, it appears the Herget title may have slipped out of the Mustangs hands on Tuesday.

However, Norwood may yet get a rare third crack at the Raiders. Each team is in the Westwood Tournament, a small four-team tournament held over February Vacation each year. Norwood plays the host Wolverines in the first round and Wellesley plays Archbishop Williams, but should both teams win OR both teams lose, they'll square off for a third time, although it would not count towards league standings in either instance.

Next up for the Mustangs is a home game with Natick on Friday night, a game which will honor deceased college basketball player Lauren Hill and the "Layup 4 Lauren Foundation." Hill passed away at age 19 from an inoperable brain tumor in April 2015, but not before fulfilling her dream of playing college basketball for Mount St. Joseph University in Cincinnati, Ohio the previous fall.

Lay Up for Lauren bracelets will be sold at the game for $2, and there will be a "Lay Up for Lauren Challenge" at halftime of the game, which tips off at 6:30 p.m.

"We're really excited about it," said Lepley of the opportunity to honor Hill. "It's a tough week for us because we have Wellesley, then this Natick team coming in that's coming together at the right time. It'll be a tough game, but I think the girls will have the motivation."

Norwood's final road match of the season is Saturday, when they'll travel up north to face the Arlington Spy Ponders in a matchup pitting the BSC against the Middlesex League.

Senior night, and the season finale, is at home next Wednesday night at Norwood High School, where the Mustangs will take on the Dedham Marauders.

would keep its streak of not being shut out alive at seven games (since extended to eight games vs. Dedham).

"As freshmen, playing with a junior, Coley [Hayes], I think is a lot of good experience for them for next year," said Coskren on the fact that the rebuilding season hasn't been a total loss.

"If Emily and Rose can get connected, I think they'll do things in the future."

Excluding a 7-2 loss to Leominster on Jan. 18, the Mustangs have not lost by more than two goals since Jan. 9 vs. Natick, a span of eight games. Of the two games they've lost by more than a goal, one (vs. Milton on Jan.

20) included an empty net goal for the Wildcats in the final minute.

Norwood hosted the Wellesley Raiders on Wednesday, in a game held after the Record's deadline. They have just four games remaining after that, beginning with a rematch with Natick on Saturday at 5:10 p.m., which will serve as Senior Day for the Mustangs.

Bulldogs the second they'd cross half court. Dan Ugochukwu and Riggle forced a turnover off a trap just beyond the timeline, and Bell hit a corner 3 to tie the game at 26-26.

Tony Harris, who scored a career-high 22 points for Canton, made it 31-28 on a 3 to give the Bulldogs their final lead of the night. Jove Dorisca willed the Mustangs back to tie the score, starting with a made free throw and finishing with a jump shot to make it 31-all heading into the final quarter.

"Don't look at Canton's record, they're a good team, they play hard," said Cormier, relaying the message he told his team prior to tipoff. "You saw that tonight; they played real, real hard, and it took us until the very last couple of minutes to get a win here."

Jake Vail gave Norwood its first lead since 10-9 on a layup from the low block, followed by Jordan Curry's first basket of the game, a basket-plus-foul shot to make it 36-31. Bell hauled in a Vail pass off a steal in the backcourt to extend the run, which Kyle Condon capped off on a feed from Jarred Houston off an inbound pass to make it 40-31.

The Mustangs shot 16-for-24 from the free throw line for the game, including an impressive 9-for-12 closeout performance in the fourth quarter.

"We've tried to do some different things with free throw shooting, put guys in more pressure situations," said Cormier. Coming into Sunday's game, Norwood was shooting a not-so-hot 55 percent from the line. Albeit a much smaller sample size, both 16-for-24 for the game (67 percent) and 9-for-12 for the fourth quarter (75 percent) are significant improvements. "It's a catch-22, the more you talk about it, the worse you shoot sometimes, because then it's in their head. They can make 'em, they just got to believe they can make 'em." A portion of the proceeds from the event in Providence went to the James L. Maher Center, a Middletown, R.I.-based group that "provides a broad range of services that advance independence and creates opportunities for children and adults with developmental disabilities," according to a statement on the event's webpage.

The Dedham Marauders were among the other Massachusetts-based programs in attendance on Sunday. Coming off a 67-48 loss to the Mustangs on Friday, they got back on track in a big way, with a 72-42 romp over East Greenwich, R.I.

Norwood moved to 12-4 on Tuesday night with a 66-55 win at Wellesley. Riggle, Curry and Natanael Fonseca Castro combined for 45 of the Mustangs' 66 points.

With three league games to go, Norwood currently holds a one-game lead over Walpole in the Bay State Conference-Herget Division. The Mustangs, 10-3 in league play, will host the Rebels (9-4 BSC) on Thursday, Feb. 11 in what could serve as a de facto Herget Division championship game. Walpole defeated Norwood 60-49 in Walpole on Jan. 15.

The Mustangs are next in action on Friday night at 6:30 p.m. at Natick High School, set for a rematch with a Redhawks team (3-11) they beat 57-49 in Norwood on Jan. 8.

Norwood returns home on Tuesday night for their lone meeting of the season with the Newton North Tigers (13-1) at 6:30 p.m.

CREATING AUTHENTIC FICTIONAL CHARACTERS WORKSHOP

Join local author C.L. LeMay at the Morrill Memorial Library on Thursday, Feb. 25 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. to learn about and discuss writing tips to help you breathe life into your fictional characters, making them feel real and memorable. Your characters should be the soul of your story, so by giving your readers characters with whom they can connect, they will return to your books again and again.

"Gone with the Wind" and "The Hunger Games" would have been completely different stories without Scarlett O'Hara and Katniss Everdeen. As these two protagonists prove, the most celebrated characters seem to jump off the page into our own consciousness. Class size is limited to 20. To sign up for this free workshop, call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, email norprograms@minlib.net, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk.

SHARE THE WARMTH

Join Norwood Girl Scout Troop 81348 for an afternoon of smiles, knitting, and crocheting in the Morrill Memorial Library Simoni Room! On Saturday, Feb. 13 from 3-5 p.m., the troop will be making hats and scarves for a local homeless shelter. Knitting needles and crochet hooks are available to borrow at the library, or you can bring your own. All ages and skill levels are welcome, although there will be no formal instruction. If you have any questions, please contact the Girl Scouts at: norwoodgscroop81348@gmail.com. Help us share the warmth!

TITLES ON TAP BOOK GROUP

Join the staff of the Morrill Memorial Library at Napper Tandy's of Norwood on Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. for the next meeting of Titles on Tap. This social group is designed for readers in their 20s and 30s and the young at heart, and is a casual way to meet up with fellow book-lovers for a fun night out. February's title will be "Beautiful You" by Chuck Palahniuk, the author of the award-winning novel "Fight Club." This science fiction novel takes a satirical swing at "Fifty Shades of Grey," and should lead to quite an (un)Valentine's discussion. Copies are available to pick up at the Reference Desk, so come out to meet, discuss, eat, drink, and be merry! RSVPs are not required, but you may sign up by emailing norprograms@minlib.net, calling 781-769-0200 x110 or 222, or visiting the Information or Reference Desks. Visit our blog titlesontap.wordpress.com or follow us on Twitter @titlesontap to learn more.

LIFELONG WELLNESS SEMINAR

If you are a baby boomer interested in maintaining good health, join nutritionist and author Peg Doyle, M.Ed., at the Morrill Memorial Library on Thursday, Feb. 11 at 7 p.m. for a lively and productive discussion on staying well after age 50. Contrary to popular belief, everything that goes wrong physically after the half-century mark is not necessarily due to "old age." In this interactive presentation, Doyle will share some secrets to living a long, healthy, and potentially medicine-free life. To sign up, please call the library at 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, email norprograms@minlib.net, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk.

LOCAL PLAYWRITING GROUP TO PERFORM AT THE LIBRARY

The local theater group "Playwrights Reading Room" (PRR) will perform a series of three original plays at the Morrill Memorial Library, each one to take place on a different Saturday from 2-3:30 p.m. between February and June. The first play, "Skin and Bones," is written by Laura Neill and will be performed on Saturday, Feb. 6. It is about a volunteer theater usher in her sixties named Katharine and Marly, a forty-something bouncer. While the two have seemingly little in common, both are concealing secrets that demand to be told. When their small talk doesn't line up, an unexpected honesty arises between them.

The next play in the series, on Saturday, April 30, is "Chat Rats" by Mary Sue Price. The final play, to be performed on Saturday, June 11, will be announced shortly. To sign up for any or all of these performances-written, directed, and acted by members of PRR-please call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, email norprograms@minlib.net, or stop by the library Reference or Information Desk.

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin
(Never known to fail!)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech thee from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you.

Grateful thanks. —J.R.G.
