

Airport holds firm on Heliops

Sightseeing helicopter service denied permit

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Heliops, a sightseeing operation company based in Plymouth that offers tours of Boston, Cape Cod and several other areas in New England, was denied a commercial permit by the Norwood Airport Commission (NAC) at their Aug. 12 meeting.

"We have minimum standards," NAC Clerk Kevin Shaughnessy said. "We should not change them for one company."

The minimum standards require a company to have a place of business at the airport, a staffed office, tie-downs and a phone line. Heliops does not have an office at the airport, and were denied a permit based on failing to meet these standards.

Airport Manager Russ Maguire acknowledged that the sightseeing tour business is a commercial activity on the airport, and it does bring in money, but issuing a permit was not appropriate because "they tried to operate out of Norwood without meeting our minimum standards."

Wesley Verkhaart, owner and operation of Heliops, has been attempting to get a permit or waiver allowing them to

End of an era

Old Norwood High gymnasium gives way to demolition

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

At 10 a.m. on Aug. 13, 2009, Norwood High School reached the end of an era. Demolition of the school's gymnasium began, and roughly half of the building was knocked down by the end of the day. Demolition would continue on Friday and during the weekend.

Norwood High School principal George Usevich said that a lot of sadness comes while watching the old building go down. However, even with the demolition of the gymnasium, there is a lot to look forward to, he said.

"There is a lot of history, and I'm going to miss looking at the building, but once the new school is built, we will be very proud of it," he said, adding that the new building will be a

Bylaw change requires prior clinic approval

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Future medical clinics in Norwood will have to go before the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) before they can open and perform medical procedures in town, assuming the new zoning bylaw is accepted.

"Norwood is the first town to regulate clinics in drug stores that I know of," Mark Bobrowski, a land use attorney hired by the town as a consultant said at last Monday's Norwood Planning Board meeting. He would congratulate the board for reaching such a decision.

Town Planner Steve Costello confirmed this by saying that Norwood is the first to regulate clinics in this fashion.

One company that could be affected by this is CVS Pharmacy, the largest nationwide pharmacy chain. Approximately 500 CVS Pharmacy stores in 25 states have a MinuteClinic, a retail-based health clinic staffed primarily by nurse practitioners and physician's assistants. These MinuteClinics are open seven days a week. No appointment is needed, and most insurance is accepted.

There are 17 of these MinuteClinics in Massachusetts, though Norwood's CVS Pharmacy does not have one. If this CVS pharmacy wants to install a clinic on site, they will have to go through the ZBA.

The argument is that drug dispensing is the principal use of a store like CVS Pharmacy, while operating a clinic would be a secondary use. The primary use is generally the use of a property with the largest value, while the secondary use or accessory is an additional offering that generates extra revenue. Members of the Planning Board determined that a clinic in a drug store would be considered a secondary use. Philip Riley, who was representing the ZBA at the Monday, Aug. 17 meeting shared this opinion.

Costello described this decision as "very restrictive to the use of clinics in drug stores," though a MinuteClinic or something similar could be opened with

ZBA approval.

A definition of clinic was added to the bylaw out of necessity.

"Clinics are popping up everywhere," Costello said, meaning there is a greater need to define just what a clinic is, adding that the definition featured in the new bylaw is pretty broadly worded, and includes labs and areas where medical treatments, such as a blood work, are performed.

Areas that are required to keep patients overnight are not considered clinics. The bylaw rewrite initially said clinics "usually" don't keep patients overnight, though the term was removed

New veterinarian might come to Norwood

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Norwood residents with sick pets might soon have a new place to take their animals for treatment. Dr. Richard Crowell hopes to bring his business to 496 Washington Street in Norwood, the former home of Century 21.

Crowell and attorney David Turchetta appeared before the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on Aug. 18 to discuss their plans for the site. They plan on demolishing the current building and replacing it with a new, state-of-the-art, veterinarian's office, though a lot of work is needed.

One concern is parking. Crowell plans to have the parking lot in the back of the building and have cars enter the site via Railroad Avenue. There will be eight spots available- six in the lot out back and two on the street. He hopes this will alleviate any potential traffic problems, though that might not be an issue.

If the business succeeds, he expects to see 15 to 20 patients during a 10-hour workday, meaning Washington Street will see two additional cars per hour, something Turchetta feels the road can easily handle. He also pointed out that one of the site's past usages- a gas station- produced much more traffic than a veterinarian's office would.

The issue of aesthetics led to a discussion on dog poop.

There was some concern that if dogs were let outside while at the veterinarian's office, their poop would not be cleaned up.

Crowell promised that this would not be the case. The office will have a fenced off area for dogs to run around in while waiting for an appointment, and an employee would search the model for 21st century education.

"This building will be great for the future of our students and the future of the community," Usevich said.

Several town officials, including General Manager John Carroll and Assistant General Manager Bernie Cooper, have visited the site numerous times to see what progress has been made, and watched while Hercules Wrecking, the demolition contractor at the Norwood High School, took down parts of the building.

Now that demolition of the gymnasium has begun, Agostini Construction and Compass, Tim Bonfatti's management firm, have the task of cleaning up the site before the school year begins on Sept. 8. In addition, they are required to prepare safe entrances and exits from the school and open the area behind the school to avoid students wandering into the construction site. Bonfatti, who works as the project manager, feels they will have the site cleared by then, and that the demolition is the quickest part of the project.

"The building will probably come down quickly," said Bonfatti at the Friday, July 24 weekly High School Community meeting, adding that the clean up would probably take longer than the demolition itself.

In order to speed up the clean-up processing, Hercules Wrecking is trucking the demolished parts of the gymnasium off the site while they continue to take the building down. Cooper described this decision as efficient, as the company is not letting excessively large piles build up.

In addition, weekend work at the site began on Saturday, Aug. 15. This is meant to speed up the cleaning process, as the building needs to be cleared out and ready before students arrive. At the July 31 weekly High School community meetings, Building Inspector Mark Chubet stressed the importance of accomplishing this, saying that all needs to be in place before the school year begins, and that all places of egress are available for use.

Michael Moisé of Agostini Construction is confident they will be able to meet this deadline.

"By the end of the month, we will have [demolition and cleanup] completed," Moisé said, stating that the building would be knocked down, the material would be cleaned up and the resulting hole would be filled it.

High school budgets explained

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

At the Aug. 13 meeting of the Permanent Building Construction Committee, up to $25,000 was added to AI3's extra service budget for the construction at Norwood High School. AI3 is the architectural firm present at the site.

This $25,000 will be used to pay for a geotechnical engineer at the site. Geotechnical engineering includes investigating the subsurface conditions, examining the risks posted by these and monitoring conditions at the site. This is done by examining the soil, rocks, bedrock and fault distribution at a site. Stephen Theran, the representative from Compass, Tim Bonfatti's management firm working at the site, stressed the importance of geotechnical engineers.

AI3 was initially appropriated $35,000 for hiring geotechnical engineers, and has since spent $24,000, leaving them with $11,000. This $35,000 amount was based on the budget for the Whitman-Hanson school construction.

Theran does not feel the remaining $11,000 is enough to cover the cost of a geotechnical engineer in the upcoming weeks. Daren Sawyer of AI3 echoed this concern, saying he felt that without the extra $25,000, they would exceed their budget.

It would cost approximately $15,000 to keep one geotechnical engineer on the site for two hours a day for the next six weeks. However, Compass did not have the budget to pay for this amount. The PBCC unanimously approved an amendment, titled AI3 Amendment No. 7, which gives AI3 access to an amount of money not to exceed $25,000, and it can be accessed on an as-needed basis.

This $25,000 was encumbered by the PBCC. PBCC member Ed McKenna pointed out that they were still well within the total budget, and that a contingency had been set aside for things like this.

However, access to this money is contingent on AI3 sending the PBCC a letter further explaining the need for the additional $25,000. The suggestion to require this letter came from PBCC member Dan Gold.

Theran touched upon the demolition of the gymnasium at the meeting. His executive summary of the project thus far stated that all asbestos in the gymnasium has been abated and demolition began on Aug. 13. The report states that demolition "is on schedule to be completed by the beginning of September, prior to the start of the new school year."

Theran also had to explain why the cash flow, as of July 31, was slightly higher than the estimated amount. They had spent $5,561,650 through that period, putting them at 11 percent over the planned cash flow. Theran explained the estimate because "usually" was not a clear term, and it could allow a clinic to keep a patient overnight and argue that while they usually don't need to, the bylaw allows them to do such. By removing the work "usually," the bylaw does not allow for this practice, and patients cannot stay at a clinic overnight.

All future clinics that wish to come to Norwood, regardless of their location in town, will have to go through the ZBA first.

operate for a few months now. At the NAC's meeting in June, Verkaart accused the airport of economic discrimination, claiming they were favoring Blue Hills Helicopters, an established tenant at the site. Stephen Boatwright, one of the owners of Blue Hill Helicopters, disagrees with this claim.

"We went through the same process they are going through," Boatwright said, "We are definitely not being favored and would welcome other helicopter companies at the site."

Blue Hill Helicopters has been operating at the site for three years, and pays the required fees for their commercial permit each year.

However, Verkaart suggests the committee's actions are illegal.

"Norwood - and I don't think this is legal- will not let us do Part 91 operations at the airport unless we are based there," Verkhaart said, adding that "[The NAC] doesn't want us to do tour or photo work there."

Part 91 is the section of federal aircraft law that governs private aircraft use, often used for tours or photography. Meanwhile, a Part 135 operation is larger in scale, and deals with carrying passengers from point to point.

Maguire responded to this claim in June, saying that the Federal Aviation Administration and the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission ruled the airport is allowed to impose minimum standards of tenants.

Though the permit was denied, the NAC allows Heliops to do Part 135 operations at the airport, Verkaart said.

"Nothing is to stop them from coming here to pick up or drop off people," NAC member Leslie Leblanc said at their Aug. 12 meeting.

The reason for the denial is a matter of consistency. At the July meeting of the NAC, Committee Chairman and Town Engineer Mark Ryan said "we want to be consistent with how we deal with commercial permit applications."

Verkaart has not decided how the company will respond to this denial, saying he will wait until he receives a mailed response from the NAC. He asked specifically for a waiver for a non-based operator, and that if he wasn't given a permit, to be sent a letter with reasons outlining why the company was denied. His response will be based on this letter.

Time for merchants to step up

Walking through downtown Norwood the other day was a reminder of how important an anchor tenant is, as a good number of storefront vacancies are empty. Though it is doubtful Norwood Center, or most any other town center for that matter, will ever be able to count on an anchor tenant in the future, for any downtown area to survive it is going to take creativity and initiative by those doing business there.

No one can argue that town officials haven't done enough for the Washington/Central St. areas. From the DPW going the extra mile to keep the streets and Common areas clean, snow free and beautiful, to town employees constantly seeking grants for signage improvements and planning special events like Norwood Day and other holiday celebrations focused downtown, Norwood has gone the extra mile to keep this area active and on the radar screen. Other creative ideas such as expanding the availability of liquor licenses has certainly worked out, as restaurants have multiplied, helping the cause a bit, most certainly in the evening.

However, after having done all of that the downtown area is still annoyingly vacant. The obvious culprit, beyond the loss of Kline's years ago, is parking. Let's face it, many of us will either give up trying to find a spot after one pass down Washington St. or just avoid the area entirely when in need of picking up a few things, and wait until the next trip to the mall. The diehards in town still believe that eliminating perpendicular parking to the sidewalks was a devastating mistake, and that wider sidewalks are a waste of space. A hue and cry still goes out to build some kind of parking garage, most often mentioned off of Central Street.

Whatever the answer is, merchants should not rely solely on town officials for help. One thing noticeably absent in Norwood is a downtown merchants association. Other towns and city neighborhoods have very active members of the business community, hold regular meetings and approach their town officials with improvement ideas instead of waiting for others to take proactive steps on their behalf. Years ago, Norwood had vocal merchant members take initiatives, but lately, there has been little to nothing that this writer is aware of.

Merchant groups might come up with ideas that will improve their own businesses and help fill vacancies in other spaces, such as having Sidewalk Sale Days or possibly closing down traffic a day or night a week and opening the whole area for pedestrians to just walk around and meet their neighbors and merchants face to face. Or maybe have one day a week dedicated to seniors with discounts available. From a business perspective, perhaps they could meet with landlords of area buildings and see if they could persuade rent concessions or building improvements that will help out everyone in the long run.

Organizations such as The Neponset Valley Chamber of Commerce are a little help, but not myopic enough to focus exclusively on Norwood's continued vacancy problem. Norwood needs its own merchants association. Retail and service businesses need to work together, in conjunction with the town, to improve downtown Norwood. Without one, things are only going to get worse as all cities and towns now have less money to work with, greatly limiting their ability to help out without store owners taking the first step.

Norwood Center has been referred to in the recent past as a "Destination Spot" because of the success of restaurants opening with more liquor licenses. Well, the bloom is quickly wilting off of that rose as pats on the back need to give way to the new reality that downtown Norwood still needs help, and it needs to start from within.

site and pick up any droppings.

This issue of animal noises came up, though ZBA member Harry Spence doesn't think this is an issue due to the site's close proximity to the Norwood Depot railroad station. He couldn't imagine that animals at the office would be louder than a passing train. Crowell confirmed that noise would not be an issue.

"If you are outside the building, you really won't hear anything at all," Crowell said.

Only one of the 142 abutters notified about this public hearing showed up at the ZBA meeting. Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald of 490 Washington Street had three concerns about the office- where the dumpsters would be located, which direction the air conditioner turbines would be facing and if she could get an easement for driveway use, as the ten foot driveway used at 490 Washington Street is part of that property.

"As long as those three things are taken care of, I'm happy," she said.

Crowell was agreeable to all three. Dumpsters will be kept in the back, away from the house, and the air conditioner turbines will be facing the opposite direction. In addition, he has agreed to giving her an easement if necessary.

"It sounds like you've got a good neighbor coming in," ZBA chairman Patrick Mulvehill said.

Currently, there is only one veterinarian's office in Norwood, The Norwood Animal Hospital, located at 437 Walpole Street. Turchetta said that Crowell's office "will give the community another source for animal care and will fit in quite nicely."

The office in Norwood would not be Dr. Crowell's first. He currently owns an office in Medfield, and before that, he had an office in Franklin.

"I am not bringing a big chain into town," Crowell said.

The decision regarding the site will be made at the ZBA's September 1 meeting, at which point Crowell will learn if he can have an office in Norwood or not.

Callahan field construction will finish soon

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

The field outside of the CM Callahan School is nearing the end of its construction. The work began in the last week of June after students began their summer vacation, and will end before school begins again on Sept. 8.

Town Engineer Mark Ryan expects construction to be completed by Friday, Aug. 21. Parents and students will not have to worry about construction vehicles being at the elementary school during the school year.

This new field features new grass and, like the other fields in the town, is irrigated by a series of pipes installed underneath. The area will be sodded rather than seeded. The construction crew is 99 percent done with the irrigation work, Ryan said.

The biggest reason contributing to the decision to resurface the field is the town's expanding lacrosse program. Because of construction at the Norwood High School, fields at the school will be out of commission for two years. Numerous high school sports teams, including the lacrosse team, were required to find a new site for practices and home games.

Ryan suggests that though the field will predominantly be used for varsity lacrosse, it will also be available for other sports teams if needed, saying it could also be used as a soccer field. Norwood High School Athletic Director Brian McDonough expects the lacrosse teams will be able to play there during next season. The field has been used for lacrosse in the past, mainly as a practice site.

"Boys' lacrosse presently practices there, and hopefully we can start playing some games with the new field down there," McDonough said.

Though it was used as a practice site, the teams were unable to use the old Callahan School field for home games, because it failed to meet the field size required for varsity lacrosse games, Ryan said.

When the new field debuts at the Callahan, it will be 210 by 330 feet, Ryan said. A regulation size field for boys' lacrosse is 110 by 60 feet, while a field size of 100 by 70 feet is recommended for girls' lacrosse. The girls' lacrosse field is slightly larger than the boys' lacrosse field, taking up 700 square feet, compared to the 660 square feet required for boys' lacrosse.

In order to accommodate the larger field, a paved play area with basketball nets had to be removed. Ryan assured basketball fans that this area is not gone for good—rather, it is being moved to another location on the site. It will be fenced off, for safety purposes.

A "rusty, old backstop" that was near the overgrown infield area was also removed. Although there was a baseball diamond on site, the field had not been used by the town Little League in years. A new backstop will be installed at a new location on the site, and it will be available for neighborhood use, allowing students and children who live in the area to play. It can be used for activities like batting practice or kickball. There are no plans to install a new infield.

Callahan School Principal Bob Griffin is very excited about the new field, and has high hopes for it. He expects the Callahan School field is going to be one of the better looking ones in town once the work is completed.

"This is going to be a win-win situation for us," he said. He was very appreciative of all the work Ryan, Recreation Director Jerry Miller, Buildings and Grounds Director Joe McDonough and Marie Collela of the Callahan School Council, all of whom have been very supportive of the project.

In addition to the sporting events, it will also be used by students at the Callahan School. The previous field was used three times a day, before school and during the breaks for recess.

The construction at the school was approved by Town Meeting in May, appropriating $195,000 for the site work.

Credit union investigation ongoing

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Former Coakley Middle School Vice Principal Stephen Shinnick's work as treasurer of the Norwood School Employees Federal Credit Union has been under investigation by the National Credit Union Administration and Norwood Police Department. This investigation began after inconspicuous were found during an annual audit of the credit union.

The School Committee was informed of the investigation at an emergency meeting held on Dec. 2, 2008. School Committee member Paul Samargledis said they acted accordingly when the incident occurred, but now it is out of the committee's jurisdiction.

"Our first reaction was 'What can we do?'" said School Committee member Bill Plasko Jr. The unfortunate answer to this question is "nothing," because the credit union works as a separate entity, meaning it is not under the committee's jurisdiction, nor is there any affiliation between the two groups.

Plasko believes the committee was "told out of courtesy and to be informed of the situation, because it affects multiple people working for us."

Approximately 250 Norwood school employees used the union during Shinnick's tenure as treasurer. The Norwood School Employees Credit Union is a voluntary program that operates separately from the Norwood Public Schools. It offers those participating financial advice and assistance. Those in the union can also get up to $5,000 in personal loans.

The School Committee has not been informed about the total amount missing from the credit union's fund, as it is still under investigation. Plasko said the committee is operating under the belief that the money is insured.

"The only thing we heard is that it was 'significant' and it was gone," Plasko said. They have heard several rumors, and the amount keeps growing. The use of the term "significant" leads Plasko to believe the amount is in the six-figure range, though he is unable to confirm this.

While the date is not set in stone, Shinnick will appear in front of a grand jury later this year. Police Chief Bartley King anticipated it will be held in September or October, and he hopes the grand jury will make an indictment at that time.

Because the case is still under investigation, David Traub, a spokesman for the District Attorney's office, said he is unable to comment at this time.

Shinnick was potentially slotted to temporarily fill the void left by former Coakley Middle School Principal Marjorie Tessier, who retired in January. However, Shinnick resigned from his vice principal post last December, with his final day on Dec. 20, 2008. Zeff Gianetti now works as Coakley Middle School's principal, and William Rice is serving as the interim vice principal at the school.

Shinnick could be reached for comment, and Superintendent of Schools John Moretti had no comment on the "fiasco."

The Norwood School Employees Federal Credit Union has since merged with the Rockland Federal Credit Union (RFCU). Marlene Girvan of RFCU said she was unable to comment, but confirmed that they "took control" of the Norwood School Employees Federal Credit Union.

Airport grants some permits, not others

Brad Cole

Several commercial permits were renewed for fiscal year 2010 at the Aug. 12 meeting of the Norwood Airport Commission (NAC). Three companies- New Horizon Aviation, Aerial Productions and The Pilot Shop- all had their permits approved and renewed.

Other companies who applied to renew their permits only saw the permits renewed in part.

Swift Aviation's permit was for repairing, selling and exchanging aircrafts. The company has repaired aircrafts in the past, and this portion of the FY 2010 commercial permit was approved. However, the NAC did not approve their application for sales and exchanges, because Swift Aviation failed to provide state and federal permits for airport sales. Once Swift Aviation provides these documents to the NAC, the permit application will be reviewed.

A similar occurrence happened with Boston Air Charter (BAC), whose permit for FY 2010 is for work as an air charter, flight school and for the sale and exchange for aircrafts. Much like Swift Aviation, BAC did not provide the NAC with state and federal permits showing they are licensed for sales and exchanges. Once they are provided, the NAC will reconsider their decision.

The NAC also addressed a letter written by Paul L. Baccari, an attorney representing BAC. In his letter, Baccari wrote, "instead of commencing negotiations towards a lease while the ministerial act of filing was completed by BAC, NAC chose to continue its intentional delay of my client's ability to install the fueling facility which it acquired and on which it has been paying interest and storage charges for several years."

At the July 8 meeting of the NAC, they denied the application to install a fueling facility at the airport. The reason for the denial is that BAC was formally dissolved on April 30 and had not been reinstated at the time. BAC would be reinstated the day after the meeting.

Maguire pointed out that BAC had invested in two 120,000-gallon tanks to be used for a self-fueling station. These tanks were purchased before the lease, Maguire said, and the airport is not liable for BAC's decision to store these tanks.

BAC has been attempting to install these tanks for several years, but requires an easement to access the land necessary for use of the utility lines at the site. After taking their case to the FAA, the airport's certification was revoked and is ineligible to receive grants.

The basis of this complaint is that BAC feels they have a right to a self-fueling station. One problem Maguire has with BAC's application is that when they complained to the FAA, the application became a self-fueling station and the notion that it would be commercial was dropped.

"The FAA is under the impression Boston Air Charter is not being allowed to self-fuel their planes," Maguire said. "If [BAC] presents a proposal for a commercial fueling station, the FAA should be in the loop."

Al Bishop of BAC stated that it is a commercial self-fueling station, and is so because NAC mandated it to be one. BAC had initially applied for a self-fueling station, but because of the fear this could lead to other organizations on site requesting their own self-fueling station, the NAC requested it be available for commercial use, Bishop said. He added that when the complaint was made to the FAA, they were made aware it would be used for commercial use.

65 Year Old Grandmother Ends Frustration With Dentures

Experiences Sheer Joy of Gorgeous Strong Teeth, and Re-Ignites Her Marriage

West Roxbury - Phyllis Hicks had been hiding something. This busy grandmother ran the family business while taking care of her grandkids. On the outside, it looked like she "had it all", she was struggling with an ever increasingly frustrating problem that plagued her for 20 years.

Phyllis had lost her teeth at the early age of 45. This caused her to be confined to the limitations of dentures. Not being able to eat the foods that she treasured and loved.

Through time and nature, Phyllis had lost most of the bone that she was relying on to support those dentures. She was suffering from sores from her dentures due to the fact that they didn't fit any more and this created excessive rubbing. Her constant fear that her teeth might pop out at any moment was paralyzing her in social settings.

The "Miraculous" Solution that Most Seniors Have Zero Clue About

Fortunately for Phyllis, startling advancements in dentistry provided her with options that weren't available for her in the past 20 years. Now, Phyllis is laughing, smiling, and enjoying those grandchildren with the confidence and pleasure she desires. Her friends now admire her new beauty... and some have actually admitted gossiping about what plastic surgery she had done. After all, "she is looking 10 years younger!"

Phyllis Got Her Life Back

At this point, you may be wondering... How Can I Be One of The People to Benefit From This Miraculous Solution, Too?

Dr. Brendan McLaughlin, from right here in West Roxbury, is a leader in providing dental implants to his patients to alleviate their frustrations and suffering while returning them to a state of overall health.

Using gym floor at Center not feasible

Demolition will include recycling floor and bleachers

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

Trucks from Hercules Wrecking, the demolition contractor at the Norwood High School construction site, are busy removing the old wood floor and wooden bleachers from the old gymnasium. All of the gymnasium's wood is being moved off site, Michael Moisé of Agostini Construction said, and it will be crushed up and recycled.

Judith Howard asked at officials present at the weekly High School community meeting held on Aug. 14 if the wood could be salvaged and used at the Senior Center. She hoped that it could be used to replace the malfunctioning floating floor, which buckles and bubbles due to high humidity levels. However, this cannot be done.

"It is not reusable as wood flooring," Assistant General Manager Bernie Cooper said.

Moisé confirmed Cooper's assessment saying, "it is not an easy project to salvage and reuse the wood floor."

The demolition of the gymnasium began on Thursday, Aug. 13 at 10:00 am, and Moisé expects the building will be knocked over and the area will be clean before students return to school on Sept. 8. All the asbestos had been successfully removed from the building before the demolition began.

"We need to clear out the area and be ready and out of the way before students arrive," Moisé said.

Even though demolition of the gym will be completed before students return to school, concerns about safety remain. Safety Officer Richard Giacoppo addressed some of these concerns, though he acknowledged there could be potential problems at the beginning of the school year.

"This first day is going to be a mess," Giacoppo said. There will be a curiosity factor attracting people to the construction site.

In an attempt to quell this curiosity, Norwood High School Principal George Usevich will hold a pair of meetings with students at the beginning of the school year to discuss construction. At the Aug. 7 weekly High School community meeting, Usevich said he expects construction will prove to be a distraction for some students in the beginning of the year.

"There will be some noise, but I'm students will get used to it," Usevich said.

Giacoppo confirmed that there would be plenty of police officers on site to help guide students. In addition to Giacoppo, Donna Gronroos will return as the traffic supervisor and several officers from the midnight shifts will be on hand, much like they do every school year.

was not an estimate at all. Rather, the cash flow is lifted directly from the Whitman-Hanson project.

"It was more of a guess based on an identical project," Theran said, adding that he expects it will even out in upcoming months.

In addition, the executive report past out at the meeting says this difference "is primarily due to the fact that planned Cash Flow assumed a June 1st start and the actual start was May 18th," meaning they have spent more because they've been working there longer.

RECYCLING MATTERS

Susan Clare

Guest Columnist

The Norwood Recycling Committee (NRC) is pleased to announce that single stream recycling is off to a good start. Its goal, to increase recycling tonnages, will save taxpayer dollars, prevent pollution and reduce greenhouse gases, all of which lessen our impact on the environment, remain strong, and progress is evident. There remains much to be accomplished, and to that end, the Norwood Recycling Committee is seeking volunteers to work with it.

Doris Burtman is a 25-year resident of Norwood and her three children have attended Norwood schools, so her commitment to the community is personal as well as professional. She has been an independent contractor for the Town of Norwood for 15 years, and is now an employee of the town. She comes to the position well prepared, as she has a lifetime commitment to "reuse, recirculate, recycle," informed by a Master of Arts degree in Environmental Education.

Burtman can be reached at her office, on Nahatan Street in an office next to the Recreation Department, from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday. She welcomes suggestions and questions from Norwood residents, and can be contacted in person, by phone, or by email. Her phone number is (781) 255-9988 and can be reached by

Email at: dburtman@norwoodma.gov

The NRC is a citizen's advisory committee, meeting monthly, whose mission is to educate and assist the Norwood community to reduce, reuse, and recycle solid waste, and to promote the use of environmentally preferred products and alternatives to improve quality of life and preserve resources. Toward this end, the committee has undertaken several initiatives, including a series of columns to appear in local newspapers. These columns will provide information on recycling in Norwood.

The NRC members volunteer their time at the town's fall and spring recycling collections. The next column will explain how best to take advantage of that day, falling on Sept. 26 this autumn, and what can be recycled and how. Information

Town and Country

Hi Guys,

A BIG SURPRISE...

We wish Our Town's, Jeannine Lynch, a very Happy Birthday. Her family had a reunion and totally surprised her as they gathered to celebrate her special day. Many more happy years, Jeannine!

Jackie Saber

PEDESTRIAN CROSSWALKS...

The marked crosswalks seem to be puzzling for some pedestrians. When crossing where there are traffic signals, the pedestrian must engage the walk button, and then cross when the word 'walk' appears. The pedestrian doesn't (automatically) have the right of way.

When crossing where there is no traffic signal, step onto the walkway, but wait for the cars in both directions to basically stop before crossing. It's a simple step that could save your life. Drivers still fly by the crosswalks, so don't take a chance. Be responsible for your own safety. Teach your kids too.

HOW MANY CANDLES THIS TIME?...

Our Town wishes Happy Birthday to, Chip Nickerson. Many more, babe!

MEMORIES ARE MADE OF THIS...

Our Town's, Elinor Dillon, is a talented artist who has been a member of the Norwood Art Association for many years. Elinor has hand designed beautiful magnets that picture our venerable Norwood High School as it stands today. The magnets are perfect remembrances for any upcoming NHS reunions.

Elinor has an array of items with the NHS design, i.e. note cards, bookmarks, etc. She has painted beautiful water colors of Our Town's Common, with the Gazebo and its adorning flora in full bloom. Light houses, including Chatam Light, local beach scenes, and other beautiful paintings are available for purchase.

Think about Christmas stocking stuffers, yankee swap gifts, birthdays, anniversaries, etc. Elinor's beautiful work is very reasonably priced.

In two years our hallowed halls of NHS will be but a beautiful memory. If you wish to purchase any water colors, or nostalgic visions of Our Town's history, you may contact Elinor at 781.769.6463.

ANOTHER YEAR OLDER...

Happy Birthday to our granddaughter, Jessica. She is 3 years old and the delight of her 'Goo-Goo,' who obeys her every desire!

THEY THINK OUR MONEY IS 'MONOPOLY' MONEY...

Nancy Pelosi stated she wants to put a 'Windfall Tax' on stock market profits, including retirement funds, 401 K's, and Mutual Funds. When asked how the new tax dollars would be spent, she said in part...stock market 'windfall' profit taxes could go a long way to guarantee illegal immigrants the standard of living they would like to have as 'Americans'....It is not our governments responsibility to supply illegal's with anything in this country. Come here legally and earn your dream like our ancestors did.

The President and Congress purport to know what is best for America's healthcare system. Why then isn't it also best for the President and Congress? They exempt themselves. They and their families should stand in the same healthcare line as our families, so that when the mistakes and unintended consequences are uncovered, Congress will be motivated to fix the problems they surely will create. Our elected officials live in a perk infested, gilded bubble, making them feel superior, while having little knowledge of who the hard working American is.

IN CLOSING...

While in Mexico, Pres. Obama stated that the US spends more money for healthcare, and that we are way down on the list of other countries that spend less with better results. Who are the countries that are superior to us when dispensing healthcare? His statement was an unnecessary affront to all the doctors and nurses in America.

Pres. Obama has stated that if we are happy with our private healthcare insurance, we can keep it, even though the proposed bill in the House says otherwise, yet when he was on the campaign trail in the spring of 2008, he stated ...'I want the nation to be on a universal health care program by the end of my first term.'

KEEP CALLING CONGRESS

with your opinions...1.202.224.3121 and you may e-mail our Representative at...stephen.lynch@mail.house.gov

can be found about recycling day on the town's website: recycling.norwoodma.gov

In addition, the committee will work with Morrill Memorial Library to create a 2-week display at the library in November, to coincide with Recycle America Day, and to highlight the resources available to residents at the library and elsewhere.

Burtman says, "I would like to see a working NRC whose focus is to brainstorm, create initiatives, and partner with other community groups to reduce our solid waste, promote reuse opportunities, and increase our recycling tonnages." It is hoped that the committee will soon be fully representative of the town, including business and other working people, retirees, parents, and students. If you are interested in serving on the NRC, contact her at her office.

If they aren't able to serve on the NRC, residents can still make a difference to their local and global communities by investing their time and energy in the single stream recycling effort. Certainly, it is a preventive measure, as well as a curative one, since we will all deal with predicted climate change, health implications from improper disposal, and the increasing expense and danger of land filling and incinerating waste which could be recycled.

Information on what can and should be placed in the 96-gallon carts (with the yellow lids) can be found at the above website.

Answers to often-asked questions may be found on this site, but other questions and concerns are welcomed by Burtman.

Toward clarifying some of the more common questions, the following additional information may be helpful.

Plastic and metal lids and tops (and even plastic straws) may be recycled, but need to be rinsed clean of any food or drink.

Food containers made of glass, plastic, and metal may be recycled, but must be rinsed of food residue. The food contaminate the materials, rendering them nonrecyclable, and further will attract insects, rodents, and other pests to your yard or porch.

Paper food containers, such as take-out boxes and pizza boxes may be recycled, but only if there is no food or oil residue in them.

Please DO NOT recycle plastic wrap or plastic bags. In a future column, we will suggest how you might deal with these. If you put your recycling into a plastic grocery or garbage bag, it will be discarded rather than recycled, contents and all. The recycling contractors do not have time or personnel to open these bags and retrieve the contents.

No Styrofoam can be recycled. This includes many fast food containers, as well as the trays in which supermarket meats are sold.

Dishes, glasses, vases, and so forth, can be reused, but are not part of the single stream recycling program.

Junk mail can certainly be recycled, even if the envelope has a cellophane window. If, however, there is any personal information on it (such as an account number, your social security number, or your birth date), you should shred it or tear it into pieces before placing it into your kitchen garbage along with the coffee grounds and table scraps. Now, that's a deterrent to identity theft! You can find out on the website above how to stop much of this junk mail from being delivered to your house.

More information, such as what to do with materials that can't be put into the single stream bins, will be published in future columns.

In the meantime, mark your calendars for Fall Recycle Day on Sept. 26, and watch for the next column which will discuss the recycling options that will be available then.

We, at the Norwood Recycling Committee, are gratified to be working with our community to "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle," and we invite you to join us in whatever ways you are able.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH: Can I put my newspaper back in the plastic bag it was delivered in and toss it into the recycling bin? Plastic bags of any kind must be separated out from the recyclable materials in your single stream recycling bin. Please continue to recycle all your newspapers, but do not put newspapers back into the plastic bags, even if the bag says "Please Recycle."

Visit www.massrecyclespaper.org and view an updated recyclable papers list. As far as the plastic bags, try to reuse them. Visit <http://www.plasticsrecycling.org/index.asp> or call your newspaper subscription department and request that your newspapers be delivered without the plastic bags.

ATTORNEY: Was this a male or a female?

WITNESS: Unless the Circus was in town I'm going with male.

ATTORNEY: Is your appearance here this morning pursuant to a deposition notice which I sent to your attorney?

WITNESS: No, this is how I dress when I go to work.

ATTORNEY: Doctor, how many of your autopsies have you performed on dead people?

WITNESS: All of them. The live ones put up too much of a fight.

ATTORNEY: ALL your responses MUST be oral, OK? What school did you go to?

WITNESS: Oral.

ATTORNEY: Do you recall the time that you examined the body?

WITNESS: The autopsy started around 8:30 p.m.

ATTORNEY: And Mr. Denton was dead at the time?

WITNESS: If not, he was by the time I finished.

ATTORNEY: Are you qualified to give a urine sample?

WITNESS: Are you qualified to ask that question?

And the best for last:

ATTORNEY: Doctor, before you performed the autopsy, did you check for a pulse?

WITNESS: No.

ATTORNEY: Did you check for blood pressure?

WITNESS: No.

ATTORNEY: Did you check for breathing?

WITNESS: No.

ATTORNEY: So, then it is possible that the patient was alive when you began the autopsy?

WITNESS: No.

ATTORNEY: How can you be so sure, Doctor?

WITNESS: Because his brain was sitting on my desk in a jar.

ATTORNEY: I see, but could the patient have still been alive, nevertheless?

WITNESS: Yes, it is possible that he could have been alive and practicing law.

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never known to fail!)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech thee from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks.

Scheiner comes through for kids!

Norwood resident Ellenjane Scheiner presented Gerry Miller, Superintendent of the Norwood Recreation Department, a $500 check on Wednesday, Aug. 5, from Harvard Pilgrim's 9/11 Mini-Grants Program. Scheiner submitted her Harvard Pilgrim 9/11 Community Mini-Grant proposal to help offset scholarship costs and allow more children from financially struggling homes to participate in the Norwood Recreation Department's summer recreation activities.

Alumni game re-emerges on Norwood scene

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

The Pete Wall Field at the Balch Elementary School was the home of the Norwood Diamond Club's Alumni Baseball Game. The game was open to all former Norwood High School and Norwood Legion players.

The game used to be an annual event, but has been absent for the past for years. Pete Wall, one of the event's founders, hopes that this year's game marks the revival of the yearly tradition. The event debuted nine years ago, and used to be held on the Saturday after Labor Day.

While he did not participate in the event, Wall was on hand to watch several of his former players compete in the game.

Wall is a member of the Norwood High School class of 1957. He coached at the school from 1969 to 2003, including many of the Norwood High School alumni who participated in the event. In addition to his years of coaching, Wall was inducted into the Massachusetts Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

The event cost $25 to participate and players received a hat, a t-shirt and could attend a cookout after the game ended. The event was not meant as a fundraiser- the $25 fee was used to cover the expenses.

The event was described by Ed Hickey, President of the Norwood Diamond Club, as "laid-back, low-key and non-competitive," as well as being different from most of the events and programs sponsored by the group. Hickey participated in the game, playing right field.

"This is one of the only things we do specifically for the adults," Hickey said, saying the group's main focus was on youth baseball, such as helping with Little League, the Babe Ruth League and Norwood High School baseball.

Tracey Black, one of the event organizers, said the club's "intent was to get word out about the Diamond Club and get members back together."

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was the appearance of Robert "Bobby" Baxter of Menlo Park, California. Baxter was on vacation visiting his family in Norwood, and his time here happened to coincide with the game.

Baxter was drafted by the New York Yankees, but would sign with the Montreal Expos organization, and spent eight seasons pitching in the minor leagues. During his time in the minors, Baxter's 3.78 career earned run average helped him achieve a .609 winning percentage, with a record of 39-25. In addition to these wins, Baxter would pick up 16 saves. He would retire due to an elbow injury. It was only natural that Baxter was one of the game's starting pitchers.

Bobby wasn't the only

Baxter present at the event. Also playing were Tom and Chris Baxter, with their mother Linda Baxter watching the trio play.

The game was officiated by Brian Malinn, "one of the greatest umpires" Hickey ever knew. This was Malinn's first time officiating the event, and like the others present, he played baseball at Norwood High School and with the Norwood Legion.

Though the day's event was not a fundraiser, the Norwood Diamond Club sponsors several events, such as Fall Ball for the Babe Ruth League and a Trivia Night held in late March. Money raised at these events is used to help pay for the three $1,000 scholarships the club offers to graduating Norwood High School seniors.
