Clear Wireless LLC is looking to add four additional dishes on to the town's water tanks on Bellevue Avenue to improve cell phone reception in town. They asked General Manager John Carroll and the Board of Selectmen to modify their license agreement with the town to do this with an increase in monthly rent of $2,000.

Carroll told the board that he has informed Clear Wireless that this amount, which comes in at $24,000 per year, is not enough for Norwood to modify their agreement. Aside from this declaration, no decision regarding potential additions to the water tanks were made at the Oct. 27 Board of Selectmen meeting.

Rather, the board opted to table the discussion at that meeting, and the town continues to investigate the possibility of adding an additional cell tower in that area. At the board's Sept. 22 meeting, they gave Carroll permission to hire a consultant to see if this is a plausible idea. Carroll estimated the cost of such a consultant would be $10,000.

Parking lot improvements draw concern

Conservation sidesteps buffer requirements

Despite opposition by some members of the Conservation Commission, the group voted to accept an Order of Intent for a parking lot project on Access Road. Matt Smith of the Norwood Engineering Company was on hand, representing David Spiegel and presented the project plans, which will turn a gravel storage lot into a paved parking lot.

The current lot features Class D soil with gravel and broken pavement. It does not have a oil/water separator. The new lot will feature such a separator, will be paved and features a retaining wall.

"Right now, it's a gravel lot with poor drainage," Conservation Commission Chairman Peter Bamber said. "This project will wall it in, pave it and install oil/water separators there. Anything that flows into the watershed will be cleaner than it is now."

The gravel lot is currently used as a car storage area by several of the car dealerships on Route 1, and holds up to 350 cars. Spiegel plans on paving the area to create a lined parking lot for the parking of service vehicles, and will reduce the number of spots to 278.

The commission voted 4-2 to accept and approve the Order of Intent. Joseph DiMaria and Carol Fishman were against the project, because it sets a precedent for future projects.

The paved parking lot would have a three-foot high retaining wall that

Salary increases lead to re-certification

Brad Cole

If Town Meeting members approve a salary increase for Morrill Memorial Library staff members, the library will have the funds required for re-certification.

The Morrill Memorial Library will not be asking for money for re-certification at the Nov. 2 Special Town Meeting. Rather, they will be asking for money to pay staff members after reaching an agreement with the Morrill Memorial Library Staff Association after months of negotiations. These negotiations were in regard to pay raises for FY 2009 and 2010, and the groups agreed on a retroactive two percent increase for FY 2009 and a one percent salary increase for FY 2010.

The retroactive two percent raise represents an additional $18,750.20 required for the library's budget for the previous fiscal year. The new one percent raise represents $9,558.05. These raises will come up for approval at the Nov. 2 Town Meeting.

The $18,750.20 has no bearing on the library's certification status, as that represents last year's money. However, the $9,558.05 is enough for the library to receive re-certification.

Currently, the library has a FY 2010 budget of $1,384,191, $10,000 of which is in a revolving account. It was believed that the library would require an additional $19,028 for re-certification, and that the raises for FY 2010 would not be enough to cover this.

At the Oct. 20 Finance Commission meeting, FinCom members suggested that this $28,308.25 in raises be voted on as a part of Article 30. Article 30 asks "to see what sum of money the Town will vote to raise from taxation or transfer from surplus revenue or other available funds, and appropriate for the cost of Collective Bargaining Agreements with General Government Employees for Fiscal Year 2009 and/or Fiscal Year 2010, or take any other action in the matter."

The library needs a budget of $1,403,219 for FY 2010, which is required for them to receive about $34,000 in state aid. If the raises are included in Article 30, Canelli suggested the library would request $9,470 for re-certification. However, after meeting with members of the Finance Commission, she found that this would be unnecessary.

"After a lot of work by the FinCom and myself, we have realized that I was not figuring in the change in the base for FY10 salaries, but was working only with the change in the base for calculations for the raises," Canelli wrote in an e-mail. "While this might be embarrassing for me, it is a great relief and good for the library. The number we needed for certification was the same ($1,403,191), but with the increases in FY salaries we will surpass that number by a few thousand. We will not need anything other than the salaries."

Nonetheless, Canelli has already filed a waiver with the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissions. This was due to two main factors: the belief that the library needed more money and the deadline for filing the waiver.

PBCC approves new hire

Tim Bonfatti has invited members of the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA), including Project Manager Paul Fowkes, to the Norwood High School construction site on multiple occasions. On Oct. 22, Fowkes and two other MSBA representatives took advantage of this offer.

The MSBA receives monthly reports from Bonfatti on the project status, though this marked Fowkes' and other members of the MSBA's first walk around and on-site inspection of the construction site.

"Their report was very positive," Bonfatti said. "There's nothing not to be positive about right now. They were very pleased with the status of the project as it is now."

Bonfatti is looking to continue the project's success by hiring a Hardware Commissioner. At the Oct. 22 meeting of the Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC), he highly recommended hiring Paul Goldense of Goldense Building Projects as this commissioner. It would cost approximately $17,000 for Compass or the town to hire Goldense for this job.

This job would require Goldense to negotiate the right amounts for any pending change orders and to make sure products are received and properly utilized.

"We want to make sure we get the products we're supposed to get and install them how they are supposed to be installed," Bonfatti said.

Goldense is already involved in some work on the site.

"He is helping, obviously, in this ongoing review, which I think has been invaluable," Bonfatti said, saying that Goldense has done quality work for the school system before. "He is somebody the school uses because he is good," adding that trust was a factor in his recommendation.

PBCC member Dick Kief described this potential hire as one that would provide assurance, not insurance, while Bill Kinsman compared the role of Hardware Commission to that of a troubleshooter.

PBCC member Paul Meyer agreed with this assessment, saying Goldense would provide them with assurance because he would help them negotiate the best possible prices for materials throughout the course of the project. Goldense would not change the specifications of the project.

Members of the PBCC were open to letting Bonfatti hire Goldense in this capacity. They added 10 percent to the quote provided by Bonfatti, which brought the total to about $18,700. Bonfatti will make an amendment officially requesting this money to hire Goldense, and the vote to do so will occur at a future PBCC

"We are set for certification and the Waiver Petition will be withdrawn as soon as Town Meeting has voted on these salary increases," Canelli wrote. "Because the money was not added into the library's budget by October 16th, the Waiver Petition for State Aid and Certification was still necessary on that date."

The deadline for a waiver was Oct. 16, so Canelli was required to file it in case the library did not get the required money at Town Meeting, which has happened before. The library requested money at the annual TM in May. District 5 representative Toni Eosco made a motion to add $9,000 to the library's budget for FY 2010, though the motion failed, partially due to the ongoing negotiations at that time.

Editorial*I end with a joke... maybe I start with one...

Did you hear the big news? Your own State Representative, John Rogers, has revealed his long coveted endorsement for the next United States Senator from the great Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Drum-roll please...Martha Coakley.

When Honest John made the personal call to Martha to set her heart aflutter personally, the halls of the Attorney General's offices resounded with a collective "WHOOEEEE"! The race is over, the next few weeks just a formality. Martha is in because she knew early on that the quickest way to higher office was to look the other way during all the "minor" ethics lapses Honest John inadvertently found himself in. How could she expect to receive his blessings if issues like indictments are hanging over his head? No sir, if the wrath of the criminal justice system were to focus its attention in Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood, it won't be during her watch.

Of course, I'm personally disappointed that I didn't get to read it in my own newspaper. I had to read it in the Bulletin (along with the other 8 subscribers). Then again, if memory serves, I never received anything from his office when I owned the Bulletin either. I'm sensing a pattern here and I just don't get it. Haven't I always been a pillar of fair play when dealing with public officials?

Speaking of public officials, it was good to see Tom McQuaid announce at last week's selectmen's meeting that he was supporting the land swap proposal on University Avenue. Though originally against it, he now recognizes the benefits to the town, and any time an elected official is flexible enough to change a vote when he deems it proper is a good thing. However, Mr. McQuaid misspoke when he stated he was originally in favor of the study to review the potential swap. He was not. He was the lone vote in dissent of spending the money for the study because the other guy was getting more square footage, and that wasn't square with him. A minor point perhaps, but one worth clearing up...

Finally, in the spirit of Halloween, I leave you with this joke I found on the Internet. I didn't write it, and if I did I would give proper credit. It's a little risqué, but harmless enough that only the most puritanical of us will get up in arms over. I apologize in advance to any offended, but let's face it...I've been way more offensive than this...

The Black Bra

I had lunch with 2 of my unmarried friends. One is engaged, one is a mistress, and I have been married for 20+ years. We were chatting about our relationships and decided to amaze our men by greeting them at the door wearing a black bra, stiletto heels and a mask over our eyes. We agreed to meet in a few days to exchange notes. Here's how it all went....

My Engaged Friend:

The other night my boyfriend came over and found me wearing a black leather bodice, tall stilettos and a mask. He stared at me and said, 'You are the woman of my dreams. I love you.' Then we made passionate love all night long.

The Mistress:

Me too! The other night I met my lover at his office and I was wearing a raincoat, and under it only the black bra, heels and a mask over my eyes. When I opened the raincoat he didn't say a word, but started to tremble and had his way with me.

Then I got to share my story:

When my husband came home I was wearing the black bra, black stockings, stilettos and a mask over my eyes. When he came in the door and saw me, he said, 'Hey, what's for dinner, Batman?'

Currently, two companies have antenna on the water towers, Sprint and Cellular One. The companies pay the town a combined $100,000 in rent per year. Carroll is considering setting a minimum charge of $50,000 in rent annually from companies who wish to install antennas and other equipment on town property.

The board also learned the estimated cost for enclosing Father Mac's pool. The request for this information came from Selectman Helen Abdallah-Donohue, and Carroll told the board that such a project would cost an estimated $5,122,700.

The idea for enclosing Father Mac's came at the Oct. 6 Board of Selectmen meeting, after the board discussed Carroll's request to place an article on the Special Town Meeting warrant, asking for an additional $122,000 for repairs at the Father Mac's and Hawes swimming pools. Approximately $93,000 had been set aside for these repairs, but the repairs required at the pools are estimated to cost over $200,000. The funds will be used to repair the return lines and decks at Father Mac's and the fiberglass lining at Hawes Pool.

The crèche will be returning to town. Selectmen unanimously approved the Norwood Christmas Crèche Committee's request to place the crèche on the Town Common from Dec. 9 through Jan. 2. It will face the Apollo Restaurant on Washington Street.

Town Engineer Mark Ryan was on hand to deliver the Department of Public Work's monthly report. He discussed the intersection of Highview and Morse Street, a former Y-intersection that was recently converted into a conventional T-intersection. Drivers approaching the Y-intersection tended to speed up as they drove into it, which led to this change.

This conversion has caused responses by the neighbors, and Donohue has heard complaints about the change catching some drivers off guard. In addition, she was told that a school bus drove over the curb at the intersection.

This issue is being addressed. A fog line has been added to highlight the changes at the intersection. In addition, a reflector strip has been placed on the stop signs in the area. Ryan plans on added reflectors to the curb, and he believes the addition of the reflectors will be enough to show drivers the concrete curb there.

borders one of the wetland areas in the town. This is a problem, because there is a no-disturb and no-build buffer zone required for projects near wetlands. Newer projects require a 50-foot buffer zone, older projects or existing lots have that number halved, meaning this one would require a 25-foot buffer zone.

Fishman said she did not vote to approve this project because "[The commission] worked very hard to get the no-build zones," and that "if you set a precedent for one [project], you open the gates for others."

DiMaria shared this opinion, saying that the commission needs to be consistent in their decisions. By approving this, he feels it allows those presenting future projects to say that the zone restrictions weren't enforced here. Much like Fishman, he cited the hard work and trouble the commission went through to require these no build and no disturb zones, and that he does not want to give that up.

However, requiring the 25-foot buffer zone would be problematic for the project.

"If we have to have a buffer zone, the parking layout cannot be done," Smith said. "The buffer zone restriction makes the project not viable."

Smith pointed out that the site currently has no 25' buffer, confirmed by Conservation Commission members.

"This is nibbling away at the edge of the wetlands," Bamber said.

Currently, the town allows several car dealerships access to the parking lot and lets them leave vehicles there. Many are parked right next to the wetlands.

"The town was the applicant, and this board approved it," Smith said.

Smith stated that this new parking lot is an improvement over the gravel lot and would be better for the wetlands than what is currently there. This material change has a tangible effect on the site because it is going from a pervious material to an impervious material. Because of this, any water that flows off the site will be cleaner than it is now.

Bamber feels that installing the water/oil separators would be for a greater good and would reduce the lot's impact on the nearby wetlands. He considered the lot's close proximity to the wetlands, but regardless of whether the commission had approved or denied the Order of Intent, there would be a parking lot in that spot.

"There is already a gravel parking lot without that zone," Bamber said. "It's not like they are building a brand new parking lot."

In addition, Conservation Agent Al Goetz pointed out that one of the problems that comes with a gravel lot is that every vehicle on the site can potentially drop a couple of drops of oil each day. Because gravel is permeable, the oil can seep into the ground.

"Eventually, small amounts of that oil finds its way into the wetlands," he said.

After hearing this statement, DiMaria requested they do a soil sample to report on any potential contamination at the site.

"If there is oil dripping from the cars, we should do something about it," he said.

The change from gravel to pavement is a concern to Ian Cooke, the Executive Director of the Neponset River Watershed Association.

"In general, one of the biggest challenges that the Neponset River faces is too much pavement and parking lots," Cooke said, because pavement near the watershed can lead to runoff, and this runoff can bring sand, stones and oil into the wetland areas. He added that it is possible to design a parking lot with features to help curb this runoff.

CORRECTION

In last week's Norwood Record editorial "School board has the right stuff..." this newspaper incorrectly attributed a quote to school committee member Bill Plasko, Jr. In the editorial he is quoted as stating, "The perception is that the board is a bunch of micromanagers, when it is not". Mr. Plasko did not make this comment. We apologize for the mistake.

Shaare Tefilah relocates

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

The Temple Shaare Tefilah has moved from its home on 556 Nichols Street to the South Area Solomon Schechter School at 1 Commerce Way in Norwood, located behind the Super Stop & Shop in Norwood.

"We have been part of the Norwood community since 1908, and this move brings us to our third home," said Carol Turkewitz, President of Temple Shaare Tefilah.

The Temple Shaare Tefilah has made their home on Nichols Street for approximately 50 years.

"There was a bitter sweetness to it, which happens whenever you leave a home," Rabbi Andrea Gouze of Temple Shaare Tefilah said. "There was also a sweet joyousness about moving to a new abode that will fit our needs."

The move commenced on Oct. 25, when the temple's Torah Scrolls were moved to the new location. A procession of over 30 cars was formed at their former Nichols Street home, and they drove the scrolls to their new sanctuary, where they held a dedication ceremony upon the Torah's arrival.

"It was really wonderful and heartwarming," Turkewitz said.

Such a ceremony is held during these moves as a way of creating a sacred space for a new sacred home, Gouze said. The dedication involved singing and reading of passages from the Hebrew Scriptures. The Mezuzah, a ritual object that has numerous Bible verses inscribed on it, was hung during the event, which saw more than 50 people in attendance.

"There was a nice energy to the room, and people really came together in many ways," Rabbi Gouze said. "There is going to be a great future for us."

Turkewitz agreed that the new location would work well for the temple.

"We walked into the new place, and it just felt like home," she said.

Both Turkewitz and Gouze thanked the Norwood Police for their assistance during the procession, which allowed it to go smoothly.

"The Norwood Police were incredibly gracious and helpful," Rabbi Gouze said.

Gouze went on to add that while they are moving, this is not changing how they serve the community. They will continue their work, service and programs, but will be doing it out of a new location. In addition, this is a move, not a merger. Temple Shaare Tefilah and the Solomon Schechter School will continue to exist as different entities.

"Our synagogue and the Schechter School will, of course, continue to serve the Jewish community as separate organizations," Turkewitz said. "We are delighted to be renting space on their beautiful campus."

One way the Solomon Schechter School is serving the community is by holding events like the recent Interfaith Sukkah Visit. This is a new interfaith initiative between Jewish and Catholic schools, in meeting.

PBCC Chairman Ted Callahan also prepared a letter to Dan Griffin, an abutter who is concerned about 13 large trees that are close to his property, which he fears are a safety hazard. Callahan shares his concerns, and acknowledges that the branches could fall in a severe storm and cause damage to both Griffin's house and part of the construction site. However, the trees are not scheduled to be removed yet.

"We can't condemn the trees," Callahan said. "I can't say take down the trees because we don't own them."

The committee acknowledged they need more information about ownership of the trees and if they are on the construction site. Kief added that the committee is responsible for activity done within that site.

Bonfatti said that any work on the trees wouldn't be done in the near future, as they are still about a year and a half away from any construction work being done on the site near them. However, there is one condition that would guarantee all 13 trees come down: the installation of a swale. A swale is a low track of land, and it can be either a natural landscape feature or a human-created one. Human-created swales are designed to help manage water runoff, which is what a swale at the Norwood High School construction site would be used for.

If installed, the swale would be located where the 13 trees are situated, meaning they would need to be removed for such an addition.

Norwood colon/lung cancer rates up Other cancers lower than state average

Brad Cole
Staff Reporter

According to the Massachusetts Cancer Registry (MCR) of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Norwood's cancer rates of colorectal cancer in men and lung cancer in women are above the state average. In addition, the town is below the average rates of breast cancer in women and bladder/urinary cancer in men.

This is a change from last's years report, where MCR reported that Norwood saw higher rates in three types of cancer: brain and other nervous system cancer, colorectal cancer, and cancer in the larynx. The report sees changes like this every year, Superintendent and Director of the Norwood Health Department Sigalle Reiss said, due to an ever-changing population and shifting demographic in town.

"Cancer is very difficult," Reiss said. "We don't always know what causes a person to get a specific type of cancer."

The most recent cancer rate numbers released by MCR can be found on their web site, www.mass.gov/dph/mcr. The newest report, which was released on Oct. 9, lists the cancer rates from 2002 through 2006.

"We use these reports to see what is different in Norwood," Reiss said.

There were 86 cases of lung cancer in Norwood women from 2002 to 2006, greatly exceeding the projected 68.3 cases. This gives the town a standardized incidence ratio (SIR) of 126 percent. The SIR is a percentage calculated by taking the number of observed cases and dividing by the number of expected cases. The SIR is higher than those in Walpole, Westwood, Dedham and Canton, which come in at 118.2, 88.4, 113.8 and 94.1 percent, respectively.

Meanwhile, there were 67 cases of lung cancer in males in Norwood, putting the town right in line with the 66.2 projected cases.

Smoking is the leading cause of lung cancer, and the Norwood Health Department does what they can to promote tobacco education and help prevent the sale of cigarettes to minors. One way they do this is with a youth buy check. During this kind of surveillance, an official accompanies a minor into a convenience store. The youth asks to buy tobacco of some sort, and if the clerk sells them some, they get a ticket and face a fine.

However, their ability to do checks like this has decreased, because state funding for these tobacco control programs has been cut and Norwood no longer receives any money for it, Reiss said.

"We didn't get much, but we were able to do a lot with it," Reiss said.

Norwood also sees higher rates than surrounding towns in colorectal cancer in men. Norwood had 65 observed cases of colorectal cancer, far exceeding MCR's expected 48.9 cases in town, for a SIR of 130.5 percent.

Norwood's SIR for colorectal cancer exceeded that of Westwood, Walpole, Canton and Dedham. Much like Norwood, Canton's SIR exceeded 100 percent: they had 43 cases, over their expected 37.4 cases, giving them a SIR of 115.1 percent.

Walpole had 31 observed cases of colorectal cancer in men, below the expected 38.1, Westwood had 24, under the 28.2 expected cases, and Dedham saw 36 cases, while they had 42 expected. This gives Dedham a SIR of 85.6 percent and Westwood a SIR of 85.1 percent. Of the surrounding towns, Walpole had the lowest SIR, coming in at 81.4 percent.

Much like it contributes to lung cancer, smoking can increase one's risk of colorectal cancer, as can a person's diet, a lack of exercise and alcohol abuse. Even with these risks, "colorectal cancer is also one of the most preventable and treatable types of cancer when detected early," a press release by Reiss and the Board of Health said. "Regular colorectal cancer screening or testing is one of the best ways to help prevent colorectal cancer."

Every year, MCR releases a cancer report the shows the rates of 23 different types of cancer in towns and cities across Massachusetts. These reports provide SIRs for all 351 cities and towns of Massachusetts, and reflects the cancer rates over a five-year time period. It lists how many cases were expected in a town, how many cases were observed and the town's SIR.

For those interested in more information about the various types of cancer, Reiss recommends visiting the American Cancer Society web site, www.cancer.org.

A sukkah is a temporary hut built for the week-long festival of Sukkot. Sukkot, also known as the Feast of the Tabernacles, is a Jewish Holiday celebrated in late September to early October. It is one of three biblical pilgrim festivals, which is when Jews traditionally visit the

This initiative continues on Nov. 12, when Archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Sean P. Citgo Petroleum Corp. in Houston, TX is comparing Broadway Citgo to the great sports dynasties – Boston Celtics, Pittsburg Steelers, San Francisco 49ers and the New England Patriots. Citgo tried to mention the New York Yankees, but Store Manager Henry Eno stopped them by saying, "We don't want the New York Yankees mentioned here."

Eno went on to say that we don't talk about dynasties. We just come in every day, treat the customers right, offer them a clean store, and a great Citgo product at a fair price. He said "If we do that consistently, the awards will keep coming."

Congratulations to Store Manager Henry Eno and his staff.

Girls' soccer hits tough stretch, need two wins to qualify for tourney

Senior captain and strong defender Meghan Underhill has done some fancy footwork in keeping the ball away from opponents this season for the Norwood girls' soccer team.

Heading into this week's games, the Norwood girls' soccer team needed two wins to qualify for the state tourney. It still needed them entering yesterday's scheduled game at Walpole, after this past Monday's 4-2 loss to visiting Framingham in a Bay State Conference cross division game at Father Mac's.

The setback added to a tough stretch for the Mustangs (6-7-2), who have lost five in a row heading into their remaining three games against Walpole, Natick, and Nantucket.

Last week, in a grueling battle that saw host Norwood cut the deficit to one goal on two occasions, the Mustangs fell to BSC powerhouse Needham, 4-2.

Making it more challenging was that both squads competed without several of their regular players due to injury or illness.

"Yeah, tough battle, no questions asked," Norwood head coach Jay Dupuis said. "We were a little shorthanded today with a couple of injuries, but no excuses. They're a good team. They've only lost once. We didn't have it today."

Norwood did give the Rockets (8-1-5) a scare twice, as junior statewide sensation Cory Ryan scored both of her team's goals when the Mustangs needed them most. On both occasions, Norwood had trailed by two goals and couldn't afford to give the high-powered Rockets another insurance strike.

"We knew it was going to be a battle and Cory Ryan is one of the stronger players in the [conference]," Needham head coach Carl Tarabelli said. "She scored two and we still tried to contain her. So, I'm really proud of my kids given the circumstances we had to play the game."

Those circumstances included competing without a few of the team's regular players.

"Unfortunately, the school of Needham has been ravaged by the flu and four [of my players] aren't even here today, so we had four JV kids come up," Tarabelli said.

The Rockets shot out to a 2-0 lead in the first half, before

Wellesley denies volleyball, after Mustangs make push

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

The state tourney hopes for the Norwood volleyball team ended last week, but that won't take away the effort the Mustangs made in their push to get there, especially against Wellesley last week in a must-win game against one of the kingpins in the Bay State Conference. It took the visiting Raiders five games to defeat the 'Stangs, who at one point led two games to one, at the Savage Center. Even if Norwood had won the match, it still would have had to beat Walpole next Wednesday to qualify for the postseason.

"I am very proud of the way the girls played competing with one of the top teams in the league," Norwood head mentor Tim Linehan said, after the Raiders defeated the Mustangs, 3-2.

To even get the chance for the meaningful game against Wellesley, Norwood had to beat BSC Carey Division foe Needham earlier in the week, and the host Mustangs came through with solid 3-1 victory over the Rockets, reaching a milestone of sorts.

"It was the first win over a Carey Division team [this season], and the first time this senior class has ever beaten a Carey team," Linehan said.

"We had a balanced attack led by Steph Perry, Tahira Gibson, and Lauren Duggan, [and] Carly Juckett played excellent in the back row," the coach added.

The Blue and Gold followed that win with a 3-0 win over visiting non-conference foe Arlington. Perry and Nikki Cignarella struck for 16 and 10 kills, respectively. Migena served a whopping 10 aces, and Carly Blais posted a career-high 28 assists.

Girls' soccer

the Mustangs cut the deficit in half. Ryan put away her own rebound on a play that started with a corner kick from junior Katie Johnson. After heading the ball off the post, Ryan booted it by the keeper in the 27th minute.

Then, after the Rockets led, 3-1, at the half, Ryan struck just two minutes into the second stanza, sent in on a beautiful pass by senior captain Brianna Quintiliani.

But the Rockets soon went ahead by two again.

"I think we played better than the score indicates, being shorthanded," Dupuis said. "We gave up a couple of set pieces that hurt us."

By that, the coach was referring to goals scored by Needham on corner and direct kicks.

"The corner kick goal, we just didn't do a good job marking it," Dupuis said. "And their direct kick, it was a nice kick."

Needham star striker Coleen Rizzo scored on the corner kick for the first of her two goals on the day to give the Rockets a 1-0 lead. Later, Courtney Steeves tallied on the direct blast from 25 yards out. The visitors also got a goal from Ali Udelson.

Already playing without the services of strong midfielders Sarah Eckhardt and Victoria Driscoll due to illness, the Mustangs were hampered during the game by injuries to Quintiliani and Johnson.

"Brianna got hurt at the end of the game, and Katie came out hurt as well," Dupuis said. Norwood got a particularly strong effort from freshman standout forward Emma Campbell, who made her first start as a varsity player.

"[She] played a strong game," Dupuis said. "She did some good things out there. A couple of good passes, pressured the defense pretty well, [and] had a couple of shots that went off target, but still [a] pretty decent job."

The coach also praised the play of senior captains Megan Folan and Meghan Underhill.

"Megan Folan played well for us [at midfield]," Dupuis said. "[And] Meghan Underhill played strong on defense."

The coach added, "Hopefully, we'll go easy tomorrow and try to get bodies back healthy," for the next game against visiting Wellesley.

Norwood played well, but lost to the Raiders, 2-1, in the following BSC Herget Division tilt.

"They're an excellent team," Dupuis said of Wellesley, which improved its overall record to 9-2-4. "I'm real proud of the way we played today. Still a little bit shorthanded. But the kids came ready to battle. A couple of different bounces, we're at the very worst, tied against them earning a well-deserved point. [It's] tough to lose, but again, [I'm] real proud of my kids."

In particular, Dupuis lauded the play of Sarah Eckhardt and Katie Johnson at center midfield and senior captain/midfielder Megan Folan, who led the Mustangs in holding Wellesley senior star captain Carly Dee to just one goal.

"Megan Folan battled all game," the coach said. "She had a mark against Carly Dee, who's one of the most explosive players in our [conference], and she did a really good job of marking her today."

Offsetting first half goals by Dee and Ryan had the score tied at 1-1 at the break. On the Norwood strike, freshman forward Emma Campbell sent a nice pass up to Ryan at midfield, "and Cory does what she does best," Dupuis said of the play that saw Ryan wheel around several defenders in her dash for the goal.

It wasn't until the game's waning minutes that senior Mary Louise Dixon scored for the Raiders to win it. Dixon was stationed out front to the left and lofted a pretty shot into the low right corner of the goal from about 15 feet out.

"No game's an easy game in the Bay State Conference, so [we] kind of didn't know what to expect," Wellesley head coach Kristen Walsh said. "It's a completely different field, so you never know, but my girls played hard and played well."

"It's one of the best games we've played against a really good team all year," Dupuis summed up. "[In fact], it's the best game we've played against an excellent team all year."

The Norwood boys' junior varsity soccer team, coached by former Mustangs' varsity star Mike Jones, who graduated in 2005. Jones also was a four-year starter at Framingham State College. Nice to have you back, Mike.

Swimmers fall to Framingham, but remain undaunted

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

Including last week's 94-91 setback to Bay State Conference powerhouse Framingham, the Norwood girls' swim team has only lost two meets this season by a combined five points. The other was a 94-92 loss to Needham. Otherwise, it's been all victories for the Mustangs, who entered this week with a phenomenal 11-2 record.

"Another close one, but we came up short," Norwood head coach Kim Goodwin said, after the loss to the Flyers. "But [we were] very successful, nonetheless. [It] was still exciting [with] some excellent swimming."

The Mustangs even took pride in some sweet revenge, edging out Framingham in the first relay with a season best time in the event.

"It was sweet revenge, as they out-touched us in this same event at the Wheaton Invitational," Goodwin said.

There was more good stuff.

Mary Pat Norton placed second in diving to Framingham's 2008 state champ, and third in the 200 freestyle with a personal best time.

Patricia Lee qualified for the state tourney in the 200 individual medley, placing second behind Emily Metta for the 1-2 finish. Metta also won the 100 breaststroke "going away," Goodwin said.

Molly Shilo won both her freestyle events, while Kayla Ring and Natalie Metta posted season best sprint times.

Megan Clifford and Alex Metta, meanwhile, secured lifetime bests in the backstroke, while finishing second and third, respectively.

The 400 free relay team scored an upset victory, while almost rallying the Mustangs to the overall meet win.

"We were down 10 points going into the final event," Goodwin said. "Our first and third place [finishes in the 400 free relay] got us to within four points," Goodwin said.

Evelyn Metta, Mary Pat Norton, Katherine Lee and

Molly Shilo paced the Mustangs to first place in the event, while Bailey Lambert, Sarah Wilson, Andria Connell and Alex Metta took third place.

"Kudos to the 400 free relay swimmers," the coach said.

Norwood standout diver Mary Pat Norton placed second only to Framingham's 2008 state champ during the Mustangs' tough 94-91 setback to the Flyers in a Bay State Conference swim meet last week.

CC to host BSC championships

Norwood will host hosting the Bay State Conference (BSC) cross country championships for the first time in school history this Saturday at the Coakley Middle School.

The Mustangs prepare for the prestigious event, after hitting their stride with a pair of wins over rival host Dedham in a BSC meet last week to close the regular season slate. The boys won, 15-50, while the girls edged out the Marauders, 20-38. Both squads earned their second victories of the campaign on the 2.95 mile course.

"Both teams ran very well," Norwood head coach Jim Forrest said.

For the boys, tri-captains Rob Sheehan, Steve Curley and Billy Glynn tied for first place, crossing the line at 17:42.

"Nice to see a great group of seniors who have worked incredibly hard finish in that manner," Forrest said.

"Glynn, Curley and Sheehan are excellent runners and even better leaders," the coach said at the start of the season.

Rich Farah and Billy Rydzewski also shined for Norwood, as both crossed at 17:44 to take the fourth and fifth place slots.

"Great grouping," Forrest said of his top five runners of the day.

Meanwhile, the girls "also ran very well," the coach said. "They all ran smart tough races and have improved immensely over the course of the season."

Kelsey Colbert won the event in a time of 21:10, while Jen Sobol finished third, crossing at 21:32. Co-captain Jayne Galvin (22:46), Aunuli Okoye (23:00), Caty Kelly (23:13) and Co-captain Katie Welter (23:52) placed fourth, fifth, seventh, and eighth.

Both the boys and girls, who finished with 2-9 ledgers in the highly competitive BSC, capped the regular season successfully, after working hard over the summer, with each runner "running close to 300 miles," said Forrest.

Football yields to Wellesley

Mike Stoller
Staff Reporter

The Norwood football team dropped a 28-9 decision to host Wellesley last Friday.

The Mustangs (2-5) scored first on a safety to take a 2-0 lead in the first quarter. But Wellesley (5-2) responded with the first of two touchdown runs by Michael Janey. Janey broke free from three yards out and then rushed for the two-point conversion to give the Raiders the lead by six.

In the second quarter, the Blue and Gold took its second lead of the day when senior quarterback Kevin O'Sullivan connected with Mike Goodwin on a 28-yard TD strike, with Goodwin booting the extra point for a 9-8 Norwood edge.

The Raiders went on to score 20 unanswered points starting with a drive that ended with quarterback Brendan Brooks scoring from a yard out, as Wellesley led, 14-9, at the half.

Taylor Steele caught an 11-yard TD pass from Brooks in the third quarter, and the Raiders closed the scoring in the final stanza on Janey's second touchdown run from three yards away. Duncan Johnson kicked both extra points.

Norwood will host BSC foe Framingham in a cross-division tilt this Saturday at Westwood.

 Norwood High School's students will hold a special exhibition of their work Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, 12 noon to 3 p.m., F. Holland Day House, 93 Day St. To create the artwork for this show, students who are enrolled in Drawing and Painting IV and in AP Drawing, visited the Day House for a tour of the mansion and to learn about F. Holland Day and his significance as a pioneer in American Fine Art Photography. Students then spent time sketching and working on their ideas for this unique assignment - to incorporate one of the three primary themes of Day's work (portraits, allegory, and historical sites) into their own work. Using varying media and styles, each piece of student artwork will be a distinctive interpretation of these themes. Visual Arts teacher Laurie Mead McGrory, who conceived of this assignment, hopes that it will "help students connect with the artistic heritage of Norwood which Day provides." In addition, the students will be adding to the cultural life of Norwood themselves through the exhibit in this important historical setting. The exhibition is free and open to the public.
